LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 4, 1890.

SIR: I have the honor to submit to you the accompanying monograph, entitled "Contributions to North American Ethnology, Vol. VI, The Čegiha Language."

Yours, respectfully,

J. OWEN DORSEY.

To Hon. J. W. POWELL,

In charge of the Geological and Geographical Survey of the Rocky Mountain Region.

THE CEGIHA LANGUAGE.

PART I.

MYTHS, STORIES, AND LETTERS.

The Čegihá linguistic group may be divided as follows:

Languages.	Tribes.	Dialects.
1. Čégiha	Omaha	Omaha (Uma ^{n'} ha ⁿ).
	Ponka	Ponka (Pañ'ka).
2. Yegáha	Kansa	Nóne found.
3. Čexáha	Osage	Five or more.
4. Name not yet gained....	Kwapa	Uncertain.

XV

After his return to Washington in 1880, the author arranged for several Indians of the Omaha and Ponka tribes to visit Washington for the purpose of aiding him in the revision of his work. From these Indians and Mr. Frank La Flèche (see page 525) he gained additional myths and stories, which, with numerous letters recorded chiefly at the Omaha Agency, form Part II. It has been decided to publish the remaining letters in a bulletin of the Bureau of Ethnology, under the title of "Omaha and Ponka Letters." This bulletin, with the present monograph and the publications named on pp. xvii and xviii, will contain all the Čegiha texts, phrases, and sentences collected by the author.

The texts will be followed by a Čegiha-English dictionary, an English-Čegiha dictionary, and a grammar. Up to July, 1885, over 16,000 Čegiha-English entries for the dictionary were arranged on slips in alphabetical order after they had been transliterated into the present alphabet of the Bureau of Ethnology.

It was decided in 1882 that the present volume, the dictionaries, and grammar should be published together. But in November, 1889, another conclusion was reached by the Director, resulting in the author's devoting most of his time to the preparation of the additional texts which form Part II. It will require at least one year, if not longer, for the completion of the Čegiha-English dictionary. In the final revision of the slips for that dictionary there will be many references to words and phrases in the texts by page and line. The English-Čegiha dictionary and the grammar must be deferred for a few years.

In translating personal names the author has proceeded according to the following rules: In compound names, such as Wajiŋga-sabě (bird black), capitalize each part as far as possible, thus: "Black Bird." In names which can not be resolved into two or more primitives use but one capital, as Maŋgčiqta, Blackbird; Wasabě, Black bear (not "Black Bear"); Maⁿtcu, Grizzly bear (not "Grizzly Bear").

LIST OF THE AUTHOR'S SIOUAN PUBLICATIONS.

1. Ponka | A B C wabáru. | Missionary Jurisdiction of Niobrara. | New York, | 1873. Pp. 1-16, sq. 16°. Primer in the Ponka dialect. The alphabet used differs from the present alphabet of the Bureau of Ethnology in the following particulars: c of the primer = tc of the Bureau alphabet; ʃ of the former = ɸ of the latter; q of the former = k' of the latter; r of the former = q of the latter; x of the former = c of the latter. The characters for gh, final n as in French bon, and ng as in sing are wanting. No distinction is made between the surd and its corresponding medial sound, which is known for the present as a "sonant-surd."
2. The Sister and Brother: an Iowa tradition. By J. O. Dorsey. In American Antiquarian, vol. 4, pp. 286-289, Chicago, 1881-'82. 8°. Contains an Iowa song, six stanzas, with free translation.

THE ÇEGIHA LANGUAGE.

BY J. OWEN DORSEY.

PART I.

MYTHS, STORIES, AND LETTERS.

INTRODUCTION.

The myths, stories, and letters in the present volume have been obtained directly from Indians. They were dictated in Çegiha, and written in that language by the collector.

A brief account of each of the Indian authorities for these texts may not be considered out of place.

1. Joseph LaFlèche is a gentleman to whom I am indebted, not only for myths in Çegiha and J̄wiwere, but also for a knowledge of the latter tongue, a collection of ethnological notes, etc. I regard him as my best authority. By birth he is a Ponka, but he has spent most of his life among the Pawnees, Otos, and Omahas. He has acquired a knowledge of several Indian languages, and he also speaks Canadian French. While Frank, his younger brother, has remained with the Ponkas, and is now reckoned as a chief in that tribe, Mr. LaFlèche has been counted as an Omaha for many years. Though debarred by Indian law from membership in any gens, that did not prevent him receiving the highest place in the Omaha governmental system. He has some influence among the Pawnees, and when the Yankton Dakotas wished to make peace with the former tribe, it was effected through the instrumentality of Mr. LaFlèche, who accompanied Struck-by-the-Ree to the Pawnee village. Mr LaFlèche is the leader of the "citizens" party among the Omahas. The names of two of his children, Susette (Bright Eyes) and Frank (Wood-worker, or Carpenter), are familiar to all who have read of the Ponka case.

2. Mrs. Mary LaFlèche is of white descent on the father's side. She learned Oto by a residence among her mother's people. She was known in former years as "the beautiful Omaha girl," having been adopted by the latter tribe

3. Frank LaFlèche is the eldest surviving son of Joseph. He has a fair knowledge of English, writes a good hand, and is devoted to reading. I have had many opportunities of testing his skill as interpreter, and I did not find him wanting. He is the only Omaha who can write his native dialect.

4. Susanne LaFlèche is Frank's youngest sister. She is still a child, and was not over thirteen when she gave me an abstract of a myth told her in Omaha by her Oto grandmother.

5. $\text{Ḑá}\phi^{\text{n}}\text{-na}^{\text{n}}\text{-páj}\dot{\text{i}}$ (He who fears not a Pawnee when he sees him) is a full-blood Omaha, who has passed middle age. He belongs to the "citizens" party, and is one of my best informants. His articulation is rapid; but after he repeated a sentence I had no difficulty in writing it.

6. $\text{Húpe}\phi^{\text{a}}^{\text{n}}$ is a full Omaha, one who refuses to join either political party in the tribe. He has not given me much information.

7. $\text{Ma}^{\text{n}}\text{tcú-na}^{\text{n}}\text{ba}$ (Two Grizzly Bears) is the aged ex-chief of the Hanga gens of the Omahas, which keeps the two sacred tents and regulates the buffalo hunt. He has been a medicine-man, and is the head of the old men's or chiefs' party. He was always friendly to me, and was the first Omaha to pay me a visit. Owing to his rapid articulation, common to Omaha orators, I was obliged to revise his myth, with the assistance of Mr. LaFlèche, who gave me the corresponding Oto version.

8. $\text{Mawáda}^{\text{n}}\phi^{\text{i}}^{\text{n}}$ (Mandan) is a full Omaha. He is short, and of a nervous temperament (the opposite of $\text{Hupe}\phi^{\text{a}}^{\text{n}}$), his utterance being thick at times. While he means well, his information is not equal in any respect to that given by $\text{Ḑa}\phi^{\text{i}}^{\text{n}}\text{-na}^{\text{n}}\text{páj}\dot{\text{i}}$. He belongs to the "citizens" party.

9. $\text{Le-ú}\phi^{\text{a}}^{\text{n}}\text{ha}$ (Sentinel Buffalo apart from the Herd) is head of a subgens of the Thunder and Reptile gens of the Omahas, being keeper of the sacred pipe of his gens. He is full of fire as a speaker; and his enjoyment of the burlesque was shown when he told me the myth of the turtle who led a war party. He declared that he had added a little to it, but only such parts as he thought were needed to make the myth complete. The songs in the myth point to an Oto derivation. $\text{Le-úqa}^n\text{ha}$ is one of the "citizens" party and a good farmer.

10. Cañ'ge-skă (White Horse) is head of the Wolf gens of the Omahas and a member of the chief's party. He understands the Kansas (Kaw) dialect of the Çegiha as well as his own.

11. $\text{A}^n\text{pa}^n\text{-}^n\text{a}^n\text{-ga}$ (John Big Elk), an Omaha, is one whom I regard as a dear friend, a good example to his tribe. He is the authority for several myths and most of the Omaha historical papers. The Indians call him "The man who is always thinking about the Great Spirit." He is a full Indian, a nephew of the Big Elk mentioned by Long and others. He is an adherent of the "citizens" party.

12. Le-da-úçiqaga (Dried Buffalo Skull) is head of the Singers, a section of the Black Bear subgens of the Omahas. He is half-brother to $\text{Çaçi}^n\text{-na}^n\text{-pajì}$, but he is so far advanced in life, and his articulation is so rapid, that it was impossible to record all his words, which he would not repeat.

13. $\text{Nuda}^n\text{-axa}$ (Cried to go on the War-path) is a Ponka chief. He is head of a part of the Thunder-bird gens. I have known him since 1871, whereas I did not become acquainted with the Omahas until 1878. $\text{Nuda}^n\text{-axa}$ has furnished me with eleven myths, three historical papers, and some valuable ethnologic notes. He is a very patient man, and is deserving of sympathy and encouragement in his efforts to become self-supporting.

Among the Omahas who sent letters elsewhere are Two Crows, Lion, and $\text{Duba-ma}^n\text{çi}^n$.

Two Crows is now a chief; he has been a leader of the young men for several years, though he is a grand-parent. He was the leader of the tribe on the hunt and war-path, and is still feared even by the chiefs' party. He says just what he thinks, going directly to the point. He is regarded as the speaker of the purest Omaha, and one has no difficulty in understanding him.

Lion is the head of the first subgens of the Deer people, and is keeper of the sacred pipe of his gens. He used to be a government chief, but was set aside at the election in 1880. The Omahas do not put much confidence in him, and he is regarded by some as a mischief-maker.

Dúba-ma^{n'}čìⁿ (Four Walking) is one of the young men's party. He was elected chief in 1880, with Two Crows and five others. He was usually the first speaker when the young men had a council.

LIST OF SOUNDS IN THE ČEGIHA LANGUAGE.

The alphabet which follows is substantially the one suggested by Maj. J. W. Powell, in the second edition of his Introduction to the Study of Indian Languages, Chap. I.

A number of sounds not used in Čegiha are given because they are found in Łčiwere (Oto, Iowa, and Missouri), Winnebago, and other kindred languages, to which occasional references are made in the explanatory notes. Therefore, the alphabet may be regarded as including all the sounds known to exist in Čegiha, Łčiwere, and Winnebago. When any Dakota word is given, it is written first in this alphabet, then in that adopted by Mr. Riggs in his Dakota Grammar and Dictionary, published by the Smithsonian Institution in 1852.

a	as in father ; German, haben .
a+	a prolonged a ; always a final sound.
a ⁿ	a nasalized a .
a ⁿ +	a prolonged nasalized a .
‘a	an initially exploded a .
‘a ⁿ	a nasalized ‘ a .
ǎ	nearly as in what ; German, man .
‘ǎ	an initially exploded ǎ, as in wěs‘ǎ , a snake.
ǎ ⁿ	a nasalized ǎ.
ä	as in hat .
b	as in blab ; French belle . Not used in Łčiwere.
c	as sh in shall .
č	a medial sh , between sh and zh . Not synthetic.

ç	as th in thin (not heard in Çegiha). Used in ǰiwere.
ð	a medial th (not heard Çegiha) Used in ǰiwere. Not synthetic.
ϕ	as th in the, then . (See r .)
d	as in dread ; German, das ; French, de . Used in Çegiha. (See r .)
e	as in they ; German, Dehnung ; French, dé .
e+	a prolonged e .
‘e	an initially exploded e .
ě	as in then ; German, denn ; French, sienne .
g	as in go ; German, geben .
h	as in he ; German, haben .
i	as in pique, machine ; German, ihn ; French, île .
i+	a prolonged i .
‘i	an initially exploded i .
i ⁿ	a nasalised i .
i ⁿ +	a prolonged nasalized i .
‘i ⁿ	a nasalized ‘ i .
ī	as in pin ; German, will .
ī ⁿ	a nasalized ī .
j	as z in azure ; j in French Jacques .
k	as in kick ; German, Kind ; French, quart .
ɣ	a medial k (between k and g). Modified initially; not synthetic.
k’	an explosive k .
m	as in mine ; German, Mutter .
n	as in nun ; German, Nonne ; French, ne .
hn	a modern sound used instead of cn (shn). The initial part of this sound is expelled from the nostrils, not from the mouth, and is but slightly audible.
ñ	as ng in sing, singer . In ǰiwere it is often used when not followed by a k -mute.
o	as in note ; German, Bogen ; French, nos . Not used in Çegiha.
o+	a prolonged o . Not used in Çegiha.
‘o	an initially exploded o . Not used in Çegiha.
o ⁿ	a nasalized o . Not used in Çegiha.
o ⁿ +	a prolonged nasalized o . Not used in Çegiha.

6 THE ÇEGIHA LANGUAGE—MYTHS, STORIES, AND LETTERS.

'o ⁿ	a nasalized 'o. Not used in Çegiha.
p	as in pipe ; German, Puppe ; French, poupe .
ḋ	a medial p (between p and b). Not a synthetic sound. The modification is initial.
p'	an explosive p .
q	as German ch in ich ; Hebrew, kh .
r	as in roar ; German, rühren ; French, rare . Not used in Çegiha; it is synthetic in Łoiwere and Winnebago.
s	as in sauce ; German, Sack ; French, sauce . Corresponds to the Łoiwere ç .
• s	a medial s (between s and z). Not synthetic; modified initially.
t	as in touch ; German, Tag .
ṭ	a medial t . Not synthetic; modified initially.
t'	an explosive t .
u	as in rule ; German, du ; French, doux .
u+	a prolonged u .
'u	an initially exploded u .
u ⁿ	a nasalized u ; rare in Çegiha, common in Łoiwere.
u ⁿ +	a prolonged nasalized u .
'u ⁿ	a nasalized 'u; rare in Çegiha, common in Łoiwere.
ũ	as in pull, full ; German, und .
ũ ⁿ	a nasalized ũ ; rare in Çegiha, common in Łoiwere.
w	as in wish ; nearly as ou in French oui .
x	gh ; or nearly as the Arabic ghain . (The sonant of q .)
y	as in you ; j in German ja . Not used in Çegiha.
z	as z and s in zones ; German, Hase ; French, zèle .
dj	as j in judge (rare).
tc	as ch in church , and c in Italian cielo ; Spanish, achaque .
ṭo	a medial tc (between tc and dj). Not synthetic; modified initially. Not used in Çegiha, common in Łoiwere.
tc'	an exploded tc .
hw	as wh in when ; Spanish, huerta . (An interjection.)
m+	a prolonged m (An interjection.)
c+	a prolonged c . (An interjection.)

ai	as i in fine, aisle .
ei	as i in ice, twice, trice, fice .
au	as ow in how ; German, Haus .
yu	as in use, feud .
ui	as in German, pfui .

In one myth is given: "t-t-t-t-t-t."

In some cases, when u is pronounced very rapidly after a or e, an o sound is heard, resembling au in the French aujourd'hui. Thus, in gaqá uꝑici, when thus pronounced, the au has a sound between that of ow in how and the sound of o in no; while in ɬe-úɬa^hha both vowels are heard, being pronounced almost as if the name was ɬe-óɬa^hha.

Every syllable ends in a vowel or diphthong, pure or nasalized.

When a consonant appears at the end of a word or syllable, it is a sign of contraction.

Another apparent exception is the ɕegiha interjection wũ^h, in which the final h denotes an expulsion of the breath through the nostrils

Almost every sound in this alphabet can be prolonged; but when the prolongation is merely rhetorical, it is given in the notes and omitted in the text. Prolongations in the text are usually interjections.

One interjection of admiration, etc., is designated for the present by "t!". It is made by drawing the tip of the tongue backward from the upper front teeth, causing a sucking sound.

The reader is requested to consult the Appendix after examining each text.

Brackets mark superfluous additions to the texts, and passages which seem to be modern interpolations.

Words within parentheses were omitted by the narrator, but, in most cases, they are needed to complete the sense.

The following abbreviations are used in the interlinear translations:—

sub	subject.	mv.	moving.
ob.	object.	recl.	reclining.
st.	sitting	lg.	long.
std.	standing.	pl.	plural.

sing.	singular.	cl.	classifier.
F.	Frank La Flèche.	L.	Louis Sanssouci.
G.	George Miller.	W.	Wadjepa. or Samuel Fremont.
J.	Joseph La Flèche.

The following sounds should be added to those given on the preceding pages:

‘ě an initially exploded ě, as in ukit‘ě, foreigner, enemy.

ŋ an evanescent h, a sound heard in some Pawnee words ny as the Spanish ñ in cañon, found in Łoiwere and Kwapa words.

Mr. Joseph La Flèche was alive when this introduction was stereotyped. He died in September, 1888.

Susanne La Flèche mentioned on page 2 is now a woman. She was graduated in 1886 at the Hampton Agricultural and Normal Institute, Virginia. She attended the Women's Medical College at Philadelphia for two years, and returned to the Omahas in 1889. She is practicing medicine among her people, paying special attention to the diseases of women and children.

10, 18, et passim. When Aⁿhaⁿ means consent, read Aⁿha^{n'}; but when assent is intended, read A^{n'}haⁿ.

228, 8. See important note on page 541.

The Appendix referred to on page 7 is that of Part I, beginning on page 525. Some time after that Appendix was stereotyped additional information was obtained from Omahas visiting Washington, and also from members of the Osage, Kansa, and Kwapa tribes. Consequently the reader is requested to consult the Appendix to 'Part II for a few errata, etc., which refer to Part I.

NOTES.

The accompanying version of this Omaha myth was given me by Mr. Frank LaFlèche. Mr. Sanssouci says that it was not the Winter, but Igacude (Storm-maker), who was killed by the Rabbit.

Igacude used to go each day to a lofty bluff, and gaze in all directions till he spied a party of hunters. When he discovered as many as he could carry on his back, he used to take up a ball of snow and blow off the particles till he made a snow-storm, in which all the men were sure to perish. Then Igacude gathered the bodies and carried them to his lodge.

9, 1. Mactciñge-iⁿ, or Mactciñge, the name of a mythical hero of the Ponkas and Omahas, answering to the Iowa and Oto Mictciñe. His other name was Siçé-makaⁿ (see myth of the Turkey, in the first version; also that of Siçé-makaⁿ's adventures as a deer). The distinction, if any, between Mactciñge and Mactciñge-iⁿ has been forgotten.

9, 2. e'aⁿ-qtí maⁿ ŋiⁿ çáçĩⁿce ă. The use of "eaⁿ-qtí" shows that there must have been some great trouble or important business which forced the Rabbit to wander from his home at such a time.

9, 10. aça-b egaⁿ, contr. from aça-bi egaⁿ.

9, 11. igacude gaxa-biama, usni hegaji ama. Frank said: usni he+gaji ama, It was ve-ry cold.

10, 7. niaciⁿga kě, "the long line of men's bodies," in this case.

10, 13. gaxa-b egaⁿ, contr. from gaxa-bi egaⁿ.

11, 6. adaⁿ editaⁿ usní-qtí-ăjĩ-hnaⁿ ama. Before that it was much colder than it is now. Now we have the female Winter.

TRANSLATION.

The Rabbit was going somewhere. It came to pass that he reached the place where the Winter was dwelling. "Well! you made it a rule not to come hither at all in the past. Sit by those things near you. On what very important business have you been traveling?" "Yes, O mother's brother, and my father's sister! my grandmother has altogether beaten the life out of me; so I have been coming hither in a bad humor" (said the Rabbit). The Rabbit sat crying; he continued hopping to and fro; the Rabbit did not sit still at all. "Do sit still," said the Winter. "O mother's brother, I always do thus!" At length the Winter spoke about going hunting. "O mother's brother, I will go with you!" said the Rabbit. "Why! you would be apt to die," said the Winter. "No, O mother's brother! how is it possible for me to die? I will go with you at all events." "Let us see! Do so," said the Winter. The Winter, having gone out, said: "Wh! Wh!", and made a fine driving snow-storm (blizzard). It was very cold. And when he departed, the Rabbit went with him. The Rabbit was very active: he continued going and running very far ahead (of the Winter); and he was coming back repeatedly; he also went running many times around the Winter, as he moved along. "The person in motion is truly active!" thought the Winter. By and by he (the Rabbit) scared up a deer. "Oho! O mother's brother! a deer has reached you; shoot it!" said the Rabbit. "No, such I do not seek," said the Winter. And the Rabbit thought, "What can he be seeking?" After a while the Rabbit (in moving along) discovered some men. "Oho! O mother's brother! some men have come to you." "Yes, such only do I seek," said the Winter. And he killed them. He carried the (dead) men homeward on his back. When he reached home with them on his back, he boiled the men. "Hurry for your nephew; I think that he is very hungry," said the Winter (to his wife). She cooked them until they were done. They filled for him (the Rabbit) a dish with the human fresh meat. "I am not accustomed to eating such (food)," said the Rabbit. He gave it back to them. When the provisions had been devoured, again the Winter spoke of going hunting. "Let us go, Rabbit," said the Winter. "No, O mother's brother! you go alone," said the Rabbit. The Winter, having made cold (weather) again, went again. When he had gone, the Rabbit questioned the Winter's wife. "O father's sister! what does my mother's brother fear?" "Your mother's brother has nothing to fear." "No, O father's sister! even I have something to fear. How is it possible for my mother's brother to have nothing to fear?" "Your mother's brother has nothing to fear," said the woman. "No, O father's sister! even I am used to being scared. How is it possible for my mother's brother to have nothing to fear?" "Yes, your mother's brother fears the head of a Rocky Mountain sheep." "Yes, just so I thought it might be," said the Rabbit. Having found one, he killed it. Having cut off its head with a knife, he carried it homeward on his back. The Winter reached his home. "In which direction has the Rabbit gone?" "He has just gone out (of the lodge)," said the woman. After a while, when it was dusk, the Rabbit reached home. "O mother's brother! that round object by you is the head of a Rocky Mountain sheep," said he. When he had thrown it suddenly toward him (the Winter), the Winter became altogether dead; only the woman remained. Therefore, from that cause (or, from that time), it has not been very cold, as a rule.

NOTES.

13, 7. aφai te aⁿ. The conclusion of this sentence seems odd to the collector, but its translation given with this myth is that furnished by the Indian informant.

13, 11. haⁿ+egaⁿtcě-qtei. The prolongation of the first syllable adds to the force of the adverb "qtei." The translation may be given as "ve - - ry early in the morning."

14, 1. hebe ihe aφe-hnaⁿ-biamá. The Rabbit tried to obey the Sun, but each time that he attempted it he was so much afraid of him that he passed by a little to one side. He could not go directly to him.

14, 2. maⁿciáha áiaφa-biamá. When the Rabbit rushed forward with bowed head, and cut the bow-string, the Sun's departure was so rapid that "he had already gone on high."

14, 3. Ītci+, an intj., showing that the speaker was in pain, caused in this case from the heat of the Sun's rays. See myth of the Sun and Moon.

The sentence at the end of the translation was given in Φegiha by the narrator; but the collector failed to write it. Hence it has no equivalent in the text.

TRANSLATION.

Once upon a time the Rabbit dwelt in a lodge with no one but his grandmother. And it was his custom to go hunting very early in the morning. No matter how early in the morning he went, a person with a very long foot had been along, leaving a trail. And he (the Rabbit) wished to know him. "Now," thought he, "I will go in advance of the person." Having arisen very early in the morning, he departed. Again it happened that the person had been along, leaving a trail. Then he (the Rabbit) went home. Said he, "Grandmother, though I arrange for myself to go first, a person anticipates me (every time). Grandmother, I will make a snare, and I will catch him." "Why should you do it?" said she. "I hate the person," he said. And the Rabbit departed. When he went, again had the footprints gone along. And he lay waiting for night (to come). And he made a noose of a bow-string, putting it in the place where the footprints used to be seen. And it came to pass that he reached there very early in the morning for the purpose of looking at his trap. And it happened that he had caught the Sun. Running very fast, he went homeward to tell it. Said he, "Grandmother, I have caught something or other, but it scares me." "Grandmother I wished to take my bow-string, but I was scared every time," he said. He went thither with a knife. And he got very near it. "You have done wrong. Why have you done it? Come hither and untie me," said the Sun. The Rabbit, although he went thither, was afraid, and kept on passing partly by him (or, continued going by a little to one side). And making a rush, with his head bent down (and his arm stretched out), he cut the bow-string with the knife. And the Sun went on high. And the Rabbit had the hair between his shoulders scorched yellow, it having been hot upon him (as he stooped and cut the bow-string). (And the Rabbit arrived at home.) "I am burnt. O, grandmother! the heat has left nothing of me," said he. She said, "Oh, my grandchild! I think that the heat has left to me nothing of him!" (From that time the rabbit has had a singed spot on his back, between the shoulders.)

TRANSLATION.

There was a Rabbit and his grandmother, too; he dwelt in a lodge with her. His grandmother said that to him: "Go not to the village of Black bears. The Black bears are abusers of men. Go not thither. They will abuse you. The Black bear chief has a lodge on a hill extending beyond that one in sight. Do not go thither," said she. And taking his bow, the Rabbit went thither. The Rabbit reached the chief of the Black bears. When he got there, and was standing by the door, the Rabbit pretended to be crying. "Rabbit, why do you cry?" said the Black bear. "Yes,—O mother's brother—the old woman—said—'Go to—your mother's brother—the Black bear'—and, having—scolded me—I have been coming hither," he said. At length the Black bear said, "Sit by the side of the lodge on the other side of (the fireplace)." And it came to pass that the Rabbit was sitting there. At night the Rabbit went out of the lodge. Having gone outside, the Rabbit dunged all around the door. "Well, my own faeces," said the Rabbit, "you will please give the scalp-yell as soon as it is day." As soon as it was day, behold, a very great multitude of persons gave the scalp-yell. "O mother's brother! an exceedingly large number of men dislodge us," said the Rabbit. "Though I should lie here a very long period (or, for many years), who could possibly dislodge me (or, cause me to move)?" said the Black bear. But every one of a large number of persons gave the scalp-yell many times. And thinking that it was people, the Black bear went out of the lodge. The Rabbit killed (wounded) the Black bear just as soon as he got outside. "O mother's brother! they have indeed killed you," said the Rabbit. Having killed him, he went homeward. And he reached his home at the lodge. "O grandmother! I have killed the Black bear chief," said he. "How would it be possible for you to kill him? To kill him is bad (or difficult)," she said. "Grandmother, I have killed him. Let us go (thither)," said he. The old woman arrived there with him. (See Wajĩ'ska's version.) "Grandmother, this is he." "Yes, my grandchild, it will do," said she. Having cut up the body, they carried it homeward on their backs. When they reached home, the Rabbit departed, carrying the scrotum of the Black bear. When he reached the village of the Black bears, they said: "The Rabbit has come! The Rabbit has come!" They made a great uproar. "Yes, I have come to tell news," said the Rabbit. "Halloo! the Rabbit has come, he says, to tell news." All of the Black bears went thither (to the lodge where the Rabbit was). They were at the lodge in great crowds. "Come, tell us the news," said they. "Yes, I will tell the news," said the Rabbit. "A great many persons, it is said, went to the principal chief of the Black bears, and killed him," said the Rabbit. "Our chief has been killed," said the Black bears. All the Black bears cried. "Ye who have had your head-chief killed, here is his scrotum." Having said this, he struck them with it. "Halloo! The Rabbit is to blame. Chase him and kill him," said they. They got to a place at a very great distance, and overtaking him, they laid hold of him, and killed him. They tore all of his body into small fragments, and threw them away. When a great while had elapsed, the Rabbit had not come home to his grandmother. And his grandmother wished to go and seek for him. The old woman took her bag, and went to search for the Rabbit. Said the old woman, "I go to search for him, that I may see the place where he was killed." Having reached there, she picked up the scattered pieces; and as she walked along putting them into the bag, she was saying: "Yes, Rabbit, you were disobedient. I said 'Those villagers are disobedient, so do not go thither'. Yet you went, and they killed you." The old woman went homeward, carrying the bag on her back. When she reached home, she poured out on the ground the contents of the bag, and the Rabbit was alive. "Go no more. The villagers are disobedient," she said. "I will go," thought the Rabbit. He seized his bow and departed. When he reached the Black bears' village, one Black bear had dreamed (or, had had a dream). The Black bear stood crying bitterly. They said, "Why do you do it?" Said he, "I dreamed, but I dreamed about something extremely bad. I dreamed that we were all killed. Yes, I dreamed that I too was killed." "You dreamed to no purpose. How could we all be killed?" The Black bears ate only human beings; therefore, the Rabbit, siding with mankind, wished to kill all of them. The Rabbit, having reached the Black bears' village, dinged all around it during the night. "Well! my own fæces," said he, "give ye the scalp-yell at early dawn. Let us kill all the Black bears. I will at the first give the signal for the attack. Do ye, at the same time, give the scalp-yell." As soon as it was day, the Rabbit gave the signal for the attack. The whole party of men gave the scalp-yell. All the Black bears came out. All of the Black bears were killed. One male and one female were left. The Rabbit took hold of the Black bears. The Rabbit talked with the Black bears: "You were bad, so you shall eat nothing but insects. You shall have no spirits (minds). My mothers and my mothers' brothers (that is, men and women, the whole human race) shall eat you. You shall be called Black bears (wa-sabe, the black animals). Walk ye (or depart ye)."

NOTES.

The above fragment of this myth was given by Wajiⁿska, an Omaha. Mr. La-Flèche admitted that there was such a part, but thought it could be omitted.

21, 2. egiɕe miⁿ'daⁿbe naⁿba tēdi. This is evidently a modern addition, made by the narrator.

21, 11. wami hebe, etc. The Rabbit took some coagulated blood from the piece of the Black bear, and threw it suddenly against his grandmother, causing thereby the first attack of the catamenia. From that time women have been so affected; and, as in the case of the old woman they have been compelled to stay out of the lodge during that period.

TRANSLATION.

The Rabbit arrived there (where he had killed the Black Bear chief) with his grandmother. And, "Grandmother, carry the thigh on your back," he said. "O grandchild! he made himself a god, therefore he is very dangerous, even when he is lying down. He might crush me with his leg. I am unwilling," said she. "Come, grandmother!" said he, "then carry the ribs on your back." "My grandchild, you are foolish. The ribs will break in my side; they are heavy," she said. "What! where is the part which you will carry on your back?" he said. And, "Carry," said he, "the head on your back." "O grandchild! the teeth are sharp, and they might crush me," she said. "I am very much afraid of them," said she. And he said, "Come, grandmother, carry the breast on your back." "O grandchild! that is it," said she. And he made the membrum virile to be with it. The old woman rejoiced on account of that. And the Rabbit said, "Come, grandmother, begone. Carry it on your back and begone." "By and by [in two hours] I will come home to you quickly," said he. His grandmother went homeward carrying it on her back. And then she would have gone down hill at a valley, but she slipped suddenly as she went homeward, and the membrum virile penetrated as far as the os tincae. "U-ŭ+!" she continued saying. And her grandchild came to her on his way home. At length he found her. He saw her. He passed around (avoided) her, and went homeward. "The old woman has done very wrong," thought he as he went homeward. And the Rabbit reached his home at the lodge. And after a great while his grandmother arrived at home. And he said, "Why have you been walking?" (Or, "What was the matter with you?") "O grandchild! some young Pawnees, your friends, having met me, went home with me (that is, they took her to their home). As they made me eat, I did not come home." And when they reached home his grandmother said that she was sick. He threw pieces of blood on her with sudden force. He made a catamenial cloth for his grandmother. "Grandmother, you have done very wrong. Go out of doors. Grandmother, cook out of doors. Eat your own piece out of doors, that breast which you carried on your back," said he. "O grandchild! I have killed my own (relation or property)!" said she. "It shall surely be so, Iŋḡḡa," said the Rabbit's grandmother.

NOTES.

This is but a fragment of the original myth, being all that Frank remembered. He said that more followed the killing of the giant; and Mr. Sanssouci related a part that precedes what is given here.

TRANSLATION.

There was (a giant called) Jlaqti-gíkidabi (He-for-whom-they-shoot-Deer). No matter what animals they killed, they always gave them to him, being afraid of him (that is, afraid not to give him the game). And when snow was lying (on the ground), they went to dislodge the game from their coverts. And the Rabbit too went thither. And when he thought "At last they will be apt to kill him (Jlaqti-gíkidabi)!" Jlaqti-gíkidabi went thither. And the Rabbit heard the sounds of shooting; so he went thither. It came to pass that two men had shot and killed a deer; and were standing without cutting it up. "Friends, do cut it up. Why do you stand?" Having said this, he commenced very quickly to cut it up. "Friend, it is so, but we are afraid on account of Jlaqti-gíkidabi." "For shame!" said the Rabbit. "Do you fear Jlaqti-gíkidabi because he is immortal? Cut it up. You can carry it on your backs," said he. And having cut it up, they made packs for themselves. Just when they had finished it, Jaqti-gikidabi came. And he carried four deer in his belt. He walked, having a very large oak tree for a bow. "Are ye not truly afraid of me when ye see me? Which kind of persons are ye?" (said the giant). "That one, the Rabbit, commanded us to cut it up, and so we cut it up," said the two. "Why do ye take it before me, and that without hesitation?" said he. "You very bad Rabbit! You very bad big-eyes! You very bad forked-mouth!" "What great (man) are you (that you talk so? or, what is the great trouble that affects you, that you talk thus)?" "Stand still, else I will press you down in the blood" (said Jaqti-gikidabi). "Shame on you! Press me down in the blood. Hurry, hurry! I say, you Jaqti-gikidabi!" Rushing on him, Jaqti-gikidabi pressed him down in the blood. The Rabbit arose with the blood streaming from him in all directions. (The Rabbit) having said, "Shame on you!" Jaqti-gikidabi attacked him again. "These fear you, so they do not attack you! I do not fear you, so I will attack you" (said the Rabbit). "Stand ye still, lest I blow you up into the sky" (said the giant). "Blow me up into the sky! Hurry, O Jaqti-gikidabi!" Having seized the Rabbit, he blew him up into the sky with sudden force. He was coming down (hither, to earth) with his legs kicking out repeatedly. And when he (the Rabbit) had come back very near (to earth), he (the giant) blew him up again with sudden force. And so Jaqti-gikidabi stood for some time, blowing him up into the sky again and again with sudden force. "Whensoever I tread on the ground again I will kill you," said the Rabbit. It came to pass that Jaqti-gikidabi was weary. The Rabbit trod on the ground. And he took his bow. And he shot at Jaqti-gikidabi. And he wounded him right in the eye. And Jaqti-gikidabi was dead. And these nations rejoiced very much.

And the Rabbit went homeward. When he arrived at home, his grandmother was there. Said he, "O grandmother! I have killed Jaqti-gikidabi." "You very bad eyes! It is not at all easy to kill that one," said his grandmother. "Grandmother, I say that because I have killed him," said the Rabbit.

NOTES.

25, 2. iɕiate' iɕiate'e+, an interjection used by females, denoting surprise. L. Sanssouci gives iɕiat'e+. The corresponding man's word is qá-i-na. L. Sanssouci makes iɕiate' iɕiate'e+, equal to the ɕɔiwere hinúqciñe, or hiníqciñe, but the latter appears to the collector to be nothing but a variation of hináqciñe or inaqciñe, "an old woman" (in ɕɔiwere). Tadaⁿ+, is equal to tadaⁿ (used by males).

25, 4. negi-hau+ equals negiha. The last syllable shows that the voice was raised to call a distant person. Sanssouci says "the Rabbit crossed level prairies, and called on the ground." Immediately after that he said "negi-hau+, refers to the Eagle." But that is inconsistent with the kinship system; for the Eaglets called the Rabbit "elder brother." Hence the Eagle must have been the Rabbit's father, and the female Eagle his "mother." Perhaps this myth originated among a people who called a "mother's brother's" sons, "brothers."

25, 5. maⁿxe - - - gawiⁿxe amama. To the eye of the Rabbit, the Eagles were pressing very close to the sky, which was supposed to be a horizontal solid, and the roof of this lower world.

26, 5. qi ɛdedi te ama. This lodge was said to be in the Sun.

26, 7. mañgɕe, etc. The Rabbit sat erect (mañgɕe) on his haunches with his legs thrust out towards the Eaglets, who were looking at him. Je-musnade differs from je-muxa.

26, 12. maɕpi - - - agɕi-hnaⁿi. "It is his custom to come home when water is falling drop by drop from small clouds of different sizes (?)"

26, 14. What follows is not expressed very clearly. It is probable that part of the conversation was omitted in what was given by Nudaⁿ-axa.

27, 1. Sanssouci gives instead of wɛs'á - - akí-bi ɕí, two expressions: wɛs'a kédegaⁿ aɕiⁿ akí-biamá (equal to the ɕɔiwere wakaⁿ iyaⁿ anyí ɕrí, ánye ké), and wɛs'a amégaⁿ kéde aɕiⁿ akí-biama (equal to the ɕɔiwere wakaⁿ énahá-ɕké iyaⁿ anyí ɕrí, ánye ké). If Sanssouci be right, the former phrase is "they say that he has come back with a snake"; and the latter "one of the class of snakes he brought home, they say."

27, 12. eɕaⁿska-qtei, that is, about the size of a hat.

27, 14. hnip'ande, you shake the rope or cord by which I let you down.

27, 15. aki-biama ɕí it'aɕewaɕa-biama. "Ki" here denotes that the subject had returned to his native place, the earth as distinguished from the upper world, whence he had been lowered by the old woman. He did not reach his home till he had gone some distance.

27, 19. ɕinegi ahigi-qti maⁿ, etc. Your mother's brothers, men.

28, 5. egiɕe ɕiha a-i akama. Sanssouci reads, ahi akama, he was going or arriving there.

28, 8. iniɕa waseɕaⁿ ame. Sanssouci gives three ɕɔiwere equivalents for this: "those who were yet a little strong;" "those who stirred a little;" and "those who, as they say, stirred, or were alive, with a little strength."

28, 18. eataⁿ-qtei tɕ'ewaɕaɕɛ tceiⁿte, a corruption of eataⁿ-qti t'ewaɕaɕɛ teiⁿte. Such corruptions are frequently used by old women and children.

TRANSLATION.

In the former time the Rabbit departed. "Grandmother, I will go to hunt feathers for myself," said he. "Içiate' içiate'e+!" said she, "in what place (do you think) you will find feathers very easily?" And he went. Going across the ground by a very near way, on very level prairie, he went crying: "O - - - mother's brother! O - - - mother's brother!" he continued saying as he went. Those whom he sought, the Eagles, were flying round and round, pressing very closely against the (top of) the sky. Both went along, and they turned themselves around as they went. "These (moving ones) will take me," he said. The Eagles were crying and saying "T-t-t-t-t." It came to pass the other one was coming (this way, to earth) from above to attack him (or, dash on him). And he seized him. And he carried him homeward. And he reached home with him. He took him home to the sky up above. And there was a lodge. "My father has brought home a very good animal as prey" (said the Eaglet). And the Eaglet said, "O elder brother (Rabbit) we two love you very much." "Though for some time I have been doing nothing but move, who will love me?" said (the Rabbit). And he sat erect on his hind legs. The Eaglets loved that; it alone was very good. And he (the Eaglet) said as follows: "Whence have you come?" "When I was just walking across the ground by a near way, your father seized me," said he (the Rabbit). And he said, "At what time of the day does your father usually get home?" "My father," said he, "is accustomed to come home when it is very late in the afternoon, and when water is falling one drop at a time from small round clouds of different sizes." It came to pass that he (the Eaglet) said as follows: "O elder brother, of what sort is it when you do that?" "Yes," said he (the Rabbit) "thus, as you see me, they strike my head with one stone, when it is resting on another." "O elder brother, treat us so," he said (the Eaglet). "You all shall sit in that place," said he (the Rabbit). "So let us sit," said he (the Eaglet). And so he treated them. The one he crushed with a violent blow, and he killed his younger brother with a blow in like manner. And he pulled out the feathers. And he made them (the Eaglets) fall violently to the ground. And he tied up the feathers. And that which they told him was apt to be the case (did occur): the father came back suddenly. "Do you and your younger brother take that," he said. When he had reached home with a snake, and pushed his way into (the lodge) he (the Rabbit) crushed him with a violent blow. After a while, precisely at the beginning of darkness, the mother came home suddenly. "Do you and your younger brother take that," she said. Again in like manner she had brought home a snake. And again he killed the mother with a blow. And again he sat pulling out the feathers, he sat tying them up. And he also sat crying. He departed, carrying the feathers on his back. And he was going along crying. At length there was a lodge. He arrived there. And he was standing crying. The woman peeped at him. Behold, she was his grandmother. After she stood a while she said "M+! on what very important business are you traveling?" And he said, "I sought feathers for myself, and have many. And moreover, I hesitate about starting homeward, fearing failure; therefore I have been doing nothing but cry." "M+!" said the woman, "I am with a person, but he is bad. You must go quickly to your home. Hasten," she said. The Rabbit sat in a bag of woven yarn the size of a hat. He tied the feathers to it. "Though you will go homeward this time, when you reach home, put a red-oak acorn in (the bag) for me," said she. "When you tread the ground, you must give it (the rope) a slight pull," she said. And letting him go, she sent him back suddenly (to the earth, his home). When he reached home (the earth), the Rabbit was hateful. He abused the one who pitied him, he dinged in the bag. And pulling (the rope), he shook it a little, and she took her own. And so he went homeward carrying the feathers on his back. And he reached home. "O grandmother, I have come home - - !" he said (raising his voice). She spoke in wonder. She said, "Iciat' iciat'e+!" "Grandmother," said he, "I have brought home the feathers on my back." And she said as follows: "Cause your mother's brothers to make very many arrows." And then he said as follows: "Grandmother, for what reason?" And she said as follows: "There is a hill that is accustomed to draw into its mouth the person going and passing that way." And he said, "I will see that." "Iciat' iciat'e+!" said she, "sit still." "No, I will see it at any rate," said he. (Though) she was very unwilling, still he went to see it. At length he arrived there. "You are this hill that draws into its mouth. They said that you were there. Draw me into your mouth," said he. He was swallowed for a very long time. At length he got down (to the bottom). And it happened that (there were) the very dry bones of the persons whom it had swallowed formerly, and those who had the flesh dried hard and sticking (to the bones), and those, too, very lately dead, brought unto the dead, lay with the liver alone made alive. And the Rabbit reached those who were alive and quick. "Ci-ci-ci-ci! these are few," said the Rabbit. The fat on the heart of Jahe-waahuni was dangling very much. "Why! you should have eaten that," said he. He cut it off with a knife, he cut the heart into pieces with a knife. The hill split open of its own accord. And these men who were quick (alive, stirring) became active at the very time that the hill split open of its own accord. And they said as follows: "Let us put the Rabbit at the head of the nation." "He saved us," said they. And he said, "Seek ye your own lodges, from whatsoever places ye may have come hither." "Begone ye," said he (the Rabbit). And so it was. And the Rabbit went homeward. "O grandmother, I have come back to you," he said. "Iciat' iciat'e+!" said she. "O grandmother," said he, "I have killed the hill that draws them into its mouth, of which you told in the past." "M+! It was said that it were good to kill that one. How could you have been his slayer?" said she. "Why! grandmother, I have killed him," said he. "Of the persons that were there, there were those who said, 'Let us make the Rabbit the head of the nation,' but I was unwilling. I commanded them to seek their own lodges," he said.

NOTES.

See the preceding myth: How the Rabbit went to the Sun; also, J. La Flèche's Oto version of this myth, to appear hereafter in "The J̄oiwere Language, Part I."

32, 2. kéde, contraction from kě, éde.

33, 2. qīⁿq contraction from qīⁿqé, dried flesh or meat next the bone. (For the speech of the men and the Rabbit's reply, see the Oto version.)

33, 11. mactciūge - - ábi áça, the words of the crier going through the camp, quoted by the Rabbit. kaⁿbça áçīⁿhéiⁿte (i. e., kaⁿbça açīⁿhe eiⁿte) is not in the form of a question, though it implies one, according to Sanssouci.

33, 12. maūgçīⁿ i-gă, begone ye! "Go to your respective homes," is meant, but it is not expressed.

33, 12. áagçě atí, I have come for my own property. The Rabbit talks as if he had a prior claim to the hill's heart, etc.

33, 14. The words of the old woman are not to be taken literally. She was proud of what the Rabbit had done, and was praising him. Even if he was deformed, he had done what should have been done long ago by others.

33, 17. wiñke tedé, feminine of wiñ'ke téde, contraction from wiñ'ke tě, éde, he did tell the truth but," an elliptical expression, which would be in full, wiñ'ke tě édehnaⁿ ewéja çāⁿctī, he told the truth, but I did nothing but doubt him at the first.

TRANSLATION.

There was a Hill that drew (people) into its mouth. And the Rabbit was with his grandmother. "A Hill is there, but it is bad. Beware lest you go thither. Go not thither," said she. And he said, "Grandmother, wherefore?" She said, "Whenever people go thither, it draws them into its mouth." And the Rabbit thought, "Let me see! Why is this? I will go thither." And he went thither. When the Rabbit arrived there, the Hill knew him. As he knew him when he arrived there, the Rabbit said, "Jahe-waçahuni, draw me into your mouth. Jahe-waçahuni, you who, as they say, are used to devouring, devour me." And Jahe-waçahuni knew the Rabbit, so he did not devour him. And it came to pass that a great many people belonging to a hunting party were coming to that place. And they arrived there. And Jahe-waçahuni opened his mouth, and the people entered the mouth of the Hill. And the Rabbit entered too. The Rabbit pressed onward. And when he reached the stomach of the Hill within, Jahe-waçahuni was not pleased by it. And Jahe-waçahuni vomited up the Rabbit. Again some members of a hunting-party were approaching. When the party reached there, Jahe-waçahuni opened his mouth again, and the people entered the mouth. And the Rabbit entered again (as a man, this time). And then Jahe-waçahuni did not vomit him up. And there were lying in the distance the whitened bones of the people who had entered first and had died, the dried flesh next to the bones adhering to them; also those who had been dead but a little while, with the flesh (on the bones); and those, too, who had just died, and the living ones too. And the Rabbit said as follows: "Why do you not eat? You should have eaten that very fat heart. Were I (in your place), I would eat it," he said. And the Rabbit seized his knife. When he seized his knife, he cut the heart. And Jahe-waçahuni said, "Haⁿ! haⁿ! haⁿ!" And the Rabbit said, "Do not say 'Haⁿ! haⁿ! haⁿ!'" And the Rabbit gathered together the heart and the scattered pieces of fat. And the Hill split open of its own accord. All the people went out again. When they went homeward all the people assembled themselves. Said they, "Let us make the Rabbit chief." And he said as follows: "It is said 'You shall make the Rabbit chief.' As if I, for my part, had been desiring to be chief!! (Or, Have I been behaving as if I wished to be chief?) From whatever places ye may have come, begone ye (to them). I too have come hither to get some of the fat belonging to me, as my grandmother had none." And the Rabbit went homeward, carrying the fat on his back. Having brought it home on his back, he put it outside. "O grandmother! I have killed jahe-waḥahuni," he said. "Oh! You very bad big-foot! you very bad split-mouth! Have you killed him who only should have been killed in the past?" "Grandmother, I say that because I have killed him. See the pile farther away," he said. The old woman having gone out of doors, said, "Oh! my grandchild told (nothing but) the truth (though I did doubt him at first)." And she took the (pile of) fat (meat).

NOTES.

35, 2. wéčixuxúí. Nuda^{n'}-axa, a Ponka, gave it thus; but it may be intended for wéčixuxú-hi, as the Omahas use wéčixuxu-hi kě. Ča^{n'}-qti ga^{n'} is a phrase which scarcely admits of a brief translation. It seems to imply for no reason whatever, at any rate, etc.

35, 8, et passim. aiačai tě, ačai tě, uíča čéčai tě, etc., denote certainty on the part of the speaker, or that he was cognizant of the acts referred to, hence it would have been better to say, "aia-ča-biama, ača-biama, uíča čéča-biama," denoting what was not observed by the narrator.

35, 7. itaⁿɕiaɕa jaⁿ-biana. The Rabbit went ahead of their trail and lay concealed, lying in wait for them.

35, 7. sigɕe kě ahigi gaxe, etc. He made so many tracks that the people did not know which way to turn to search for the Rabbit.

36, 3. iɕa-baji gaxai tě. This man pretended that he had not discovered where the Rabbit lay concealed. He pulled the bow in one direction to deceive the Rabbit, and then turned around suddenly and shot him, sending the arrow through his body.

36, 11. igaskaⁿɕě seems to be used here in the sense of chiding.

36, 14. iɕapahaⁿ daⁿɕtě-maⁿ áɕiⁿhé implies doubt: I may know it as I go along, and I may not know it.

36, 15. naⁿpahi geɕaⁿ, the choke-cherry bushes which had been (full of sap, etc.). It was winter at the time he sent the old woman after one.

TRANSLATION.

The Rabbit was dwelling with his grandmother. And while traveling he reached a certain place. At the foot of the bluff the prickly ash was very dense. It was thus all along. And he said, "Persons have been on the trail, all of whom had very long feet." And on the next day he said, "Grandmother, I will go out to see (that is, to act as a scout, suspecting the presence of foes)." And he went in the morning. When he departed, at length they were coming back suddenly. "These persons are the ones who were moving there," thought he. He lay ahead in a straight line with the path they went. It came to pass that when they reached there (where the Rabbit was) he was not found. He had made many footprints, so he was not found, and they went beyond the place. Then again he went ahead, and lay ahead of him (of one of the men). "That one thing will come to you," he said. "Stand and head him off." They were walking back and forth among themselves. At length one was walking at the end. "That unseen thing will come to you," he said. This he communicated (to those at a distance), telling (them) to stand and head him off. And he went pushing among the undergrowth, etc. And then, after standing awhile, he pretended that he had not found him (the Rabbit). He stood at the side (of the thicket) and took his arrow. And so he fitted it to the bow-string. "Look out for this which is coming to you," he said, as he tempted him (the Rabbit). And letting the arrow go he pierced the Rabbit through the body (the arrow appearing on the other side). And the Rabbit was crying. The Rabbit said, "I^a! i^a! i^a!" "Friend, you have killed him," said they. "Friend, I will carry it on my back," said (one). The Rabbit had gone with a leap. And he pulled out the arrow. And he carried it away. And they pursued him. As they chased him the Rabbit's blood was lying along (in a long line) on the snow. They scared him into his burrow. He grunted. "Grandmother," said he, "they have altogether killed me. Hǔⁿ! hǔⁿ!" said he. His grandmother chided him. "You were truly disobedient. When I said that it was reported you alone were sought after, you should have sat without crying at all," she said. And he said, "Grandmother, go to seek for medicine." Said she, "My grandchild, I doubt whether I know the medicine." "Grandmother," said he, "bring me back one of the choke-cherry bushes." And his grandmother took it home. He ate it, and it made him recover.

NOTES.

38, 5. ědi aki-biama. It was some place where the Rabbit had been on some previous occasion, or else it was on the way to the Rabbit's home: "he reached there again," or "he reached there on his way home."

38, 16. maⁿtiheačě ataⁿhe čaⁿcti. Hitherto, Ictinike placed his plot within his head and concealed it there. Maⁿtiheačě refers to the plot, not to the victim.

39, 1. běije atci tcabe. "Běije" is from "čijé."

39, 4. gud-ičaⁿča-qti ahaⁿ, a phrase occurring only in this myth.

39, 10. je hičai, a case of "hapax legomenon."

39, 12. uginaⁿskabe čaⁿ ama. The young Rabbit leaped upon the robe of his relation, Ictinike, soiling it with the "iňgčē" sticking to his feet.

40, 9. jeädigčāⁿ pěji gčiza-bi egaⁿ. He took his own breech-cloth which he had on to use in giving the signal of alarm. Hence he was not "naked" in the strict sense of the word before he took it off.

40, 13. iⁿc'age waiiⁿ čaⁿ ctěwaⁿ gacaí taⁿ. The people said, "They chased the venerable man so closely that he had to drop his robe."

40, 18. waiiⁿ ekube-qti čeha 'ii-biama. Though this means "a very thick summer robe," čeha (buffalo robes of animals killed in summer) were not covered with thick hair, as were the meha or winter robes.

TRANSLATION.

Ictinike was going, and so was the Rabbit. "Hu+! O younger brother! Uhu+!" said Ictinike. "When it was told, I hoped to see him, and so I see my own (relation)," said he. "Though I am only moving for some time, who will love me?" said the Rabbit. "Come," said Ictinike. "Wherefore," said the Rabbit. "Never mind, come," said Ictinike. He reached there. "O younger brother," said he, "whatsoever I say, you must say 'Yes.'" "Yes," said the Rabbit. "O younger brother, tecum coibo," said Ictinike. "No," said the Rabbit, "prior tecum coibo." "Psha! O younger brother," said Ictinike, "when the elder ones talk about anything, they generally have their way." "Psha! Not so indeed, elder brother. The younger ones, elder brother, when they speak about anything, do not stop talking about that, so they usually have their way," said the Rabbit. "Let us see, do so, younger brother." And Ictinike turned upside-down. The Rabbit cum eo coit. Coitu completo, the Rabbit leaped and had gone. "Come, O younger brother," said Ictinike repeatedly. When he was saying it to him the Rabbit was fleeing; and he went headlong into a dense thicket. "Wahu+!" said Ictinike, "While I alone cheated a person, I used to keep (the plot) inside (my head). You very bad Rabbit! You very bad big-foot! You very bad big-eyeballs! You very bad much strong odor! You have made me suffer very much." And the Rabbit departed. "Cum isto prior coii et feci ut cacaret," said the Rabbit. Ictinike reviled him again. Again he reviled him. Ictinike departed very sorrowful. When he reached a certain place cacaturiit et cacavit. Ictinike cacante, a young rabbit departed, running very rapidly, "It gets worse and worse!" Again, when he reached a certain place, cacaturiit et cacavit; and a young rabbit departed, running very swiftly. Iterum peperit. Again he said to him, "Really! he has made me suffer very much." Again, when he reached a certain place, cacatūriit et cacavit. Again a young rabbit departed with a rush. "You will not be apt to go again," said Ictinike. Quum iterum parēre timuit, as he stooped and caused it to reach the ground, he held the robe down on the fæces and the rabbit, to hinder the escape of the latter. In spite of the effort the young rabbit leaped over the robe. He soiled the robe with the "iñgøe" on his feet. "Wuhu+! It gets worse and worse." (He meant his being naked.) Well, he departed. In spite of (his condition) he went naked. It came to pass that some boys were playing with maⁿçiⁿbagi as they walked. He met them. "Ho! younger brothers," said Ictinike. "Ho!" said the boys. "Have you not heard anything at all, younger brothers?" said he. "Yes," said they. "Then, whatsoever ye have heard, tell me," said Ictinike. "Yes," they said. "Why! they say that it is reported that the Rabbit alone cum Ictinike coit. We have heard it." "Wuhu+! They have heard about me for a very great while," thought Ictinike; and he departed. And again some were playing maⁿçiⁿbagi as they walked; and he met them. "O younger brothers, tell me something or other," he said. "What we shall tell you is as nothing. Why! we have heard it said that it is reported that the Rabbit alone cum Ictinike coit," said the boys. And he departed. "Wuhu+! I was caused to be heard of a very long time ago," thought he. And again some were approaching. And again he questioned them. "O younger brothers, tell me something or other," said he. "What we shall tell thee is as nothing. Why! we have heard it said that it is reported that the Rabbit alone cum Ictinike coit," said they. "Wuhu+! I was caused to be heard of a very long time ago," thought Ictinike; and he departed. It came to pass that he took his bad breech-cloth and went to give the alarm. At length he came in sight of a lodge (village?). "This venerable man behind us is one who has been attacked by the foe," they said. He arrived there. They were standing very thick (around him). "Seek ye a place of retreat for your children. They attacked me, and they were a great many," said Ictinike. "The venerable man is deprived (by their chasing) even of his robe," said they. "Yes, it is just so." He stood panting excessively, as he was a tempter. "We will see them. Come, tell us about them," said they. "Not so indeed," said Ictinike. "Bring to me one of the robes. I will go to see." "The venerable man speaks very truly," they said. And the robe was given him; a thick summer robe was given him. He departed, following the stream. "Ha! ha! Day after day have I been doing that to them heretofore. One person did not treat me well at all," he said (meaning the Rabbit).

NOTES.

The Grizzly bear went out very early each morning in search of buffalo. Having found the game, he used to get home by sunrise, when he informed the Rabbit. The Rabbit, who was very swift, could chase the buffalo and kill them; but the Grizzly bear was unable to do this, so he kept the Rabbit as his servant, calling him his younger brother.

43, 3. uh aⁿwaⁿça mañgçiñ-gă. Uh, a contr. of úhe, to go out from camp to meet the hunters and help to bring the fresh meat home. "Begone, and tell them about me, so that they may come out for the fresh meat, and pack it into camp." The Bear took all the credit to himself.

43, 4. Sanssouci and F. LaFlèche gave "tiçái-gă haú" instead of tiçábi-gă haú. The Kwapa Çegiha (Kansas, etc.) uses "-bi" as a plural sign, where the Omaha Çegiha has "-i."

43, 6. bçugaqti, pronounced bçu+gaqti by Nudaⁿ-axa.

44, 7. wami hebe - - - iqigçaⁿ-biamá. The piece of clotted blood was about the size of two fingers.

44, 9. abaçu çáⁿ uçaⁿ-bi egaⁿ, etc. The Bear got out of patience with the Rabbit, who insisted on carrying a piece of the meat.

44, 12. eskana, winisi, etc. The growth of the young Rabbit was as follows: (1) He commenced talking, saying words here and there, not speaking plainly or connectedly. (2) Next, he spoke without missing a word or syllable. (3) He became like boys who pull the bow and shoot very well, and who run a little now and then, but not very far. (4) He was as a youth who can draw the arrow, and who runs swiftly for some time. (5) He became a young man, one of those who carry the quiver and take wives.

45, 7. naji, a word implying anger on the part of the speaker.

45, 10. hebe çagi'ia 'içaçě té. "You must speak to him for a piece that you can carry yourself."

45, 16. ie tē égijaⁿjī-hnaⁿ, etc. "Why, Rabbit, you have not been using such language, but (now) you are active."

45, 19. aⁿonajuajī, equal to aⁿçăc'aje—çaçiⁿ-naⁿpajī. See fifth myth, 23, 11.

46, 1. ugínaⁿqpa-biamá. Omahas, etc., carry their bows, when not in use, with one end of the string loose. When they wish to string the bow, they bend it with the foot, and put the string on the other end.—L. Sanssouci.

46, 4. náji, égaⁿ-qti iⁿçahniⁿ eskaⁿ. "I suspect that you have been treating my father just so."

46, 12. ubahaⁿ basníndihé ama. A case of hapax legomenon. F. La Flèche would read "Kída-biama, he shot at her," instead of "Ku-biama," which is not plain to him.

46, 16. çiaⁿdi, etc. The Rabbit's son adopted the kind young Grizzly bear as his younger brother; hence the elder Rabbit became the adoptive father of the Grizzly bear.

46, 19. hegajⁱ, pronounced here as he+gajⁱ.

46, 20. içaça-biama. Instr. from aç^a, to stick on, as with glue.

TRANSLATION.

The Grizzly bear came home, having been scouting for the Rabbit. And the Rabbit went to attack the herd. The Rabbit killed a very fat buffalo. "Begone and tell about me, that they may come after the meat," said the Grizzly bear. "Pass ye on to the red-eyed Grizzly bear, to help him pack the meat!" said the Rabbit. Oh! my husband's brother, in which direction?" said the female Grizzly bear. And they departed. They brought home all of the buffalo meat. And there were four young Grizzly bears. And the youngest one pitied the Rabbit. He used to bring him by stealth a part of what they ate. And on the next day the Grizzly bear said to him again: "Rabbit, your chasing-place is full of game." "O elder brother!" said the Rabbit, "I am putting on my moccasins." And he attacked them. Again he killed a very fat buffalo. The Grizzly bear went thither. "Begone and tell about me, that they may come after the meat," said the Bear. And the Rabbit was going homeward. "Pass ye on to the red-eyed Grizzly bear, to help him to pack the meat!" said the Rabbit. "Oh! my husband's brother, in which direction?" said the female Grizzly bear. And they went to pack the meat. And they brought home all the meat on their backs. And the young Grizzly bear brought him a piece again. And the Grizzly bear said as follows: "I think that you took a piece to some one." The next day he was returning from scouting. "Rabbit, your chasing-place is full," said the Grizzly bear. "O elder brother! I am putting on my moccasins," said the Rabbit. And he attacked them. Again he killed a very fat buffalo. The Bear arrived there. "Begone and tell about me, that they may come after the meat," said the Grizzly bear. "O elder brother! I will carry my own piece," said the Rabbit. "Qa-i! He wishes to carry meat! Begone and tell about me, that they may come after the meat," said he. And he got out of patience with him, as the Rabbit insisted on carrying his own piece. And the Rabbit cut the meat several times with a knife, causing pieces to come off. And the Rabbit seized a piece of blood and put it into his belt. "What have you been taking," said the Grizzly bear. "O elder brother! I have taken nothing," said the Rabbit. Holding the Rabbit by the nape of the neck, he pressed him repeatedly in the blood. The Rabbit cried. And he approached to tell them to go after the meat. Having gone after the meat, they came to the lodge. And the Rabbit put at the side of the lodge this piece of blood which he had taken. It was night. And the Rabbit said as follows: "I hope, my child, that you may be as children who begin to talk suddenly, saying a word now and then." And when he had finished speaking to him, the blood said "Yes," like an infant. And it was so. And he said to him again: "I hope, my child, that you may be like children who speak plainly without missing a word." And it was so. And the Grizzly bear said, "With whom were you talking, as you sat for a while?" "Why, elder brother, I was talking with no one at all. I was sitting talking to myself," said the Rabbit. Again he said to him: "I hope, my child, that you may be like boys who pull the bow wonderfully well, and run now and then for a short distance." And it became so very suddenly. And then he made him do it repeatedly. I hope, my child, that you may be like the youth who are grown, who pull the bow very well, and who are so active that they run a great distance." And it was so. "I hope, my child, that you may be like the young men whom I have seen carrying the quiver." And it was so. And it was day. "Come, Rabbit, your chasing-place is full," said the Grizzly bear. "Wait, elder brother, I am putting on my moccasins," said the Rabbit. "Hasten, you who have not put on any moccasins, big-foot! much offensive odor! big eyeballs! mouth split in many places!" said the Bear. "Aha! O the villainy! I suspect that he treats my relation very much like that," said the Rabbit's son. "Yes, my child, he is used to treating me just so. He keeps me in great suffering, my child," said the Rabbit. "When he goes, I will lie looking at you, right above the descent of the hill where they have surrounded the herd from time to time. You must speak to him for a piece for you to carry," said the Rabbit's son. And when he attacked them, he killed a buffalo. The Grizzly bear arrived there. "Begone and tell about me, that they may come after the meat," said he. "Now, elder brother, not so indeed," said the Rabbit. "I wish to carry a piece of my own, elder brother," said he. "Qa-i! He truly wishes to carry! Begone and tell them about me, that they may come after the meat," said he. "Why! elder brother, I wish to carry my own piece," said the Rabbit. "Why! Rabbit, you have not been using such language, but you are active (at present)," said the Bear. "Why! elder brother, though it is not so, I too, elder brother, am used to being hungry, so I wish to carry my own piece (of meat)," said the Rabbit. "Why! I speak truly, Rabbit, you have some one to depend on, I think, therefore you have been abusing me somewhat in speech!" said the Grizzly bear. And when he said it to him again, he sent the Rabbit on his back repeatedly; he pushed him over very suddenly. The Rabbit's son was coming. And he was pulling several arrows out of his quiver as he was coming. The Rabbit's son strung his bow. "O younger brother, carry your own (meat), that which is on this side of you," said the Grizzly bear. He threw away suddenly the piece of fresh meat. "I am unwilling, carry it (yourself)," said the Rabbit. And his son had come back thither. "O the villainy! I suspect that you have been treating my relation just so," said the Rabbit's son. "Why! my child, your father can carry this. I have given all back to him," said the Grizzly bear. "Bosh! Carry it (yourself)," said the Rabbit's son, meaning the Grizzly bear. Having sent the Grizzly bear on his back repeatedly, the Rabbit's son shot at the Grizzly bear, wounding him with two arrows. And he killed him. "What are you used to saying when you go to tell his wife to go and carry the meat?" said the Rabbit's son, questioning his father. "Yes," said he, "Pass ye on to the red-eyed Grizzly bear, to help him to pack the meat, I am used to saying," And he said it to him. He reached home. When he came in sight, and lay stretched out (on his stomach) at the front of the lodge, he pushed in head foremost at the door. "Ku!" (sound of the shooting). And the Rabbit's son killed the old woman Grizzly bear. "Where are you who pitied my relation, the Rabbit?" said he. "I—I—I," they said, making a great uproar. And the youngest one said, "I, alone, did not join with them (in maltreating him)." And the Rabbit's son killed these three. And the Rabbit's son said, "Pass on (undisturbed), as you continue to fetch water for your father." "Thank you, elder brother," said the young Grizzly bear who was left after the shooting of the others. And the Rabbit's son was with his father, having a very pleasant time. "Father, make some arrows for me," said he. And he made a great many arrows for him. He finished the arrows, fixing eagle feathers on all alike. And after he sat awhile, he said as follows: "Father, I wish very good clothing." "Yes," said the Rabbit. And he made a hat for him; it was a great owl. Indeed, he clothed his whole body, sewing birds together. And he put on moccasins, both of which had great owls on them. When he walked a step, they used to say, "Hu! hu! hu!" He made the great owls hoot as he walked. And, in fact, all the birds cried and made a great uproar.

NOTES.

This myth follows directly after the preceding one, in which the elder Rabbit gives his son the wonderful clothing.

Ictinike is doubtless the $\mathcal{L}$ oiwere Ictinike. The Iowas say that Ictinike was the son of Pi, the Sun. Ictinike was guilty of the sin of Ham, and was therefore expelled from the upper world. He is usually the deceiver of the human race, and once he is the benefactor of a few persons. The Iowas say that he taught the Indians all the bad things which they know. According to an Omaha myth, he taught all the war customs. In one myth (No. 13) he is himself overreached by other animals. In the myth of Haxige Ictinike assumes the form of Hega, the Buzzard.

50, 9. ceču ctě ačaskabe te ha (let him) stick even there where you are.

51, 4. iñgčo, contraction by degrees from iñgčaⁿ haú; iñgč háu; iñgč aú; iñgčo. Compare the pronunciation of gaqa-učici (almost "gaqóčici").

51, 7. Ictinike took the Rabbit's son's clothing while he was up the tree; and ran away with it, pretending to be the Rabbit's son.

52, 5. Mactciñge ijiñge é aká xī. Sanssouci said that it denoted the surprise of the people, who did not know that it was the Rabbit's son who had come among them: "Why, when that one is the Rabbit's son (we did not recognize him at first)!"

52, 6. hiⁿqpe wiⁿ učiqpača-bikéamá, literally; fine feather, one, it lay (ke), they say (biamá), having been caused to fall (učiqpačě).

52, 7. qiča ikina-biama, etc. All the men contended for the Eagle, each one struggling to get the most feathers, and to keep the others away. The whole Eagle was there, the Rabbit's son having turned it into a light feather on the preceding day by magic.

54, 1. iⁿ'čⁱn agí te denotes that the men who brought the drum lived in the lodge with the Rabbit's son. Sanssouci prefers to read, "iⁿ'čⁱn a-í tai," let them who live elsewhere, not here, bring it to me; or, "i^hfi^hwaki^h te ha," let him cause them to bring it to me.

54, 1. i^hc'áge, his wife's father.

54, 3. cǐ ahnaha tega^a ahnaha gǝiza-gǝ hǎ, ce tǝ. It refers to Ictinike's old clothing, which he had left when he ran off with the good clothing of the Rabbit's son.

54, 5. úginaji^a-biama implies a plural animate object, i. e., the birds on his clothing. Ordinarily, uginaji^a-biama is the proper word.

The first day that Nuda^a-axa told this myth, he said as follows: "The old men beat the drum once, and Ictinike jumped up. When they beat it the second time, Ictinike leaped higher. Then he leaped still higher when they struck it the third time. "Stop! stop!" said Ictinike to the Rabbit's son. But the Rabbit's son made the men beat the drum the fourth time, when Ictinike jumped so high, that when he came down he struck the ground and the shock killed him." Sanssouci never heard this of the Rabbit, but of Waha^aǝicige, the Orphan, as Mac'awakude told me once.

TRANSLATION.

At length the Rabbit met Ictinike suddenly. "Wuhu+! O grandchild! O grandchild!" said Ictinike. "Venerable man, what would you say?" said the Rabbit. "O grandchild, kill for me the one bird that is sitting down on its way homeward," said he. And the Rabbit shot at it. He shot it through the body, the arrow coming out on the other side. It came falling. It lodged in a tree. "O grandchild! pity me, your relation. O grandchild! O grandchild! pity me, your relation, again," said he. "No, venerable man, I will abandon it. Go thou and take it," he said. "No, O grandchild, the arrow is very good, but if you do not take it, who shall have it?" said he. "Really!" said he, "the venerable man truly wishes to have his way!" And he pulled off all of his clothing. He went climbing the tree. "Even there where you are, let him stick!" said Ictinike. "What were you saying, venerable man?" said the Rabbit. "Why, grandchild! I said nothing. I was saying 'He has gone far for me for a long time!'" And as he was going (up the tree) it was so again. "Stick even there where you are!" he said. "What were you saying, venerable man?" said he. "Why, grandchild! I said nothing. I was saying 'He has gone far for me for a long time!'" he said. And as he was going it was so again. "Stick even there where you are!" he said. "What were you saying, venerable man?" said he. "Why, grandchild! I said nothing. O first-born son! I was saying 'He has nearly reached it for me!'" he said. And again as he was going, it was so again. "Stick even there where you are!" said he. "What were you saying, venerable man?" he said. "I said, 'Stick even there where you are!'" The Rabbit stuck to the tree. And having put on the clothing, Ictinike went to a village, and married one of the chief's daughters. The younger one departed in a bad humor. It came to pass that she gazed on high, and behold a person was standing awhile; she found him standing sticking to the tree. And she cut down the tree. And having made it fall by cutting, she made a fire all along the (fallen) tree. And she caused (the glue?) to melt. And he sat with her by the fire. "A person who made me suffer very much went to you," he said. "Yes," said she, "he arrived, but my elder sister took him for her husband." And she went homeward with him. "This one who was sulky about marrying a man, and went away, has come back with the son of the Rabbit," they were saying, ridiculing her. And they arrived. "That moving animate object, an eagle, goes to you! Do let the Rabbit's son come in sight," they said, referring to Ictinike. They commanded (some one) to shoot at it. When the Rabbit's son arrived very near at hand, the birds on the clothing knew his coming, and cried out. Ictinike said as follows: "They always do so. Sit ye in silence," he said. "An eagle goes to you!" said they (the villagers). "Command ye the Rabbit's son to appear," they said. Ictinike came in sight. It passed directly above him. He shot at it and missed it. This other one (the Rabbit's son) came in sight. When he had been in sight a very great while, it (the eagle) went circling around at the very center of the tribal circle. When he shot at it with force, he killed it. "Wuhu! he killed it. Why! that one is the Rabbit's son," they said (or, that one ought to be the Rabbit's son). When they reached the place where it was killed, a fine feather had fallen. He took it. "Put that away," said he, meaning the woman (i. e., as the one he addressed). All the men contended for the eagle. On the morrow it was day. "Look at the feather which you put away," said he. She looked at it. She said, "Oh!" She spoke in wonder. "This is the whole eagle," said she. "Take it to the venerable man (your father)," said he. And she took it to him. On the following day, they said, "An eagle goes to you! Command ye the Rabbit's son to appear." Ictinike came in sight. It passed directly above him. He shot at it and missed it. This other one came in sight. When he had been in sight a very great while, it went circling around at the very center of the tribal circle. When he shot at it with force, he killed it. "Wuhu! he killed it. Why, that one is the Rabbit's son!" said they. When they reached the place where it was killed, a fine feather had fallen. He took it. "Put that away," said he. On the morrow it was day. "Look at the feather which you put away," said he. She looked at it. She said, "Oh!" She spoke in wonder. "This is the whole eagle," said she. "Take it to the venerable man," said he. And she took it to him. On the following day they said, "An eagle goes to you! Command ye the Rabbit's son to appear." Ictinike came in sight. It passed directly over him. He shot at it and missed it. This other one came in sight. When he had been in sight a very great while, it went circling around at the very center of the tribal circle. When he shot at it with force, he killed it. "Wuhu! he killed it. Why, that one is the Rabbit's son!" said they. When they reached the place where it was killed, a fine feather had fallen. He took it. "Put that away," said he. On the following morning it was day. "Look at the feather which you put away," said he. She looked at it. She said, "Oh!" She spoke in wonder. "This is the whole eagle," she said. "Take it to the venerable man," said he. And she took it to him. And he (the Rabbit) said, "Well! Let the venerable man employ some persons to bring the drums hither for me." And on that day Ictinike had put on a very bad and worn-out piece of an old tent-skin. And he had worn the clothing of the Rabbit's son, but he was about to give it back to him. And he kicked off all (i. e., the Rabbit kicked off what he had on, Ictinike's former clothing.) "Take that your own again in order to wear it," said the Rabbit's son. And he gave it to him. The Rabbit took that, his own. Having put it on, he stood in his own (clothing), he also put on (his) moccasins. And the Rabbit's son having caused them to beat the drums, sent Ictinike up high in the air. And when he reached a distant point, he caused him to come back falling thence. And Ictinike died by falling.

TRANSLATION.

SiŦemakaⁿ dwelt alone in a lodge with his grandmother. It came to pass that three women were going (along). "O SiŦemakaⁿ," said they, "we are going to hoe (our ground)." "Oh! first daughter, this one lies sick and he is nearly dead to me," said his grandmother. "If you doubt it, look at him as he is lying." When they saw him, just so was he lying, turning himself by the edge of the ashes. SiŦemakaⁿ lay crying, "Haⁿ! haⁿ! haⁿ!" The three women saw him. "Oh! husband's sister, the old woman told the exact truth. He lies very nearly dead," said one. The three women departed. They left him. When they went and left him, SiŦemakaⁿ arose suddenly. "Grandmother, hand to me that spotted fawn-skin bag," he said. She tossed it to him suddenly. SiŦemakaⁿ stood in the whole of it, he became a deer. He made an arrow sticking right in the middle of his side; he made his mouth bloody. So he went running. He reached the women who were hoeing. The women went along hoeing beans. "Oh! brother's wife, this deer is coming badly wounded," said one. They went along with it. And all the women chased it. Having gone along with it, they hit at it and missed it, the weapon striking in the air. So he took them to a very great distance. Going around them, SiŦemakaⁿ was returning. Having returned he pulled off his sack at the feet, and collecting the beans he put them in the sack. Putting it on his back suddenly, he went homeward to his grandmother, who was near by. He carried it home to his grandmother. "Grandmother, put this sack in a hiding-place," said he. She plunged it suddenly under the grass at the side of the lodge; she put it away and hid it. And the three women returned "Why! old woman, your grandchild was coming back hither carrying away from us all the beans that we had been hoeing for ourselves," they said. "Oh! first daughter, it is not so at all. This one lying sick continues just as you saw him," said she. When they saw him they said, "Oh! brother's wife, she told the exact truth. He lies very nearly dead." The women went homeward. "Grandmother, come, cook them," said he. He ate them with her. "Grandmother, I will go traveling," said he. Having taken his bow he departed. All at once he arrived at the very good and deep siduhi (deep grass). He became round, lying curled up in the grass. All at once he went homeward. Having reached home, he sat pretending to be crying. "Why do you cry?" said his grandmother. "Yes, grandmother, I am selected for a deed, but it is very difficult," said he. "If anything is difficult, still you will tell it," said she. "Grandmother, I am selected for a dance. But, grandmother, I must take you with me to sing the chorus," said he. "Let us go where the difficult thing is," said the old woman. When they arrived there he said, "Grandmother, this is it, but they have finished dancing and gone homeward." All at once he took his little bow and danced. His grandmother (sitting) sang the chorus. He made sport of (deceived) his grandmother.

NOTES.

Some say that it was the Orphan or Siçemakaⁿ who caught the turkeys with the assistance of his grandmother, and that Ictinike killed a bear and roasted it, not the turkeys. The çehuqcabe shows this, as turkeys have none.—(L. Sanssouci.) The following version of Siçemakaⁿ and the Turkeys is probably of Oto origin. The Dakota version of this myth makes Ũñktomi, the mythical Spider, play the part of Ictinike (see Iapi Oaye for December, 1880).

SIÇEMAKAⁿ AND THE TURKEYS.

[Told by Susanne LaFlèche.]

Once there was a young man, named Siçemakaⁿ, who lived with his grandmother. And she told him to get something to eat. "Well, I will get some food, grandmother," said he, "if you will have the fire ready." So he took his bow and arrows, and also a bag filled with grass. By and by he saw some Turkeys. "Ho! Siçemakaⁿ, what have you in your bag?" said they. "I have songs." "Sing us some," said the Turkeys. "Come and dance for me, and I will sing for you," said he. "But, while dancing, it will be necessary for you to keep your eyes closed; for if any of you open your eyes, all of you shall have red eyes." And he commenced to sing:

He! wa-da^{n'}-be ɕiñ-ké ɕaⁿ, I-etcá-ji-de! I-etcá-ji-de! In'-be ɕi-a^{n'}- dje! In' - be ci - a^{n'}-dje!

“Beware! he who has seen,
Eyes red! Eyes red!
Spread your tails! Spread your tails!”

The Turkeys danced while he sang this over and over; and as they danced, he grabbed first one and then another, putting them into his game-bag. But one Turkey, suspecting something wrong, opened one eye and cried out, "He is killing us all." Then the surviving Turkeys flew away. The youth took the sack home, and said: "Grandmother, now I have something. Keep the bag while I go out and get some water." But the old woman's curiosity proving too great, she opened the bag, and all the Turkeys but one got away. The old woman, who was blind, held the Turkey by both legs. When the young man returned, she called out, "Come quickly and help me. I have two of them." The young man was angry, and reproved her, not allowing her to eat any of the Turkey. And from that time Turkeys have had red eyes.

62, 7. pahañga hi ama, etc. The Wolves agreed among themselves that whoever was the first to reach the place, could eat the "qehuqabe icabetaⁿ."

62, 13. egiçe xeqaŋga, etc. White Eagle's (Ponka) version of this myth tells how Ictinike caught the Big Turtle. "When Ictinike saw the Big Turtle, he drew back very quietly, and went to a little distance. Then he raised his voice, and called to the Big Turtle. 'Ho, you over there!' 'What is the matter, venerable man?' said the Turtle. 'You are in great danger,' said Ictinike. 'The Wakanda have determined to make a great flood, and the ground will be covered, and you will be drowned.' 'But I can live in the water,' said the Turtle. 'But I tell you that there will be great danger this time for you,' said Ictinike. 'This time you cannot live in the water.' At length, after much talking, Ictinike persuaded the Turtle to leave the place where he was near the water, and to go to the hills. Ictinike went ahead and hid himself in a ravine. And when the Turtle came crawling along after a while, Ictinike hit him on the head with a stick as he came up the hill, and killed him."

62, 19. nikāciⁿga wiⁿ. The person who stole the turtle meat was Mixasi, the Coyote, according to the Omaha and Ponka versions; but the Dakota version makes him Dokciⁿtea, the Mink. White Eagle says that Ictinike found out who was the thief, and when he met him, he punished him—cum eo coit.

63, 4. té-ana. Te is the classifier tě, which is lengthened in such expressions.

63, 5. wanadugeqti ke is the Omaha pronunciation of the Oto waqáoxě'qteci ke, the equivalent of the Omaha nindeqtiaⁿ hă. This points to a Łowi original.

64, 19. skéwaⁿqti, etc. "I was saying, 'A bunch of weeds was always there, and deceived them.'"—(Sanssouci.)

65, 1. agudi čiqupa gidaⁿba-gă. See for your grandchild where it (the danger) is.—(Sanssouci.)

65, 7. ačⁱn kě ádačage gaⁿ uhá-biama. The ridge was of a curvilinear form. The men were in ambush all around, and Ictinike led the Elk all around inside the line of ambush.

TRANSLATION.

There were some Turkeys, a great many. They were feeding on the very high edge of the ground among the arrow-weeds. Ictinike went thither. Having discovered them, he bent his head at once, and was coming back again (to the place whence he had started). "How shall I do in order to eat them?" he thought. And he made a decision. Immediately he rolled up a raccoon-skin robe several times, making it a pack for carrying something. He carried it on his back, and ran at once. As he ran, he passed very close by the Turkeys who were feeding. "Wuhu+! Something is the matter with the old man. See him," said the Turkeys. "Why! venerable man, what is the matter?" said they. "Yes, it is just so," said Ictinike. "Some villagers having said that I was to sing dance-songs for them, and having come after me, I have been carrying my songs (on my back)," said he. "Oho! venerable man, we too will dance a little," said the Turkeys. "No, I go in a very great hurry," said Ictinike. "We too, venerable man, will dance a little, and then you can go," said the Turkeys. "Wuhu+! what a bother! I was in very much of a hurry, but if you wish to dance, you shall do it," said Ictinike. "Well! Come, let us see! Come hither in a body," said Ictinike. And they came in a body. And he pulled open the robe. "Turn in your course and go around me. Ye very large ones who are moving along, pass very close to me as ye go dancing around me. Shut your eyes. Beware lest you open your eyes, and your eyes become red," said Ictinike. "Lift your tails erect, and spread them out repeatedly (by opening and closing). Well! Come, dance ye," he said. Then he sang: "Alas for the gazer! His eyes shall be red! His eyes shall be red! Flirt up your tails! Flirt up your tails!" Having caught hold of the very large ones, and having twisted off their heads in succession, Ictinike sat filling the bag. The bag he filled that high; he filled it very full. A small half-grown Turkey was about to comprehend (the situation as he moved along), he walked with his eyes open a little now and then. "He is destroying the largest ones among us. There is cause for anger! It is Ictinike who is standing (here), but (we did not recognize him)," he said. "K'ü!" They went fleeing. "Ha! ha! How easy it is to fill myself to repletion," said Ictinike. He laughed till he panted excessively. He bound up the bag. And he cut sticks (as) roasting-sticks. He put them (the birds) to roast all around the fire. When they were almost done, the branch of a tree raised by the wind, said, "I!" "I am roasting them on account of my eating. Why do you cluck at me?" said Ictinike. "If you do this any more, I will go to you and hit you." When he arrived there (up the tree) he thrust in his arm several times. And it closed on his hands. "Friend, I wished to jest, so those things (I did and said). Friend, let me go," said he. And it continued so without letting him go. "Ho!! those yonder! I put my own pieces there for safety. Go ye further off!" said he, referring to the Big Wolves. "Ictinike says that he has put the pieces away for safety," said they (the Wolves). They promised that those who should be the first to arrive were to eat the fat wrapped around the stomach. They went dashing towards it. They went suddenly, running a race. Having arrived there, they bit it. They swallowed it. Having swallowed it, they departed in different directions. And what closed on (Ictinike) opened itself. And having reached home at the bottom again, Ictinike was soon sitting and putting down the sticks as he licked them. He departed and walked along the shores of a row of round lakes. It happened that a big turtle was sitting there, by the shore of the lake. He took it, catching hold of the tail. He took it off to one side. "I will make myself full in a while!" said he. He broke wood (branches?) again. He piled up the wood very high, and put it in (the fire). He made the fire burn very fast. And he put the big turtle very quickly into the ashes. He put it in to bake, and he was about to eat it. When it was nearly done, Ictinike was sleepy. "I am sleepy. When it is cooked, you shall awaken me, O ane," said he. He slept. While he slept a person arrived there. The person took the big turtle, and ate it. When he had swallowed it, immediately he took the feet and thrust them (in their places) against the turtle-shell. He made Ictinike's hands very greasy for him; he also made his mouth very much smeared with grease. The person departed. Ictinike awoke. He arose suddenly. "What I roasted for myself is cooked too much for me!" he said. He pulled out the feet and they were coming to him. "It is done," said he. "Why! I wonder if I have eaten mine," he said. "Why! I must have swallowed it and then slept." Having looked at his hands, he said, "Yes, I have swallowed my own." He felt his stomach lengthwise (that is, running the hand all along it). "Yes, I am very full indeed after eating," said he. When he departed, it came to pass that there were a great number of Elk. Having peeped, Ictinike discovered them. "Stop! I will tempt these!" he thought. The Elk having discovered him, said, "This one is Ictinike." "Friend younger brother, it is I. Friend younger brother," said Ictinike, "I wish to live just as you do." "Well, venerable man, there is no reason at all for this!" said one. "When the vegetation consists of bitter weeds, I eat straight along as I walk (rejecting none). How is it possible for your heart to feel good when you eat them?" "Not so, friend younger brother, I wish to live with you just as you do," said Ictinike. "Though you will have your way, you shall seek a path for our children, as you understand the ways of the Indians," said they. "Yes, I will do as you say," said Ictinike. "Come, Pronged-horns, do you be the one," said they. "Well," said he, "come, stand with your face the other way (with your back to me)." When he went to hit him on the side, he failed, as Ictinike fled. "Wuhu+! truly nothing is there to be done, venerable man," said he. "O no, friend younger brother, I fled as I feared that he would run over me," said Ictinike. Again it was done so four times. The fourth time the Elk said, "When this (is over) I will stop." "Yes, friend younger brother, I will not flee," said Ictinike. When he hit him on the side, he went with him, just like him; Ictinike had become an Elk. As he was proud, he walked making light steps, he walked pretending to discover men. He kept on crying, "I!" "Do behave, venerable man. Beware lest you do that regularly," said the Elk. "O no, friend younger brother, it is all right because I am proud," said Ictinike. "Friend younger brother, I am now living just as I desire." And eating as he went he spit out the bitter ones in large pieces; he was constantly spitting them out. "Wă! I have joined those who eat very bad food," said he. "Wă! venerable man, what were you saying?" said they. "I said nothing. I was saying 'I have joined those who eat good food,'" said he. At length when they went over a hill with a very flat top, the Elk discovered men. "I!" said they. "Come, Ictinike, look at it (the danger) for him (your grandchild)," said they. When he went thither, behold, they were men. He arrived there. "You shall go home and say that he is coming with them," said Ictinike, telling the men in a whisper. "Wă! venerable man, what are you saying?" said the Elk. "What is the matter? What should I say? I was saying as I walked, 'A clump of weeds which was there a very long time, gave them needless trouble (or, deceived them—Sanssouci),' " said he. At length, when they went over a flat-top hill, an Elk was coming back again fleeing. "Well, Ictinike, see for your grandchild where it is," said they. When he arrived there, behold, they were men. Said he, "He told the truth, indeed, when he said he found men." Again, one discovered them in another direction (or, elsewhere). "Well, again see for your grandchild (where the danger is)," they said. He went thither. Again they were men, who were crawling up on the Elk. Again he said, "He told the exact truth." "Come, Ictinike, look out for your children a path (by which they may escape)," said they. "Well," said he, "though I am ahead, beware lest you scatter. You must walk following me in the manner that I walk." He followed the headlands of the ridge. He went passing close by the men who were standing thick. "It is I! it is I!" said Ictinike, as he walked. They killed all (of the Elk). Three Elk remained after the shooting, and they took refuge with Ictinike. And he soon pulled off the horns, throwing them away, and hitting the Elk with them. "You shall be called Aⁿpaⁿ, Elk. Walk away," said he.

NOTES.

70, 17. učáde čičiñge, "You have nothing to talk about"—Joseph La Flèche; "You have no cause for complaint"—Sanssouci; syn., égičáji eté xī, "You ought not to say it to (any one)"—Mary La Flèche; "It were good for you to say nothing to any one."

70, 18. číedaⁿ, etc. Ictinike thought that they would not allow him to join them. So he implored them, using číedaⁿ in his entreaty: "If you are unwilling, do not say it. Do you stop speaking. Refuse me no longer."

71, 6. piájjičiči-qtei, etc. The literal meaning is the opposite of the real one. So wačate pěji-qtei, is "very good food;" and wáčaha pěji-qtei, "very good clothing."

71, 8. ahau and hau are often used as catch-words or continuatives.

71, 9. naxídewačəčě (given by Hupečəⁿ), "You make them have inner ears," "You teach them to use their ears so as to detect the presence or approach of danger;" but Joseph La Flèche gave náxičawačəčě, "You annoy or alarm them": "We tell you one thing lest you alarm the children."

71, 10. biⁿzé, syn., xaxage, to cry out as a child, or as the young of the elk or coyote. This cry, according to Hupečəⁿ, is i-ú; Joseph La Flèche gave uⁿ, said through the nose, with the rising inflection; and ɬəɬiⁿ-naⁿpajĩ gave in the preceding myth, 'iⁿ.

72, 4. kégañ-gă (kě, égañ-gă) "Come, do it."

72, 5. ɬié-gă, "Be thou he," imperative of ɬie, thou; syn., ɬi pahañ'ga-gă, "Be thou the foremost, the leader"—Joseph La Flèche.

72, 8. wena'úqtci, ɬəiwere, winaq'axe, to go near in one's course, to pass alongside of them.

TRANSLATION.

"My friend, there are some persons in that place. I wish to go thither," said Ictinike. Well, he went. When he went, it happened that a Male-elk was (sitting) there. Well, he talked with him. "My friend, I have come to question you," said Ictinike. And the Male-elk said, "What will you ask me? My friend, I sit tired in my legs, therefore I do not go anywhere at all." "My friend, persons are accustomed to enjoyment. Why do you not walk?" said Ictinike. "Yes, my friend, the woman whom I married formerly having been taken from me, my heart has no enjoyment, and I sit here," said the Elk. "My friend, let us two go thither," said Ictinike. "My friend, do you go thither by yourself," said the Male-elk. "My friend, where are they?" said Ictinike. "My friend, they are at this place (near by). Go thither," said the Male-elk. Well, Ictinike departed. And there were a great many Elk (in motion) there. He arrived there. "Venerable man, what may be your business?" said the Elk. "Yes, my grandchildren, I have been desiring to eat the food which you eat for one day; therefore, my grandchildren, I have come," said he. "Why! O venerable man, our food is difficult. We eat all bitter things as we go; besides, when it is cold we sit facing the wind," said they. "Ho! O venerable man, you have nothing to talk about. Enough. Stop talking." "No, my grandchildren, you (have said) enough. Do you stop talking. (Notwithstanding what you have said) I wish to live as you live," said Ictinike. "Ho! he may be telling the truth" (said the Elk). They made horns for him of a small oak. They made him a tail of the root. "Well, my grandchildren, when it is cold, I may freeze (if I am) so. Make for me hair like yours," said he. Well, they made hair for him out of cat's-tails (Typha latifolia). "Ho! come, eat these rosin-weeds," they said. Ictinike ate them. When he ate them they were bitter in the mouth, and he spit them out. "Psha! I have joined the eaters of very bad things," he said. "Ho! venerable man, what have you been saying?" they said. "What indeed could I say? I said, 'I have joined the eaters of very good food,' my grandchildren," said Ictinike. "Ho! venerable man, one custom we will tell you. You shall cause the children to use their ears (aright), therefore we will tell you one custom," said they. "Ho! venerable man, when these discover men, and it is just so, they cry out." "Oho!" said he, "it shall be so indeed." It became cold. The wind blew, and it was very cold. All the Elk walked facing the wind. Ictinike walked apart from them, facing the wind. He turned himself with the wind (with his back to it). "Psha! it is very bad!" he said. Well, after going awhile, Ictinike discovered men. "I-u! look ye for him! Look ye for him!" said he. All the Elk raised their heads suddenly. "What is the matter?" said they. "This one is a man," said Ictinike. When they looked at it, behold, it had suddenly become grass. "You mean that?" said they. "Yes," he said. "Ho! venerable man, beware lest you continue doing thus," said the Elk. "When it is just so, only so is it," he said. Again they were grazing as they walked together. And it happened that Ictinike discovered men again. "Look ye for him," said he. When the Elk looked at it, it was just so; they were men, and they were peeping. "Well, it was just so," said the Elk. "Seek a way of flight for the children," said they. "Let me be the one," said Ictinike. "Indeed, he speaks truly!" said the Elk. "Ho! come, do it. You shall be the one (to go ahead). Seek a path for the children," said they. "Oho! I will attempt it," said Ictinike. Ictinike went. All the Elk followed him. And as Ictinike went he discovered men. He went thither. He passed right alongside of the men. When he discovered the men he talked with them. "Do not shoot at me; it is I," said Ictinike. They shot at the Elk. They killed the Elk. They shot down all the Elk; they exterminated them. One small Male-elk, and one small Female-elk, Ictinike being the third, were alive. Fleeing with them, he reached a place at a very great distance (from the place of slaughter). When he arrived, he took the horns and threw them away. Having commanded the young Elk to depart, he said, "Why do you follow me? I will cut up for myself a piece of fresh meat. Walk further off. You shall be called Aⁿpaⁿ" (Elk). The End.

NOTES.

The Oto version of this myth, given by J. La Flèche, will appear hereafter in "The Iowere Language, Part I."

75, 2. maⁿçin tegaⁿ caⁿcaⁿ bçin hă. If tegaⁿ be inseparable, the meaning of it is "in order that, in order to;" and the whole phrase can be rendered: "I am always so, in order to go." But if tegaⁿ be a contraction of tẽ and égaⁿ, it must be translated by "I always go so." In this case, égaⁿ-caⁿcaⁿ means "so forever, so always."

75, 4. qçaqti and hegactěwaⁿjĩ, pronounced qça+qti, and he+gactěwaⁿjĩ.

75, 6. gaçaqi. This word shows that the wood was hard, and that it must have been winter. Had it been warm weather, gaçaci would have been used.

75, 7. weçě ti-biama. "Biama" refers to the thought of Ictinike, and must not be rendered "it is said."

75, 14. miça aka çañga-bi ai hě. She had perceived by the sense of hearing (taking direct cognizance) that he had said this, so she says "ai" instead of "a-biama." But she did not learn by direct cognizance that he was large, she learned it indirectly, so she says "çañga-bi," not "çañga."

76, 6. mahiⁿ pai aoniⁿ, "You have a sharp knife;" that is, his beak. Cf. the Winnebago name, Mahiⁿ-noⁿpa-ka, Two Knives, of the Bird Family (Foster), and the Çegiha, Máhiⁿ çĩn'ge, No Knife.

76, 18. aⁿpaⁿ kéde, an example of contraction and ellipsis. It is contracted from aⁿpaⁿ kě, éde, referring to the past doubts of the speaker. The full form would be, aⁿpaⁿ kéde-hnaⁿ ewéja çaⁿcti: "It was an Elk lying there, but I doubted it heretofore."

TRANSLATION.

It came to pass that Ictinike was going (somewhere). And a Buzzard kept flying around. And Ictinike wished to go to the other side of the great water. He prayed to the Buzzard: "Grandfather, carry me on your back. Carry me on your back to the other side of the water." "Yes," said the Buzzard. "I will carry you on my back." And then he carried him on his back. When he carried him on his back, he searched for a hollow tree. At length he found a hollow tree. When he carried him thither on his back, the Buzzard kept on passing close to the hollow tree and tipping his wing. As he went tipping his wing, Ictinike said, "O grandfather! you will be apt to make me fall." "This is the way in which I always go," said the Buzzard. At length, when he had twisted himself around, the Buzzard sent Ictinike down, down, into a hole (in the tree). And Ictinike, having been sent down headlong into the hollow tree, continued poor and very thin. And a great many lodges of a hunting party came thither. And it happened that when the women found a hollow tree, they hit the tree, making it give forth the sound "q̄aqi." And it happened that Ictinike sat inside the hollow tree, and he thought that people had come to get wood. And, as it happened, Ictinike had on some raccoon-skins. He made the tails appear in sight by thrusting them through the cracks of the hollow tree. And three women approached, and they struck the tree, making it give forth the sound "q̄aqi." And they saw the tails. And (one) said as follows: "Stop! O husband's sister! this is a lot of raccoons. I have found some raccoons for myself." "Oh! brother's wife! Will you please give me one?" said (another). Said she, "Let us cut a hole in the tree." At length they cut the tree, cutting a hole in it. It came to pass that Ictinike said as follows (in a hollow voice): "I am a big Raccoon. Make ye it large around." "Oh! brother's wife! the Raccoon says he is big," she said. And they made the hole in the hollow tree large around. And Ictinike came home again, in sight (i. e., into the open air, his native element). "Having a big raccoon, I come out to you, to my home (in the air)," said he. "Oh! brother's wife! it is Ictinike (in motion)," said (one). And Ictinike got out again into the air. "I who have been a big raccoon will go home to you. Stand further off!" said he. (And the women fled.) When he had come out again, he sat forming a plan. He sat thinking, "What ought I to do to get even with him?" He sat planning. Thought he, "If I pretend to be dead, only thus shall I be apt to accomplish it easily!" And after this he saw a Crow. And having seen the Crow, he saw a Magpie. And then he prayed to them. "O friends, pity me and help me," said he. "I will pretend to be dead. Help me and eat ye me." All the birds went thither, having been called. And the Eagle, too, went thither. The Crow said to him (meaning the Eagle), "Friend, you have a sharp knife. Cut him up for us." And the Eagle bit a hole in the skin on the rump. The fat was visible inside the ham. Said they, "It is the Elk; and he is very fat." And the Buzzard alone had not yet reached there. At length the Buzzard arrived. "Fie on you! It is Ictinike," said he. "No, my friend, hurry. Cut it with your knife. You have a sharp knife," said the Crow. "No, it is Ictinike," said the Buzzard. Before the Buzzard ate any, the Magpie entered, and went very far inside and ate the fat. The Buzzard went towards the head, and tried it. Having tried it, he bit the nostrils. Ictinike did not stir in the least. And when he bit the eye-lids, Ictinike lay without stirring at all. The Buzzard went towards the rump, and ate a piece of fat which was there. And at length the Buzzard bit off a piece of fat that was there by the edge of the hole. It came to pass that he said, "The truth was told. It is the Elk lying here, but (I doubted it at first)." At length, having entered, he went very far inside, and bit off a piece of fat. When he entered the second time, Ictinike squeezed him and stood upright. "As you have injured me, so will I do to you," said Ictinike. "O friend, let me go," said the Buzzard. "Yes, I will not let you go for a long time," said Ictinike. And when he let him go suddenly, the Buzzard had no feathers at all on his head on account of their having been stripped off. Therefore, the buzzard has no feathers on his head; it is very red. The End.

TRANSLATION.

There were four brothers. Their sister was the fifth (child). The four brothers were very good marksmen. And their sister used to make the animals come by calling. And the woman prized her brothers. "Come, elder brother, comb my hair for me." And he combed it for her; he combed it very smooth for her. He made a scaffold for her, and he put her on it. And all of them stood in readiness, having bows sufficient for (every one). And the woman called, and called again. When the third time came, a dust from trampling the ground was visible. "Elder brother, exert yourself. They are coming," said she. At the fourth time they had come in sight. And Ictinike stood there. And the animals came—all of them, the Buffalo, the Elk, the Deer—in short, they were all there. And just so they stood killing them. And they made an end of it. And they dwelt with plenty to eat. At length the provisions were decreasing. And all her brothers spoke of going hunting. And her eldest brother said, "Though a person shall come hither, no matter what he says, beware lest you do it for him." "Elder brother, I will not be so," said she. Having prepared some provisions for their sister, they departed and left her. When they had gone, Ictinike came, having a bow of hard willow, and a quiver full of reeds. "Second-daughter, you will please do for me whatsoever I say. Pity me, your relation, my grandchild." "No, grandfather, I am unwilling," said the woman. "No, my grandchild, pity me. I have finished these new arrows for myself, and I wish to try them. You are used to calling the animals, they say. So do." The woman was unwilling, but still he did not stop talking. At length the woman let him have his way. "Let us see! Comb my hair for me," said the woman. Ictinike combed it for her. Having even painted her (face and head) he finished it for her. He made her sit on the scaffold which had been made for her. And the woman said, "They generally come when I have called the fourth time." "Let us see! Call," said Ictinike. And the woman called. When she had called the third time, a dust from trampling the ground was visible. "Oh! they are coming, grandfather. Make an effort." At the fourth time they came in sight. At length they came. Ictinike shot at them. He shot at them with arrows made of rushes that went wabbling. "Why!" said Ictinike. And so he shot at them, missing them continually. At length he shot all out of the quiver. It happened at the very last that a very large Male-elk came. He pushed over the scaffold. He went homeward carrying the woman in the space between his horns. And at length her brothers reached home. They reached home when their sister was not there. Though they went all around seeking her, they did not find her. It came to pass that the youngest one went to seek her, making a very short cut across the country. He reached a very large hill. And he sat there. After he sat there a great while, he lay down there. It happened that he heard a woman crying. When he looked around, neither man nor woman was visible. Yet he was looking around, thinking "Which can it be?" And when he lay down again, he heard the crying again. At length he recognized the voice of his sister. Forthwith he ran home very speedily. When he reached home, he told his elder brothers. "Elder brothers, I have heard my sister crying. I have found her and have come home." "Ho! come, let us go to the place where she may be," said they. And they went thither. And they reached the land. "It is here," said their younger brother. "Come, listen to it." And all listened to it. "Yes, he has taken your sister home into the ground, but how shall we do to get her back?" said they. "Well, elder brother, do what may be in your mind," said the youngest one. The eldest one having said, "My grandfather said that I should do thus when I got into trouble of this sort," he hit the ground with a club that he had been carrying. And he barely made a small crack. "Ho! come, do so," he said, meaning the next brother. Having said "My grandfather said that I should do thus when I got into trouble of this sort," he hit the ground with a club that he had been carrying. And he barely made a crack. And the third did so. The youngest having said, "My grandfather said that I should do thus when I got into trouble of this sort," he hit the ground with a club which he had been carrying. And the hill split suddenly in two from top to bottom. And it happened that by their blows they made all the animals appear. And behold, their sister had been made into a door: having been tied by her arms on both sides, she had been hung up. "You and your elder brothers spare a male and female of each kind," said the eldest brother to the rest. And they stood shooting them. And they gave names to those which remained after the shooting. At length they exterminated them. They took their sister back to. The End.

Nudaⁿ-axa said this myth was "first told by Indians living west of Nebraska."

83. 1. hegabajī, pronounced he+gabajī by Nudaⁿaxa.

84. 1. bęugaqti, pronounced bęu+gaqti by Nudaⁿaxa.

84. 9. ujañge taⁿ wačiona ačai tēdihi ří gaⁿ ři-biama. Though the people scattered and went in all directions to avoid pursuit, all had some idea of the location of the place of meeting. So the members of each party changed their course by and by, making a considerable detour. And whenever any party came across the trail of others, leading in the right direction, they kept in it for the rest of the way, pitching their tents in it.

84. 9. đazěqtcī, pronounced đa+zěqtcī by Nudaⁿaxa.

84. 19. egiçe bize ama. The arrow-shafts were wet when made.

85. 3. áma taⁿ ngče gčíⁿ tē. The text is given just as dictated by the narrator; but "taⁿ," which denotes a standing animate object, can hardly agree with the following verb. Hence the collector thinks that "číñké" ("the sitting animate object," or "the one sitting,") should have been used.

85. 6. hegajī, pronounced he+gajī by Nudaⁿaxa.

85. 8. řahawagče itizi e ičačisande ačíⁿ-hnaⁿi. That is, the quivers of the foe; ičačisande refers to the quiver-straps.

85. 15. wahutaⁿčíⁿ, "the roaring weapon," generally means a gun; but here it is a synonym of "mande," a bow. See myth of the Orphan and the Water-monster with seven heads.

85. 16. wa'íñkičé nujiñga, etc. Those boys who remained at home took out ponies when they went to meet the hunters. And they aided them by putting the packs of meat on the ponies, and leading the latter back to the camp.

86. 9. gčeba-naⁿba ata-biama . . řiha gaxa-biama.—Each of these married men had a skin-tent of his own; but the unmarried ones dwelt in the communal lodges of their respective gentes.

87, 14. nu hniⁿ, wackaⁿ i-gă. Ictinike is asking a favor of the two young chiefs.

87, 17. wab ϕ ate tegaⁿ aⁿ ϕ a'i ϕ aⁿ teqi hă. This is a puzzling sentence to F. La Flèche, as well as to the collector. Ictinike asked a favor. They offered him a horse, which he refused, saying that he cared for nothing but a quiver and arrows. Perhaps he then reconsidered his decision, saying, "What you have offered me (a horse), in order that I might get my food, is precious," or "difficult to obtain." They assented to this. Then he made each of them a present of a hundred arrows in return for the horse. (?)

88, 3-6. Kĩ e gaxe ai . . e gaⁿze ake-biama ai. A parenthetical explanation of the origin of the war-custom of blackening the face.

88, 7. hegactěwaⁿjĩ, pronounced he+gactěwaⁿjĩ by Nudaⁿaxa.

89, 7. wa'u wiⁿ gaⁿ ϕ inke. Ictinike described the difference of features, hair, etc., as he did not know the names of the children.

89, 9. gaq ϕ aⁿ ϕ ikui. Ictinike pretended that the deserted children had sent an invitation to their parents.

89, 14. nikaciⁿga wiⁿ begi ϕ eqti ϕ iñke, á-biama. The "a-biama" should be omitted in translating, as "nikaciⁿga" is the object of the following verb, éna'aⁿ.

90, 6. kiupag ϕ e maⁿ ϕ iⁿ, equivalent to ubásnesne, refers to members of two parties meeting and intermingling, when distant from the spectator or speaker.

TRANSLATION.

A Grizzly-bear was the ruler of a tribe that was very populous. He pitched his tent in the very center of the tribal circle. The Grizzly-bear took an old man home, and said as follows: "Tell them to send all the children to play." And he sent them. "He says that you are to send the children to play!" said the crier. And all went to play. Having gone to play, the Grizzly-bear called the old man. "The children are troublesome to us. We sent them away in order to abandon them. Let them remove the camp," said he. He commanded them to remove. "He says that you are to remove!" said the old man. And they struck all their tents suddenly, and they made the horses carry them. All rode horses. They made no trail. Scattering, they fled; they fled from the children. As they were apprehensive that the children would follow in case the trail was plain, they scattered very much when they fled from them. They were caused to assemble when they reached a place far away. Therefore when they arrived where there was a road that went along plainly, (there) they pitched the tents. When it was very late in the afternoon (or, quite dusk), the players, having stopped, came in sight of the former camping-place. Behold, no one was there. The children made a great noise crying. All arrived at the old tent-sites. And the girls who were somewhat grown, went about finding awls that had been dropped, and deer-sinew also. And the boys that were related to each went together in their respective companies. Having placed the scattered bark around in a circle, they put grass on it, forming a lodge. They made the lodges large, and in five places. They were very full. At length it was winter. Two boys were grown. "Friend, let us two be together, and let us make arrows for ourselves," said one. They made bows first; each one finished a bow for himself. They made arrow-heads, a hundred in a lot. They made for themselves a sufficient quantity for each one to have. They made arrow-shafts. At length they were dry. They glued them on (they glued feathers on so as to stick). And the one next put the sharp pieces, the arrow-heads, in the ends of the arrow shafts; he finished a hundred. And then the one glued on the feathers, and again the other sat putting the arrow-heads in the ends of the shafts. They finished. And they slit a skin from one end to the other, for quivers. When each had finished making a quiver for himself, he filled it with arrows. And one said as follows: "My friend, let us go traveling." And they went. At length there were a great many lodges. They arrived there when it was dark. And they stole horses. These Indians hated each other, so they made shields. Those, too, the two boys stole; and with them they took the quivers and quiver-straps. And they went home. They also took the horses home; they took many from the foe. They reached home. And they gave just a sufficient number of ponies to the grown boys who were that tall (i. e., about four feet). And they gave the mares to the girls. And to the boys who were that high (i. e., about three feet), they gave colts. "Friend, it is enough," said one. And they went to no place; they were always at the place where they arrived when they had been abandoned at play. At length it was winter. It happened that the buffaloes came. And these two boys who had reached manhood had bows and quivers. And they attacked the buffaloes. Each one killed four of them. And they reached home, the boys who caused the ponies to carry the meat having gone thither to meet them. And as the people sat in equal numbers in the seven grass lodges which they made, the hunters followed the camp circle, distributing the fresh meat, and were coming back to the other end of the circle. And as they had killed a great many buffaloes, they gave a great quantity of fresh meat to every lodge. And they gave the skins equally, for beds; and they gave to the lodges equal shares of deer-sinew. And they went again to surround the buffaloes. And each (chief) killed six. Hence they were in good spirits. And they were very rich in fresh meat. And they gave again to those who had been left without green hides. It came to pass when it was summer, that two, three, or ten of the boys were grown by that time, and an equal number of the women were grown. And the two boys talked to each other. "Friend, alas! we are sufferers. Let us marry." And these two leading boys had two sisters. And each boy having given his sister to the other boy, they married them. And they caused the rest to marry one another. And that summer, all who were somewhat grown took wives, twenty-odd. And they alone made lodges, they made skin-lodges of buffalo hides; the rest who were not grown, dwelt in the lodges that were very full. At length they went on the war-path again. And both of these two boys who went before on the war-path, went again. And they took two hundred ponies from the foe, and brought them home. And they gave equal shares of the ponies to the grown boys; and so they gave ponies to the smaller boys. At length it was winter again. When it was winter, they shot at the buffaloes. All of the persons who had taken wives shot at them. And hence every one had a sufficiency of the beds which were given and of the deer-sinew, in fact, they caused them to have a sufficiency of all. And that winter they caused all the rest to marry one another. And after that there was nothing worthy of note. And it was summer. And they shot again at the buffaloes. All dwelt in upright lodges; they set up lodges, a hundred and seventy. Thus they dwelt. At length it was said, "We are attacked!" These two prepared themselves for battle. The lodges had been made for them in the very center. (The boys had said it to the people: "When ye make the circle, make ye lodges for us in the center.") At length they were attacked, as has been said. At length the horses' mouths were tied with lariats. Both went thither. They attacked the foe. The one took hold of one foe, and the other took hold of one; both took hold of them alive. And they scared them, driving them away. And the one killed one foe, and the other killed one. And they chased them even till night. "Come, let us stop," said both. And they reached home. Having cut off the hair of those whom they killed, they were in good spirits. The women danced around in a circle. And they danced continually for ten days. At length it was evening. "A visitor has come," was said. It happened to be Ictinike. "Where is the lodge of the principal head-man of this tribe?" said he. "This is it," said they. He arrived there. "I have come, my friends. Well, as you have been reported (=famous), I have been coming to hear you. And you are men. Be strong, my friends," said he. And one said, "O elder brother, I give you a horse." "No, younger brother," said Ictinike. He was unwilling. "I love only the quiver and arrows. It is difficult to get my food with what you have given me." "Yes," said they. And he said, "I will make arrows." He made two hundred arrows; he finished them. He gave them to both. "Elder brother, it is enough," said they. And they made Ictinike a police servant, one to go on errands, or to act as crier. And they were attacked. And Ictinike killed one; he took hold of him. Ictinike cut off part of his hair, and took it. He was accustomed to sing for the women-dancers. Ictinike made himself very black; he caused the fire-brands to go out, and rubbing them to powder, he blackened himself with it. And they now say that Ictinike was he who originated it. Of Indians hating one another, when one kills another, they ascribe the blame to Ictinike: as Ictinike blackened himself with charcoal, painting himself with charcoal when he killed a person, it is reported, they say, that he was the one who taught it. In the course of time different ones matured, and different lodges were set up, a great many; the children who had been abandoned were two thousand. At length Ictinike said as follows: "My younger brothers, I will go as a visitor." And they said, "Whither will you go?" "Yes," said he, "I will just go because I desire it." And they assembled the people. And these two grown boys who were head-men were questioned. Ictinike said, "Come, tell me who are the fathers of the boys who are grown." And each of the two grown ones said as follows: "My father is such a one" (describing his features, dress, etc.), having called his name. And the rest of them said as follows: "We do not know at all." Ictinike departed. And he slept each night in an uninhabited place. And when it was day, he walked throughout the day, he walked even till night, for four days. On the fifth day he arrived at the circle of tents. "Where is the lodge of the head-man?" said he. "Yonder it is," they said. He went thither. "A visitor has come!" said a man. And they said, "Come, do tell the news." The tents were standing very thick; they were put around in a circle. "Yes," said he, "some people were there; it may be that you abandoned some people." "Yes," said they, "we abandoned some people, some of our children. And the Grizzly-bear caused it for us; we feared him, so we did it to them." He said, "One of the two head-men is left-handed." And the chief said that he was his. "That is mine," said he. The mother cried when they told her about him. And the other one was the other chief's son. And he too said, "Such a one is mine." Ictinike said as follows: "One woman was such a one." (And so he described the others.) And when they heard of their own children, they made a great noise by crying. And Ictinike said, "In four days I will go home." And in so many days he went home. When he went home, he said as follows: "They have invited you to move your camp, and come to them. They hope that you may come in seven days." And they removed. And in seven days they had arrived very near. Ictinike reached home. He said as follows: "My younger brothers, I am sorrowful." "Yes, elder brother, you ought to tell me, whatever it may be," said one of the two. "Yes, when your father was head-man, he listened to the words of a total stranger and abandoned you, doing wrong. I pity you both." As he made the hearts of both pain by his words, they sat with bowed heads. Both sat thinking, "He tells the very truth!" It was night. The left-handed one had gone to call Ictinike. "Elder brother, be coming hither," said he. And he arrived there. "Yes," he said. "Begone for your younger brother," said the head-man. He said, on reaching the lodge of the other, "You will please go to your wife's brother." "Yes," said he. And he went thither. He arrived there. And the left-handed one said, "O sister's husband, my heart is sad on account of what my elder brother has spoken. Consider it." "Yes, it is so," said the other. And he said, "When they shall have come, let us do it." And it was day. Ictinike went to the bluff. At length he reached home. "My younger brothers, they who have moved their camp are coming," said he. They came and pitched their tents; they pitched their tents on both sides of a creek, the tribal circle extending over a large tract of land. And the people who knew their own children came and pitched their tents. And as each one continued to seek his child, they were constantly moving back and forth among themselves in the distance. And they arrived to invite the two boys to a feast. "The Grizzly-bear invites you," said they. They did not go. At length a woman arrived. "My sister's husband, you are invited," said she. "Come to the lodge," said he. And he made the woman sit in the lodge. At length a woman came. And she said to him, "My sister's husband, you are invited." "Come to the lodge," he said. And he caused the woman to sit in the lodge. And again he did not send her home (i. e., her, too, he did not send home). And at length, when some of the morning had passed, again came one, and said to him, "My sister's husband, you are invited." "Come to the lodge," said he. And he made the woman sit in the lodge. He who was invited was the left-handed one; and he made it a rule not to go. At length the fourth one came. "My sister's husband, you are invited," she said. "Come to the lodge," said he. And he made the woman sit in the lodge. And at length the Grizzly-bear came. "Your wife's sisters have come for you heretofore," said he. Ictinike sat, seeing him plainly; he did not love him. And the Grizzly-bear went home. At length the Grizzly bear came again. "My younger brother, cause your wife's sisters to be coming," said Ictinike. He had a sharp hoe, and he came in sight. And he said to the Grizzly-bear, "Begone." "Why! wherefore?" said the Grizzly-bear. "Yes, nevertheless begone," said Ictinike. At length his younger brothers came in sight. The left-handed one had a bow, and the other one came in sight, having a bow. "I give you your wife's sisters," said the Grizzly-bear, meaning the left-handed one. And the other one was coming with a rush. The Grizzly-bear went fleeing. And Ictinike rushed after him. He crushed his head in suddenly with a blow from the hoe. "Yu! yu!" said he. It is said that it is thus when they abuse a fallen foe. And they tied their horses. They exterminated those who came and pitched their tents, having come to see their children.

NOTES.

96, 1. For jaⁿt'e ke ama kě, L. Sanssouci read jaⁿt'e ke ama xĩ, which agrees with the Țwiwere, and makes sense. The additional "kě", if correct, is puzzling.

96, 2. kě'di ahí-biama. Ictinike reached the Colt that was lying down (kě refers to him, not to the Coyote, who was standing).

96, 7. Miḡasi aka (sub.: 1st third person); Ictinike taⁿ (1st ob., 2d third person); naⁿbe tě (2d ob., 3d third person); íkaⁿtaⁿ-biamá (predicate in the instrumental form); caṅge sінде kě (the instrument: 4th third person).

TRANSLATION.

When a two-year-old Colt lay sleeping, the Coyote was standing looking at him. Ictinike came to him. "Well, friend, as this was a dead Horse, we wished to drag him along and eat him; but we have not been able to move him. Help us," said the Coyote. "My friend, I will tie your hands to his tail; and when you pull, we will catch hold of his legs, and we will go along dragging him," said the Coyote. "Yes," said Ictinike. And he said, "Come, tie my hands for me." And the Coyote tied Ictinike by the hands to the Colt's tail, having made it very tight. When he finished, he said, "Come, my friend, pull on it." And Ictinike pulled on it. And the Colt awoke. He arose suddenly. He went off dragging him. He kept kicking at Ictinike; he kept Ictinike crying as he kicked him. The Coyote laughed till he panted for breath. And the Colt kicked Ictinike, sending him flying through the air. He kicked off very deep pieces of flesh. "And how shall I do to get even with him?" said Ictinike, referring to the Coyote. And on the following day Ictinike was eating a fish. And the Coyote came thither. "Oho! my friend, it is truly a pleasure," said the Coyote. "Yes, my friend, it is so," said Ictinike. "My friend, what were you doing when you caught the fish?" "My friend, I knocked a hole in the ice; and I sat with my tail put through the hole into the water. A fish bit me suddenly on the tail, and I caught it." "My friend, where was it?" said the Coyote. "My friend, yonder it is; but they bite at evening, when it is cold." When it was evening, it was very cold. "Come, my friend, let us go," said the Coyote. Ictinike having said, "Yes," they went. When they reached the ice, Ictinike knocked a hole in it. "Come, put your tail in the hole and sit," said Ictinike. And the Coyote sat with his tail through the hole and in the water. After some time he said, "My friend, it bites me." "My friend, they are small; when they are large, you shall catch them. Sit still," said Ictinike. After some time the ice commenced freezing over again. "My friend, again one of those bites me," said the Coyote. "My friend, sit still; they are all small," said Ictinike. "After a while the large ones will come." At length the ice froze over. "Now, my friend, one of those very large ones bites me," said the Coyote. "Now! Now! Pull! Pull!" said Ictinike. The Coyote pulled. Though he tried ever so hard, he only slipped on the ice. "Exert yourself; it is large," said Ictinike. "Help me," said the Coyote. "Take hold of my hands," said Ictinike. Having taken hold of his hands, he pulled with a great effort. "My friend, exert yourself; the fish is very large, therefore I think we shall fail." Having said, "Now!" they pulled with a very great effort. And the tail was suddenly pulled off altogether. The Coyote looked at his tail. "My friend, truly you have done me a wrong," said the Coyote. "My friend, you, too, have done a similar thing to me," said Ictinike. They went different ways. And the Coyote made a tail for himself out of twisted grass.

99, 13. ðaçiⁿjahe aⁿ aka ědi a-inajiⁿ-biama. The men of the village were playing there when the Coyote came in sight.

99, 14. a-iaçaça, from içaça, frequentative of içé. The Puma pranced a short distance, then walked, then pranced, and so on.

99, 16. inahiⁿ ě. Here and elsewhere "ě" is a contraction of "ahaⁿ."

100, 4. çañk, contraction from çañka.

100, 18. ikiçitaⁿtañga, etc. The Puma entered the lodge after the Coyote, whose place he took, deceiving the woman; then the Coyote returned; next, the Puma; and so on till daylight.

TRANSLATION.

There was a Puma and also a Coyote, only these two. They met each other. "My friend," said the Coyote, "I will speak to you about one thing of which I have been thinking." There was a very populous tribe. "My friend, please do just what I speak to you about." "Yes," said the Puma. "They have been wishing to get the chief's daughter, but they have always failed; but I desire her. My friend, you will act the horse, and I will ride on you," said the Coyote. And he put the bridle on the Puma. And the Coyote sat on him. "My friend, please desire to act well, and to show your skill. Practice the actions of a horse such as prancing, jumping, arching the neck, champing the bit, walking, and also jumping high. And I will draw on large leggings; I will put on blackened moccasins; I will wear a winter robe with the hair outside; I will have an Osage-orange bow; and I will fasten very white feathers on one end of the bow. And I will ride you around the village when we come near it," said the Coyote. He approached and stood at the place where they were playing the game called "ðaçiⁿjahe." He continued sitting on the horse as it pranced, jumped, arched its neck, and went a little way at a time. "See, my friends, a person has come suddenly. Whew! a man has come, one whom we have never seen at all heretofore, a very different sort of a man from those we are accustomed to see! He is very well-dressed! He has come on an excellent horse! Stop! recognize him if you can," said they. The Coyote had thoroughly disguised himself. They did not think that he was the Coyote. They said as follows to him, "Well, why do you go?" "Yes," said he, "it is just so. I have come because I desire the chief's daughter." And they went to tell him. "He says that he has come desiring your daughter. He is a very handsome man! The horse too is a very fine one!" said they. "Come," said the chief, addressing his sons, "go for your sister's husband." They went for him. And they said "Come, sister's husband, I have come to invite you to go with us. We have come for you." "Yes, my wife's brothers," said the Coyote. Having mounted his horse, he pulled on the bridle very hard to make him jump, and the horse jumped as he went along. All the people stood at a distance, looking at him. "The man in motion is indeed well-dressed! Whatever sort of man he may be, he is truly well-dressed!" said they. Well, at length they reached home with him, at the house of the head-chief. "Ho! come, bring your sister's husband to me. Fasten his horse by those things. Give him hay," said the chief. "My wife's brothers, and also my wife's father, the horse does not eat hay," said the Coyote. "He eats nothing but fresh meat." And they went into the lodge. And he approached the woman whom they caused to marry him, and sat by her. And it was night. Said the chief, "O first-born daughter of the household, make a couch for your husband." Coitu completo, the Coyote said to her, "Mictum eo." And the Coyote went out of doors. He reached the Puma: "Amice, complevi; si cupias, coi," ait. Et alternatim faciebant, aiunt. Valde et usque a vespera ad mane coibant, aiunt. The chief assembled all his relations at daybreak. They collected all kinds whatsoever of goods, and took them to the lodge. They were firing guns, "Ku+! ku+!" The Coyote heard it and was afraid. "Ku+! ku+!" He leaped out of the door and had gone. "Why! It is the Coyote. Hit him! hit him! Kill him!" The Coyote valde et frequenter cacavit. The Puma stole off and went home. They killed the Coyote. They burnt him. He did wrong!

NOTES.

102, 5. ikiaěqti, from ikiae. Since the Buffaloes obtained their food without having to cultivate it, they fared better than men, in the estimation of the Coyote. Their food, grass, spread out very thick all over the surface of the ground. (See ukiae, ugae, aba'ě, etc., in the Dictionary.)

102, 5. wi^{n'}čak aqt ija^{n'} tada^{n'}, contracted from wi^{n'}čake aqta^{n'} ija^{n'} tada^{n'}, "You cannot mean what you say."

102, 8. egiče na^{n'}jin' čaa^{n'}he čin'he au. The word čin'he is used in strong commands or prohibitions. See myth of the Raccoons and the Crabs (Frank La Flèche's version), also that of Two-face and the Two Brothers; and inihe (binihe) in the Dictionary.

103, 4. a^{n'}čihaga učiciqti aha^{n'}: "He could not hurt me a little with his horns (but he would be sure to kill me, or else do me a serious injury)."

103, 20. peji ké nande-ima^{n'} hă. The idea is that although the Coyote had eaten enough to satisfy hunger, the grass was so good that he wished to eat all of it. He did not wish to leave any. He could not, in his opinion, eat too much.

104, 9. cečín' hau, said with the voice raised, the last word being emphasized.

105, 4. gat' ihe, contracted from gat'e ihe.

TRANSLATION.

Once a Coyote was going somewhere. And four Buffalo-bulls were grazing as they walked. And the Coyote went to them, and prayed to them: "O grandfather, and you my grandfathers also, pity me. I wish to live just as you are living." "Let this be the very last time that you speak it," said the Buffalo-bull. "No, grandfather, still pity me. You live by eating food that comes up abundantly, without your working for it; and I wish to live just so." "How can you be speaking the truth?" said the aged Buffalo-bull who was behind. Still the Coyote would not stop talking. "Oho! Blunt-horns, do you begin," said the aged Buffalo. "Oho!" said Blunt-horns. "Come, stand with your back to me," he said to the Coyote. "Beware lest you make even the slightest attempt to flee," said he. "Oh! grandfather! Oh! grandfather! grandfather Oh! why should I flee?" The blunt-horned Buffalo-bull kept backing, pawing the ground, and bellowing. He also thrust his horns into the ground, sending the pieces flying off in all directions. And the Coyote stood peeping at him out of one corner of his eye. "Whew! it would be impossible for him not to kill me, if he should touch me," thought the Coyote as he stood there. And he got altogether out of his way. When the Buffalo-bull was coming from his place to rush against him, the Coyote having gone aside, the Buffalo-bull went by without hitting him on the side. "Really!" said Blunt-horns, "I did think that you were speaking the truth; (but now I do not think so)." "No, grandfather, it happened so because I was afraid of you. Still, grandfather, pity me. As you are living, just so I wish to live." [Each Buffalo made an attempt, but the Coyote jumped aside every time. At last the aged Buffalo-bull said,] "Ho! Young Buffalo-bull, you begin." "Ho!" said the young Buffalo-bull. "Stand with your back to me. If you flee this time, I will kill you," said he. "Ho! grandfather, I will not flee," said the Coyote. And the Buffalo went backward by degrees, pawing the ground, bellowing, thrusting his horns into the soil, and throwing up the dust. And he was coming thence to rush on him. When he reached him, the Coyote did not flee. And he struck him on the side as he went, and the Coyote went with him, a young Buffalo-bull, just like him. And they departed together. And when they reached a certain land, they continued grazing. And the Coyote went eating grass of every sort. After moving a great while he invariably dropped in the rear. "What! fie! Do be faster," the aged Buffalo-bull kept saying to him. "No, grandfather, I cannot get too much of the grass, therefore I am holding myself back by eating," the Coyote kept saying. And they departed. And the Coyote continued walking behind. And they reached the top of a hill. And the four Buffalo-bulls went down to the bottom of the hill. The four Buffalo-bulls reached a certain land, and waited for him. "He has not come at all! It is good to wait for him," said they. And when they had waited for him a long time, he did not arrive. "Ho! Young Buffalo-bull, begone to seek him," said they. And saying "Oho!" the young Buffalo-bull went back. From that very place he went running. He got home to the land where the deed was done (i. e., where the Coyote was changed into a Buffalo). And, behold, the Coyote was not there at all. The young Buffalo-bull went back. It happened that the Coyote departed. When he departed, behold a Coyote was walking as if seeking for something. "O you in motion there! O wait!" said the young Buffalo-bull who had been a Coyote. "Do you wish to live in this way, just as I am living?" "Yes, elder brother," said the Coyote, "I wish to live just so." "Well, stand facing the other way," said the Buffalo-bull. "Yes, elder brother," said the Coyote. The young Buffalo-bull went backward, pawing the ground, thrusting his horns into the soil, and throwing up the dust. "Beware lest you make even the slightest attempt to flee." Thence he was coming back, as if to attack him. He had come and gone without hitting him on the side, as the Coyote had leaped far and had gone. When he had fled thus three times, the Coyote fled invariably (sic). When the fourth time came, the young Buffalo-bull said, "I will kill you." Thence he came rushing on him. It happened when he struck him on the side and passed on, that he departed with him a Coyote, just like him. "You have injured me very much. Begone!" said he. He departed to seek the Buffalo-bulls again. Having pursued them and overtaken them, he asked a favor of them again. "My grandfathers, pity me. A person has done me a very great wrong." "Ho! Young Buffalo-bull, you begin." "Ho! come, stand with your back to me," said the young Buffalo. "Beware lest you flee." "No, grandfather, why should I flee?" said the Coyote. Having gone, he was coming back to rush on him. When he got back he gored the Coyote, and threw him up high into the air; and he occasioned his death by the shock of the fall. The End.

NOTES.

This Çegiha version of the myth was told by Mrs. La Flèche, who also gave the corresponding Jwiwere, to be published hereafter in "The Jwiwere Language, Part I." 107, 1. WahaⁿΦicige, an orphan, syn., wahaⁿ'-çinⁿge: Jwiwere, woniⁿ'-qciñe.

107, 8. gečicaⁿ-qačicaⁿ, etc. J. La Flèche says it should read, "When he stopped dancing, he struck four of the chiefs who were in a line with the lodge, and broke in their heads."

107, 11. u'ude čečəⁿ skă. J. La Flèche says that the Rabbit passed through a small hole in the ground; but his wife told me that he found a small opening in the ranks of the men who surrounded him before the dance.

TRANSLATION.

Wahaⁿčicige lived with his grandmother. "O grandmother, let me go to the village." "Why! grandchild, they will maltreat you. Do not go." "No, grandmother, I will go at any rate." He went thither. He reached the village. "Ho! ho! the Rabbit has come." "Take him to the chiefs." "The Rabbit has come to see you," they said to the chiefs. "Come, bring him hither. Pass on to the middle. Assemble ye, and surround him." To the Rabbit the chiefs said, "Come, you shall dance." "Come," said he, "sing for me." "Come, Rabbit, as you are fat on the shoulder alone, you are one that cannot satisfy one's hunger." And as they sang for him, he danced. When he stopped dancing, he said, "I break in the skulls of four chiefs at one side." "He said, 'I will strike them and break in their skulls,'" exclaimed the bystanders. "Surround him. Cut off his retreat." He struck four chiefs and broke in their skulls. And he fled homeward. They did not overtake him. And as he fled homeward, he entered a hole this size (i. e., the size of a hen's egg) and went homeward. He got home to his grandmother. "Grandmother, give me a piece of iron," said he. And she said, "I have no iron at all; there is only this piece of a hide-scraper." "Let me have it," he said. And when he threw it suddenly through the door, he made it cover the lodge. And when his pursuers came up, he said to them, "How can you possibly kill me? Begone. You are standing for nothing." The End.

NOTES.

108, 1. wahutaⁿčíⁿ. See Notes on "Ictinike and the Deserted Children." Here it may be the bow, as the Orphan calls it maⁿ, an arrow. See the next version. The sword is the only other word in this version, which seems of foreign origin.

109, 6. čéčañke-i, probably intended for čéčañka éě hă, these are they.

109, 11. cínudaⁿ taⁿ, ama, i. e., cínudaⁿ ama taⁿ, "the other dog that is standing."

109, 13. gaⁿegaⁿtě-ctěwaⁿjí, from gaⁿegaⁿtě, a slight while, diminutive of gaⁿtě, a while; and ctěwaⁿjí (negative of ctěwaⁿ) not even. The dogs had gone not even a little while; they returned almost immediately: "they had gone no time."

109, 15. Iⁿě-čacije, peculiar to this version. Joseph La Flèche gives Ni-uha-maⁿčíⁿ instead of it; but the Ponka chiefs say that these names belong to different myths.

109, 18. gabčijě-qtī čéča-biamá. He knocked it down very suddenly, sending the splinters flying in all directions.

110, 8. ákie amaqa. The old woman did not live near the rest of the people; her lodge was far to one side.

110, 11. za'ęqtiaⁿ-biama, pronounced za+ęqtiaⁿ-biama by Frank La Flèche.

110, 12. écpaçaⁿhě is used; but ęcpaçaⁿhě is the better form.

110, 15. iaçe etai egaⁿ, etc.: "The monster is apt to open his mouth (and devour her), so the relations are condoling with her."

110, 16. t'ęę etai ęl, contraction from t'ęę etai ęł, they ought to kill him.

110, 20. içaⁿça-biçińkéama. They say that she had been put in a sitting posture, in which she remained till the Orphan found her.

111, 2-3. içaⁿaⁿçai atí ataⁿhe, "I have come hither, and am here now where they placed me." Ataⁿhe should not be translated literally ("I who stand"), but "I am now" (i. e., just at this moment); on the other hand açiⁿhe and mińke (from "çińke") denote a longer continuance.

111, 3. çickab egaⁿ, contraction from çicka-bi egaⁿ. See "çicke," in the Dictionary.

111, 13. ęęeze, literally, "buffalo-tongue." See "ęeze" and "ęęeze" in Dictionary.

111, 15. wage-sabě. Some say that this was Ictinike, who cheated the Orphan, and married the eldest daughter of the chief. He was not put to death at that time. The Orphan received the second daughter for his wife. The adventures of the Orphan in this variation are almost identical with those of the young Rabbit, pp. 50-54.

113, 2. Wahaⁿçicige aka e akedegaⁿ (aⁿçaⁿ'báhaⁿ-bájł ań'gataⁿ çan'ctł): "The Orphan was he who did it, but (we continued ignorant of it in the past)," an elliptical expression.

113, 3. e t'ęęa-bi ai, he said in our presence that he killed him.

TRANSLATION.

The Orphan had a bow (gun). Whatsoever bird he shot at with it, he never missed. And he went hunting. And he met a man who was with two dogs that were very white all over. And the man carried a sword on his arm. "My friend, what have you?" said the man. "My friend, I have an arrow," said the Orphan. "No matter what I shoot at with it, I never miss." "Let us see, my friend. Shoot at that thing," said the man, pointing at a very small bird that was sitting. And the Orphan shot at it and killed it. "My friend, truly do I love your weapon," said the man. "I will buy it from you." "My friend, I cannot spare it. What could you possibly give me?" said the Orphan. "I will give you these dogs and this sword," said the man. "Do the dogs scent game?" said the Orphan. "Yes, they scent them. No matter what animal one causes them to go for, they invariably bring it back, dragging it as they hold it with their teeth. And no matter what I hit with this sword, I always kill it with the blow," said the man. And the Orphan said, "Let us see. Make one of the dogs go after a deer." "Ho! Maⁿze-çaqan, go for a deer," said the man. The dog had gone headlong into a thicket. And scarcely any time had passed when he returned bringing a deer, which he made cry repeatedly by holding it in his mouth. "Let us see. Send the other one," said the Orphan. "Ho! Iⁿě-çacije, go for a black bear," said the man. The dog departed. And scarcely any time had elapsed when he returned with a black bear which he held with his mouth. "Let us see. Strike that tree with the sword," said the Orphan. When the man hit the tree with it, he knocked it down very suddenly. "I cannot spare the weapon, but still I will give it to you," said the Orphan. "I too cannot spare these dogs, but still I will give them to you," said the man. And he gave the dogs and the sword to the Orphan. And just then they separated. And the Orphan went home to his grandmother. And he reached home with the dogs. And his grandmother scolded him. And she said "All of the food is gone. Why have you brought those dogs home?" "Grandmother, as they are useful I bought them," said the Orphan. The old woman having said that there were no provisions, spoke of going to the lodges which were standing close together, to seek relief for herself. And they removed, and returned to the lodges standing close together. They camped far at one side (or, far apart from them). And the villagers pitched their tents by the shore of a large lake. And in the morning they made a very great noise crying. "Grandmother, why do they cry?" said the Orphan. "O grandchild, how is it possible that you did not hear?" said the old woman. "The Water-monster with seven heads has asked them for the chief's daughter. If they do not give her to him, he threatens to devour the whole tribe. Therefore, as he is apt to open his mouth, they (her relations) are condoling with her." "Whew!" said the Orphan. "At any rate, old woman, they ought to attack him and kill him." "Do not say that. The Water-monster with seven heads invariably hears, even when one says anything to another." "Old woman, I will go thither," said the Orphan. "I will cause the woman to come home." And the Orphan went thither. And the woman had been placed fastened by the shore of the stream. "Why are you here?" said the Orphan. "The Water-monster with seven heads asked for me; and if they did not give me to him, he threatened to swallow all the tribe. Therefore I have come hither, and am now where they placed me." And having untied her, he made her go home. "Though you shall go home, please do not tell about me, that I sent you home," said the Orphan. And the woman went home. "Come, Maⁿze-ŧaqaⁿ, go thither," said the Orphan. And the dog went headlong into the water. Hardly any time had elapsed when the Water-monster came in sight to attack him. And the Orphan said, "Come, Iⁿ-ŧ-ŧaciŧe, go thither." And he commanded the dogs to attack him at the body. And the Orphan attacked the head. And whenever the Water-monster with seven heads moved, he made the whole lake move by his weight (i. e., all the water was agitated). He kept carrying the dogs with him far beneath the water. Hardly any time had elapsed when they came back in sight. At length the Orphan cut off one head. And the Orphan took the tongue. And when he had attacked the Water-monster four times, he killed him. And he took all of the tongues. And when he finished killing him, a black man was traveling along the shore of the water. And he found the heads. And he carried all the heads on his back, reaching his home at the lodge. And whenever the woman reached home, they invariably asked her, "Who sent you home?" Notwithstanding that, she always said, "I do not remember." And notwithstanding they desired to know who it was, they never knew. And the head-chief caused old men to go around as criers. The old men said, "The chief has said in our presence that whosoever it may be who caused the chief's daughter to come home, he can marry her." At length the black man said, "I am he. I killed the Water-monster with seven heads and sent the woman home." They reached home, and told the head-chief. "The black man is he," said they. "Bring my daughter's husband hither for me," said the head-chief. And the black man having carried all the heads on his back, he took them to the head-chief. And the chief questioned the woman: "Is this one he who sent you back?" "No, he is a very different one," said the woman. "I am he. I killed the Water-monster," said the black man. And the head-chief gave the woman to the black man. They cooked for the marriage. And all of the tribe were invited to the feast. And the Orphan heard it. He heard that the chief's daughter had been given to the black man. And he sat knowing when they laded the meat out of the kettles. He was sacred, so he sat knowing it. "Oho! Maⁿze-çaqⁿ, go thither. Bring back for me one of the best slices," said the Orphan. The dog departed. At the very time they were lading them eat out of the kettles, he went thither, and without stopping he snatched a slice and went homeward. "Pursue that one, whosoever the dog may be." They pursued him. He went homeward without stopping at all, and had gone right into the lodge of the Orphan. The pursuers continuing, arrived at the lodge. "A dog came back hither carrying something in his mouth, so I have come chasing him," said one. "Yes, I sent him to you," said the Orphan. "I killed the Water-monster that was. I took all the tongues. I had both these dogs with me." And they went homeward to tell it, "It was the Orphan, but we did not know it then. It was he who sent the dog hither after the slice of meat. And he said that he killed the Water-monster," said the men who had pursued the dog and arrived at the Orphan's. "Go ye for him," said the head-chief. And they went thither for him. And they brought him back. And the chief questioned the woman, "Is this one coming he who sent you back?" said the chief. "Yes, it is he," said the woman. "Come, confess ye," said the chief, addressing the Orphan and the black man. He commanded the Orphan to confess first. And the Orphan told his story. He told his story from the time he had the bow. He confessed even about buying the dogs. He acknowledged, too, that he had killed the Water-monster. "Come, black man, confess," said the Orphan. "Hold on! I wish to go outside," said the black man. "Take hold of him," said the Orphan. The black man did not tell the truth, therefore they burnt him. And thus, after all, the Orphan married the chief's daughter. The End.

NOTES.

Mrs. La Flèche says that a part of this myth is of French origin; this includes "the gun, paper, powder, shot, sword, table, and the white man's food for the marriage-feast." She agrees with others in considering the rest of the myth as of Indian origin.

Mr. Sanssouci, an Omaha half-caste and ex-interpreter, says that the man put the gun and paper where he knew the Orphan would be sure to find them. Yet in the myth itself it is said that the man knew not what the gun was.

TRANSLATION.

A boy went traveling. The boy was very poor; he continued wandering about without a lodge, without any kindred at all. And at length he suddenly found a small writing. When he found the writing, behold, it said, "I will give you a gun." And as he went he found the gun. And then he took the gun. And the boy having taken the gun, when he looked at the small writing, he was taught what the gun did. And the boy took the gun, and put in powder and shot. And having found a prairie-chicken, the boy shot at it, knocked it down, and killed it. The people (i. e., Indians) knew nothing at all about guns. And when he departed, he saw a deer. Having seen a deer he shot at it, and killed it. Then the boy thought, "Truly the gun is good!" And as he went, again he saw a deer. And having killed a deer, again the boy was very glad. Having thought, "Truly the gun is good," he was very glad. And at length he heard a person speaking. He was walking in very dense woods. He urged on his dogs suddenly. He said, "Hu! hu! hu! hu!" He made the dogs hunt game. And the boy, who was the Orphan, stood leaning against a tree, he stood hiding himself. As he feared to see the dogs, he stood holding his gun. And at length the dogs discovered the boy. And at length the man went thither and spoke to him. "Why do you have that?" He asked him about the gun, as he did not know what the gun was. And the boy said as follows, "When I see any animal, I kill it with it, and I always eat it, therefore I keep it." And the man said, "Let me see. Shoot at yonder standing prairie-chicken." When the boy shot at the prairie-chicken, he killed it. "Let me see! O friend, let me see your property. Hand the gun to me." And when the boy gave it to him, he looked at it and said, "Friend, you have indeed a good thing." And he said, "Stop, friend, teach me how to use it." He taught him. And when the man shot at a prairie-chicken, he killed it. "O, friend, I wish to buy the gun from you," said the man. And the boy was unwilling. "Nevertheless, I cannot spare it," said he. And the man said, "I will give you something better." "And what can you give me?" said the boy. The dogs were two. "I will give you both of these dogs," he said. And the boy said, "What can I do with the dogs?" Said he, "You can cause them to hunt for game." "Come, now, I wish to see. Command them to hunt." And the man called the dogs by name. "Here, Ni-uha-maⁿçiⁿ, go for a deer. Here, Maⁿze-çaq^a, go for a black bear." And Ni-uha-maⁿçiⁿ got back very soon with a deer; and Maⁿze-çaq^a soon returned with a black bear. And the boy loved the dogs, and he gave the gun to the other man. And the man gave the dogs to the boy. And the man said, "I have given you something very good. I give you a sword too." And the boy said, "I too have given you something good. Whatsoever animal I shot at with it, I killed, hence I had it." And the man said, "Teach me how to use the gun." And he taught him. He wished to know the ways of the gun. And the other said, "My friend, teach me about the dogs." Said he, "If you wish the dogs to do anything, call the dogs by name, and when you say, 'Do thus and so,' they will always do so." "And teach me about this sword too," he said. The other said, "If you get into any trouble, think of me, seize this sword, and threaten to strike with it (i. e., make the motion). Even if it should be the greatest possible difficulty, still it shall be so (and not otherwise)," said he. And they parted. When they parted, the boy went away with the dogs, and the other one carried the gun away. The boy came very near a tribe that was there. When he got very near, the boy commanded them to hunt rabbits. "Maⁿze-çaq^a and Ni-uha-maⁿçiⁿ, hunt for rabbits," said he. And when the dogs hunted for rabbits, they killed a great many rabbits. And the boy carried a great many rabbits on his back. And there was an old woman who pitched her tent far apart from the village. The boy went thither. When he arrived there he said, "Take those rabbits." "Oh! my grandson has come bringing rabbits to me!" she said. "Grandmother, first give one of the rabbits to each dog; you shall eat afterward." The old woman did so. At length the people, who dwelt in a very populous village near by, made a great noise by crying. And the boy said as follows: "Grandmother, why do they cry?" "Yes, the Water-monster with seven heads has spoken of swallowing the chief's daughter, and if he does not swallow the chief's daughter, he threatens to devour the whole tribe; so they will take her thither; therefore they cry," said she. And the boy said, "Grandmother, why do they not kill the Water-monster with seven heads?" "Oh! my grandchild, do not say it to any one. As he is sacred, if it be said to any one he invariably knows it," said she. "No matter if he does know it, grandmother, if he were killed it would be well," he said. At length the soldiers went to the Water-monster with seven heads, taking the chief's daughter. And the boy went thither. He did not join them; he went another way. When the soldiers had gone near with her, they sent the woman thither, they having stopped before reaching there. And the boy, the Orphan, reached the water's edge first; the boy arrived before her at the place of the Water-monster with seven heads. At length the woman arrived at the place where the boy stood. The boy had made for himself very good clothing; and he had the sword too. And he spoke to the (standing) woman: "Why have you come?" "Oh! fie! Is it possible that you have not heard it?" said the woman. "Yes, it is true that I have not heard," said the boy. "I have come because the Water-monster with seven heads threatened to devour me. If he does not devour me, then—fearful to think of!—he threatens to devour the whole village. So I have come," said she. And the boy said, "Begone." And the woman said, "Oh! You should have gone home, you who are a very fine-looking man. Beware lest the water-monster with seven heads kill you." "No, begone thou," said the boy. And the woman went home. When the woman had gone home, the boy went and stood by the edge of the water. "O Maⁿze-

Ŧaqaⁿ! you are he who will stand where the bottom of his neck is. O Ni-uha-maⁿŦiⁿ! you are he who will stand where the very root of his tail is," he said. Both the dogs went under the water. At length they caused one of the heads of the Water-monster with seven heads to appear. And the boy, seizing his sword, cut off the head of the Water-monster with seven heads. And he said, "Come, cease." And the boy took the tongue of the head of the seven-headed Water-monster. And he threw away the head by the edge of the water. And the boy took the tongue away. When he drew near the village, he said, "Hunt ye rabbits." Having collected the rabbits, the Orphan carried them in a pack. He carried the rabbits home in a pack to the old woman. "Grandmother, I have come home carrying those rabbits." "Oh! my grandchild has come bringing rabbits in a pack for me!" said the old woman. And she took the rabbits. "Grandmother, put that on something for me," he said. And the old woman, having taken the tongue, placed it by the side of the lodge. "Grandmother," said he, "first give the dogs one rabbit apiece; the rest are yours." And when it was morning, they made a very great noise, crying among the villagers. And the boy said, "Grandmother, what is the matter?" "Oh! what is my grandchild saying, as he sits! They are crying because the chief's daughter came home, and they wish to take her away again." "Grandmother, let them kill the Water-monster with seven heads. Why do they not kill him?" "My grandchild! he is very sacred, they fear him. All the people fear him," said she. Again the boy went thither. He went and stood by the water, in advance of the soldiers. And the soldiers took the woman away again. When they drew near they sent her thither. And the soldiers went home. And the woman went thither, to the water. And behold, the boy was there by the edge of the water. And the boy said, "Why have you come?"—meaning the woman. "Oh! psha!" said she, "you should have gone home, you who are so fine looking a person. Beware lest the Water-monster with seven heads kill you." "No, begone thou," said the boy. And the woman went home. And the boy went again to the water. He spoke to his dogs: "O Ni-uha-maⁿŦiⁿ! you are he who will stand by the very bottom of the neck. O Maⁿze-Ŧaqaⁿ! you are he who will stand there by the very root of the tail." And the dogs went headlong into the water. When they had gone headlong into the water, it happened that they caused two of the heads of the seven-headed Water-monster to appear. And the boy cut off both heads. Having taken the tongues, he threw away the heads on the bank, and went home. And when he drew near the lodge, he hunted rabbits again. "Grandmother," said he, "take those rabbits." And the old woman took the rabbits. "Grandmother, put the tongues on something for me." And he slept again. It was night. In the morning they cried again, making a very great noise. "Grandmother, why do those cry?" said he. "My grandchild, the chief's daughter having come home, they cry to condole with her." Again the soldiers took the chief's daughter away. And the boy reached the edge of the water first. He had made very excellent clothing for himself. The woman went thither again. Referring to the boy, the woman said, "You ought not to come. Beware lest the Water-monster with seven heads kill you." And the boy said, "No, begone thou." Well, the woman went home. When she had gone home, the boy said, "O Maⁿze-Ŧaqaⁿ! you are he who will stand where the bottom of his neck is. O Ni-uha-maⁿŦiⁿ! you are he who will stand where the very root of his tail is." And both dogs went beneath the water. And the dogs bit the seven-headed Water-monster, causing three of his heads to appear. And the boy cut off the three heads. And having taken the tongues, he threw away the heads, and went home. Though the girl wished to tell about herself every time that she reached home, she always failed. And having gone homeward, the boy hunted rabbits. Having hunted a great many rabbits, he carried them home in a pack. Having come back to the old woman, he gave her the three tongues. "Grandmother, put those away for me. Ho! take those rabbits and give the dogs one apiece," said he. Well, they slept. In the morning again did the people make a very great noise by crying. "Grandmother," said he, "why are those crying?" Said she, "My grandchild, the chief's daughter having come home again, they wish to take her thither; therefore they are crying." "Grandmother, they ought to kill the Water-monster with seven heads. Why do they not kill him?" said the boy. "Do not say that again to any one. If it be said to any one, he will kill you," said the old woman. And the soldiers took the girl away again. And the boy having gone thither, was again the first to reach the edge of the water. And the girl came thither. And the boy said, "Begone. Why have you come?" The woman went home. And he said "O Ni uha-maⁿçiⁿ! you will stand by the very bottom of his neck. O Maⁿze-çaqaⁿ! you will stand by the very root of his tail." And both dogs went down into the water. Very soon they bit the remaining head, causing it to emerge from the water. And the boy cut off the head. He took the tongue. He placed all the heads in a row on the bank of the stream. And when the boy went homeward, it came to pass that a black man walked along the bank of the stream. The black man found the heads. The black man carried the heads away. The black man said, "I have killed the Water-monster with seven heads." And they said, "Really! This black man has come home carrying in a pack the heads of the seven-headed Water-monster. Begone with them to the chief's tent." He carried them thither. And the chief said, "Where did you get the heads?" And the black man said, "There was a Water-monster with seven heads, but I killed him." And the chief said, "Well, if you killed him, you shall marry my daughter." And they cooked; they prepared food. All the people were invited to the marriage-feast. And the chief said to the people, "If you say that the black man may marry my child, he shall surely marry her." And the people said as follows: "Yes, he has saved us, the whole tribe, therefore if you say that he may marry her, let him marry her." And the boy sat knowing it. He sat sorrowful, because the black man was to marry the woman. The boy said as follows: "O Maⁿze-çaqaⁿ, go thither. Bring back in your mouth a slice of the meat that is cooked for the marriage-feast." The dog went thither. When the dog came in sight the people said, "A very fine dog has come!" The dog went to the table, and went homeward, carrying a slice in his mouth. "Really! The dog has done very wrong. Pursue him," said the people. And he reached his home at the lodge of the old woman, carrying the meat in his mouth. The chief said, "Return ye with the dog and his owner too." He commanded the soldiers to do this. And when the soldiers reached the lodge of the old woman, behold, the man who was the owner of the dog was a very good-looking man, and he had on very excellent clothing. And the soldiers were ashamed before the man (i. e., he was such a respectable person that they did not like to state their business). And the boy said, "For what have you come?" "Yes, we have been sent hither to see the dog which came back with a slice of meat in his mouth, taken from the marriage-feast," said they. The chief said in our presence that we were to bring home with us the dog's owner also." "Come! begone! I am bound to go thither to you," said the boy. And the boy made the very best clothing for himself; and he went thither, taking the tongues. And the black man had not yet reached the lodge of the chief. He was in a lodge elsewhere. At length the boy arrived at the chief's lodge with the tongues. Said he, "What wrong have I done you all that you sent soldiers after me? A Water-monster was about to devour your whole tribe in spite of all that you could do; but I killed him for you. Why did you cause the soldiers to take me?" And having said, "Those are the tongues of the Water-monster with seven heads," he gave them to the chief. And the chief said, "That is he, he who killed the Water-monster with seven heads. That is my daughter's husband." He made him sit with the girl, the wife of the black man. "Yes, father, it is he," she said, referring to the man. And the chief said, "Go ye after the black man." And the soldiers went for the black man. They returned with the black man. When they made him stand in the middle, the chief questioned him, saying, "How did you kill the Water-monster with seven heads?" Said he, "I went thither and attacked him and killed him." The chief said, "With what did you kill him?" He said, "I killed him with a knife." And the woman came to the lodge with the man, and appeared. "Father, this is he, the man that killed the Water-monster with seven heads. My preserver, this is he," she said, referring to the Orphan. And the chief having said, "Take ye hold of the black man," they carried him outside and burnt him.

132, 11–12. eataⁿ - - - ɕate ete ɕi. See English translation. In full, Eataⁿ waciⁿqti ɕegě e hebe ɕate ete ɕi ɕataji ǎ: literally, “Why, very fat (meat), these inanimate objects, they, a part, you eat, ought, when, you eat not?” Or, Waciⁿqti ɕegě e hebe ɕate ete ɕi. Eataⁿ ɕataji ǎ: “You ought to eat a piece of those (pieces of) fat meat. Why do you not eat it?”

132, 15. niaciⁿga wiⁿaqtei - - - maqaⁿ-biama: in ɕoiwere, waⁿcike iyaŋ'ki rutcé inaɕkéqtei dáwe ánye ké.

133, 3. aqtaⁿ aⁿɕaⁿbɕaⁿ etedaⁿ. Sanssouci gives as the ɕoiwere: taⁿ'ta hiⁿpraŋ'e ke! but I suspect that instead of “ke,” he should have said “ihatayiⁿ.”

133, 5. inandeqtiaⁿ-biama, pronounced i+nandeqtiaⁿ-biama.

133, 13. eataⁿ ajaⁿ ǎ: “What are you doing?” “What are you about?” or “How do you do?”

133, 14. wiɕepajiⁿqteice (said to both males and females); but in ɕoiwere, hiⁿta-ɕwa-miyiŋe (to a female), and hiⁿtaɕwa-yiŋe (to a male).

133, 14. nixa iⁿnie taⁿ-ana (said by a male); nixa iⁿnie taⁿ-ena+ (by a female): My relation's stomach is aching her (as she stands). So they can say, hi iⁿnie ɕiⁿ-ana: My relation's teeth ache him (as he moves), my relation's teeth are aching him. The final “-ana” is the exclamation sign used with dative verbs implying relationship, etc.; but an ordinary exclamation would require áhaⁿ (for males) or ehaⁿ+ (for females).

133, 18. tiɕe ɕaⁿ, refers to the actual birth, which was unseen by Ictinike. See Dakota hiyu. As to her own act, the woman could have said, ɕiɕepa tiɕeagiɕě hě, “I have caused your grandchild, my own son, to come forth.”

134, 1. weahideqti, pronounced we+ahideqti.

134, 4. haha gaⁿbadaⁿ, etc. In ɕoiwere, háha kakuⁿ uⁿ kũⁿ'ra-na cũⁿ uⁿ tei tce-yiŋ'e píqtei waɕice ánye ké—Sanssouci. This latter, when rendered literally, is “Haha! in that manner, to do, wished-having, thus, did, because, ‘buffalo-calf, good-very, from us has been snatched,’ they say.” Ictinike laughs when he thinks how people will talk of his strategy: “Because I have done as I wished, they say, ‘A very fine Buffalo-calf has been taken from us.’” Gaⁿbadaⁿ is said to be equivalent to gaⁿ gaⁿ'ɕa égaⁿ.

134, 15. najiⁿ wiⁿɕaⁿɕaⁿqti (uqpaɕě) gaⁿ maⁿɕniⁿ ɕone tate. Said of scattering rain, occasional drops, not a steady shower.

135, 5. cudemahaⁿ. There may have been a fourth trial of the young buffalo, but it has not been learned.

135, 6. hegabaji, pronounced he+gabaji.

135, 16. he-bazabaji, from he, horn: and bazábe, to thrust at with a horn and splinter off a piece (of the horn).

136, 4. hegaji, pronounced he+gaji.

TRANSLATION.

When the Orphan's mother and father died, he dwelt with his sister. And his sister married a man who was a very excellent marksman. And when he went hunting, he brought back a deer on his back. And the Orphan said, "Surprising! O sister, my sister's husband is coming home bringing something on his back. I will eat some very fat meat." And when he reached home, she took the fat wrapped around the kidneys, having pulled it out of the animal, and she gave it to the Orphan with the liver. "Eat that. You truly desire fat! When you finish eating," she said, "go and watch the field." And then he ate and departed to the field. He departed very sad. And when the man reached the field, he stood on a tree, and said, "Ye birds, come ye to devour the corn in the field." And when it was night, he went homeward. When it was morning again, his sister's husband was bringing home a deer on his back. "Ho! ho! O sister, my sister's husband is bringing home a deer on his back. This once I will eat a piece of very fat meat," said he. She did so again. Having taken the fat wrapped around the kidneys, she gave him that with the liver. "Eat that. The fat piece you truly desire!" And she said, "Go and attend to the field." And it was thus four times (i. e., four days). On the fourth day she said, "Sit here to take care of things. We will go to see the field." And when he was alone in the lodge, the Orphan lay sound asleep. And a very beautiful woman arrived there very suddenly, and roused him by pulling at him. "Arise. Why do you sleep?" said she. And when he arose, she said, "You ought to eat a piece of those very fat parts of meat. Why do you not eat one?" "Though (you say?) so, it is my sister's. I am afraid to eat it, lest she scold me," he said. And she said, "Cut off part with a knife, and eat it." But the boy said, "Though (you say?) so, I am unwilling." And the woman stood and cut off part of the best piece, just the size for one person to eat. She roasted it. Having given it to the boy, she said, "Eat it." And the woman made the slice that she cut off, just as it had been, restoring what she took from the piece of meat. And it was thus again four times (i. e., four days). And when the woman went homeward, she made her trail very plain. And the boy went following her trail. He walked throughout the day, and at length, when he arrived there very late in the evening, behold, there was a very good lodge, a whitened lodge. And when he entered, behold, it was the woman who was sitting there. And she was sitting on a very good couch. And she gave him a small wooden bowl, filled very full with pounded and dried buffalo-meat. And when she gave it to him, he sat thinking, "I have been very hungry. How shall it be possible for me to get my fill?" And the woman said, "No. Eat it at any rate. You shall surely have enough." And when he ate it, and was filled to repletion, he still left some in the small bowl. And he gave back the small bowl to the woman. And at night he lay down, she having made an excellent couch and a pillow too. And it came to pass as he lay in a sound sleep, that when he awoke in the morning, there was not even a lodge, he was lying on the grass. And this occurred four times (i. e., on four days.) And she was a Buffalo-woman. And when she was pregnant, she was delivered. When she gave birth to the young one, it was born very short, and it was very white all over. And Ictinike was going, and he arrived there very suddenly. "O first-born daughter of the household, why do you so?" said he. "Grandfather, my stomach pains me," she said. "Alas! my dear little grandchild! her stomach pains her!" he said. And then when the Buffalo-calf was born, he stood very white. And Ictinike thrust him suddenly under his robe. And the Female-buffalo said as follows: "Oh! grandfather, where is your grandchild?" Said he, "It has not yet come forth." "Grandfather, your grandchild did come forth, (i. e., before you came)," said she. And the woman said this to him again and again; yet Ictinike continued saying, "There is none." And Ictinike said, "O first-born daughter of the household, I will go. It has not come forth." And the Buffalo-woman said, "Grandfather, you do not tell the truth." And Ictinike departed. And when Ictinike departed, he went out of sight to a very great distance. When he arrived he took the Buffalo-calf, and he sat wiping the Buffalo-calf with grass. And he was very white, and very excellent. "Haha! How easily have I done as I wished! They are saying, 'We have been deprived of a very fine Buffalo-calf,'" said Ictinike. And the Buffalo-calf ran around Ictinike. "Why! O third-born son of the household, come! come!" he continued saying. And the Buffalo-calf returned to Ictinike. And the Buffalo-calf, when he went around him again, ran to a little distance. "Why! O third-born son of the household, beware lest you run too far! You are my own," said he. When it had been thus four times, the fourth time it occurred, he continued running homeward to his mother. And when Ictinike said, "Come back, O third born son of the household. Beware lest you run too far," he departed without stopping at all. And Ictinike went to another place, very sorrowful. At length, as the Buffalo calf went along, an aged Buffalo-bull was sitting there. And the aged Buffalo-bull said as follows: "O third-born son of the household, they took away your mother in this direction. They have already taken her down yonder long bluff extending beyond the other bluff in sight. And, my grandchild, you shall go through occasional drops of rain." (He said the words to him because he wished to make him strong.) And when the Buffalo-calf departed, there were occasional drops of rain. And when he reached the foot of the bluff, again was there a Buffalo-bull sitting. He said, "O third-born son of the household, they have just gone this way with your mother. They have gone to the foot of yonder long bluff extending beyond the other one in sight. You shall go walking through dense, misting rain." (He loved him, therefore he said the words to him.) And when the Buffalo-calf departed, he went walking through dense, misting rain. And when he reached the foot of the bluff, a young Buffalo-bull, very new, small, of the sort that have very sharp horns, was sitting there. And the young Buffalo-bull said as follows: "O third-born son of the household, they have just taken your mother this way. They have gone to the foot of that bluff in sight, the one beyond that near by. You shall go walking through a very dense fog." And when the Buffalo-calf departed, he went through a very dense fog. And when he reached the bottom of the bluff, behold, there were a very great many Buffaloes. When they sat in a circle, his mother was caused to sit in the center. And they said, "Ho! ho! the child has come in sight." ("It knew its loss, therefore it is coming hither to you.") And, behold, a very aged Female-buffalo, very scabby, very poor, was sitting with her own calf directly in line with the approaching Calf. And then when the White-buffalo-calf reached the aged Buffalo-woman, he sucked at her breast, as he was very hungry. And one said, "Let four Buffaloes start for this one sitting a little way off. He sucks the breast there." "We have come for you. This one at a short distance is your mother," said they. And the Buffalo-calf was unwilling. When they wished to take him home, they failed. And the four went homeward. When they reached home, they said, "Leader, we have failed." "Unsplintered-horns, go quickly, and kill the old woman," he said. And he went thither and killed her. And when he wished to take the Buffalo-calf homeward, he was unable. "This one at a short distance is your mother. Let us go home," said he. But the Buffalo-calf was unwilling. And he reached home, having failed again. "Leader, we have failed again," he said. And the leader said, "Let four go thither quickly and leave no trace of the Female-buffalo." And having gone thither quickly, they tore the Female-buffalo into small pieces, leaving no trace of her. And they took the White-buffalo-calf homeward. And they took him home to his mother. And when they reached home with him, they made him sit with his mother. And they were sitting around her, a great many Buffaloes. At length the Orphan came in sight on the bluff, having been hunting for his wife up to that time. And the leader said, "Though your husband has come in sight, you shall sit with a Female-buffalo just like you. If he recognizes you, you shall go home with him; if he does not recognize you, we will kill him." And his wife told him by stealth, "A Female-buffalo just like me will they make sit with me. And when they say, 'Where is your wife?' do you say, 'That one is she.' I will move my right ear. And though they will do likewise with the child he, too will move his right ear, and you shall take him." And they made her sit with a Female-buffalo just like her. "Come," said the leader, "take whichever one is your wife." And as he stood looking at them, behold, the woman moved her other ear. Having said, "That one," he took hold of her. And having done so with the child, it was so again. "This is my child," said he. And he took him. And the leader said, "Come, that will do. Go with him."

NOTES.

The translation of this version is fuller than the text, because it was easier to keep pace with the narrator by writing in English; and he would not repeat any of the original that the collector failed to get. The words of the song are in Iowa, not Omaha.

140, 2. ṁahniⁿ tai hă, intended for ṁasniⁿ tai hă, from čāsniⁿ.

141, 3-4. ěgič^e ṣí wiⁿ' gaⁿ'-te amá. The old man at this lodge resembles one who figures in the myth of the Snake-woman. He gives similar advice to the hero.

141, 5. uckaⁿ kě hnaⁿ' gaⁿ'-ke amá. If this refers to the buffalo, kě denotes the long trail made, or the departure of the herd in a long line. If it refers to the sleeping man, kě shows that it was thus each time that he lay down.

141, 11. gacič^e gčⁱⁿ' ič^aⁿ'č^aⁿ-biama: gacičⁱ ič^aⁿ'č^aⁿ, to continue falling down suddenly on the knees.

TRANSLATION.

[The informant being old and deaf, it was impossible to obtain from him a verbatim transcript of the original. See the first part of the preceding version.]

When Wahaⁿčicige went to the field at the request of his sister, he sang as follows: "Sister mine, sister mine, my sister's husband is bringing home a big deer, sister mine." He then said, "Hu-hu-hú! Come hither, birds, to eat. Ye shall devour this field. I am very poor. O all ye birds, be ye coming hither. All ye animals too, of every sort, come ye all around it. I will go over the earth," said he. * * * The Buffalo-woman gave birth to two calves. * * * They struck their father's side as they ran to meet him. Their mother was placed in a row with three other white cows, when Wahaⁿçicige was directed to identify her. * * * "These speak of dancing with you," said she. * * * When the Buffaloes sat awhile, they went on high; they went flying. "They will go to the upper world," said the Buffalo-woman. * * * The Buffalo-woman blew a horn, saying, "T-t-t-t-t." * * * The Buffaloes reached the shore of the great water, and were sitting there. Wahaⁿçicige arrived. And it came to pass that a lodge of some sort was there. A very aged man sat there. "Yes," said he, "you are very poor. I heard you. The Buffaloes have gone across the great water. Shut your eyes and make a stride, and you shall cross the great water." And he made a stride, and found himself on the other side. His two sons came running to meet him. The woman told him, "They are going across the great water again. They will pass to the other side. They will arrive down there on the earth." * * * When the boy slept at night, the Buffaloes departed. Their way was as usual; their trail could not be discovered. The boy crossed the great water as before, closing his eyes till he was over. They had arrived, and were sitting there. "Why! he has come directly hither," said they. "Look around for your wife," they said. * * * She came to the place where the boy was standing. "When you will be completely unable to recognize me, I will move my right ear." * * * She moved the right ear quite briskly. * * * The next day the Buffaloes had a dance. Wahaⁿçicige went to it. He changed himself into a martin, and darted here and there among the Buffaloes. He continued making sudden thrusts at the Buffaloes. "You will destroy yourselves by thrusting. Stop it," said he. The Buffaloes continued to fall down suddenly on their knees. He went about, causing them to kill themselves by tearing themselves open. * * *

NOTES.

ɬačɪⁿ-naⁿpajɪ's variation from the first version begins after the meeting of the Orphan and the Buffalo-woman in the white tent on the prairie. In the morning he found himself lying on the grass, the woman and tent having disappeared. He followed her all day, and overtook her at night. This was repeated three times.

142, 3. čəču ece-qti čaⁿ, "Here, just as you said in the past," or, "here, just in the place that you said."

144, 12-13. maqpi kě atataqti ača-biama. The Omahas imagine that the upper world is like stone, and that ground is there. The ground rests on the stone. The Orphan pushed his way through both stone and ground, when he pursued his wife.

144, 19. waqpaniqtiⁿ číŋke ama "She had been sitting very poor"; equivalent to waqpaniqtiⁿ akama; the state or act continued till the arrival of the Orphan, as the classifier implies.

145, 2. éjidaⁿ conveys the idea that the act referred to is superfluous, unnecessary: "There is no necessity for making us suffer by your ridiculing us, for we are great sufferers already."

145, 7. From the time that the Orphan left his sister till his return, his brother in-law had no success in hunting.

145, 7. bčúgaqti, pronounced bču+gaqti by ɬačɪⁿ-naⁿpajɪ.

TRANSLATION.

On the fourth night the woman said as follows: "Though I go home, please continue to follow me. When I reach home on the other side of the water, please come hither. Say as follows, when you stand on the shore: 'Well, my wife, here, just as you said, I will be going to you.' When you say it, close your eyes and make a stride over the water. And the next thing which they will make for you will be a cañon hollowed out by a stream, so deep that the bottom can hardly be reached. When you get there, say, 'Well, my wife, here, just as you said, I will be going to you.' When you say it, close your eyes and make a stride across the cañon. And next to it they will make for you sharp thorns over the surface of the whole land. When you arrive, say, 'Well, my wife, here, just as you said, I will be going to you.' When you say it, close your eyes and make a stride over the thorns. And next to it they will make a road to the upper world, and go thither. When you arrive at the place, say, 'Well, my wife, here, just as you said, I will be going to you.' When you say it, close your eyes and make a stride in the air," said the woman. The woman departed and left him. She reached home, and walked among the Buffaloes. The Buffaloes had reached their home on the other side of the water. The Orphan came in sight again. "Really! that Orphan has come hither," they said. He continued following his wife and child. "Seek ye a difficult thing for him," said the Buffaloes. And when he arrived they made four female Buffaloes lie in a row. "Come," said they, "which one lying down is your wife?" She moved her right ear very briskly. "That one is my wife," said the Orphan. "Well, seek again for him a difficult thing," said the Buffaloes. The next morning when the Orphan awoke, he lay alone on the grass. The woman had gone with the Buffaloes. The Buffaloes went across a very deep cañon hollowed out by a stream. The Orphan reached the cañon. Closing his eyes, he said, "Well, my wife, here, just as you said, I will be going to you." He made a stride, and behold, he was across the cañon. "Really! that Orphan has come hither. Seek ye again something difficult for him," they said. At length, on the morning of the next day, when the Orphan awoke, he lay alone on the grass. The woman had gone with the Buffaloes. And they had made sharp thorns extending all over the surface of the land. The Orphan arrived there. Having said, "Well, my wife, here, just as you said, I will be going to you," he closed his eyes, and made a stride across, and had gone. "Really! that Orphan has come hither. Seek again something difficult for him," said they. At length, on the morning of the next day, when the Orphan awoke, he lay alone on the grass. The woman had gone with the Buffaloes. Having made a road to the upper world, they had gone. Having gone up above, the Buffaloes kept bellowing. As the road went up hill, the Orphan arrived there. "Well, my wife, here, just as you said, I will be going to you," said he. Having closed his eyes, he made a stride and departed. He went far beyond the clouds, and he reached the other side. "Really! that Orphan has come hither. Make an end of your attempts. You must fail. You shall go home," said they. So they were coming down-hill (i. e., from the upper world to this earth). They reached home at the bottom. "Well, go ye in all directions," said they. The Orphan said as follows to his wife: "Come, let us go home. Let me see your husband's sister." Having gone home, he placed the child and the woman by the outside of the tent. And behold, his sister was very poor; she and her husband had been, and were still, apt to die from starvation. "O elder sister, and my sister's husband, I have come home," said he. "Without any cause for complaint, the boy, our relation, went to some unknown place. We have not found him, and we are great sufferers. It is not necessary to ridicule us," said she. "Indeed, sister, I am he," he said. At length his sister rubbed her eyes repeatedly with her hands, and looked toward him. She recognized him. "Heigho! my dear younger brother has come home to me,' she said. "Your wife's brother has come back," said she, having pulled at the man to attract his attention. "O sister, your brother's wife sits in that place out of sight, holding your brother's son. Go for her," said the Orphan. She brought her home. Having brought her home, all the animals came back again. And again did his sister's husband kill them at pleasure. And at length his sister was kind to him. The End.

NOTES.

147, 1. mače čegaⁿ-daⁿ. Nudaⁿ-axa told this myth during the winter; hence he refers to the season: "It was during the winter, as it now is."

147, 2. ača+. Criers say ača+, instead of áča, when those addressed are at a great distance.

148, 3. waiiⁿciče, equivalent to the Omaha ahiⁿciče. See 99, 11.

148, 20. naⁿha, wijiⁿče aka. The Corn-woman's son was the younger, so he calls the Buffalo-woman's son his elder brother.

149, 7. dazēqtcī, pronounced ȝa+zēqtcī by Nudaⁿ-axa.

149, 12. ře-jiñga ake ake. Sanssouci gives the equivalent ȝoiwere: ře-yiñe e aré ke, "Buffalo-calf that is it"; to be distinguished from the following: ře-jiñga aká é aka hă' (in ȝoiwere, ře-yiñe e aré táhe ke), said by one (not the father) who discovered, all at once, the calf for which he had been seeking; čéaka ře-jiñ'ga aká: "There is the calf," or, "There is a calf" (one for which he was not hunting); čéaka é aka ře-jiñ'ga aka hă: "There is the calf for which I have been looking!" (denoting surprise at finding it unexpectedly).

149, 13. ičadi čat'aⁿ edectě aⁿbačēqti maⁿčīⁿ čaxage maⁿhniⁿ. Sanssouci gives as the ȝoiwere, aⁿtce ratū^{n'} cke, ha^{n'}we ře mányi raxáře ramányi; and he says that the Buffalo-woman doubted that it was the father whom her son saw. "If you had a father, you would not have been crying to-day when walking"; or, "You should have had a father, for to-day you have been crying while walking."

149, 15. jaⁿ-uqpe jiñgaqtcī. This bowl was not over two inches in diameter, and the water barely covered the bottom.

149, 18. uqpe. The larger bowl was about six inches in diameter; and the piece of jerked meat was about three inches in diameter.

150, 3. udaⁿqti, pronounced u+daⁿqti.

150, 19. utaⁿnadiqti, pronounced utaⁿ+nadiqti.

151, 5. qḑaje, refers to the cry of the Buffalo-calf and its mother.

151, 14. huḑuga, pronounced hu+ḑuga.

152, 13-15. The stones in the sweat-lodge became the size of men's heads the first time that the old woman thrust at them. Next they became larger than good-sized watermelons. The third time, she made them as high as a table (about three feet high). The last time they became so large that they filled the lodge.

152, 14. gataⁿhiḑaⁿ-biama, contracted from gataⁿha and iḑaⁿ.

152, 18. gaⁿte ama, pronounced gaⁿ+te ama.

153, 10. egasani wagigḑa-biama ikaⁿ aka wa'u ḑaṅka zani. Sanssouci says that this would mean "the grandmother resembled the women who were her relations," which is not the meaning, and is obscure. He would substitute wágḑawakiḑa-biama for wagigḑa-biama, the former meaning, "to cause them to go as messengers to invite to a feast, game, or assembly." The old woman plotted against her son-in-law; and arranged for her five daughters to stand in a row. I am inclined to read, wagigḑa-biama, from wagigḑe, "To go homeward for them (i. e., for those who were not her relations)."

153, 12. udaⁿqti-hnaⁿ-biama, pronounced u+daⁿqti-hnaⁿ-biama.

154, 6. uwagiḑa-hnaⁿi atě. "I wonder if some one has not been telling," or, "I am sure that they have been telling." The old woman suspected this. It was something which she did not wish to be told.

154, 13. waḑudeäji, pronounced waḑu+deäji.

155, 1. ḑiadi ki adaⁿ. The mother was not in the lodge when the father came.

155, 3. wa'ujĩṅga qḑiäji egaⁿ-ă he. The old woman was speaking in a loud voice.

155, 11. iⁿě kě kaṅgěqtei ahi-bi ɣĩ, about two feet from the rocks.

155, 11. kaṅgěqtei, pronounced kaṅ+gěqtei.

155, 13. banaṅge kide, a game played by the Pōnkas, Omahas, and other tribes: "to shoot at something caused to roll by pushing." (A description of the game will be given elsewhere in this volume.)

155, 19. uhekiḑa-baji tě. The man tried to keep from laughing; but the Buffalo-woman would not let him have his way, so at last he had to laugh.

156, 8. iḑidahaⁿ ama. The man knew by experience that it would be difficult to overcome his mother-in-law. So it seems probable that he did not go directly towards her, after leaving the buffalo that he killed. He went around her, and approached her from the opposite side. (This is the only explanation which the collector can give.)

It is probable that there is another part of this myth, which relates how the man recovered the Corn-woman and her son, and then returned home with all of his family.

TRANSLATION.

It happened that there was a tribe. During the winter, as it is now, they removed their camp. "He says that you are to remove!" said the crier. Now there was one man who had no wife; his sisters were four in number. And when they removed, the man said, "Leave me." And they left him. All the women in the camp said continually, "The sisters of the young man who lay sick, left him and have come hither." All these lodges removed again. And his last sister, the smallest one, hid herself among the large trees. And she went back. She followed the road back to the starting-point. At length she got back in sight of the lodge. And the sister went back crying. And her brother was still alive. "My sister, why have you come back?" said he. And she said, "O elder brother, I have come back to ascertain if you were dead." And she dwelt with him. At length he said as follows: "O younger sister, comb my hair for me." And his sister combed his hair. "Get my robe for me," said he. And she got it for him. "I put my fine feather yonder in the pack; get it, too, for me, O younger sister," he said. And she got it for him. "And the moccasins too, and the leggings," said he. She got all for him. And he put on all of his clothing, the moccasins, the leggings also; the fine feather, too, he stuck in his scalp-lock. And he wore the robe with the hair out, he drew it well around him; and he had painted his face. He said as follows: "O younger sister, as you have no one to talk with, I will go and seek a sister-in-law for you." And there were four days. As he stood in his door, he did not go to a distance. The evening of the fifth day arrived. And this one, her elder brother, lay down as he was. At length his sister said as follows, having gone outside: "O elder brother, a woman has come." "Come back with your brother's wife," said he. "O brother's wife, come to the lodge," she said. It was night. And it was day. Again the evening arrived. When it was the beginning of darkness the sister went outside. And again one had come. "O elder brother," said she, "this woman has come." The brother said, "Come back with your brother's wife." And he married the two. And both became pregnant. And they gave birth to children, both boys. And he dwelt with them very happily. And both of the children were very forward in learning to speak. And their father said, "You and your younger brother must not fight." And it was so. They always played children's games with each other. At length both boys fought. Both reviled each other. "As for you, your mother is a Buffalo-woman," said one. "As for you too, your mother is a Corn-woman," said the other. And when they reached home, the Buffalo-calf told about himself to his mother. And the other one, too, told about himself. "O mother, I heard my elder brother say that you were a Corn-woman," said one. And the other said as follows: "O mother, I heard my younger brother say that you were a Buffalo-woman." And at night both of the women were in a bad humor; they would not talk with the man. Yet, as for this Buffalo-woman, cum ea concubuit. And it was day. Behold, the man was lying all alone; the women had gone away again. He sat for some time. At length he said as follows: "O sister, I will go to seek your brother's sons." And when it was day, he departed. Right ahead he went, crossing the land by the nearest way. At length, when it was very late in the evening, he discovered the trail. And he followed their trail. The mother was a Buffalo, and her son was a Buffalo-calf. He and his mother had gone homeward to the Buffaloes, running very swiftly. At length when he reached a creek along which the trees stood very thick, and when a lodge was in sight, the man thought, "This must be it!" And approaching it, he sat down; he was not in sight. At length his son came in sight. "It is the Buffalo-calf," said the man. "My father has come," said the Buffalo-calf. "Even if you had a father, when walking this very day you cried as you walked. Simpleton! go after him," said the Buffalo-woman. And the man arrived there. She gave him a very small wooden bowl, in which the water barely spread over the bottom. The man sat thinking, "As I did not drink water, I was very thirsty heretofore. It is very little." He drank; but failed to drink all of the water. "A very little was insufficient for me heretofore; at length I have failed to drink all of the water!" thought he. And she gave him a bowl, which contained a piece of dried buffalo meat this size. "I was hungry heretofore; she should have given me a larger piece," he thought. And he failed to eat all of the meat. And he gave back to her the meat that remained after he had eaten. "It is very little food," said the woman. And the woman having divided the dried meat into two parts, she bolted it down. And as it was night, all slept as they were. Having made a very excellent couch, they slept. At day, he turned himself when lying, and looked around. Behold, there was no lodge at all; he was lying in a very lone place. And he followed their trail as it went. When it was very late that evening he overtook them again. Again there was a creek; again there was a tent. And approaching he sat there, by the outside of the tent. And his son came in sight. "Why! my father has come," said he. "Even if you had a father, when walking this very day you cried as you walked," said the Buffalo-woman. "Call him by raising your voice." "O father, come!" said the boy. And he arrived there. And she gave him a very small wooden bowl, in which the water barely spread over the bottom. And as the man understood the matter, he did not wonder. He drank; but failed to drink all of the water. And she gave him the bowl, which contained a piece of dried buffalo meat this size. And as the man understood the matter, he did not wonder. And again he failed to eat all of the dried meat, so he gave back to her the piece which remained. "That is a very little food," said the Buffalo-woman. Having pulled off a piece of the dried meat, she swallowed it suddenly. And as it was night, they slept. The man had a piece of cord; and he tied the woman's feet together with it. As he had not been roused when he slept on the preceding night, and since he wished to be roused, "When she moves, she will be apt to rouse me!" thought the man. And they slept. At length it was day. At length, having opened his eyes, he was lying in a very lonely place. And he followed their trail again. He arrived in sight of a very large peak. At length he reached a very large stream, which they would have to cross. And the man leaned against a tree, and hid himself. At length when they walked along the stream, the man heard the Buffalo-calf and his mother speaking. "As he prizes the child, let me see if he will come to the water at that place," said she. And the son and his mother went crossing the stream, he bellowing, and his mother doing so from time to time. And when he and his mother, going in a straight line to the water, reached the middle, behold, the man took his fine feather. And the man blew off the fine feather suddenly. He was the first to reach the other side. When he blew it off suddenly, he reached the other side without stopping. He changed himself into the feather, and the man blew himself away suddenly. And he stuck to a tree. And he sat (i. e., remained) to see him and his mother. She and her son came back to the other side. They rubbed the hair dry, they rolled themselves on the sand. "As he prizes the child, let me see if he will come," said the Buffalo-woman. And they ran homeward very swiftly, up-hill. And the man followed them. When he arrived in sight of the peak, behold, there was the circle of lodges, a large tribal circle. And approaching it, he sat on the peak. "O mother, my father has come," said the Buffalo-calf. "Go thither for him," she said. When he went thither for him, he did not discover him, as he had changed himself into a fine feather.

Again the Buffalo-woman said, "O younger sister, go for him." And when she went for him, she did not find him. "O elder sister, there is none," said she. "Why! it is indeed hateful! You must have passed close by him," said the Buffalo-woman. And again one went thither. "O elder sister, I have not found him," she said. Again one went thither. Again she did not find him. Again one went thither. "O elder sister, I have not found him," she said. "You are indeed hateful! You have invariably gone beyond him. Stop! I will go for him," said the Buffalo-woman. "Let me see! have I not found him?" said she (or, "I will see if I cannot find him"). And she arrived there. "They have been coming for you regularly. Why have you staid here?" said she. "Nevertheless, hardly any one has come for me. I was sitting as I am," said the man. And she went back with him. Behold, the woman's sisters were four; the fifth was she who had gone to marry him. And they made room for her. They made a lodge for her by itself. Those who were her younger sisters were the only ones with her. At length it was morning. His grandmother said as follows (meaning her grandchild): "I have heated stones for your father, in order to take a sweat-bath with him." And her daughter's husband took a sweat-bath with her. And the Buffalo-bulls that came to make a weight for holding down the sides of the tent, were eight. And when his wife's mother pushed at the stones, they were that size. And when she pushed at them again, they were that size. The third time that she pushed at them, they became that high very suddenly. And when she pushed at them again, the stones were just as large as the lodge. The Buffalo-bulls having made the tent-skin double up on itself by leaning on it, and the man having changed himself into a fine feather, he blew off the fine feather very suddenly. He had gone (ere the old woman made the stones large) right into the fold of the tent-skin. The aged Buffalo-woman said, "O daughter's husband, have you become somewhat accustomed to the heat?" "Yes, O wife's mother," said he. And a long while elapsed. "O daughter's husband, how is it?" said the aged Buffalo-woman. She hoped that he was killed by heat, so she questioned him. "O wife's mother," said he, "I am sitting just as I was." And when he sat for a while, she said, "O daughter's husband, how is it?" "O wife's mother, I am sitting just as I was. I am not perspiring in the least." At length the aged Buffalo-woman grew impatient of the heat; she had nearly caused herself to die from the heat. "I am very impatient of the heat; undo that for me," she said. When they pulled it off for her, she came in sight again (i. e., in the open air, her native element). Without stopping, the aged Buffalo-woman had already fainted. When this one, her daughter's husband, came back in sight, he was not perspiring in the least. "Why! even though I have taken a sweat-bath, I am impatient of the cold," he said. His wife said as follows: "You do not perspire in the least; the old woman, on the other hand, has fainted from the heat." "Nevertheless, I am impatient of the cold," said he. At length his wife's mother revived. Having recovered, his wife's mother went on the morrow for all of the women (?). The Buffalo-calf said as follows: "Why! O father, you must look around for my mother and recognize your own." This one and her younger sisters had but one face; they were all beautiful women, yet they had but one face, as regards beauty. And they finished with them; they caused all to paint themselves; they made them stand. They made them stand in a row; they caused them to push themselves around (i. e., to push one another around), as they did not wish him to recognize his wife. And when they were in a line, the aged Buffalo-woman said, "O daughter's husband, look around for your wife." And the man looked around for her. "That standing one is she," he said. He took hold of her. And they brought the trial to an end. The Buffalo-calf said as follows: "O father, they speak of making the boys run a race to-morrow, and I will join it. You must look around for me. Should you not recognize me, my grandmother speaks of killing you." And they ran the race the next day. The boy said as follows: "O father, I will walk the sixth after the five Buffalo-calves that leave the others behind." And they ran the race the next day. Five Buffalo-calves left the others behind, and one walked following them. And the man said as follows: "That is my child." "Where is he?" said the aged Buffalo-woman. "He is the sixth one, he is next to the five that have left the rest behind," he said. And they made an end of the race. "I wonder if they have been telling him?" said the aged Buffalo-woman. And the next day the Buffalo-calf said as follows: "O father, my grandmother speaks of running a race with you. If you do not overtake her, she speaks of killing you. Be strong." "Yes, my child; what your grandmother says must be so," said he. On the next day she ran a race with her daughter's husband. And she went with him. She went with him to a very distant hill. "O daughter's husband, we will come back from yonder place," said she. And thence she was coming back with him. And she left this man very far behind. And the aged Buffalo-woman said, "You shall surely die." And she left him and went homeward. And she came in sight on a hill on her way home. And without stopping at all, she went homeward. "The old woman has left him, and is coming back," they said. When the old woman came near to the lodge, she said, "Place my spear ready for me; I am coming home to you." The man took his fine feather, and when he blew it off suddenly, behold, he had gone right into his lodge, as the old woman asked for her spear when she was coming back. And he lay sound asleep; he did not stir at all. "At last I have hindered him," she said. And his son said as follows: "What does that old woman keep saying? My father came back a very long time ago." "Hm+!" said the old woman. His mother said as follows: "Has your father reached home?" The boy said, "As my father came home long ago, he lies sound asleep. The woman, too, talks incessantly and may disturb him." And her daughter said, "Old woman, do keep quiet; he came home long ago." And so he slept. "O father, she speaks of playing swinging with you," said the Buffalo-calf. "And a cord is there which is tied in many places. The other one is very good; it is not broken. And when they cause you to examine the cord broken in many places, do you use that," said the boy. And he arrived there with her. And the man took the strong cord. A high tree was standing on the edge of the cliff. Well, she said, "Come, O daughter's husband, let us go." He and his wife's mother went together (i. e., when in the swings). Going directly in a line with the tree, when they were in the middle, behold, her daughter's husband broke the cord by his weight. When he came very near the rocks, he remembered, and having taken his fine feather, he blew it off suddenly. Behold, he approached the other side, and lay there (i. e., as a feather). And they reached home, she and her daughter's husband, having failed in her effort. At length they were playing the game "banañge-kide." One young Buffalo bull approached him and stood. "My friend," said he, "this one Buffalo-woman will go for water. When she shall have come in sight, she will laugh at you. Do not laugh with her. Her husband is bad." When the woman came in sight, she laughed at him. The man did not look at her. Again, when she was coming directly towards him, she laughed at him. And the man did not laugh with her. When she was coming back, she was lading the water out of the kettle. And she did not let the man have his way; the man laughed with her. And all of these Buffalo-bulls who were playing "banañge-kide" fled. At length her husband came in sight and dashed on him. And when he came thence in sight, he sent the pieces of ground flying, by thrusting his horns into the ground; he was just like an enraged ox, standing pawing the ground. And they said nothing but "Flee." Yet the man stood, not heeding it in the least. The man stood to see him. He reached there. When the Buffalo reached there, the man threw away the robe which he wore, and strung his bow. When the Buffalo went to gore him, the man took his fine feather and blew it away suddenly. The man arrived on the other side of the Buffalo. Again it was so. He arrived on the side of the Buffalo which was not wounded. And the man killed the Buffalo-bull. Then he went homeward to attack his wife's mother. And as he knew her ways by experience, he approached her from an opposite direction. And he killed his wife's mother.

NOTES.

The beginning of this myth, as well as the conclusion, could not be given by the narrator, who had forgotten them.

Hiⁿqpe-ag^ŋŦe, from hiⁿqpé, a fine feather, not a quill (macaⁿ), and ág^ŋŦe, to stick an upright object or feather in something. "He who sticks a fine feather in his hair."

162, 6. snedēqti, pronounced sne+dēqti by Joseph La Flèche.

163, 16; 163, 18; 170, 11. bēugaqti, pronounced bēu+gaqti.

164, 17. egaⁿqti ctēwaⁿ ɕijiⁿŋe tēwaŋŋe-hnaⁿi hē: "Notwithstanding it is so (i. e., though they have always seemed to give your brothers the advantage in the contest), they invariably killed your brothers. Do your best, and try to outwit them, as they are very cunning. Do not be elated so soon. You have not yet overcome them."

166, 1. wa'ú wiⁿ akipa-biama. This was the surviving bad man in the shape of a beautiful woman. The hero suspected this at first.

166, 3. ena+! e taⁿ uwagiŋegaⁿ etede, spoken as if addressed to another, but really equivalent to "Ena+! ɕíeɔniⁿ ɕataⁿcé-de iⁿwiⁿɕaɔna égaⁿ etéde: Fie! as it is you, you should have told me a little (or, you should have given me some intimation)."

169, 4. etc. ɣigaⁿha, ɕiŋeŋpa . . . ediati. The woman addressed the hill and cliff as grandfathers, that is, as sacred beings or gods.

170, 8. naⁿxagěqti içaⁿça ama. The hero placed the bad man (içaⁿça) as he kicked him, that is, he kicked him into a place, changing him into a dog that howled violently at being kicked.

171, 2. cañge, a modern interpolation.

171, 4. xage-hnaⁿ caⁿcaⁿ-biama, pronounced xa+ge-hnaⁿ caⁿcaⁿ-biama.

TRANSLATION.

And he said, "We have come to contend with the first child born of the woman." One of the bad men said it to her. And the boy went thither. Though his father and mother were unwilling, yet he went thither. When he arrived there, they said, "We will contend with you." "Yes, I consent. What shall we play?" said the boy. And the bad men had planted in the ground a very tall and smooth pole. And they said, "We will climb that pole, and which one of us gets back last, shall be killed." And when they went climbing, behold, the bad man, having returned before the other, killed the boy. The woman bore a son again. And the boy was grown. When he was grown, again there came one to ask him to go with him. "We have come," he said, "to contend with your child." Again were his father and mother unwilling. Behold, the boy was grown, and he went thither. And the boy arrived there. And they contended with him likewise. And he said, "What shall we play?" And they said, "Let us play with swings." They played with swings. One cord was broken in many places, and the other one was very good. They made the boy use the good cord, and the bad man used the bad cord broken in many places. At length the good cord became bad. The cord having been cut, the boy was killed by the fall. The boy was dead. And the woman gave birth to a child again, a boy. And the boy who was born became grown. When he was grown, they came for him. "We have come to contend with your child," said they. Though his mother and father too were unwilling, yet the boy went thither. "Come, we will contest with you," said they. And when they contested, they contended in racing with the boy. And having left the boy behind, they killed the boy. At length his mother bore one again. At length she bore Hiⁿqpe-agçe. And all over the land they heard of his birth, the birth of Hiⁿqpe-agçe. As the boy was a very good marksman, he never failed to get any kind of animal which he desired. In fact, the whole country knew the boy; he was a very excellent boy. At length when the boy was grown, they came again to ask him to go with them. "We have come to contend with your boy," said they. And his father and mother were unwilling. "Please do not go," said they. And the boy said, "O mother and father, I will go thither." "They came thus for your elder brothers and took them away, but they invariably killed them," said his mother. And having said, "Still, O mother, I will go thither," the boy went thither. He arrived there. "Yes," they said, "you have done well by coming." And the boy said, "Come, what shall we play?" Said they, "We will climb yonder pole." And the boy took his fine feather, and stuck it in his hair. And having gone climbing the pole, the boy arrived first at the top. And when they were coming back again, the boy was the first to get back below. And when he returned, he killed the bad man, he killed one of the four. The boy went homeward. He reached home, where was his father and also his mother. "O mother," said he, "I have killed one of those who used to kill my elder brothers." And she said "O, dear youngest child! Do be strong. Notwithstanding it was just so, they invariably killed your elder brothers. Do your best." On the morrow the three arrived. "Boy," said they, "we have come to contend with you." "Yes," said he, "I will go to you." And his mother said as follows: "Do your best, O dear youngest child! Notwithstanding it was just so, they invariably killed your elder brothers. Do be strong." The boy went thither. And he arrived there. At length they spoke of using the swings again. "Use the swing with the good cord," said they to the boy. "The other one is bad. The old cord, which is broken in many places, is bad," said they. And he said as follows: "No, even if it be bad, still I will use it. It is not so, but you often say, 'It is bad.'" "Use the good one," said they. "No, I will use the bad one at all events," said the boy. And they went to play swinging. The boy went very well (i. e., successfully). He used the cord broken in many places, and the other one, who used the good cord, was killed by a fall. And the boy went homeward. Having reached home he said, "O mother and father, again have I killed one of the men who used to kill my elder brothers." "O dear youngest child! Notwithstanding it was just so, they always killed your elder brothers. Do be strong." And on the morrow two arrived. "Boy," said they, "we have come to contend with you." "Yes, I will go to you," said he. And he went thither the next day. When he arrived there, he said, "What shall we play?" "Let us run a race," said they. And the boy took his fine feather and stuck it in his hair. And he went with the bad man. When they were coming back in the race, Hiⁿqpe-ag^çe got back first. Having returned, he killed one of the bad men. When he reached home he said, "O mother and father, again have I killed one of those who used to kill my elder brothers." "O dear youngest child! Do be strong. Notwithstanding it was just so, they invariably killed your elder brothers," said the mother. On the morrow the boy sat waiting for the one man. And the one man did not arrive. When he did not arrive, the boy went thither. When he reached the lodge, behold, the one remaining man was not there. He departed to search for him. When he went to seek him, behold, he met a very beautiful woman. Hiⁿqpe-ag^çe said as follows: "Why did you go? You used to contend with me; but when I contend with you, why do you flee?" And the woman said, "Fie! I do not know at all who it was that contended with you. I go to take Hiⁿqpe-ag^çe for my husband." "No, you contended with me, and I contend with you. Why did you flee?" said he. "Fie! It is not so at all, but you say it repeatedly. I go to take Hiⁿqpe-ag^çe for my husband," she said. "Why! I am Hiⁿqpe-ag^çe." "Fie! The one standing is he, but he should have told it." "Let us sit down," said the woman. He sat with her. And the woman said, "Lie there. I will hunt lice for you." She caused him to lie with his head on her lap. And she hunted lice for him. And Hiⁿqpe-ag^çe was sound asleep; she put him to sleep with her hands. When he was sound asleep, she took hold of his ears, and stretched them repeatedly by pulling them. And she made him become a dog, suddenly. Hiⁿqpe-ag^çe was a dog. And Hiⁿqpe-ag^çe was very mangy all over his body. And the man (who had assumed the form of a woman) went with the dog. And the bad man stuck the fine feather in his own hair. And they reached a very large village. "Wonderful!" said the people, "Hiⁿqpe-ag^çe has come. The man about whom they always tell has come." At length the head-chief heard it. "Bring my daughter's husband to me," said the head-chief. And he arrived there at the lodge of the chief. The chief's daughters were two. And the chief caused the elder one to take the bad man for her husband. And as they had heard that Hiⁿqpe-agçe was a good marksman, they thought that they would try him; so they told him to hunt. And when he went hunting, he always came home unsuccessful; he invariably brought rabbits home. And this man said as follows: "That dog smells bad. Venerable man, cause them to kill him. He is very offensive." And the unmarried girl said, "O father, let him alone. Do not kill him. I must have him." She took the best care of the dog. And her elder sister said as follows: "Oh! the dog is bad, and very offensive, but you are the only one not loathing him." At length the man went hunting. When he went hunting, the dog went out at the same time. At length, when the man reached home from the hunt, he brought back a wild-cat. And the dog, having come home from the hunt, pushed repeatedly against the girl to attract her attention. Having thought "Why should he do it?" the girl went following the dog. At length, when they arrived at some distance from the village the dog had killed a very large doe. And the girl, having run homeward, to the lodge, told about it to her father and mother. "O father and mother, my dog has killed a very large doe," said she. Her father and mother reached the place where the doe was lying. And the old man said, "My child, it will do very well." And the girl was accustomed to making her bed close by the bed of her elder sister. "Make it further off. The dog smells bad," said the elder sister. She meant that he sat on the bed. The girl caused the dog to sit by the bed. The man went hunting again. When he went hunting, the dog went thither at the same time. At length the man reached home again, carrying a raccoon. The dog reached home again. When he reached home again, the dog pushed against the girl repeatedly, to attract her attention. And the girl went following the dog. When she had followed him to a place at some distance from the village, behold, the dog had killed a black bear. And she went to tell her father and mother. "O father and mother, my dog has killed a black bear," said she. And her father and mother brought the black bear home to the lodge. And the next day they went hunting again. When he went hunting, the man brought home a rabbit. And when at length the dog reached home, he pushed against the girl repeatedly to attract her attention. And having gone following him, behold, he had killed an elk. The next day the man went hunting again. The man brought home a muskrat. Behold, the dog had killed a beaver. And her father and mother were very glad; they always loved their dog. The girl, too, loved her dog very much. At length the man said as follows: "Venerable man, please make them remove. There is no game here to be hunted. Please make them pitch the tents at some place where there is plenty of game for us to hunt." And they removed the following day. And when they removed, the dog did not go. When all the people had gone, the girl alone did not go. She sought her dog, he having hid himself. And when the place was altogether deserted, she went around where the lodges had been, crying frequently. At length, when it was very late in the evening, the dog came back in sight, emerging from the thicket. The girl said, "Why have you been walking? (i. e., on what errand have you been?). I sought you. All have gone; I alone am left. I sought you." "Yes," said he, "it is very hard." The dog spoke. "Kindle a fire, make a fire," said he, addressing the girl. "You will please go to yonder headland. You shall say as follows: 'Grandfather, I have come after some stones for your grandchild.'" And the girl having done so, the ground said, "Ku+!" It caused some stones to come suddenly to the surface. And the girl took the stones back to her former home. And having reached home with the stones, she said, "These are the stones." He said, "And finally, go to yonder cliff. Say, 'Grandfather, I have come after some tent-poles for your grandchild.'" At length the woman went. She arrived at the cliff. Said she, "Grandfather, I have come after some tent-poles for your grandchild." And some snakes came in sight. And the woman took them; she took the snakes homeward. When she reached home with them, the dog said, "Come, make a small lodge." The woman made tent-poles of the snakes; she made a grass lodge. The dog talked with the woman. "You may think that you have pitied me; but I pity you. You shall be rich. I am Hiⁿqpe-ag^øe; but yonder man vented his spite on me, and maltreated me." And the dog went within the small lodge. And the dog took a sweat-bath. At length he said, "That will do. Uncover me." Behold, he was a very handsome man; he was not a dog, he was a very handsome man. And they slept there. The next day he said, "Let us go." And she went with him. Then Hiⁿqpe-ag^øe took the girl for his wife. At length they arrived at the circle of lodges. And when the people saw them, they said, "The girl who sought her dog has come with a man." And a man said thus to others: "Friends, the man is very handsome, but I think that he is Hiⁿqpe-ag^øe." When they arrived at the lodge, the bad man sat with the fine feather sticking in his hair. And Hiⁿqpe-ag^øe having reached home, he took back his fine feather, and stuck it in his own hair. And when he kicked the bad man, behold, the latter suddenly became a dog, a very mangy dog, caused to howl violently by the kicking. Then Hiⁿqpe-ag^øe said, "Venerable man, please make them kill that dog. The dog is bad." And they took the dog out and killed it. And Hiⁿqpe-ag^øe hunted regularly. He killed various sorts of animals, such as buffaloes, elk, deer—in fact, all kinds of animals—and became very rich. All the tribe continued prosperous and happy. And she whose husband had been killed said to her younger sister, "My younger sister, let us have your husband together." "My elder sister, nevertheless you have said that my husband smells bad. He is very offensive. How could you marry your sister's husband?" And the elder woman was crying all the time, because she wished to marry the man. At length the man said as follows: "Come, I came hither and left none but your husband's father and mother; but at last I wish to see them. I wish to go homeward." The woman told it to her father. "O father, he spoke of seeing his father and mother, he spoke of going homeward," said she. And her father said, "Yes, my child, when they marry men, they invariably follow them. Follow him." And the wife's father gave to his daughter's husband a great many ponies. And the other woman followed them at any rate. When neither the man nor the woman talked with her, still she followed them, crying continually. At length they reached the lodge. Behold, his father, and even his mother, they were very poor, the crows having picked out their eyes. At length the other woman, the elder one, said as follows: "My younger sister, I say that I will heal the eyes of your husband's father and mother. Let him marry me." And the man did not speak. And the woman said as follows: "My elder sister, do so. They must be poor. The man shall surely marry you." And the woman having worked on their eyes, restored their sight.

NOTES.

176, 6. giçabajiqti-hnaⁿ caⁿcaⁿ-biamá, pronounced gi+çabajiqti-hnaⁿ caⁿcaⁿ-biamá by Joseph La Flèche.

176, 12. waiⁿmiⁿ au, equal to waiⁿmiⁿ ta miñke. See "au" elsewhere, as in the myth of the Coyote and the Buffaloes, egiçe naⁿjiⁿ çaaⁿhe çinⁿhe au; and in that of the Raccoons and the Crabs, egiçe naⁿjiⁿ çackaⁿ çinⁿhe au.

176, 13. When the young man was fasting, he knew about the aged Thunderman, who had the Coyote for his servant. The deity told him this.

177, 11. áça. This word is added to express emphasis. I never heard it used in common speech. It is used by the criers in proclaiming the commands of chiefs. See "éçç" in the Dictionary.

177, 11. nikawasaⁿ, O warrior! O warriors! This is derived from the archaic word nika, a male, a man; and with it may be compared the proper name, Miⁿ-wasaⁿ (Female warrior?).

177, 18. egiçe çe-nuga taⁿ t'eç 'iça-biamá. The contraction is from t'éçç 'iça-biamá.

178, 6. ujañge çutaⁿ iheça-gă. This probably meant that they could not resume their march till the body of their comrade had been taken out of the way, and buried.

178, 6. gaⁿ nikawasaⁿ çeçu jaⁿ gaⁿç egaⁿ gaⁿ çeçu jaⁿ te aça. It is almost impossible to give the idea of "gaⁿ" by any single English word. This "gaⁿ" with a rising inflection is very emphatic, and differs from "ga^{n'}, and." The idea in this case was that as the warrior had chosen to lie there, no fault could be found. Gaⁿç egaⁿ is contracted from gaⁿça egaⁿ.

178, 17. t'eçaça-bajĩ ta-bi ehe çactĩ. This phrase shows that "ta-bi" can be used even in quoting the former words of the speaker himself.

179, 15. naⁿpa-bajii-gă. The scene was one well calculated to inspire them with fear; but they were urged not to be afraid of what they saw.

180, 4. editaⁿ añgagi tai aça. The men were tired of so long a journey.

180, 12. iⁿc'agçqtcı, pronounced iⁿc'a+gçqtcı.

180, 13. jiñgactěwaⁿbajĩ, pronounced jiñ+gactěwaⁿbajĩ.

181, 4. çe-nuga ede. It had been a live buffalo-bull, but at the time referred to it was only the carcass of one. So, niaciⁿga ede, it had been a man, but it was then only the body that was carried.

181, 10-11. wana'aⁿ-baji-bi eçegaⁿ egaⁿ. The old man pretended that he thought they said that they did not eat sliced squash, when he knew that they meant human ears.

182, 3; 182, 7; etc. am áça and -biam áça are contractions of amá áça and biamá áça.

182, 18. ha! ha! ha+! Crescendo, as in music.

TRANSLATION.

There was a tribe whose chief had a son, a young man. And the young man was very lazy. He did not desire anything at all; he lay down all the time. And his father said, "My child, if one is a man, he usually travels. Do you travel. Go with the young men and travel. Pay attention to the women, and do, at least, take one of them for a wife." And his son never said anything; he continued sad all the while. Even though his father spoke to him, he said nothing. At length he said, "Father, let my mother make a tent for me." And his mother made a tent for him. "Mother," said he, "make also a couch for me." And the boy entered the tent and fasted. He fasted four seasons: he did not eat any food, and he did not drink water. Only once in a while he took a little food, and drank a little water which his mother brought to him. And it happened while he fasted that he thought in his heart, "Let me see! I will wear a robe made of scalps." And it chanced that a deity spoke to him, saying, "Whatever you desire, that shall you do. You shall surely wear a robe made of scalps." And he made an end of the fast. At length he said, "Father, let my mother cook for me. Send them after an old man for me. I wish to go traveling." "Yes, my child," said the chief, "if one is a man, he is accustomed to travel. So have I always wished you to travel. I do not wish you to die in the lodge. I wish you to die at some place that is away from home. I have always been sad because you did not travel." The old man arrived. And the young man said as follows: "O aged man, go after some of the young men for me." And the old man departed. And as he reached each of the lodges, he said to the young men, "The chief's son has invited you." And a great many young men went to the chief's son. And he said as follows: "Ho! I have invited you that we might go traveling. Let us go on the war-path." And the young men were very glad. And he said, "For four days cause them to make mocassins." In four days they went on the war-path. * * * [What follows was not gained in the original, though told by the same man.—And they came to an aged Thunder-man, who was very poor. None but the leader knew that he was a Thunder-man. And they pitied him, saying, "Let us give him some of our robes and other goods." They did so. Then the old man said, "You think that you have been kind to me. I will be kind to you. I will speak to you about something." When he said this, a Coyote, who was the servant of the old man, standing at the door, gave a wink to the chief's son, who followed him and went outside. Said the Coyote, "When he tells you to choose one of the four sacred bags, take the old otter-skin. All are good, but the rest are not exceedingly good." These bags were, first, a hawk-skin bag; second, a martin-skin bag; third, a bag made of the skin of a bird whose name is forgotten; and, fourth, an otter-skin bag. Then the chief's son and the Coyote re-entered the lodge. And the old man said again, "You have been kind to me, and I will be so to you. Which of these four sacred bags will you take? If you wish to return with scalps and booty in half a day, take the martin-skin. Should you take the hawk-skin, you will return in two days. If you wish to be absent a little while (i. e., several days), take the third. This otter-skin one is good, but it is old and worn." And grasping the otter-skin, the chief's son said, "Grandfather, I will take this, notwithstanding its age." And the old man was in a bad humor, and scolded his servant. "Psha! it seems that this one is he who told it." (In the original, Náji! ꞑéꞑiñké úwagiꞑégaⁿ eskaⁿ.)

"No, grandfather, he did not tell me. I merely decided so." With the otter-skin bag the old man gave him a wooden club. "The owner of the otter-skin bag does whatsoever he desires, no matter how difficult it is. It kills a great many people. If you wish to kill all in any village or place, flourish this club around your head four times, and at the last time say 'Kau+!' It will make thunder." The old man knew what the chief's son thought in his heart, and he said, "After a while say, 'I will wear a robe of scalps, I say.'" (In the original, Gaⁿqti ctécte níka-najíha wáiⁿmiⁿ tá miñke, ehé, á-gă hă, á-biamá.)—Here the translation of the text is resumed.] * * * And in about four days, four men went scouting. When they arrived, there was a populous village. And when they returned to camp they said, "Leader, we have seen a great many lodges." "Warriors, that will do," said he. And they approached very near to the village. And when they reached it, his followers said as follows, "Ho! leader, we have come to the village." Said he, "Ho! warriors, I am not seeking that. I am seeking a different thing." And just so they saw three other villages. Again they went scouting. And as they went scouting, the leader said as follows: "Warriors, should one of your grandfathers be there, beware lest you kill him." And it happened that the scouts found a buffalo bull. Behold, they spoke of killing the standing buffalo bull. "Friends, let us kill the standing buffalo bull," said one. "Why! my friend, the leader said that we were not to kill it," said another. "No, the leader did not mean that, I think," said the former. "Yes, the leader did mean that," said the latter. And they wished to kill it. And the buffalo killed one of the men. And the three went back to camp. And when they got home to camp, they said, "Leader, a buffalo bull was there, and he killed one of us." "Warriors, I said, 'Do not kill your grandfather,'" said he. And when they arrived, the scout lay killed. "Ho! warriors, make the road straight. As the warrior wished to lie here, let him lie here, by all means," said the leader. Again they went on. When they departed again, four went scouting. When they went scouting, the leader said as follows: "Ho! warriors, should one of your grandfathers be moving there, beware lest you kill him." And it came to pass that they saw a big wolf. Behold, they spoke of killing the big wolf. "Friends, let us kill him," said one. "Fie! my friend, the leader said that we were not to kill him," said a second. "No, the leader did not mean that, I think; how could he mean the wolf?" said the first. And when they shot at the wolf, behold, he attacked them and killed one of the four. Having returned to camp they said, "Leader, a big wolf was there, and killed one of us." "Ho! warriors, I said that you must not kill your grandfather," said he. When they arrived, the scout lay killed, and the leader said, "Ho! warriors, make the road straight. As the warrior wished to lie here, let him lie here by all means. Let us go further." They went on, and four went scouting. As they went scouting, the leader said as follows: "Warriors, should one of your grandfathers be moving there, beware lest you kill him." And it happened that the scouts found a grizzly bear. Behold, they spoke of killing the grizzly bear. "Friends," said one, "let us kill the grizzly bear." "Fie! my friend, the leader has said that we are not to kill him," said a second. "No, the leader did not mean that, I think," said the first. "Yes, the leader did mean that, I think," said the second. "No, how could the leader possibly mean the grizzly bear?" said the first. And when they desired to kill the grizzly bear, he killed one of the men. And three went homeward to camp. And when they got back to camp, they said, "Leader, a grizzly bear was there, and he killed one of us." "Ho! warriors, I said, 'Do not kill your grandfather,'" said he. And when they arrived, he lay killed. "Ho! warriors, make the road straight. As the warrior wished to lie here, let him lie here, by all means," said the leader. At length they came to the end of the sky. And the end of the sky was going down into the ground. And the leader said, "Beware, warriors, lest you fear it. Let us go to the other side. Let us leap over. Beware lest you fear it." And the leader having gone, he reached the other side. And all the rest leaped over. One failed to jump across. When the boy wished to jump across, he failed. At length the end of the sky carried him away under the ground. "Come, warriors, let us go. If we wish to be warriors, we must expect such things. Let him lie here." He referred to the man who lay dead. After they departed, they were going for some time. At length they saw a very high hill and a dense forest, a very dense forest of cedars. "Ho! warriors, we are going thither. We will return thence," said he. "Come, warriors, go scouting." And four went as scouts. When they reached there, they saw only the smoke; they did not see the lodge. Having returned, they said, "Leader, although we reached the place, there was smoke, but we did not see the lodge." "Ho! warriors, that is what I am seeking," he said. Again four went scouting. When they reached the very place, though there was smoke, they did not see the lodge. "Leader, though there was smoke, we did not see the lodge," said they. And it was so four times. The fourth time they arrived at the lodge. And the leader said, "Come, warriors, let us enter the lodge." And they entered the lodge. Now, a very old man was dwelling there in the lodge. His head was very large, and his hair was very white. When the leader entered the lodge he did not recognize the old man. But after sitting a great while he recognized the old man (i. e., the old man was going about the lodge when the chief's son entered, and was not recognized; but when both had been sitting a great while, the young man knew who the old one was). The old man thought as follows: "Though my relations suffer very much by going to so great a distance in search of game, some human beings have brought themselves very easily to this lodge. Right at home, I shall kill some men." And the leader thought as follows: "Good! I have said 'I will wear a robe of scalps.' It is indeed a good robe! I will have it." At length one of the younger brothers of the old man came home, bringing a black bear. His head was enormous, and his hair was very red. When he reached home, the old man told the news to his brother. "You had a very hard time traveling; but some have brought themselves right to the lodge. I shall kill them." Again came one carrying a buffalo-bull. His hair was very yellow. And all came home. And one had very green hair; and he carried home a dead man. And he who reached home first said, "O aged man, have the men eaten?" "No, they have not eaten. Cook ye for them," he said. And he said, "Cook ye slices of squash for them." And behold, they cooked the ears of the dead man for them. "We do not eat such things," said they. "If you do not eat such things, what can you eat?" said the old man, acting as if he did not understand them. "Cook ye fine sweet-corn for them," said he. And behold, he meant lice. And they said, "We do not eat such things." And one of the old men said as follows: "Let them cook the black bear and the buffalo, too, for themselves." And they were very joyful. And having cooked for themselves, they had pleasure in eating. Well, at length it was night. When it was night, the old man said as follows: "Grandchild, if a man travel, he has many things to talk about. Tell about yourselves." "Yes, grandfather, you being grown and being an old man, you, for your part, must know a great many things. Do you tell about yourselves first," said he. "Well, grandchild, though I am an old man, I have nothing to tell about ourselves. I will tell a myth," said he. And the old man told a myth. "It happened, grandchild, that there was an old man. And he dwelt in a lodge with his three younger brothers. And when his younger brothers went to a very great distance hunting, they invariably reached home at night. And it happened that when the old man was alone watching the lodge, a great many people entered the lodge. And the old man sat thinking thus, 'Though my own brothers have suffered very much by going from time to time to a very great distance, I shall kill a great many men right in the lodge.'" And he said, "Come, grandchild, do you too tell a myth." "Yes, grandfather, let me tell a myth. It happened that a chief had some villages. And he had a child. And the boy was very lazy. Though his father commanded him to travel, he did not travel. He did not wish at all to do anything whatsoever. At length, the boy having spoken of fasting, his mother made a separate lodge for him. And it happened that the boy thought as follows, as he fasted: 'Let me see! I will wear a robe of scalps.' And the boy went on the war-path with a very great number of men. And there were four men who lived together. And the war-party arrived there. And when they arrived there, the boy sat thinking, 'I did say "I will wear a robe of scalps!" It is indeed a good robe. I will possess it.' One of them had very white hair, and one had very red hair, one had very yellow hair, and one had very green hair." And the old man laughed with him. "Ha! ha! ha! My grandchild has, it seems, guessed the very thing," said he. And when it was night, the leader lay with his eye fixed at a hole in his robe, as he wished to lie watching the old men. And he spoke to his followers: "My followers, beware lest you sleep. Lie without sleeping." And it happened as he was lying down at night, the old man lifted his head very gently, and looked now and then at the supposed sleepers. At length the old man seized his stone hammer. When he seized his hammer, the leader arose suddenly, and brandished his club with a terrible roar, saying, "Kau+!" And he killed all four Thunders. "Ho! warriors, stand ye and take the hair of all. Beware lest ye cut one in pieces. Take the scalps entire," said he. And having finished killing them, they went homeward. Having departed homeward, they came back to the end of the sky. "Ho! come, warriors, begone ye to the other side. Go back to the other side and stand in a row," he said. And they did so. He sent all homeward before him. And he went after. He ran very fast as he went, and leaped very far. And the boy who had gone under the ground went homeward with him, being alive again, just as the leader was. And continuing their homeward journey, they came again to the place of the grizzly bear. It was so again. He sent all homeward before him. And he went homeward after them, running and leaping very far. And he took homeward alive the boy who had been dead. At the place of the wolf it was so again. And at the place of the buffalo it was so again. He reached home with all alive; he did not lose even one. And as they went homeward, they passed by a great many villages. As they passed by them on their way home, he said, "Ho! warriors, that will do. Ye shall surely wear robes made of scalps." And when they reached them again on their way home, having killed all in the villages, he took all their hair. And so he killed all the people of four villages. And they came home to their own tribe. And when all of his villages made him head-chief, he governed them.

TRANSLATION.

The father was a chief. He said as follows: "My child, travel. Either hunt or work. I am a chief. When I sat doing nothing I was not a chief. I worked; I did my best in walking, so I hunted. I am not a great man without cause. So I desire for you. If you do so, you are a great man. If you sit doing nothing, you will not be a chief." The boy said, "Come, father, I will go hunting. Saddle the horse for me." And he went hunting. At length he found some elk. He stationed the horse with his feet tied, and he went thither on foot. He went creeping up on the elk, crawling on his hands and knees. He reached them. When very near he shot at them. And he wounded one slightly. He chased it. As it went along with him after it, it took him a great distance; and the horse, too, stood far off. And having been taken to a very great distance, he was impatient from thirst, and was coming back running to his horse. Thought he, "If I do not drink water, I shall surely die." When he was very impatient from thirst, behold, a spring was there. And he prayed to the Deity. "Ho! Wakanda, it will do; I live. Wakanda, I thought heretofore that I would die. You being the cause, you have made life for me; so I will live, Wakanda." Well, when he went wishing to drink, a snake emerged from the water. It scared him off. He fled. "Alas, Wakanda, I thought heretofore that I would live; but I stand about to die!" He went again to the water to drink. The snake came in sight again. Again he cried and fled. And when he looked that way again, as there was nothing to be seen, he went to drink the water. The snake came in sight again. Again he fled. And when it was the fourth time, as he looked at the snake, behold, it was a very beautiful woman. And the woman filled a small drinking-vessel which she gave to him. "I am very impatient from thirst," said the youth. "Surely I shall not get enough! The water is indeed a little!" thought he. At length the woman made him have the greatest abundance. The youth drank just as much as he could drink. And when the youth looked at the woman he loved her. "A very beautiful woman!" he thought. And when this youth went homeward, the woman gave him a ring. "Wear that ring as you go homeward. And when you will eat, you shall put it on a seat, and say, 'Come, let us eat,'" said the woman. And the man went homeward, running back to the horse. He reached the horse again. Sitting on it, he went homeward. He ran back to the lodge. When he reached home, his father said, "Cook ye for him. He has come back very hungry." And they cooked for him. "Bring ye much food to me," said the son. And they took much food to him. He pulled off the ring. Having pulled it off, he placed it there. "Come, we will eat," said he. Behold, the Snake-woman sat right with him. And when she ate with him, she swallowed the food. When the Snake-woman had swallowed it, behold, she disappeared suddenly. And the youth put on the ring again. And the youth said as follows: "O father, I wish to see the women dance." And his father said as follows: "Ho! my child wishes the women to dance. They shall do so." And an old man went to tell them. He said as follows: "Ye women, the chief's son says that you are to dance." And when he saw the women dancing, he did not find the Snake-woman. He made them stop. "You shall stop the dance," said the old man. And they stopped. He reached home at the lodge. "Come, O father, let my mother cook. I am hungry," he said. And she cooked. "This way! Bring ye it. Bring ye hither much of what is cooked," he said. And when they caused it to be cooked, they took it to him. When it was taken to him, he pulled off his ring, which he placed near him. Having said, "Come, we will eat," behold, the Snake-woman sat right with him. And she ate with him. Again they went so far as to romp with each other, as she had married the man. Again the Snake-woman was missing. The man wore his ring again. Again he said, "O father, I wish to see the women and the very small young women dance." And his father said as follows: "Ho! my child wishes the women and the very small young women to dance. They shall do so." And an old man went to tell them. He said as follows: "Ye women, and ye very small young women also, he wishes to see you dance. He says, 'You shall dance.'" And they danced. When the youth looked around, he did not find the Snake-woman. When he did not find her, he said, "Come, O father, let the women stop dancing." "Ye shall stop the dance," said the crier. And they stopped. He reached home at the lodge. "Come, O father, let my mother cook. I am hungry," he said. And she cooked. "This way! Bring ye it. Bring ye hither much of what is cooked," he said. And when they caused it to be cooked, they took it to him. When they had taken it to him, he pulled off his ring, saying, "Come, we will eat." Behold, the Snake-woman sat right with him. And she ate with him. They romped with each other again. Again the Snake-woman was missing. And the man put the ring on again. Again he said, "Come, O father, let the women and the grown maidens dance." "Ye grown maidens in motion, ye are to dance. The chief's son wishes to see you dance," said the crier. And they danced. And he looked around for the woman. She was not found. Thought he, "I have not found her!" He made them stop, and he went homeward. When he reached home, he commanded one to cook. "Come, O father, let my mother cook. I am hungry," he said. And she cooked. "This way bring ye it. Bring ye hither much of what is cooked," said he. And when they caused it to be cooked, they took it to him. When they took it to him, he pulled off his ring, and said, "Ho! we will eat for the last time in private." Behold, the Snake-woman sat with him suddenly, and ate with him. They continued talking to each other. When they talked, his father heard it. Said he, "With whom is he talking? See ye." A girl went to see. And she said as follows: "O father, my elder brother sits with a very beautiful woman." And it was manifest that the Snake-woman had married him. The Snake-woman went nowhere.

At length the man (i. e., her husband) departed. He found a very beautiful woman, to whom he said, "I will marry you. Tell your father and mother." And the woman reached home to tell it. She said, "O father and mother, the chief's son has promised to marry me." And her father said, "He made fun of you." And when her husband desired another woman, the Snake-woman disappeared in a bad humor. And when she disappeared, he said, "I wish to eat. Let my mother cook." And she cooked. "This way! Bring ye it. Bring ye hither much of what is cooked," he said. And when they caused it to be cooked, they took it to him. When they took it to him, he pulled off his ring, and said, "Come, we will eat." Behold, it was not so (i. e., she did not appear as before). As it was not so, he did not eat. He was displeased because he did not find his Snake-woman. "Take it. I am grieved. I do not desire food," he said. "Come, O father, I will go hunting. Put ye a saddle on the horse's back for me," said he. He put on very good clothing. The horse too was very good. The saddle too was very good. He departed. As he went, behold, he found the trail of the Snake-woman. She had gone back to the spring. He followed the trail of his wife. When he followed the trail of his wife, behold, the trail went through and beyond the spring. He went following the trail of his wife, following, following, following, till at length there was a very unsightly lodge. Having thought, "She may have arrived at this place," he went thither. When he arrived there, behold, a person, a very aged man, was there; his clothing was very much torn in shreds. When this man arrived, he made the old man put on his clothing. The old man was sacred. "Ho! grandchild, you think that you pity me (or, are kind to me) in giving me clothing, yet I pity you. I will talk to you. The woman whom you have been following went that way. She went across the great water. Ho! you shall put on this very bad clothing and go." Having said it, the old man gave it to him. He gave him the hat, too. He gave him a sword, too. He gave him the bad, lame horse, too. And he said, "Come, you shall go. The woman reached a village which is there." "Yes," said the young man. "When you get across," said the old man, "you shall talk to some persons who are there. If they do not obey your words, you shall send them away." "Yes, grandfather," he said, having thanked him.

And he departed. When he reached the big water, the water was wide. The old man having performed a sacred rite, as he sat with closed eyes, sent him over the water at a stride. When he opened his eyes, behold, the young man reached the other side. The lodge was there; and the smoke arose in a straight column. "This is the lodge of which my grandfather told heretofore. This is it," said he. Having arrived there, he entered. Behold, two old men sat there, and they were aged Thunder-men. The rest had gone hunting. When he pushed down on his head the hat which the old man had given him, the old men did not detect him. And behold, the Thunders were eating men like us. Yet, when they sat without discovering him, the youth sat thinking, "They behave very wrong! My grandfather meant these when he said that I should talk to them." And when they filled a pipe, he made himself visible, having pulled off his hat. He snatched the pipe from them. When the pipe was hot, he held it against the other aged Thunder-man. "I am burnt!" said the old man. And when the young man pushed on his hat, he was missing. "Why! A man brought himself hither very easily heretofore. Why was he not destroyed?" said one. The other said as follows: "When I said that I left him for you, why was he not destroyed? Those who are coming home will blame us. They will scold us because a man went away again who had come hither very easily." At length one came home carrying a man whom he had killed. "Take ye that object," said he. Having taken it, they laid it by the side of the lodge. "Well-a-day! You will surely blame us. A man went away again who had brought himself hither very easily," they said. "Fie! What were you about that you let him go homeward and did not kill him? We have always gone a very great distance. When he came hither with no trouble to you, and you let him go homeward instead of killing him, you did wrong. I hate you. Come, fill ye the pipe, simpletons!" said he. And having filled the pipe, they gave it to him who had brought back the man. When the old man had taken a whiff from the pipe, the youth snatched it from him, and pressed it against him. "I am burnt!" said he. "It was not I," said one. The other said, "It was not I." The youth pulled off his hat. He sat suddenly with them. "What thing did you say?" said he. "We said nothing," said they. "You were speaking," said the youth. "Come, do ye as ye wish to do." They denied it. "Friend, it is not so. We were not speaking," said they. When the three looked at him, behold, the youth pushed on his hat very suddenly, and was missing.

"Why! younger brother, you blamed us formerly," they said, as they scolded him. "Younger brother, why did you let the man go homeward instead of killing him? You blamed us heretofore. Those who are coming home will surely blame us," said the first ones. At length one came home. He brought an infant home on his back. "Take ye that," said he. They laid it by the wall. Said he, "I went very far, and I have brought this home on my back." They said as follows: "Younger brother, a man came hither very easily heretofore. We did not kill him, and he went homeward. Yonder one blamed us, but he was just as unsuccessful. We left it to him to kill the man, so we did not kill him." He said as follows: "Why! I suffered very much formerly in going a great distance. When one came hither very easily, and you let him go homeward instead of killing him, you did wrong. If I see him, I will kill him at all events." When they were scolding each other, the youth pulled off his hat, and sat suddenly just like them. "What did you say?" said he. "We did not speak," they said. "Friend, we said nothing." They denied it. The boy was feared. "You were speaking. Speak ye what thing ye said." "Friend, we spoke not of anything whatsoever," said they. When he put on his hat, behold, he disappeared suddenly. "Younger brother, what were you doing that you let him go homeward instead of killing him? You blamed us heretofore. A man has been coming regularly heretofore, and we have missed doing to him what we wished. We have not killed him. Now, it is very difficult for one of those who are coming home to love us. They will scold us," said they. Again one came home. He carried a woman and a girl. "Ho! younger brother, you will hate us. A man came hither very easily heretofore, but we sent him back again instead of killing him," they said. "Well-a-day!" said he. "Why did you not kill him? We have always gone very far when hunting. We usually suffer very much in reaching there. Why did you not kill him? I hate you." "Yes, younger brother, it is so. Notwithstanding we saw him, we were always so. He always went home again. You tell the truth. He will come," said they. "If I see him I will kill him. Fill ye the pipe," said he who had just come home. And having filled the pipe, they gave it to him who had brought back the slain woman and girl. When he drew a whiff from the pipe, the youth snatched it from him and pressed it against him. "I am burnt! You burn me," he said. "It was not we," they said. The youth having pulled off his hat, sat with them suddenly. He was visible. They looked repeatedly at one another. "O ye who do thus as he told of you, I will talk to you," said the youth. "Though I will talk to you, if you do not obey the words, you shall surely depart. If you obey, you shall not go. You make these men suffer. Why do you kill them?" "We will eat them," said they. "And who are these that you eat? You do wrong. You must stop killing these," said he. "Yes, friend," said they. "Have you seen them that have horns," said he, meaning the buffalo. "Yes, there are a great many," they said. "Wakanda made these for food for all people. When you eat these human beings, you do wrong. Put a stop to it," said the youth. "Have you seen those too?" said he, meaning the elk. "Yes," said they. "Eat such," said the youth. "Have you seen those too?" said he, meaning the deer. "Yes, we have seen a great many," they said. "You shall eat such animals. Let these human beings alone. You make them suffer without just cause. If you will do as I command, I will talk to you." "Yes, friend, we will do so," said they. "You will surely stop it?" said he. "Yes, friend, we will stop it," said they. "And you will surely eat these animals which I have commanded you to eat?" said he. "Yes, friend, we will eat them," said they. "Ho! I will depart. Though I will depart, I will pass here on my return home. Those of you who tell not the truth, shall surely depart. Those of you who tell the truth, shall remain continually. Ye who eat these animals when I return, shall surely be here continually. Ye who are not so when I return, shall surely depart," said the youth. And he departed.

He went following again the woman's trail as it went along. Having gone following the trail as it went along, and went, and went, at length there was a populous village. And the Snake-woman had arrived there. When the youth approached very near to the lodges, he decorated himself (i. e., painted his face, stuck feathers in his hair, etc.). Having performed a sacred rite, he made the clothing very good which the old man had given him. He made the horse very black. And he wore the sword in his belt. He went thither. The horse went along running and leaping very far. When the people saw them, they became suddenly amazed. "A man has come, and his clothing is very good. He also sits on a very good horse," they said. As he had come seeking his wife, the Snake-woman, he went round about among the lodges. He sat looking around for his wife. At length when he found the Snake-woman, behold, she had taken a man for her husband. He who came to seek her hated her; he was jealous of her. When he was jealous, he took the sword the old man had given him, and brandished it. At the fourth time he killed all in the village. He killed the Snake-woman too. The youth went homeward. As he went homeward, he came again to those with whom he had talked. Behold, they had not told the truth when they promised to stop it. "You are indeed disobedient! Though I said that you were to stop it, you have not obeyed. You shall surely depart. If you remained here, I am afraid that you would treat the human race very wantonly; so you shall depart on high. When you who kill men go on high, whenever the day is very warm, you shall make the men cool again," said he, referring to the rain. And he said, "Come, depart ye." And he sent them on high. And he went homeward. He reached the big water. "Ho! venerable man, I am going back to you," said he. When the old man sat with closed eyes, he sent the youth across the water at one stride. He got across, when the old man opened his eyes. He came again to the old man. "Ho! grandfather, I have come back. I talked to the persons to whom you said that I was to talk; but they did not obey my words, therefore I sent them on high," said he. "Ho! It will do," said the old man. "It was right for you to send them away." "And this one whom I went following after, I reached when she had taken another husband; therefore I killed all in the village. I did the deed just as you commanded me to do it," said he. "Yes, it will do. As I desired you to do the deed, so I gave it to you," said the old man, referring to the sword. "Come, grandfather, I will go homeward. I wish to see my father," said the youth. He went homeward. The horse was very lame; the clothing was very bad; the hat was very bad; it was very much torn. And his father regarded him as dead. "He died!" thought he. The youth reached home. When he reached home at the village, the people did not know him. "A very poor person has come," said they. He went to the lodge of the head-chief. Having returned to his father's lodge, he entered. His father, too, did not recognize him. "O father, it is I. I have come home," said he. "Yes, it is well. You have come home. As I thought that you were dead, I sat sorrowful. As you have come home, it is well. When I was young, my child, I traveled regularly over large tracts of land. I always came home very poor, having given away all that I had, so I am a great man. Ho! You shall take a wife. You shall have a woman," said he. He said as follows: "O father, I love a woman in that place. Is she unmarried?" "Yes, she is unmarried," said his father. "Then, O father, send them thither." And his father sent them thither. They arrived there. "The chief's son wishes to marry your daughter," said they. And the woman's father said as follows: "As I am poor, I did not think that it would be so. But as he pities her, it is well." And he gave the woman to the man. And he married her. The boy had a woman, and he had a lodge. And people from a different place rushed on them. When they rushed on them, they attacked each other here and there (i. e., not in regular order). And the boy who had just married was killed there. (Though there is much more of the myth, I do not remember it.)

TRANSLATION.

Once there was a man who dwelt in a lodge with his woman. The woman was pregnant. As he killed deer, they dwelt very happily. At length the husband feared some unseen danger. "Beware, when I leave you, lest you look at any one who comes. Sit with your back to him," he said. At length the man departed. At length a person was approaching. "Really! she is sitting for me, her relation, without any one at all with her! I am always fortunate in searching for things." The woman lay by the side of the door, and did not look at him. At length the husband was coming home from the hunt. The old man went homeward. The husband reached home. "How was it?" said he. "It was thus as you said here. An old man came, but I did not look at him," said she. "O my wife, be sure to do your best. Though he will surely come regularly, never look at him," said he. The husband went hunting again. And it was so four times. At length the old man arrived. "I have come again, O first daughter of the household," said he. She did not look at him. The husband was coming home again from the hunt. The old man went homeward again. "How was it?" said the husband. "The old man came again," said she. "Be sure not to look at him," said the husband. When the fourth time came, and the old man went homeward, the woman peeped. When she looked at him, behold, it was Two-faces that was moving along. The woman lay dead. "Ha! ha! I always do that to them," said the old man. Having slit the stomach of the woman with a knife, the infants were twins; both were boys. Having wrapped one in a skin with the hair on, he laid it by the side of the lodge, and he took the other homeward. He thrust it headlong into a crack in a log. (See Note 1.) The husband reached home. Behold, the woman was dead, and she lay with her stomach cut open. He wrapped his wife in a robe, and buried her in the ground. The husband reached his home at the lodge. When he reached home, behold, a child was crying by the side of the lodge. "Alas! my dear little child," said he. Having gone thither, he took his child. Behold, it was a boy. Being a boy, he was quick to sit alone. He was very forward in learning to run and to pull the bow. "O father, make me a small bow." The man made blunt arrows for him. And he used to shoot at birds. The father used to teach him, when about to go hunting. "When the fresh meat is cooked on the fire, and is done, you may eat it; and then you may sleep. Never go far away to play," said he. The father went to hunt. At length a boy was approaching suddenly. He was approaching, making a song. "Younger brother, as you have a father, you are standing at home eating rations of soup. I, as I have no father, am eating turkey-pease as I walk," he said in his song. "Younger brother, has your father gone?" "Yes, elder brother, my father has gone. Come, let us eat many of these roasting-pieces. Come," said the younger. "That sitting one is your father, younger brother," said the elder. "For shame! elder brother, my father has gone," said the younger. At length he went right into the lodge. Having gone in, he ate with him the pieces stuck on sticks to roast. He sat playing with his brother. "Younger brother, yonder comes your father," he said. He had gone with a sudden rush. "He has forgotten everything," said the elder brother. "Why! I prepared many roasting-pieces for you heretofore. You have swallowed them!" said the father. "I, O father," said he, having forgotten the words which he wished to say. "Ho! I will go hunting again. I will make pieces like those for you, and then I will go," said his father. The boy was approaching again. "Has your father gone?" said he. "Yes, elder brother, my father has gone. Come," said the younger brother. And the boy sat with his younger brother again, eating fresh meat. "Younger brother, yonder comes your father," said he. He went homeward again. "He has forgotten everything," said the elder brother. "Why! I prepared for you heretofore a great quantity of food. You have done naught but swallow it," said his father. "I, O father," said he, forgetting it. "I will do so for you again," said the father. He prepared for him a great many roasting-pieces. The boy was approaching again, after the father departed. "Has your father gone?" said he. "Yes, elder brother, my father has gone. Come," said the younger brother. And the boy sat again with his younger brother, eating fresh meat. "Younger brother, yonder comes your father," he said. "Again has he forgotten everything," said the elder brother. He had gone back again with a very sudden rush. "Why! I prepared for you heretofore a great quantity of food. You have done naught but swallow it," said the father. "O father, my elder brother comes regularly," said the boy. "Alas! my dear little child! My child, when your mother was pregnant with you, Two-faces killed her. As you were cut out of her, you grew up very poor. When your elder brother comes, you shall take hold of him. You shall say, 'O father, I have hold of my elder brother,'" said he. Well, when it was the fourth time, the boy was approaching. "Has your father gone?" said he. "Yes, elder brother, my father has gone. Come," said the younger brother. The father had changed himself into a buffalo neck that was dried very hard. He lay inside the door. "Elder brother, let us hunt lice for each other," said the younger.

"Yes," said the elder. When he hunted lice, he wrapped his elder brother's scalplock round and round his hand. "O father, I have hold of my elder brother," said he. "Do not let your elder brother go," said the father. The father arose suddenly. The boy wished very much to go homeward. At length he ceased struggling and became motionless. "My child, it is I. You and your younger brother are near relations to each other. When your mother was pregnant with you, Two-faces killed her, and both of you grew up very poor," said he. "O father and younger brother, make a small bow for me. We must shoot at birds regularly," said the elder brother. They used to go to shoot at birds. "Beware lest you and your younger brother go thither to the spring in that unseen place," said the father. After he left, the elder brother said, "Younger brother, let us go to the spring of which your father told." "For shame! elder brother, my father commanded us not to go," said the younger. "Then hand the hair back to me," said the elder brother. "Let us see!" said the younger. Both went to the spring. Behold, the snakes were shaking their rattles just in this manner, at the spring. "Younger brother, we have found many pretty pets. Younger brother, let us take them homeward," said the elder brother. Having cut off the tails and wrapped them up, they took them homeward. When they reached home, they tied the tails around the door. The father reached home, bringing a deer. When he laid down the deer at the door on reaching home, there was a slight rattling. "You have done very wrong. Go and take the tails back to the snakes," said he. At length they went to take them back. On their arrival, they thrust each tail on its own snake. When the father went hunting again, he said, "Beware lest you go to the deep ravine." "Younger brother, let us go to the gorge of which your father told," said the elder brother. "For shame! elder brother, my father commanded us not to go," said the younger brother. "Then hand the hair back to me," said the elder brother. "Let us see!" said the younger brother. Both went to the gorge. Behold, a very old woman was sitting there, making pottery. "Younger brother, this one who is sitting is your grandmother. Grandmother, we have come for you," said he. "Though I have been sitting thus for many years, grandchild, who can pull me out of this to which I am sticking? If I stick to you when you carry me, in that way will I always stick to you," said the old woman. "Come, carry your grandmother. As your father causes us to take care of the lodge, let us sit with your grandmother. Break some of the kettles," said the elder brother. The younger brother broke in many. At length he went homeward, carrying her to the lodge. "Come, grandmother, get off," he said. "No, grandchild, I always stick in the way that I stick," she said. "Tickle your grandmother in the ribs," said the elder brother. Notwithstanding he tickled her in the ribs, she continued sitting. "Hit her on the hip-bone with the stone-hammer," said the elder brother. Having hit her on the lower part of the back, he made her fall off suddenly. At length the father reached home. "O father, we carried my grandmother, and brought her home," said the younger brother. "Really! you have done very wrong. Go, and put your grandmother down." They went, carrying her. They took her again to the gorge whence they had brought her. "Come, grandmother, get off," said the younger brother. "No, grandchild, I always stick in the way that I stick," said the old woman. At length, having hit her on the lower part of the back, he made her fall off suddenly. They reached home again. The father said, "A tree stands on the headland of the high bluffs. Beware lest you go thither." And he went hunting. "Younger brother, let us go to the tree of which your father told," said the elder brother. "Why! elder brother, he commanded us not to go," said the younger. "Then hand the hair back to me," said the elder brother. "Let us see! Let us go," said the younger brother. Behold, young Thunder-birds sat hatching in the nest in the tree. They were four. "O younger brother, I have found these few pet animals. We will take the pet animals home to your father. Go and climb after them," said the elder brother. "I am unwilling, elder brother. Do you go," said the younger. "Come, I will go for them," said the elder brother. He went climbing. He arrived there above. "Younger brother, these pet animals are very pretty. When I throw them down to you, kill them. You who are that, what is your name?" said he. "Ji-uçiaⁿba is my name," said the young Thunder-bird. "Ho! younger brother, Ji-uçiaⁿba goes to you. Look after him," said he. When he threw him down, the younger brother stunned him. "You who are that, what is your name?" said the elder brother. "Çigçize-maⁿçiⁿ is my name," said he. "Ho! younger brother, Çigçize-maⁿçiⁿ goes to you. Look after him," said he. When he threw him down, the younger brother stunned him. "And you who are that, what is your name?" said he. "Çiaⁿba-tigçe is my name," said he. "Ho! younger brother, Çiaⁿba-tigçe goes to you. Look after him," said he. When he threw him down, the younger brother stunned him. "And you who are that, what is your name?" said he. "Zi-gçihe is my name," said he. "Ho! younger brother, Zi-gçihe goes to you. Look after him," said he. When he threw him down, the younger brother knocked him senseless. When he hit at them, he missed killing them. And the tree shot up very high, very far away from the ground. "O! younger brother, do make an effort to rescue me," said the elder, calling from the distance in a loud voice. "O! elder brother," said he, standing crying, with tears in his eyes. "O! younger brother, do make an effort," said the elder. At length the younger brother came to himself. When he struck the tree with the stone-hammer, he sang, "This tree shortens of its own accord, shortens of its own accord." It became shorter. "Do make an effort, younger brother," said the elder. It was so again. When he said, "This tree shortens of its own accord, shortens of its own accord," behold, the tree became so. When the fourth time came, the tree was as before; it stood as tall as it had been before the accident. "Younger brother, that will do," said he. Having taken the young Thunder-birds, they carried them homeward. They reached home with them. Having placed them inside the lodge, there were frequent flashes in there. Both boys sat laughing. "Elder brother, when my father comes home, he cannot love them only a little," said the younger. The father reached home. When he pulled up the door-flap, there were frequent flashes. "You have done very wrong indeed. Carry them thither," said he. When they arrived there with them, they placed them in the nest again. The boys reached home. "Do you and your younger brother beware lest you go to the big lake whose shore is filled with canes," said the father. The father went hunting. "Younger brother, let us go to the big lake to which your father commanded us not to go," said the elder brother. "Fie! elder brother, my father commanded us not to go," said he. "Then hand my hair back to me," said the elder brother. "Let us see! Let us go," said the younger brother. They went thither. When they arrived there, behold, the sandy beach lay very level by the water. Four-footed reptiles were there, moving while standing very thick. "Younger brother, we have found very pretty pet animals," said the elder. Both brothers having tied their tails, and having made them into packs, they carried just that many homeward. They got home to the lodge with them. The lizards walked about by the door and sides of the lodge. And when the boys walked as they played, and their feet trod on the tails of the lizards, they made them cry out. The father came home bringing a deer; he was coming from a place near by. When he threw it down by the door, and it pressed down on the door, they were crying out in a long line. "It is very bad. From whatever place you have brought them, take them thither," said he. They went with them. Having gone with them, in spite of their desire to keep them, they threw them suddenly into the lake where they belonged. They reached home.

NOTES.

Another version of part of this myth, given by F. La Flèche, is as follows: When his brothers reached home he told them what had happened. But they ridiculed his story as an impossibility. When he unwrapped the bundle, they exclaimed: "Brother, you spoke the truth. It is indeed an infant. She will grow up and be our sister. She can then keep the lodge for us." She was not long in reaching womanhood, although, when found she was tiny, just the size of the splinter. When she was grown a red bird came to see her. It was not a real bird, but a man who took the form of a bird. One day, when the brothers were absent, the red bird carried her away. When the brothers returned, lo! their sister was missing. So they started in search of her. In the mean time, the red bird flew back to the lodge, his intention being to lead them to the place whither he had taken the girl. When he reached the lodge, the younger brother was there. As soon as he spied the bird, he tried to shoot him. But though he emptied his quiver, he could not hit the bird. At last he made a sacred arrow, which he shot at the bird, wounding him. But the bird flew off with the arrow sticking to him. The young man followed the bird.

 All people had heard of the four young men by report. And when the boy reached there, they knew him. They said as follows: "One of the four persons, who, as they say are famous, has come hither, it is said."

219, 10. ciñgajiñga ke. Here "ke" denotes the horizontal attitude of the infant.

220, 11. ugajideqtiaⁿ, from ugajide. Jide means "red;" u-, "in," and ga- implies the effect of striking, falling, of the wind blowing or of light shining through a red medium, as through colored water in the window of a drug store.

220, 21. úçai çaⁿctī: "They used to be famous (but they are not so now)"; but úçai ama çaⁿ refers to a class: "They who are famous, it is said." See last line of p. 223.

222, 11. çī haci çīi çandi. In going to the lake, his last stopping-place was the fourth village. On his return homeward, it was the first place which he reached. As he had a wife at the lodge, and as the lodge had been given him, he could call it his home.

222, 16. wiçahaⁿ mandé gatēdi abçīⁿ agçī. This is an elliptical expression. It should read, wiçahaⁿ aka mandé aⁿçīi kē gatēdi abçīⁿ agçī, I have brought back to that place out of sight (that is, to the creek) the boats which my sister's husband gave to me.

223, 3. hebádi aki-jaⁿ. Hebadi shows that they had gone but part of the way home; and aki-jaⁿ, means "they lay down, having gone that far on their way home."

TRANSLATION.

There were four brothers who dwelt by themselves. They had neither mother nor sister. One day three of them went hunting, and the youngest one remained at the lodge. He chanced to hurt his foot with a splinter. Having pulled out the splinter, he wrapped it up in some fine buffalo hair, and placed it at the side of the lodge. He wished his elder brothers to see the splinter that had caused him pain. By and by the boy went for water, as he was thirsty. And when he had come very near to the lodge again, a child was crying inside the lodge. While he went homeward, behold, it was the splinter which had hurt him; it had become a child. And having wrapped it up again, he laid it at the side of the lodge. When his elder brothers reached home, he told them. "Elder brothers, my foot was hurt, and I took the splinter which hurt me; but it is an infant." Said they, "Stop! Younger brother, get it and show it to us. We must see it." And when he got it, behold, it was a girl. "Younger brother, heretofore we have had no children. Let us bring her up very well," said they. And the younger brother said, "Elder brothers, what relation shall we consider her?" And one said, "Let her be our child." And they said, "No. We have no sister. Let us have her for a sister." Having said, "Yes," all had her for a sister. And as she was an infant, and they wished to bring her up, they took very great care of her. And she became a grown woman. At length all four went hunting. The woman alone did not go. The four men were always very kind to the woman. At length a man arrived at the lodge. And he went homeward with the woman. When he went homeward with her, behold, all of her elder brothers reached home. Behold, their sister had disappeared. When they searched for her, they did not find her. And when the rest went to hunt for her, the youngest brother had been to hunt for her, but he reached home without finding her. Then all the grown ones went to search for her. (That is, the youngest brother went first, alone; but he could not find her. After his return, the three grown brothers went for the same purpose, leaving him at the lodge.) At length something very red was shining through the lodge from the inside. When he peeped in, after thinking, "What can it be?" behold, it was a bird. And seizing a bow he shot at him. And he missed him every time, till he had shot at him with all the arrows, though he had a great many of them. He shot away all the arrows but one, which had been made sacred; and finally he shot with it. He wounded him with the sacred arrow; with it he wounded the bird that stood. And the bird went homeward with the arrow sticking to him. And the youth went following him, having thought, "Though my elder brothers prize the arrow very highly, I shall lose it." And there was a very populous village. And the youth arrived there. When he reached there, the people recognized him. "The youngest of the four young men who are said to be brothers, has come! One of those who were indeed famous marksmen has come," said they. And they went to tell it to the chief. "The youngest of the four young men who are said to be brothers, has come! One of those who were indeed famous marksmen has come," said they. And the head-chief said, "Bring ye my daughter's husband to me." And having gone thither for him, they returned with him to the chief. And the chief said, "My daughter's husband, you will marry this girl. And I will also give you a lodge." Well, after a while, they lay down. The youth lay with the girl. And the youth questioned her. "Have you not seen some kind of bird passing here on its way home?" said he. "Yes," said she; "very early yesterday morning a red bird passed by on its return, and it went with an arrow sticking to it." And he said, "You can tell your father that, though I have taken you as my wife, I go traveling. I will come back." And the youth departed. She told it to her father. "O father, he has gone traveling. He has promised to return," she said. And the youth went on. And there was a very large village. He arrived there. "One of the four men who are famous has come," they said. And the chief heard it. This chief, too, gave him a daughter for a wife; and so did the chiefs of two other villages. But he left his wives, and continued the search for his sister and the red bird. After leaving the fourth village, he came to a great lake. The red bird had gone into the water of a very large lake. The boy went thither. And behold, his sister came in sight (i. e., she came up out of the water). "O elder brother, come this way," said she. But the youth continued to fear the water. As he went thither, the water separated, leaving a passage between. And that served as an entrance. When they arrived inside, behold, the woman and her husband were far from being poor. They had a great abundance of possessions. And the youth was very glad to see his sister. And his sister too was very glad. His sister's husband, too, was very glad. His sister had hung up the arrow with which he had wounded the red bird, who was her husband. It had been well placed in a horizontal position, in which it still remained. And when he had been there a little while, he remembered his elder brothers. Said he, "Well, my little sister, I wish to go homeward. I remember your elder brothers." And the woman told her husband. "Your wife's brother speaks of going homeward," said she. And his sister's husband made him four small boats, each one very small (i. e., about six inches in length). "Wife's brother, you shall take those things homeward with you. Wife's brother, when you desire anything, after you say, 'Such and such goods I wish!' put a boat into the water," said he. And the young man went homeward. Having had the small boats, he also took homeward his arrow with which he had wounded the red bird. When he went homeward, he reached at length his lodge in the last village. And he put one boat in the water of a creek that was there. When he put the boat in the water, the boat was very full of different kinds of goods; the boat was made very large. And when he finished, he went homeward to his lodge. He got home to the woman. And he said as follows: "I have brought back from my sister's husband a boat which is in that place. Let some one go after it for the venerable man, your father." And they went after it, and reached home with it. And his wife's father had a boat; his wife's father had it very full of goods. And when it was night, they lay down. When they lay down, the man said as follows, "I will go homeward to-morrow, as I wish to see your husband's brothers." And the woman said as follows, "O father, he speaks of going homeward. He speaks of seeing his elder brothers, hence he speaks of going homeward." And the chief said, "They who take men for husbands always follow them. Follow him." And the woman went homeward with the man. And when they lay down for the night on the homeward way, the man lay alone; the woman too lay alone. He never lay with her.

(F. La Flèche told the following conclusion :

The woman wondered why he did so; but he was reserving her for one of his brothers. So he did with the daughters of the chiefs of the third and second villages. But when he reached the first village, he kept the daughter of the chief as his wife, as she was not jealous; and, besides, he loved her. The other women were jealous. When he arrived at home, he gave the other women to his brothers; and so all found wives. The End.)

NOTES.

226, 3. nuxe kě, the ice at the place whither they went for water. Note that water and ice existed before the alleged origin of rivers from Haxige's tears.

226, 7. waǵiⁿ aǵa-biama, he took them along; i. e., he pursued them. This is a common use of aǵiⁿ ǵe.

227, 8. utaⁿnadi ǵictaⁿ te ama. The kettle had been dropped after he left the place for getting water.

227, 9. hiⁿsańga+, etc. Sanssouci suggested "wajiⁿ wigisiǵe" instead of "waye wigisiǵe." He said that the former could be used if the dead brother was near the size and age of the speaker. "Waye" is ǵwiwere in form, and "hiⁿsańga+" may have been intended for the ǵwiwere, hiⁿǵũne. "He misańga" is the Dakota "he! misũnka" (he! misunka) expressed in ǵegiha notation. Thus we have traces of three languages in the lament of Haxige. Frank La Flèche reads "hiⁿsaⁿǵaⁿ+" instead of "hiⁿsańga+." He thinks that the Omahas used "waye" in former days, and that "no+" should be "aǵa u+!"

228, 4. maⁿa maⁿciadiqti ǵaⁿ ǵandi. There were several very high cliffs at that place, perhaps very close together. ǵisańga ǵdi aǵiⁿ aki: Frank La Flèche read, aǵiⁿ aki-biama, instead of aǵiⁿ aki.

228, 7. ǵehuǵǵabe nadĩndĩngiǵě jaⁿ-hnaⁿi. Sanssouci thought that ǵehuǵǵabe, tripe, was a mistake, and that it should be omitted. The Omahas who were in Washington in August, 1881, rejected ǵehuǵǵabe, and substituted "níxa waciⁿ áǵahadi ǵaⁿ, the fat outside the belly."

229, 3. gasninde refers to the impetus given to the arrow when hit by the bow-string.

229, 4. t'ewaǵa-biama means "he wounded them," though its literal rendering is "he killed them."

229, 10. i ǵiⁿ egaⁿ ǵǵadiⁿ jaⁿ-biama. Haxige crouched down suddenly, and lay across the path of the person who was approaching. It was Ictinike, disguised as Hega, the Buzzard.

229, 17. agidanaⁿ. Possessive of abanaⁿ, to witness a person, his relation, performing a ceremony, or engaging in a contest.

230, 9. 'aⁿ-hnaⁿ ajaⁿ tě, how you do it. Sanssouci said that this was not as correct as, eátaⁿ-hnaⁿ ájaⁿ-hnaⁿ'iⁿte, why you will do it.

231, 8. ǵijebe agaha. It seems that there were two coverings to the entrance: the ǵijebe agaha, the outer one; and the skin of Haxige's brother, the inner one.

231, 9. isańga kě. The article pronoun kě shows that the brother was dead; but gaxa-bitáⁿ ama denotes that his form (skin) was placed in the position of a standing animate object.

232, 14. nadaⁿ ictá da tẽ jugče gaxa-gă. Sanssouci said that this meant, "Make extra eyes with the head," so that you may not be detected. "Be more than ever on the alert." But I think that it refers to the nose, and not to the head, if icta and da be separable. On the other hand, the stress (in the words ictá da) seems to bind them together as one word. Frank La Flèche cannot explain this.

233, 7. edadaⁿ baskičě, there is something to be angry about; there is cause for anger. The opposite is učade čĩnge.

234, 5. It appears from the context that wacige means some disease, impurity of the blood, etc., Compare čacige, to speak evil of; iučacige, to slander; and with the root "cige" compare the Winnebago, cícik, bad; and the Dakota, citca (śića), bad. The Dakota final tea (ća) is often equivalent to the Čegiha final ga or ge.

234, 6. baxu duba - - - ečaⁿbe pi te ača. Does this refer to the belief in four worlds above this one?

234, 7. wakanda ɣaŋga agčaŋkaⁿhaⁿ hniŋkěce, Thou great deity on either side; i. e. the earth-god and the sky-god.

235, 4. učihe tate, etc. The behavior of Haxige's brother made the elder brother determine that the souls of Indians should never return to this world. "Well, younger brother, as I have failed to keep you here, when red men die, though the earth be this large around, as you go thus, so shall it be with them. They shall never come back."

235, 5. niučuanda čečaⁿska. In the Čiwere myth of Day and his Children, an island in a lake represents the world.

236, 12. azekiče taite. Meaning uncertain, especially if spoken by Haxige. If used by the narrator alone, it may mean, "They shall practice again on themselves;" but that is very doubtful. Frank La Flèche doubts its use here.

237, 1. Haxige may be the mythical ancestor of the Čada or Deer-head gens; and his brother, of the Mačĩŋka-gaxe or Wolf gens. See their position in the Omaha tribal circle. The Beaver-woman and the Grass-snake spoke of the hero as Haxuɣa. This latter is the Čiwere form of Haxige.

TRANSLATION.

Haxige dwelt in a lodge with no one but his younger brother. The elder brother used to go out hunting. He used to shoot deer. It happened that he feared some unseen danger. Addressing the younger, he said, "Whatsoever small animal passes along on the ice by the place where we get water, let it alone." The elder brother went out hunting. The younger brother took a kettle, and went for water. At length two Otters came. The younger brother passed along on the ice, and attacked them. He carried a stick on his arm. When he reached the place, he hit them repeatedly. And he continued after them. At length they reached their home, the den of a Water-monster, and they went headlong into it with him. They fastened the entrance. The elder brother reached home, carrying a deer which he had not skinned. When he reached home, he threw down the deer by the door. His brother did not stir at all. "Here! Take it, brother," he said. He did not speak. "I suppose that you are asleep," said he. Pulling open the door, behold, his brother was missing. "Alas! my dear little younger brother, I thought that it would be so, and so it is," he said. He ran to the place for getting water, to see after him. When he reached the place for getting water, behold, the footprints of his brother had gone beyond. When he was following his trail, behold, there was the place where he had struck the Otters. Having known that he hit them, he said, "Alas!" The kettle had been dropped in the space between the two places. The elder brother continued to follow him. When he could not find him, he wept. "My younger brother! My younger brother! My younger brother! My younger brother! When I remember thy disposition (?), I am crying. Alas! my younger brother. Alas! my younger brother. Had it been I, friend younger brother, I would have reached home," he said. Wandering over the whole earth, he went seeking his brother. When he cried, the water flowed very rapidly in many long streams, making very large creeks. His tears were the rivers. On the bank of a stream the grass was lying in good condition. There he lay down. As he lay, two Ducks came thither. They went diving. And they came up again. One said as follows: "My friend, when Haxige's younger brother was killed, I had a great abundance of food. How was it with you?" "My friend, I did not have a good time. Only the little finger was left for me; and I said that no matter when I saw him, I would tell him about his own," said the other Duck. And when Haxige heard it, he became a leaf. Having fallen on the water, the leaf went floating in the space between the Ducks. When he reached the very place, he seized the Ducks by the necks. "You two persons, what have you been saying?" said Haxige. "Yes, elder brother, it is so," said one. "Elder brother, I have been saying that I would tell the news. Elder brother, do loosen your hold on me. I have been saying that I would tell you about your brother. Elder brother, they took your younger brother home by the succession of very high cliffs, to the land in that direction," said he. He tore the first Duck into many pieces, and threw them away. He questioned the other Duck: "On what occasions do they emerge from their den?" "At noon, when the fog is blown very dense, and when it is very warm, they lie to make the fat on their bellies firm by exposure to the heat of the sun. During the day it is so," he said.

And Haxige became an eagle and departed. Behold, the monsters lay flat on their backs. Thence was he coming back to earth to attack them. "Haxige is coming toward you," was said. He failed. They had already gone back into the lodge. Haxige went home again. Having reached his home, he thought, "What shall I do to get even with them?" Well, he went again on a similar day. When he had reached a very great height, he became a leaf again. Thence, having become a leaf, he was coming back again to earth to attack them. "Haxige is coming toward you," was said. Again he failed to attack them, as they had gone back into the lodge. And Haxige went homeward, having failed again. Again there was a similar day. And he became like a blue-backed bird-hawk. Thence, having become like a blue-backed bird-hawk, he was coming back again to attack them. "Haxige is coming toward you," was said. Again he failed to attack them, as they had gone into the lodge. Again Haxige went homeward, having failed with them. At length when the fourth day arrived, he became a grass-snake. Passing along far under the grass, he departed. When he arrived in sight of the cliff, behold, they lay on their backs making their tripe stiff by the heat. He seized his bow. Having fitted the arrow to the bowstring, he sent it with great force, making it strike in the very middle, wounding two. They grunted very hard, "Aⁿ," and had gone back into the lodge. Haxige went homeward.

When he reached home, he was very glad. Said he, "I have done so to them." In the morning Haxige went hunting. As he was returning, behold, a person had gone across the road. He went hunting again in the morning. When he was returning, behold, a person had gone across the road again. On the fourth occasion, Haxige crouched down, and lay across the path of the person who was approaching. When he had come right upon him, Haxige stood up suddenly. "Really! The venerable man walks as if something was the matter," said he, trying to draw him out. "Yes, very much like it," said he. "How can it be that at this late day you have not been hearing it in your travels?" "Why! venerable man, whatever may be the matter, I have been walking without hearing anything at all," said Haxige. "Yes, Haxige's younger brother having been killed, Haxige wounded two of the Water-monster's most dearly beloved children. I have been going thither to powwow over them," said he. "Really! venerable man, so it may be, but I have not been hearing it in the least. Really! venerable man, it may be very desirable to witness the treatment," said Haxige. "Yes, it is so," said the Buzzard. "I make it a rule to have no witnesses at all." "Really! venerable man, I may witness you. I, too, walk hunting," said Haxige. "Ho! venerable man, try it for yourself. When I finish looking at you, you can go." "Yes, it is so. You can see me perform," said the Buzzard. "Yet, venerable man, I will hear from you how you do every one of the deeds," said Haxige, tempting him. "You shall gaze on me," said the Buzzard. Singing his song, he danced, saying:

"Hé-ke tá-ko, hé-ke hé-ke tá-ko. Hé-ke tá-ko, hé-ke hé-ke tá-ko." "Well, venerable man, if it be always just so, it looks very nice to me. Venerable man, how do you usually perform it? I wish to hear the whole of it from you," said Haxige. "I said that when I reached there this time, I would perform the cure. There are four peaks which are flat on top. When I reach the fourth, they usually come thither for me. When I come in sight on the fourth peak, I stand dancing; and they usually come thither for me. They put me in a robe, and they carry me on it. When I get there this time, I will say, 'Let the water stand hot. When I heat two irons red-hot, and press them repeatedly against the wounds, they will live,'" said the Buzzard. Haxige made him dance about three times, as he wished to be able to perform all of the ceremony well. After the fourth time, the Buzzard stopped dancing. "Well, it is enough. I suspect that you have had more than enough of gazing at me," said the Buzzard. "Yes, venerable man, it is enough. What sort of a person are you that you despise Haxige?" Having said this, Haxige broke in his head with a blow, and killed him. And he took all his clothing, and put it on. And he carried the gourd-rattle on his arm. He practiced the ceremony. Thought he, "I do it very well!" As he went, he reached the fourth peak. He danced: "Hé-ke tá-ko, hé-ke hé-ke tá-ko. Hé-ke tá-ko, hé-ke hé-ke tá-ko." "Really! the old man was indeed always nice-looking, but he had no one to gaze on him," said he. "Oho! the old man who is the doctor has come in sight," said the people. "Ye servants, go after him," said the chief. They went for him. When they arrived there, they spread out the robe for him. Having sat in it, the servants carried him on it. "Make room for him by going far away from the door," said they. They pulled open the outside door.

When they pulled it open, behold, the whole of his brother's skin had been stripped off, and made to stand underneath, as a door-flap. Haxige stood at the door, facing it and dancing: "Hé-ke tá-ko, hé-ke hé-ke tá-ko. Hé-ke tá-ko, hé-ke hé-ke tá-ko." He stopped dancing and entered the lodge. He took hold of his brother's skin at the wrist. He was pulling open the door-flap with sudden force. "Alas, my dear little younger brother!" said he, speaking in a whisper. The servants found him out. "Really! friend, what has the old man said?" spoke one, in a whisper, to another. "Friend, he said something like 'Alas, my dear little younger brother!'" "Psha! friend, there is really no cause for complaint. The old man has been used to coming hither as a doctor for a very long time heretofore." "Well," said Haxige, "I said that when this time came, it would be enough. Ho! ye servants, bring ye back two very large kettles filled with water." They went for it, and came home, carrying them on their backs. Having been fastened over the fire, the kettles stood by the fire, very hot and boiling very hard. "Make two knives very sharp, and put them down. Put two irons in the fire, and make them very hot. When I press these heated irons repeatedly against the wounds, they shall live. Ho! Come, get out of my way. Beware lest you peep in now and then, when you are near by. Beware lest they go and leave you. Walk ye all down and to the other side of the four peaks from which I am accustomed to come in sight when I come hither," said he. All the households went. Having departed, he was in solitude. The water was continuing to boil very rapidly. "Ho! Lie ye exactly side by side. When I thrust a very red-hot iron into your wounds, you shall improve. Beware lest you stir. Lie ye with your sides stretched very stiff," he said. When they lay so, he pushed into the wound on either side with sudden force, "Tc'u+." "Lie still." Having said, "Ah!" both died from the heat. He took the knives, and cut the bodies into very narrow, long strips. Having cut up their bodies, he was filling the water which was boiling. The cooked meat, too, he was putting out in a pile. Those out of sight said, "The old doctor has not been so long heretofore. He has been a very great while about it. Grass-snake, what were you saying that he was saying?" "Yes, I did say it. When he took hold of the door-flap as he went to the side of the entrance, he said something like, 'Alas, my dear little younger brother!'" said the Grass-snake. "Grass-snake, you shall go thither homeward. See him. Make extra eyes with your nose, and make your head very much flattened out, though curved like a dish," said they. The Grass-snake departed, passing under the grass. When he reached there, he peeped in at a crack in the lodge. Haxige detected him. "Come! Come! Come!" said Haxige. Having called him, the Grass-snake was coming thither again. "Make yourself full of food," said Haxige. And Haxige put a narrow strip of meat, about two feet long, into the throat of the Grass-snake, where it stuck very tight. "Say when you arrive that it is Haxige, and that very long ago he cooked the Water-monsters till the meat fell to pieces. Begone and tell it." The Grass-snake went to tell it. "Haxuxa! Haxuxa!" he said in a voice hardly above a whisper. "Really! what says that unseen moving one?" At length he had come directly to them, passing altogether within the grass. "Haxuxa! Haxuxa!" he said. "Really! it says 'Haxige.' Take out the piece of fat meat which he has put in his mouth. Really! it shall be just so (i. e., as they suspected). Make ye an effort." They went homeward to attack him. When they had come very close to their home, Haxige went rushing homeward, carrying his brother on his arm. As he had gone homeward, they went to attack him. But though they became all kinds of swift animals, they did not overtake Haxige and his brother. "There is cause for anger! Make ye an effort. You will be apt to fail," said they. They went along after him. It happened that Haxige, when on his way home, drew near a spring which boiled up repeatedly. It was in a very dense forest at the foot of a cliff, a very high hill, whose perpendicular surface was concave. "Do ye make an effort. You have almost overtaken him," said they. At length Haxige became a bullet. He had gone headlong into the water, "Tc'u+." In a moment he made himself become a stone beneath the water. And they went homeward, having failed in attacking him. Though Haxige and his brother were laid hold of, he had become a stone that was firm, so they failed and went homeward. "Come, let us quit. We have failed," said they.

As they went homeward, Haxige came out again in sight after a while. And he went homeward, carrying the skin of his brother on his arm. At length he reached home. "Brother," said he, "let us enter a sweat-lodge." He went for four stones that were about one foot in diameter. Standing on a very lofty headland, he took up a stone. "Ho! venerable man, I have come for you to powwow." Again he took one. "Ho! venerable man, I have come for you to powwow over me," he said. He put it in his robe. Again he took one, and said, "Ho! venerable man, I have come for you to cause a person to bathe." When the fourth time arrived, he said, "Ho! venerable man, I have come for you, so that by means of you one person may bathe all over. Ho! venerable man, I have come for you that by means of you I may bathe. I have come for you that you may throw out from me all bad affections (or, impurities). May I come out in sight on many different days! On the four peaks, venerable man, may I come in sight with my young ones! Thou superior deity on either side, I pray to thee. On different days may I, with my young ones, come in sight!" he said. He carried them to his home. He filled the fire. "I will go for lodge-poles," said he. He brought them home. "I will make sticks for pushing the stones straight." He placed them by the edge of the fire-place. (He went, too, for water.) "Ho! thou water, I have come for you to make a sacred thing of you." He placed the water, too, at the door. "I will send the stones to you, brother," said he, meaning the empty skin of his brother, which had been caused to sit inside the lodge. He pushed the stones straight in a moment. He placed them in a heap. They became very red from the heat. Having taken the water, he sent it very quickly into the lodge. "That water goes to you," said he. "Ho! I will go to you," said Haxige. He went into the lodge. The stones continued red-hot. "Ho! venerable man, I have come hither in order to bathe by means of you," said he. He dropped large drops of medicine on the fire. The fire sent out sparks. Having seized his brother, he caused him to bathe by pouring water on him. He made him as he had been. "That will do, younger brother," said he. "Yes," elder brother, it is enough," said the younger brother. When Haxige let his brother go, the younger brother continued going on high as he went. He was a ghost. (This process was repeated three times without success.) At length Haxige said as follows: "Really! friend younger brother, you wish to have your own way." In this manner he stood holding him and talking to him. "Ho! friend younger brother, you shall have your way. Though you shall have your way, friend younger brother, we shall separate," he said. "Though the island (i. e., the world) be this size, as you go in this manner, red men shall go and never return." Haxige departed. At length there was an aged Beaver-woman making a boat. "Hu+!" said she, "there is a very strong Haxige odor." "Old woman, there is no cause for complaint. As his brother was killed by the Water-monsters, that Haxige is wandering around at random, and is killing himself by crying," said he. "Old woman, are you not, indeed, making a boat?" said Haxige. "Yes. Have you not been hearing it up to this time?" said the old woman. "As his younger brother was killed, Haxige killed two of the chief Water-monsters; and as they have failed to kill him, they have threatened to make the whole earth full of water. And I am making a dug-out for myself," said she. He said as follows: "Old woman, Haxige ever wishes to have an abundance of sense. He has made a boat (or, dug-out), and if he pile up wood at the bow, filling the bottom with earth, he will sit by a fire blazing very brightly; and seizing the animals that come floating along, he will continue eating them." "Even if they fail so, they speak of making an abundance of snakes on the whole earth," said the old woman. "He will put shells of red-breasted turtles on his feet, and will cover his hands in like manner. So when the snakes are coming to bite, having made thick skin for himself, he will continue to crush in their heads by treading on them; he will continue to step on them," said Haxige. "Even if they fail so, they threaten to make darkness over the whole earth. They say that if he get himself into a gorge unawares, he will die from the fall," said the old woman. "Old woman, that Haxige desires to have an abundance of sense. When he sits in a gorge, and fills it with wood, he will sit by a very good fire. What animal reaches him by leaping, will lie dead from the fall, and he will take it and sit eating it." "Even if they fail so, they threaten to make a deep snow over the whole earth. They say that he will die from the snow that will press down on him," said she. "That Haxige, old woman, ever desires to have an abundance of sense. Having made a very large grass-lodge, he will make a very high pile of wood for himself, and then he will make snow-shoes. What animals get buried unawares in the deep snow, having killed them at his pleasure, he will stand eating them," said Haxige. "What sort of a person are you that you despise Haxige?" he said. And crushing in her head many times with an ax, he killed her. And Haxige departed. Having reached home, he made a sweat-lodge again. They will practise again. "Shall we treat ourselves? Shall we work again on ourselves, younger brother?" said he, talking regularly to his own brother. "Yes, elder brother, only that," was his younger brother saying. And having made the sweat-lodge anew, he worked on his own, he did very well with his own. Though he made the body as it had been, when he let him go suddenly, the younger brother went partly on high every time without treading on the ground. At length Haxige got out of patience with his brother. He wished to put an end to the ceremony. "Well, friend younger brother, you shall have your way," said he. "Though the island (i. e., the world) be this large, they shall surely be thus, as you are. We shall change our forms. You shall go as a young male big wolf, with very long blue hair on the space between the shoulders. Well, as for me, friend younger brother, I will go as a very large male deer, with horns full of snags, and with hair which has been made yellow by heat, scattered over the forehead. Red men shall eat me. By means of me mouths shall be caused to move," said he. The End.

THE ADVENTURES OF HAXIGE.

FRANK LA FLÈCHE'S VERSION.

(There were two Water-monsters, who killed the younger brother of Haxige. They flayed the body, and hung up the skin for a door. They invited all the animals to a feast, when they cooked the body, dividing it among the animals, thus bribing them to silence. Haxige missed his brother, and went in search of him. He reached a creek, where two Wood-ducks were swimming. The conversation of the Ducks, and the account of the transformation of Haxige into a leaf, are given in the preceding version. When he caught them.—)

NOTES.

The myth of Haxige was told to the collector by three Omahas. First, by Wadjepa, whose words were not recorded; but they were interpreted by Frank La Flèche, and the important points are given below. Frank La Flèche's version was the next obtained, and that of $\text{ɬa}^n\text{ɕi}^n\text{-na}^n\text{pa}^n\text{jɪ}$ was the last.

According to Wadjepa, the myth was that of "Haxuxa and the Deities with seven heads." He calls the hero Haxuxa, which is $\text{ɬɔi}^n\text{were}$ in form, and answers to the Čegiha Haxige of the other versions. Haxuxa met Hega, the Buzzard, who was on his way to the wounded deities. Haxuxa said nothing to him, but passed on. He met the Ducks after that. One of the Ducks told him that his younger brother had been killed, after wounding two of the deities with seven heads; that his skin was hung up as a door-flap, and that Hega was going thither every day to powwow over them. After leaving the Ducks, Haxuxa went along the creek, crying for his brother, and his tears made all the streams. As he went, he heard some one cutting wood by the bank of the stream, and talking about Haxuxa, mentioning him by name. He found that it was an aged Beaver-woman. She said, "You smell of Haxuxa." He denied it, and asked her what she was doing. She told him that she was making a boat. He then asked her, "With what tools are you going to make it?" She pointed to her teeth. After learning what the deities intended doing in order to destroy him, he killed the old woman. Then he met Hega. When Haxuxa came in sight of the village, disguised as Hega, everybody came out to meet him, even little children. Thenceforth it is as in Frank's version.

244, 12. áiámama , i. e., ái amáma , from i , to be coming. See áiáma in the Dictionary.

245, 4. $\text{we}^n\text{'ui}$, "wounded for them," i. e., for (the disadvantage of) the parents and friends of the two Water-monsters.

245, 6. gɕiza-biama ga^n , equivalent to gɕíza-bi ega^n . So $\text{gasa}^n\text{ɕu-bi ga}^n$, equivalent to $\text{gasá}^n\text{ɕu-bi ega}^n$.

245, 8. $\text{He-ki-ma}^n\text{-da}^n$, said to be equivalent to the modern Čegiha expression, " $\text{ɕegima}^n\text{-hna}^n\text{-ma}^n$: I always do this."

246, 9. $\text{naxide}^n\text{tẽ}^n\text{ukia-bi}$, he talked with him (holding his mouth close and speaking) into his inner ear.

246, 13. xí'u refers to the wounded ones. As " xí " in composition is used in a reflexive sense, its use in this case is not clear to the collector. See " Nuda^naxa 's Account of his First War-party," in which this word occurs.

249, 14. $\text{ɬug}^n\text{ɕa}^n$ means "to transport a load by boat, travois, wagon, or any other conveyance." He probably carried the stones in a pack on his back, hence, in this case, $\text{ɬug}^n\text{ɕa}^n = \text{'i}^n$.

249, 15. $\text{áma}^n\text{a}^n \dots \text{áma}^n\text{a}^n$, on the one side $\dots$ on the other side; so $\text{áma}^n \dots \text{áma}^n$, the one $\dots$ the other.

TRANSLATION.

(There were two Water-monsters, who killed the younger brother of Haxige. They flayed the body, and hung up the skin for a door-flap. They invited all the animals to a feast, when they cooked the body, dividing it among the animals, thus bribing them to silence. Haxige missed his brother, and went in search of him. He reached a creek, where two Wood-ducks were swimming. The conversation of the Ducks, and the account of the transformation of Haxige into a leaf, are given in the preceding version. When he caught them:—)

“What particular thing did you say?” said he. “Yes, O elder brother. Loosen your hold on me. I will tell the news. Loosen your hold on me,” said one. And Haxige said, “Come, tell it.” “Yes, O elder brother. When Haxige’s younger brother was killed, I received nothing but the little fingers as my share; and so I said that no matter at what time I might see him, I would tell him about his brother. All the animals were invited to partake of the body, and only the little finger was left for me at the distribution.” And Haxige said, “How is it usually with them?” “Yes, the Buzzard goes every day to powwow over them,” said the Duck. And Haxige made the feathers whitish that were next to the outer corners of the Duck’s eyes. The feathers on the top of his head he made into a crest for him. “You shall be called ‘Conjuror-duck.’ Depart. Think of me when you get into any trouble, and I will help you,” said Haxige. Haxige departed. When he cried, the water flowed very rapidly in many long streams, making very large creeks. His tears were the rivers. When he went, behold, the Buzzard was approaching him. He met him. And Haxige said as follows: “Venerable man, on what business are you going?” “Yes, grandchild, have you not been hearing it long ere this?” “Yes, whatever it may be, I have not yet heard it,” said Haxige. “Yes, grandchild. Haxige had a younger brother who was killed. So Haxige wounded two of the most dearly beloved children of the Water-monsters. Therefore I have been there to powwow over them,” said the Buzzard. “Venerable man, when you arrive in sight of the village, what are you accustomed to do?” “Yes, I always do thus,” said he. And when he seized his gourd-rattle, and rattled it, he said, “Thus I always do, grandchild.” And he danced and sung, saying as follows:

Hé-ki ma^{n'}-daⁿ, hé-ki hé-ki ma^{n'}-daⁿ, hé-ki hé-ki ma^{n'}-daⁿ.

And Haxige said, "Grandfather, do once more what you do when you arrive in sight. I will see you again." And the Buzzard said, "I always do thus." He danced. And Haxige said, "Grandfather, how do you do when you powwow over them?" "Yes, grandchild, I usually say, 'Let every one in the village go out of sight behind the hill, every one; and take the dogs, too.'" "Yes, grandfather," said Haxige. "And when you practice on them, how do you do?" said he. "Yes, grandchild, I keep that iron rod, as I think that I will thrust it into the wounds, when I make it red-hot." "Yes, grandfather. Come, do as you intend doing when you arrive in sight of the village. Depart. I wish to see you." And when the Buzzard went to do so, Haxige seized a stick, and hit him directly on his head, killing the Buzzard with a blow. And Haxige took the iron, and having taken the small pack, too, he carried it on his back. And Haxige departed. He went to the Water-monsters. At length he reached the hill in sight of the village. And Haxige sang the song which was the Buzzard's. At length, when Haxige came in sight, they said, "Oho! This one at a short distance, Doctor Buzzard, is coming hither." And the chief said as follows: "Let four of the most stout-hearted young men walk thither. Let them place him in a robe, and bring him back." And they went after him, because they thought he was the Buzzard. And the young men reached Haxige. Having spread out the robe, they said, "Come, venerable man, sit in it. We have come for you." And Haxige sat in it. And one of the young men whispered in the ear of another, saying, "The Buzzard is a different one. I think it is Haxige." He said it to the other, because he recognized Haxige. And the other said as follows, in a whisper: "It is the Buzzard. How could Haxige have come hither?" And they carried him homeward, he sitting in the robe. And they took him to their home unto the wounded ones. And when they reached their home with him, behold, they had flayed all the body of his younger brother, and had made a door-flap of the skin. And when Haxige stood and raised the door-flap, he recognized the skin of his younger brother. And when he raised it, he said as follows: "Alas! my dear little younger brother!" He said it to him in a very soft whisper, not crying out aloud. And one of the persons standing around said as follows: "Friend, when he raised the door-flap he said, 'Alas! my dear little younger brother!' I think that he is Haxige." And another said, "Do not say it to any one. It is the Buzzard." And Haxige went to the lodge.

And when he went, he said, "Come, you shall go out of every lodge. Walk ye out of sight behind the hill. And go ye after water, and hang two very large kettles over the fire for me. When I finish powwowing over these, I will cause them to bathe." And having done so, all departed. And Haxige made the iron very red-hot. Having done this, he said as follows: "I will powwow over your elder brother first. Lie still for the present." "Come, show the wound," he said to the elder one. And when he made the iron very red-hot, he thrust the iron into the hole made by the wound. And when he thrust it into the wound, the Water-monster said nothing but "Haⁿ+, haⁿ+" "Lie quiet. It shall be good for you." And he who had had the red-hot iron thrust into him died. And Haxige said, "Now! Come! Your elder brother is a little better, and has gone into a very sound sleep." And after a while he did likewise to him. And the young one, too, died, having had the very red-hot iron thrust into him. And when he was dead, Haxige took a knife, and cut up the two Water-monsters. And when he finished cutting up both, he placed them in a pile in the middle of the lodge. And when he cut them into long, narrow strips, he filled both kettles very full. And so he sat boiling them. And those persons out of sight said as follows: "Let about two of the young men pass by that place on their way home, and go to look at him." And they said, "The doctor is a very long time about it." "Aha! When I said that I thought he was Haxige, you doubted me, and you said that he was the Buzzard," said one. And so they sat considering who ought to go homeward. And one said as follows: "Grass-snake, if you go homeward he will not be apt to detect you, as you are not visible. And do well, lest he detect you. Enter a very tiny hole, and look at him. Beware, lest Haxige detect you." And having said, "Yes," the Grass-snake went homeward. And when he reached home, he peeped through a very tiny hole. And Haxige detected him. "Ho! ho! Come! Come! You must eat," said he, when he discovered him. When the Grass-snake desired to go to his home, he feared him. And as Haxige said, "Come," the Grass-snake went thither. And Haxige said, "Lie there by the edge of the fire-place. When you eat, you shall depart very full. When you eat and depart, you shall say, 'It was Haxige, and he has killed both of the Water-monsters.'" And Haxige took a piece of fat meat and put it in a bowl. And he made a strip of fat meat about two feet long. And he said, "Bolt it down. Let it appear out of the mouth this far (i. e., about an inch)." And the Grass-snake arranged the piece of fat meat so as to have it stick out of his mouth. And as the Grass-snake had no hands, he could not pull out his fat meat. When the Grass-snake departed, he barely reached the people. At the same time that the Grass-snake departed, Haxige went homeward. Having seized his younger brother, he fled homeward. And it was difficult for the Grass-snake to speak. When he said, "Haxige, Haxige," he spoke in a very faint voice. When he arrived very near to the people, they thought that he was very far away. Said they, "That Grass-snake says, 'Haxige.'" And when they sought for him, behold, the Grass-snake had come very close to them. "Ho! ho! It is the Grass-snake, but he has a piece of fat meat very tight in his throat," said they. And they pulled it out for him. And the people went homeward to the village. And when Haxige went homeward, there was an aged Beaver-woman. And Haxige said, "Old woman, what are you about?" "Yes, grandchild," said she, "Haxige has killed two of the Water-monsters, consequently they have taken me as a servant." And he said, "Old woman, what work that you can do has led you to join the party?" "Yes, grandchild, they threaten to make a flood on Haxige. When Haxige, in consequence of it, sits in a boat, they say that I am to gnaw a hole in it, and so I have joined them." "Old woman, even if it be so, Haxige will sit in the boat, and will get along very well at any rate." "And, moreover, even if they fail at this, grandchild, they threaten to make darkness over the whole earth," said she. "Old woman, even if so, Haxige will sit in a gorge, in a deep hollow. As he sits in the hollow, he will be eating the animals which die from falling into it." "Besides, grandchild, even if they fail with the darkness, they speak of making an abundance of snakes," she said. "Old woman, even if so, Haxige will make paws of turtle shells, and he will walk treading on the heads of the snakes in all places." And then having said, "Old woman, what sort of person are you that you hate Haxige?" he crushed in her skull with several blows. And he went homeward. Haxige went homeward, and when he reached home, he made a very small lodge. Having transported so many stones of a certain size, he made a sweat-lodge. And having placed the skin of his brother in a sitting position on one side, he sat on the other. And having made the stones very red-hot, he sat pouring water on them; he made the small lodge very hot. He did thus for four days. On the fourth day he made his brother return to life. His younger brother was alive. And he said, "Ho! friend younger brother, as I was very desirous for you to be alive, I have made you alive. But let us separate. And I, friend younger brother, will be a big wolf. And you, friend younger brother, shall depart as a young male deer." The End.

NOTES.

254, 2. nikaciⁿga aji amaqa, literally: "people, different, at them." It may be intended for aji amaqataⁿ, "from a different people."

254, 4. qade naⁿba. The two bundles or wisps of grass are used (1) for wiping the mouths and hands of the guests; and (2) for wiping the bowls and kettles. They are then put into the fire, and the bowls are passed through the smoke which ensues.

254, 5. úhaⁿ ꝑaⁿ ugácke (tēdi), equivalent to uhaⁿ uꝑúgacke, and ísagꝑe, the forked stick from which the kettle is suspended over the fire.

254, 9. gíbaⁿi-gǎ, call to him. The ꝑegiha call (baⁿ), but the ꝑiwere never do. The latter go to each tent, and speak to those invited to a feast.

254, 12. waská ꝑiⁿheaú. This is a contraction from "waské aꝑiⁿ ꝑiⁿhé aú, bowl, having, be sure."

256, 4. "ꝑejañga ꝑii tēdi," was given by the narrator, but "ꝑejañga é ꝑii tēdi" is plainer, according to J. La Flèche. I agree with F. La Flèche in regarding "e ꝑii tēdi" as more definite than "ꝑii tēdi". The word "e" may be rendered, "the aforesaid."

256, 5. nikaciⁿga gaama, the people of the village where the Big turtle resided.

256, 5. nudaⁿ iⁿwiⁿnudañgaꝑe tai, i. e., (nudaⁿ) iⁿwiⁿ'nudaⁿ añgaꝑe tai. The "nudaⁿ" seems redundant.

256, 9-10. niaciⁿga ama, the men for whose sake they were going to war. Frank La Flèche says that "Ébe núdaⁿ úhaⁿi tēcti" is equivalent to "Núdaⁿ úhaⁿ aká ěbói tē'cti," the former meaning, "Who is cooking the war-feast?" and the latter, "Who is he that is cooking the war-feast?"

256, 12. ubésniⁿ weꝑai tē. Sanssouci prefers "ubésniⁿ ꝑi," if he finds him out; but Frank La Flèche says "úbesniⁿi ꝑi," if they find them out, which is better.

256, 15. ꝑeꝑawe, the root of a water-plant, which is scarce at present. The plant has a leaf resembling a lily, but it is about two feet in diameter, and lies on the water. The stalk extends about two feet above the water, and ends in a seed-pod. The seeds, which are black and very hard, are almost oval. The Indians dry the root, and cut it in pieces about six inches long, if required for a long time; but, if not, they boil it.

257, 3. ꝑegaⁿ ama. Here the narrator made an appropriate gesture.

257, 4. Song of the war-chief. The words in the text are of ꝑiwere (Iowa) origin, but are given as pronounced by the Omahas. The correct ꝑiwere version, according to Sanssouci, is, "ꝑetaⁿ Qaⁿye watce ꝑu he (anye ke) icá-naña hie tee ꝑu he," answering to the ꝑegiha, "ꝑejañga wáte agí-biamá ecaí ꝑaⁿ e té agii há:" "The Big turtle is coming back from touching the foe, they say, you said. He is coming back from touching." Frank La Flèche reads "wát'ě" for "wáte"; but he does not understand the use of the last clause, e te agii ha.

257, 5. uꝑicaⁿ maⁿꝑiⁿ-biama. The war-party marched in the following order: Two scouts went in advance. Then came the "nudaⁿhañga jiñga," carrying the sacred bag. He was followed by the warriors, who marched abreast. The war-chiefs walked behind them. The Big turtle danced around the warriors as they moved along, passing between them and the nudaⁿhañga jiñga.

257, 7. ꝑakuꝑa-gǎ, addressed to the Buffalo.

257, 11. gidáhaⁿ-biama, equivalent to "Najiⁿ átiáꝑa-biamá," He stood suddenly.

257, 19. tiçái-gă, keep on, is addressed to a few; but when there are many in the party, tiçéçai-gă is used, the latter (tiçéçě) being the frequentative of tiçe.

258, 2. niahiçéça-biama (niahiçéçě) is contracted from niáha, into the water; and içéçě, to send or be sent suddenly.

258, 5. e'aⁿ tégaⁿ caⁿ'inte. Sanssouci says that this is not plain. He substitutes for it, "Eátaⁿ tádaⁿ cé éjaⁿmiⁿ' hă" (Jaiwere, Toⁿto uⁿ' tána ceé k'are ké), I suspect that is how he will act; or, "Edé tádaⁿ cé éjaⁿmiⁿ' hă," I suspect that that is what he will say. Frank La Flèche says that all three are correct.

258, 13. açuha. The Turtle asked him to do something else; but the Wild-cat said that it was the only thing which he could do.

259, 3. ájaⁿ gaⁿ ceceiⁿte, may be equivalent to "Ájaⁿ gaⁿ' céce éiⁿte." Sanssouci gave, as the Jaiwere, Taçká-na ceíce k'are ke.

259, 7. gai tě xéjañga taⁿ, implies that the narrator witnessed this; but as he did not, it should read, gá-biamá xéjañga aká.

259, 12. çiqu'e-gaⁿ'-ma. When anything is torn, the sound made by the tearing is called qu'ě'.

260, 5. ða tě, the nose of an animal as distinguished from that of a person, ða ké.

260, 15. xéjañga ě'di aça-biamá. The Turtle went thither to meet the Squirrel.

260, 18. çì xanⁿ'haqtei ké, just on the border or edge of the lodges, just outside the camp circle or the line of tents.

261, 3. çijébe maⁿbítahíqti tēdi. There are two renderings of this, according to Sanssouci. (1) Jijébe maⁿ-bit'á-ahíqti tēdi, When, or, On arriving right at the door by pressing on the ground (in crawling). (2) Jijébe maⁿ-bít ihé-qti tēdi, áciaça çici hidé tē'di çagçiⁿ' te, You will sit outside at the bottom of the tent-pole, when, by pressing on the ground with hands and feet as you are lying down, you drag yourself up even to the door. Frank La Flèche says that the first is the correct one in this myth.

262, 1. çiehniⁿ'-de wa'ú wiⁿ' bēize tá miñke, etc.: "On account of you I will take a wife—you will acquire her for me." A figure of speech used in praising warriors.

262, 4. Waxu aka udaⁿqtei-biama, pronounced u+daⁿqtei-biama by the narrator. So, thirteen lines below, Wehe u+daⁿqtei-biama.

262, 9. wami hegají amá, pronounced wamí< hegají amá.

263, 11. siñga wiⁿ' ahaⁿ'. Za'ěqti, pronounced siñga wiⁿ' ahaⁿ<. Za+ěqti.

264, 14. anaⁿ'bixaⁿ'. This should be followed by "çi", when, as in line 16.

265, 11-12. aⁿdaⁿ'be içái-gă, look at me from the place where you are standing: "Let your sight be coming hither to me." Içai-gă is from içě, the causative of i, to be coming hither. Daⁿbe içě is a correlative of daⁿbe çeçě.

266, 14. wahutaⁿçinⁿ çicibe udaⁿ. This is a modern interpolation, a change probably made by the narrator, who had forgotten the ancient phrase. Frank La Flèche says that he never heard it used in this myth. The three phrases which he heard were, "Wahá-sagi útiñ-gă, Strike the hard skins for him"; "Jíha útiñ-gă, Strike the tent-skins for him," and "Néxegaçu útiñ-gă, Strike the drum for him."

267, 3. djubaqtei xéjañga gçiⁿ çanⁿ, pronounced dju+baqtei, etc.

268, 7. á-bi no+. Frank La Flèche says that this is a wrong pronunciation of "á-bi açu+", which is a contraction of "á-bi áça u+."

TRANSLATION.

The people dwelt in a very populous village. The Big turtle joined them. And people dwelling at another village came regularly to war against them. And having killed one person, they went homeward. And the Turtle cooked for the war-path. He caused two persons to go after the guests. The servants whom he caused to go after their own were the Red-breasted-turtle and the Gray-squirrel. He made two round bunches of grass, and placed them at the bottom of the stick to which the kettle was fastened. And they were coming. The persons came in sight. "Ho, warriors!" said he. "Warriors, when men are injured, they always retaliate. I cook this for the war-path. I cook sweet corn and a buffalo-paunch. You will go after Corn-crusher for me. And call to him. Call to Comb, Awl, Pestle, Fire-brand, and Buffalo-bladder also," said the Big turtle. At length the two men went to call to them. And they called to Corn-crusher. "Corn-crusher, be sure to bring your bowl! Corn-crusher, be sure to bring your bowl! Corn-crusher, be sure to bring your bowl! Corn-crusher, be sure to bring your bowl!" And they called to Comb. "Comb, be sure to bring your bowl!" (Four times.) And so they called Awl. "Awl, be sure to bring your bowl!" (Four times.) And they called to Pestle. "Pestle, be sure to bring your bowl!" (Four times.) And they called to Fire-brand too. "Fire-brand, be sure to bring your bowl!" (Four times.) And they called to Buffalo-bladder, too. "Buffalo-bladder, be sure to bring your bowl!" (Four times.) The criers reached home. "O war-chief! all heard it," said they. All those who were called arrived at the lodge of the Big turtle. "Ho! O war-chiefs, Corn-crusher, Comb, Awl, Pestle, Fire-brand, and Buffalo-bladder, though those people have been injured, they do not seem to stir. Let us go on the war-path for them," said the Big turtle. "Let us go in four nights." He commanded Corn-crusher to cook. "O war-chief Corn-crusher, you will cook. And you, O Comb, will cook on the night after that. And you, O Awl, will cook, and complete the number." That many war-chiefs, four, cooked. They were war-chiefs; the rest were servants. And the people of the village said, "Why! Of the persons who have been called, who is cooking for the war-path?" And one said, "Why! The Big turtle cooked. Psha! Has he gathered all those who cannot move well enough, those who cannot move fast enough? Psha! If the foe find them out they will destroy them. When a war-chief has sense, he may carry on war." Corn-crusher cooked. He cooked turnips, and he cooked a buffalo-paunch with them, just as the Big turtle had cooked one with sweet corn. And Awl cooked wild rice. And Comb cooked pepawe. And the Big turtle said, "Enough days have elapsed. Let us go at night." And they departed. The Big turtle made leggings with large flaps. He tied short garters around them. He rubbed earth on his face, and he reddened it. He wore grass around his head. He put fine white feathers on the top of his head. He took his gourd-rattle thus. He rattled it. He sang the song of the war-chief. "The Big turtle is coming back from touching the foe, it is said, you say. He is coming back from touching." He walked, stepping very lively in the dance. He walked around them. As they went, it was day. At length a young Buffalo-bull came. "Warriors, wait for him," said the Big turtle. And he said to the Buffalo-bull, "While I walk on a journey, I am in a great hurry. Speak rapidly. Why are you walking?" "Yes, O war-chief, it is so. As they have told of you while you have been walking, I thought that I would walk there with you, and I have sought you," said the Buffalo-bull. "Do so," said the Big turtle. "I wish to see your movements." The Buffalo-bull rolled himself back and forth. He arose suddenly. He thrust repeatedly at the ground with his horns. He pierced the ground and he threw pieces away suddenly. He stood with his tail in the air and its tip bent downward. An ash tree stood there. He rushed on it. Pushing against it, he sent it flying through the air to a great distance. "O war-chief, I think that I will do that, if they speak of vexing me," said he. "Look at the persons with whom I am traveling. There are none who are faint-hearted in the least degree. You are not at all like them. You have disappointed me. Come, begone," said the Big turtle. Again the Big turtle sang the song. "'The Big turtle is coming back from touching the foe, it is said,' you say. He is coming back from touching," said he. Again they departed. "Warriors, pass on," said he. There lay a stream, which was not small. They crossed it. And Fire-brand was ahead, walking with a great effort. At length, because he was weary, he plunged into the water and was extinguished. "O war-chief, I am not going beyond here with you," said he. "Warrior, I will soon return. Remain here for a while," said the Big turtle. Having reached the other side, they departed. At length a Puma came. "Warriors, wait for him. I suspect what he will say. Stand in a row," said he. "Speak quickly," said he, addressing the Puma. "What is your business?" "Yes, O war-chief," said the Puma, "it was told of you regularly, saying that you walked out on a journey. And there I wish to walk, so I have sought you." "Do so," said the Big turtle. "I shall see your ways." And the Puma made his hair bristle up all over his body. He bent his tail backward and upward. And he had gone leaping to the bottom of a small hill. Having caught by the throat (i. e., Adam's apple) a fawn that was about two years old, he came back, making it cry out as he held it with his teeth. "I think that I will do that, O war-chief, if anything threatens to vex me," he said. "Do something else," said the Big turtle. "No, O war-chief; that is all," said the Puma. "You have disappointed me," said the Big turtle. "Look at these persons with whom I am. Where is one who is imperfect? You are very inferior. Come, depart. You have disappointed me." They departed. At length, when they reached the foot of a hill, a Black bear came. "O war-chief, again one has come," said the warriors. "I suspect what he will say, warriors. Wait for him. Stand in a row," said the Big turtle. "Ho! Come, speak quickly. What is your business? While I walk on a journey, I am in a very great hurry," said the Big turtle, addressing the Black bear. "Yes, O war-chief, it is so. It was told of you regularly, saying that you walked on a journey. And as I desired to walk there, I have sought you diligently," said the Black bear. "Ho! Do so," said the Big turtle. "You may have thought how you do it. I wish to see your ways," said he. The Black bear pierced the ground with his claws, and threw lumps of earth to a great distance. And there stood an oak tree which had been blackened by fire. He attacked it. Having hugged it, he threw it with force to a great distance. "O war-chief, if anything threatens to vex me, I think that I will do that," said the Black bear. And the Big turtle said as follows, as he stood: "Ho! warrior, you have disappointed me. These are some persons with whom I am, but look at them. There is none who is faint-hearted in the least degree. You have disappointed me. Come, depart. Thus do I regularly send off the inferior ones."

They went into a dense undergrowth. At length the Buffalo-bladder was torn open, making the sound "Qu'e." "Alas! I am not going beyond here with you," said he. "Ho, warrior! I will come back very soon. Remain so for a while," said the Big turtle. Again they departed. As they went, they reached a bad path. Very high logs were lying across it. The Red-breasted-turtle failed to step over them. "Ho, O war-chief! I am not going beyond here with you," said he. "Ho, warrior! I will come back very soon. Remain so for a while," said the Big turtle. Again they departed. As they went, behold, a Big wolf came. "O war-chief, again one has come," said they. "I suspect what he will say, warriors. Wait for him. Stand in a row," said the Big turtle. "Ho! Come, speak quickly, whatever may be your business. While I walk on a journey, I am in a very great hurry," said the Big turtle. "Yes, O war-chief, it is so. It was told of you regularly, saying that you walked on a journey; and as I desired to walk there, I have sought you," said the Wolf. "Ho! Do so," said the Big turtle. "You may have thought how you do it. I wish to see your ways," said he. The Wolf decorated himself. He reddened his nose; he reddened all his feet. He tied eagle feathers to his back. "Why! Do so. I wish to see your ways. Do so," said the Big turtle. The Wolf turned himself round and round. And he went to the attack by the wood on a small creek. He killed a deer. He brought it back, holding it with his teeth. "O war-chief, I think I will do that, if anything threatens to vex me," said the Wolf. "You have disappointed me. See some persons with whom I travel. There is none who is faint-hearted in the least degree. Come, depart. Thus do I regularly send off the inferior ones," said the Big turtle. "Warrior Gray-squirrel, go as a scout," said he. The Gray-squirrel went as a scout. At length he was coming back, blowing a horn. "O war-chief, he is coming back to you," said they. The Big turtle went thither. "Ho, warrior! act very honestly. Tell me just how it is," said the Big turtle. "Yes, O war-chief, it is just so. I have been there without their finding me out at all," said he. "Let us sit at the very boundary of the camp," said the Big turtle. The Big turtle spoke of going. "Warriors, I will look around to see how things are, and how many persons there may be just there," said he. He came back. "Warriors, let us go in that direction. This far is a good place for sitting," said he. By and by, as they moved, he said, "Ho! warrior! O war-chief Corn-crusher, do so. Make an attempt. He will go to the end lodge." "O war-chief, where shall I sit?" said he. "O war-chief and warrior, you will crawl right to the door, and sit on the outside," said the Big turtle. Atque mulier mictum exiit. She pressed on Corn-crusher, crawling in a line with him. When she saw him, she said as follows: "Oh! Heretofore have I desired mush. I have found for myself an excellent corn-crusher! I will pound my corn with an excellent corn-crusher! I have found it for myself." When she pounded on the corn with it, she mashed the whole hand flat, forcing out the blood with the blow. Out she threw it, sending it back again. "Bad corn-crusher!" Having sent it back as she threw it away, it went back, without stopping, to the Big turtle who was near by. He came back. "He whom you say is 'Corn-crusher' has come back, having killed one right at the lodge," said he. "O war-chief Comb, make an attempt. You will sit just at the place where Corn-crusher sat," said the Big turtle. Comb departed. He sat just where he was commanded to sit. Comb was very handsome. And a woman went out. She found Comb. "Heretofore I have been without a comb. I have found a very good comb for myself," said she. She took him back into the lodge. Very soon she combed her hair with him. He combed out all the hair on one temple (i. e., pulled out by the roots). "The very bad comb, but I thought it was good." She threw him away suddenly at the door. When he caused her to throw him away, he went back without stopping at all. He went back with the hair. "You have called him 'Comb.' I am coming back, having snatched all the hair from one right at the lodge," said he. He took it back to the Big turtle. He gave it to him. The Big turtle said as follows: "You make me thankful. I keep you to seek this. When we reach home, we shall cause the women to dance. Since it is you, I will take a woman. I will take a female.

O war-chief Awl, make an attempt. You will sit where the war-chief Comb sat," said the Big turtle. Awl was very handsome; he was very good to look at. He sat where he was commanded to sit. A woman went out and found Awl. "Oh! I have found a good awl for myself. I had no awl heretofore. It makes me thankful," said she. She went back to the lodge with him. She spoke of sewing her moccasins with him. "I will sew my moccasins with it," said she. She sewed them with him. She pierced the fingers with him. She missed in pushing him, sending him with force. There was much blood. She threw him away suddenly at the door. "The awl is indeed bad! I have indeed hurt myself. I have wounded myself severely," said she. She threw him far out from the door, sending him homeward. "You have called him 'Awl.' When I stabbed one right at the lodge, I killed her," said he. He had his spear very bloody. He came again to the Big turtle. "O war-chief," said they, "Awl is coming back, telling his own name. He has killed one." The Big turtle said as follows: "Ho! O war-chief, you make me thankful. Since it is you, I will blacken my face. The village shall be joyful. Ho! O Pestle, make an attempt. You will lie where the war-chief Awl lay," said he. Pestle was very handsome. And he arrived there. He lay where he was commanded to lie. A woman went out and found Pestle. "Oh! I have found a very good pestle for myself. I had no pestle heretofore," said she. She took him back to the lodge. She took some corn. She filled the mortar, and pounded the corn. She beat it fine. She thrust Pestle beyond, right on her knee. She missed the mark in pushing, sending him with force, and so she struck him into her knee. "Oh! A very bad pestle!" said she. She threw him outside, sending him homeward suddenly. "You have been used to saying 'Pestle.' He is coming, having stabbed one right at the lodge. He has killed one," said he. He reached the Big turtle again. "O war-chief, I have killed one," said he. "You make me thankful," said the Big turtle. "Ho, warrior Gray-squirrel! make an attempt," said he. "Fie! O war-chief, how can I do anything?" said he. The lodges camped among the trees. "You will pass along the trees above the smoke-holes of the lodges. If they find you, they will shoot at you. Do your best. Do your best to evade the arrows or blows. If one goes aside, rush on him," said the Big turtle. At length a boy found him. "This moving one is a gray squirrel!" said he. They went in a great uproar. They shot at him with guns. They even hit him with sticks. One boy stood aside. He attacked him and bit him. When they attacked him, they failed, and were approaching him. "Wonderful! Heretofore the gray squirrel was very easy to approach, but we have failed. One has bitten us alone" (i. e., we have done nothing to him), said they. "He whom you are used to calling 'Gray-squirrel' is coming back, having killed one right among them," said he. He told it to the Big turtle. "Ho! real warrior, act very honestly," said the Big turtle. "O war-chief, it is just so. I have killed one," said he. "Ho! warrior, you make me thankful," said the Big turtle.

"Ho! warriors, I, even I, will make a trial. I shall not come back for some time.

Beware lest you go homeward. Beware lest you leave me and go homeward," said the Big turtle. He arrived there. Some ashes had been poured out. They were extinguished. At length the Big turtle pushed his way through. He went within. He sat within, with his eyes sticking out, looking around. A woman was approaching, when it was morning. She stood very close to the sitting Big turtle. The Big turtle carried his shield. "You will tread on my shield," said he. The woman looked around. "At what place does he speak?" thought she; so she looked around. Again he said to her, "You will tread on my shield. Stand further away." And the woman found him. "Oh!" she said. "Stand still. I send you with a message," said the Big turtle. "Reach home and say, 'The Big turtle says that he has come to war. He says that he has come desiring the chief's daughter, whose body has been placed on the bough of a tree.'" All the people said as follows: "Break in his skull suddenly." He said as follows: "How is it possible for you to break in my skull suddenly? If you let your weapons slip off suddenly from me each time, you will break your legs with the blows." "When the water is very hot, it will be good to put him in it," said they. "For shame! When the water is hot, and I scatter it by kicking, many of you will be scalded to death," said he. "He tells what is probably true. And if it be so, it is good to burn him," said the people. "For shame! If I scatter the fire by kicking it, I will cause all the land to blaze. Beware lest many of your children, too, die from the fire," said he. "He tells what is probably true," said they. And a child begged for water. "O mother, some water," it said. The Big turtle said, "Oh!" He tempted them with reference to the water. "Cause the child to ask for water," said one. "What do you mean by that?" said others. "When it said, 'O mother, some water,' this one, the Big turtle, said 'Oh!'" said he. "Wonderful! He is fearing the sight of water," they said. They took him to the water, holding him by the tail. Notwithstanding the Big turtle clung to the ground with his forelegs, they held his tail, and reached the water with him. They threw him forcibly right into the water. He walked the water for a while, crying a little, and pretending that he did not know how to swim. He said, "Wi! wi! wi!" "Wonderful! Throw him out to the middle of the stream," said they. Again they sent him headlong. He was wandering around. At length he sunk. And they said, "He is dead." They went homeward. "You should have done that to him at the first," said the people.

When the people went homeward, some boys stood there. And the Big turtle was approaching floating. He came peeping. And some boys stood looking at the place where the deed was done. The Big turtle said, "When the Big turtle came in the past to war on you, you said that you killed him. Look here at me." The boys went homeward to tell it. "You said that you killed the Big turtle, but as this one behind us showed his body, he laughed at us. The Big turtle is he who is alive," said they. "Ho! we attack him!" said the people. They attacked him. They arrived there. "In what place?" said they. "In this place," said the boys. "Where is the Otter? Where is the Grass-snake? Let those two alone seek him," said they. The Big turtle sat under the soil (i. e., mud, etc., at the bottom of the water). Only the tip of his nose and his eyes were sticking out. The Snake and Otter sought him beneath the water. They passed very near to him, and stepped regularly over his head. When the Otter was about to pass the second time, the Big turtle bit him in the very abdomen. "Ho! elder brother, you make me pain," said the Otter. And the Big turtle said, "Why do you seek me?" "I did not seek you. As I desired food, we have met each other," said the Otter. "No, you wished to join those who desire to kill me, so you sought me," said the Big turtle. "O elder brother! O elder brother! O elder brother! I pray to you. I have not sought you," said he. "I will by no means let you go from my mouth," said the Big turtle. "Ho! elder brother, how long before you open your mouth and let me go?" said the Otter. "When the Thunder-god has come back, I will let you go," said he. "Halloo! He lets me go when the Thunder-god has come back. Halloo! He bites me between the legs. Halloo!" said he. Raising his voice, he asked a favor of the people. "He says that he is bitten. He says that he is bitten between the legs. Hit tent-skins for him," said the people. They made the tent-skins sound by hitting them. "Ho! elder brother, the Thunder-god has come back," said the Otter. "Those hit tent-skins," said the Big turtle. And the people said, "It is good to fell trees." They were felling the trees here and there. The trees said, "Qwi+, qwi+," crashing as they fell. "Ho! elder brother, the Thunder-god has come back," said the Otter. "Those, too, fell trees," said the Big turtle. "It is good to fire guns," said the people. "Elder brother, he has come back," said the Otter. "Those, too, fire guns," said the Big turtle. At length the Thunder-god roared very far away. "Ho! elder brother, he has come back," said he. He let him go. The Otter was very thin. He went homeward. He reached home very lean. "Let the two birds drink the stream dry. Bring ye the Pelicans hither," said they. When they were coming back with them, the people said, "Drink ye the stream dry. A person came hither to war, and we killed him, but he is alive. He laughs heartily at us, when we take him and desire to kill him." The birds drank it dry. There was left only the very small quantity in which the Big turtle sat. And the Big turtle said as follows: "Ho! warrior Gray-squirrel, be coming hither again, wherever you may be moving. They have almost killed me." Gray-squirrel was coming back, crying loud. He was coming back to attack them. He tore open both of their water-pouches by biting. He bit holes in them. At length all the water returned to its former place. At the creek and lake it was as before; they were filled with their water. "Sew ye the pouches for them," said the people. They sewed up the throats of the Pelicans. They finished sewing them. "Come, drink it dry again. Do your best. Beware lest we fail," said the people. They drank it dry again. Again was very little of the water left. "Ho! warrior Gray-squirrel, wherever you may be moving. They have nearly killed me. Be coming hither again," said the Big turtle. When he was coming back, he bit and tore open their throats again in many places. Again all the water returned to its place. He made their throats very bad. He made them very bad to be sewed at all. It was difficult to sew them. "Yet we shall fail. The Gray-squirrel is very abominable! I think that the Gray-squirrel is the only one with the Big turtle. I think that he is the only one siding with him. Therefore we have failed to hurt them," said one of the people. They ceased. When it was night the Big turtle went back. He reached his comrades again. "Ho! warriors, when men get the better of their foes in a fight, they usually go homeward. I suspect that your sisters are tired of waiting to dance!" said he. They went homeward. He walked around them, rattling his gourd. "Warriors, I said that I would do thus, and so it is," said he. He burnt the grass. "You did nothing but laugh at the Big turtle when he went on the war-path." (This was addressed to the absent people of his village). He burnt the grass so that they might think that he was coming home after killing the foe. At length they arrived in sight of the village, their home. Having fired guns, they tied the scalps to a stick. Then those in the village said, "Yonder come those who went to war!" The returning warriors ran round and round. "There they are coming home, having killed the people of the enemy," said those in the village. An old man said, "Corn-crusher says that he killed one. Halloo! He says that he killed her right at the lodge. Halloo! Comb says that he killed one right at the lodge. Halloo! Awl says that he killed one right at the lodge. Halloo! Pestle says that he killed one right at the lodge. Halloo! Gray-squirrel says that he killed three right among them (i. e., in the midst of the ranks of the foe). Halloo! It is said that they held the war-chief, the Big turtle, right among them, in a great uproar. Halloo! It is said that they failed to injure him. Halloo!" The Big turtle walked very proudly, carrying his shield. He went homeward to enter the lodge. He sat telling them about himself. As the people wished to hear it, they continued arriving there. "Why did they fail with you when they sat very near? If you sat very near them, how is it that you are alive?" said the people. "I pretended to be afraid of water, so I am alive," said he. "If so, those over there have no eyes. How is it that they did not find you when you were alive?" "Nevertheless, I sat in the ashes, so I am alive. I have come home, having killed people. Why do you doubt me? As you did not take vengeance on the people who used to be killing you, I was there to war on them. I killed them. How can you doubt me? I will tell no more about myself. I have ceased," said he. The End.

NOTES.

277, 3. kì qɸabe cí ámaɸataⁿ, etc. On each side of the bluff was a stream, and also a forest. Each man followed a stream till his path ascended the hill, instead of continuing along the stream.

277, 5. gaɸa guataⁿ a-í aka, the Snake-man. Frank La Flèche rejects "gaɸa" as superfluous.

278, 2. e, he, she, or it, referring to a subject or object previously mentioned, "the aforesaid."

278, 3. wa'ujìŋgaqteì (the first one), pronounced wa'u+jìŋgaqteì by Nudaⁿ-axa.

279, 1. waqìⁿha gaɸaⁿ ɸa'ì te. The mention of paper is a suspicious circumstance. Has it not been substituted for something else, as is the case in other myths? See, for example, the Țpìwere myth of the young Black bear, Mũⁿteinye.

279, 5. ní kě ɸétaⁿ egihiɸeɸa-biama. The lodge was about three yards from the stream. Ní kě ɸétaⁿ egihiɸeɸa-biama, that is, he plunged them about one foot below the surface.

279, 8. ahiqti ɸeɸa-biama, a very strong expression, showing the rapidity of his movements: "he arrived at the very place, suddenly."

279, 15. $\mathfrak{X}$ añge ahi-biama. " $\mathfrak{X}$ añ'ge, near to, refers to a time or place towards which one moves; but ácka, near to, implies rest. $\mathfrak{I}$ ade, near, near to, implies that the destination is near the starting-point."—Frank La Flèche.

279, 20. cí egaⁿ hiⁿbe 'i-biama waqiⁿha edabe. Judging from the context, this sentence is out of place, and the correct order is: Ědi ahí-biamá (at the place of the third man). 280, 4. " $\mathfrak{I}$ aze ahi-biama," is incorrect. Read " $\mathfrak{I}$ áze hí amá."—Frank La Flèche.

280, 9. ígagčeze jaⁿ'biama. Sanssouci reads ugágčeze, but Frank La Flèche thinks that it should be gagčéze jaⁿ-biama. He does not understand ígagčeze (given by a Ponka). The Fish lay in shallow water that struck against it and divided, flowing below it in ripples.

280, 9. čahe čaⁿ éčaⁿbe jaⁿ-biama. The Snake lay in sight, on the hill, and called down to the little Fish.

280, 19–281, 1. ní kě uhá ača-biama - - - ničañgaqti idaⁿběqti agi-biama. After leaving the Toad, he followed the shore of the lake, expecting to head off the young man. But he could not find him, so he retraced his steps. Again he did not find him, so he went back the third time. The Snake came back, and right to the middle of a stream (the big-water). There was a large Fish in shallow water next to the shore.

"I will ask you something. Do come up out of the water (i. e., do lift your head out of the water so that you can answer my questions)."

282, 20. piqti xigčihāⁿ gčĩⁿ-biama. The Snake once more raised his head higher, then he raised it still higher, so as to be ready to attack the Big turtle, should his suspicions prove well-founded.

TRANSLATION.

Some lodges of a people were there; they were a great many. And a young man, who was a very handsome person, departed in a bad humor. At the very dense forest he went up-hill to a very large bluff. And at length, from the forest in the other direction, a person was approaching, following the other creek. He, too, was approaching the hill which was near him. Right together they came, meeting each other. They stood looking at each other. At length the man who had been approaching arrived there, and stood with him. "Why! Let us go homeward. You will eat," said he. So the youth went with him. Behold, the bones of men had lain for some time in a curvilinear heap. The man who went with him was the only one who had killed those who had been killed. Well, a very old woman was sitting there. In order that he might eat pieces of the persons who had been killed, the food which was in the lodge, the old woman put it in the pot for the youth. She caused it to be cooked till done. "I never eat it," said the youth. "I have put away some of this corn. You may be used to eating that," said she. "Yes," he said. So she put the corn in the liquor in which the human flesh had been boiled. And so, when it was done, she filled a bowl for him, and he ate. "It is very bad!" thought he. "You man, I pity you," said the old woman. "You man, you very good-looking one, I pity you. With what indeed could he have tempted you? And when he was returning with you, how could you consent to come? He is far from being good. He killed the men to whom belong these bones that you see. He shall depart to-morrow, very early in the morning," said she. He who had taken him to his home was a Snake-man. He used to fatten his guests, and about the fourth or fifth day he used to kill them. "It is always so. You will kill me. When you finish with me, you will hurry. Lay down my bones, and cover them with a robe. I give to you one pair of those moccasins which I have put away. Please do your best. Notwithstanding how far you go, when evening comes, the Snake will overtake you. And as to this pair of moccasins which I have given you, when you take a step forward, you shall reach this headland that you see. A man stands there. When you reach there, give him that paper. Then pull off the moccasins, and place them facing this way. They shall come home," said the old woman. And when the old woman had told him all, he killed her. When it was very early in the morning, he cut the flesh in strips. He finished it. At length he uncoiled the entrails. He arrived at the stream with them. He plunged them this far right into the water. The entrails lay on it, floating, as it were, in tiny waves. He laid her bones down, and covered them with a robe. He took the moccasins; and so when he departed and arrived at the peak, the headland became visible. When he took a step forward, he arrived at the distant headland; he arrived suddenly at the very place. And a man was standing there. And the youth gave him the paper. "Ho! Hasten," said the man. Having pulled off the moccasins which the old woman gave him, the youth made them sit facing that way, having thought, "They will go homeward." And the man gave him moccasins in like manner, also a paper. "When you arrive, you will show that paper to him. When you arrive, pull off the moccasins and place them at the door," said the man. "Yes," said the young man. "Hurry," said the man. The youth arrived near the place, as he moved. And again a man was standing there. He gave him the paper. "Ho! Hurry," said the man. Having pulled off the moccasins that the first man gave him, the youth placed them at the door. And the other man gave him a pair of the moccasins, saying as follows: "You will put on these, and go. A man stands in that place. You will go thither. Do your best." Again in like manner he gave him moccasins, and a paper also. He arrived there. "Oho! Hurry," said the man. The young man placed the moccasins outside. And the man said as follows: "In that unseen place lies a stream. When you take sudden steps forward, do not look at the water." And it was so. So he departed. He reached the other side. He pulled off the moccasins for the owner. Evening arrived. It was evening of that day when he killed the old woman and departed. Passing on up-hill, he went following the course of the creek. Having arrived at the very middle of the path around the lake, behold, he found out the Snake. He was coming back around the lake. Following his own trail, he was coming back again.

The young man changed himself into a red-tail fish. The little Fish lay, causing ripples in the water. The Snake lay in sight on the hill. The Snake questioned him. "I seek a person. And as you walk on the very surface in full view, if even a bird goes flying along, you will see it," said the Snake. "Yes, it is so; but I have not seen him. If I see him, I will tell you," said the Fish. So the Snake went right with the current. He followed along the very edge of the stream. At length a very gray Toad was sitting. Just thus the Snake arrived. "A person having been approaching here, you may have seen him. Even if there was only a shadow, you may have seen it. I seek him," said he. "Yes, my friend, when I lay by day, a person was here; a person came very near shaking the ground by walking; but whither or how he went, I do not know," said the Toad. "That was he. That was he whom I seek," said the Snake. And he departed, following the course of the stream. And when he thought that he had cut him off, the young man had not arrived. Again was the Snake returning around the bank. And there was no one at the place where he arrived. Again was he returning, following his own trail by the stream. At length he was coming back in the very middle of the path on the bank of this very large stream. Behold, a very large Fish lay in shallow water by the bank. The Snake questioned him. "I have sought a person, my friend, but I have not found him," said he. "The one with whom you talked yonder is he," said the Fish. "Is it possible! I went to much trouble to meet him, and even then when I saw him I did not recognize him," said the Snake. And he went homeward. And the large Fish was the young man. And the Snake reached his home, at the place to which he had taken the young man. Then was a Muskrat approaching from up-stream. The Snake took hold of him. "I will question you," said he. "About what may you ask me? Speak quickly," said the Muskrat. "When I talked to a person, I caused him to stand here, and I think that you are he," said the Snake. "No," said the Muskrat. "Why! I know the person with whom you say that you talked. When I sat in this place, a man went along, passing over my lodge, despite all my efforts to prevent him. He broke a stick under the water by bearing on it. When he asked me to go with him under the water, he broke for me whatever I carried home to sit on," said the Muskrat. And the Snake said, "On what day was it?" "Why! Yesterday when the sun had become very high, he went, passing over my lodge. And when he went thither, he broke the stick by bearing on it," said the Muskrat. And the Snake believed him. "My friend, you speak the very truth," said the Snake. Again he departed, passing by the bank of the stream. And along this bank of the stream the red-willows were leaning down close to the water. A Red-breasted turtle was sitting there. The Snake took hold of him. "I will question you. I have sought a person regularly, but I have not found him," said the Snake. "Not so at all. I have just now come back in sight. I have just come again in sight from this pond. Therefore, my friend, I have not deceived in any particular," said the Red-breasted turtle. The Snake departed. At length a very green Frog was sitting, floating by the edge of the shallow water. The Snake arrived there. "My friend, I have sought a person regularly. At length you may have seen him," said he. "Yes," said the Frog. "Come, tell about it. I have sought a person regularly, but I have not found him. I hope that you will tell me very accurately if you have seen him," said the Snake. "Wonderful! My friend, very late in the evening yesterday, when I sat in an eddy at this place behind us, I saw the shadow of a person," said the Frog. "Yes, my friend, it was he. I seek him," said the Snake. So the Snake went to that side up-stream. Again he departed, following the course of the stream. And in the very thick green scum of a lake the Big turtle was walking, pushing it up. The Snake sat suddenly on his back. "My friend, I will question you. Do emerge from the water," said he. "Why! what will you ask me? Though the person is moving here, when you do not recognize him, he will kill you. Therefore quit it," said the Big turtle. The Snake sat drawn up, very much coiled up, with his head high. He sat thinking that the Big turtle was the one whom he sought. "My friend, tell it to me accurately," said the Snake. "No. Why! what I have told you, I have told truly. Do not do so. Though the person is moving there, when you do not recognize him, beware lest he kill you," said the Big turtle. Yet again the Snake sat raising himself. "This one is that!" thought he. "Come, my friend. Why! tell me," said the Snake. "I have suffered very much. Tell me." "Wonderful! Truly he does not listen to his friend," said the Big turtle. "I will tell you," said he. "Do your best," said the Snake. "The person whom you seek lies in that very large stream which you saw formerly. Do your best," said the Big turtle. "My friend, do you tell the truth?" said the Snake. "There he lies. Do your best. If you do not recognize him, he will kill you," said the Big turtle. "I will go thither," said the Snake. "Do your best. If you do not recognize him, he will kill you," said the Big turtle. He was going in the midst of the large stream. And there lay the person who was sought. And the Snake went thither. He arrived at the eddy of the stream. At length it had gone, carrying him underneath the water. It was the person who did not love him, that had changed himself into water (i. e., the eddy). Notwithstanding the Snake wished to reach the surface, the eddy kept him under. So he died from suffocation. The young man killed the Snake. Then he went homeward. And he reached home.

TRANSLATION.

Some lodges camped. And a girl was fully grown. And her mother used to comb her hair for her. The girl went for wood. And she reached home with grass sticking in her hair. "Though it is so, she has just had her hair combed for her. It is indeed bad!" said the mother. Behold, the girl was in love with a Grizzly bear. A man arrived there, seeking a horse. He found the Grizzly bear lying down. "He says that a Grizzly bear is lying in that place. He is lying in a den, sound asleep. Beware lest he kill one of the people suddenly. All ye take guns," said the people. They sat on the horses. So they went in a circle, surrounding the bear. At length the girl said as follows: "O father, please bring me the skin of the Grizzly bear." And they killed him. And her father petitioned to all the people; therefore the skin was given to him. And he said, "Fasten down the skin yonder," referring to her mother. So the girl took it away, as she had hastened to anticipate her mother. She sat working at it. She cried continually. When she sat at work, her younger sister sat with her. And when the girl worked, she condoled with the Grizzly bear. She continued saying, "Eça+!" The younger one called to her mother in the distance to tell it. "O mother, this one when she works on the skin of the Grizzly bear, says nothing but 'Eça+!'" said she. And when the girl sat working, it was so again. She said nothing but "Eça+!" Again the younger one called to her mother in the distance to tell it. "O mother, this one, when she works on the skin of the Grizzly bear, says nothing but 'Eça+!'" said she. The girl finished it. She dried it. When she placed it so, as she dried it, she finished it. They went to play children's games. And she who loved the Grizzly bear joined in the sport. "O little sister, go after my Grizzly-bear skin," said she. So the younger sister brought it to her. Then the elder sister tied it on over the whole of her body. Then, crying regularly like a Grizzly bear, she rushed on them. They fled without exception, in great confusion. "The Grizzly bear will attack us," said the girls and boys. It was so each time; she invariably rushed on them. At length, when the fourth time arrived, she continued a Grizzly bear. And she destroyed all the girls with whom she played. Her little sister was the only one that remained. And she destroyed all in the lodges. And the elder sister slept, lying down alone in the den. Having dug a corner in a part of the den by the door, she made the younger sister sit there. "You are probably hungry. Go to the lodges," said the elder sister. The little sister arrived there, and walked along, following the line of the lodges, whose owners had been destroyed. And she reached the den again, having a very full stomach. Again on the morrow the elder sister said to her, "Go thither. You are probably hungry. You will eat." And she sent her thither again the next day.

At length she went, following the line of the lodges. Behold, four persons were there. They were sitting in the lodge. She recognized them. The four elder brothers of the Bear-girl had reached home. "Oh! Elder brothers, my sister has utterly destroyed those who dwelt in the village!" said she. She stood crying and telling about them. "I alone am left of my people," she said. "Why is it?" said they. "Elder brothers, my sister is a Grizzly bear," said she. And they said, "At what time has she commanded you to be coming? Begone. You will be coming when the time arrives again and she tells you to be coming." "No, elder brothers, I invariably walk for some time in the morning; therefore I shall have come hither at the proper time in the morning.

Sleep ye far hence, at the trees extending beyond that place," said she. So the little girl went back. And the men departed. The little girl reached the den again. And when she had arrived very near it again, the Bear-girl snuffed the air. "Why?" said the sister. "You have a fresh human smell," said the Bear-girl. "No, elder sister. Beware. It is enough. Stop talking. It is not so," said the younger one. Still she did not stop talking. "O younger sister, you have a fresh human smell, I say," said the Bear-girl. At length she stopped talking. And they slept. It was morning.

The Bear-girl said, "Come, go. You will eat." And the girl departed. She rolled up the robe and put it over her shoulders. At length the men peeped. "Your younger sister is coming," said one. When the girl arrived there, they departed with her without stopping. And having gone, they crossed the creek. One pulled off his leggings, and carried his sister on his back. Having reached the other side, he put on his moccasins as well as his leggings, and fled, going straight across the country. At length, when it was beyond noon, the girl had not reached the den again. At length her elder sister followed the trail. She had come to the place where they sat kindling a fire. "Yes, wherever you arrive, how can you escape from me?" she said. So the men went, having her after them. The Grizzly-bear followed the trail. They left four peaks behind. And when they departed, leaving the fourth peak, the Grizzly-bear came in sight. "Oho! Your sister has come in sight. Do your best," said they. And they went on, she following them. She almost overtook them. And the eldest man said, "Oho! I will make an attempt." They were nearly overtaken. He made thorns, standing very thick, with no space between. And the Grizzly-bear got out of them, having had more than enough of crying on account of the thorns. When she overtook them again, she said, "You have made me suffer very much, so you shall surely die." "Come, elder brother, I for my part will make an attempt," said the next man. They crossed a very small creek. He made a dense forest, through which she could not force her way at all. He also made small bushes extending over a large tract of land. Therefore the Grizzly-bear did not reach the end of the forest for some time. At length she approached them again. She nearly overtook them. Again she said to them, "As you have made me suffer not a little, all of you shall surely die." "Why! elder brother, I will make an attempt," said a youth. He made very sharp thorns, resembling awls. They pierced through and through the feet. The Grizzly-bear walked, scattering the blood at every step. Again she overtook them. Again she said to them, "I have said, 'As you have made me suffer not a little, you all shall surely die.'" "Oho! Do you be the one," said the eldest to the fourth brother. And he made part of the ground cracked. When she went to jump over, the ground on each side went further apart. She went headlong into the chasm. And all her brothers were returning. They took their guns. "Your sister has made us suffer greatly. We will do just so to her," said they. Having stood around her, they shot at her and killed her. The ground came together as it had been before it separated.

TRANSLATION.

The Badger's son went as a visitor to a very populous village. "Badger has come as a visitor. Go ye with him to the lodge of the chief," said they. "Badger has come as a visitor," said they, when they addressed the chief. "Oho! Let him come, O first-born sons," said he. And they arrived there with him. They used to invite him to feasts. "I have come to invite Badger's son to a feast," said one. Still, they continued inviting him to feasts. The principal war-chief had a beautiful woman for his daughter. When they invited this son of the Badger, the woman said as follows: "You will please bring back for me a piece of the fresh meat of which you are invited to partake." "Yes, if it be so, so shall it be," said he. And he was going back from the feast. And the woman was sitting outside the door. The Badger's son said, "I have brought back this fresh meat for which you begged." And the woman said, "Bring it to me." And he took it to her. And when he gave it to her, she said, "How long shall it be before you go homeward?" "In about three days I shall go homeward," said the Badger's son. "And when the time comes for you to go homeward, we shall go homeward," said the woman. And still they continued inviting him to feasts at the village. And he said as follows: "I shall go homeward to-morrow. You said heretofore that when I went homeward, we would go homeward." "Yes, I said it. We shall go homeward. You will waken me at night," said she. And when they slept, the Badger's son awoke. He wakened her. "Arise. You said, 'We will go homeward.' I am going homeward," said he. He went homeward with her. At length her father knew that his daughter was missing, when she had gone. Her father said as follows: "The Badger's son has taken my child away. You will chase her for me. If you overtake her, you will kill the Badger's son. You will bring my child back to me." The old man said, "It is said that the Badger's son has gone back again with the chief's daughter. You are to pursue her for her father. When you overtake her, you will kill the Badger's son. You will bring the woman back to him." "Oho! The Badger's son has gone again with the chief's daughter, so he has asked us to pursue," said they. They pursued. And the woman commanded the Badger's son to go faster. "Go faster. If they overtake us, beware lest they kill you. But as for me, why should they kill me?" said the woman. At length the pursuers came in sight. The woman said as follows: "Yonder they have come. We are overtaken. They will kill you. Go faster." The pursuers having overtaken them, took hold of the woman. And they pursued the Badger's son beyond the place. And one, having kept on till he came to him, overtook the Badger's son, and said as follows: "My friend, though the chief said that we were to kill you, I do not kill you. Go faster. I will say that I broke the bow. Run with all your might to yonder dense forest, to yonder trees," said he. And one arrived where the first pursuer was. "You overtook him. Why did you not kill him?" "I broke the bow, so I did not kill him. Yonder he goes homeward. Quicken your pace immediately," said he. And the second pursuer arrived where the Badger's son was. "Ho! my friend, though the chief said that we were to kill you, I will not kill you. Quicken your pace. Run with all your might to yonder trees. You have nearly come home. I shall say that I broke the bowstring," said he. One arrived there. "You overtook him. Why did you do that? Why did you not kill him?" "As I broke the bowstring, yonder he goes alive towards his home. Quicken your pace immediately," said he. And the third pursuer arrived there. "Ho! My friend, though the head-chief said that we were to kill you, we are not the persons to do that. You will live. I will say that my foot hurt me. Quicken your pace. Run with all your might to the trees," said he. And one arrived where the third pursuer was. "Why! You really overtook him. Why did you not kill him?" "My foot hurt me, so I did not kill him. Yonder he goes homeward. Quicken your pace and pursue him," said he. Again a pursuer arrived there. "Ho! My friend, yonder is a lodge. You will go headlong into it. You will live. I shall say that I sprained my ankle in running," said he. One arrived there. He stopped running. "Why! you really overtook him. Why did you do that?" "You tell the truth. I sprained my ankle in running, so I stopped. Yonder he goes homeward. Quicken your pace and chase him," said he. The Badger's son had gone headlong into an earth-lodge. He fled. The pursuers made a great uproar. A woman sat inside the lodge. And the woman was cross. The woman carried her own shield. She seized her spear, and brandished it at the Badger's son. "Speak. On what business have you come? If you do not speak, I will kill you," said she. The Badger's son did not look at her at all. Even though she brandished the spear at him, he stirred not at all; he did not flee from her. A man was lying by the wall. Thence he addressed her. "O sister, let my sister's husband alone." "I will let him alone," said the woman. The woman married the Badger's son. When he married the woman, the boy, her brother, kept his head always covered. And the Badger's son said as follows: "Why is my wife's brother so?" "Oh! Even if I tell you, how can you do that which he desires?" said she. And the boy said as follows: "O sister, tell it to my sister's husband." And the woman said, "Oh! My dear younger brother, if I tell it to your sister's husband, how can he do it? Even I have failed to harm them." Again, after sitting a while, he questioned her. "Tell how it is," said he. "O sister, tell it to my sister's husband, I say," said he. "Oh! My dear younger brother! When I tell it to your sister's husband, how may he acquire it? Even I have failed to harm them," said she. He asked her again. And the boy said as follows, "O sister, tell it to my sister's husband." "I will tell it to your sister's husband," said she. "A woman who resembles me has made your wife's brother suffer. She cut off his hair, and took it homeward." And the Badger's son said as follows: "How many are they?" And the woman said, "The women are four. I have been there regularly, but I have come home unsuccessful." And he said, "How many times do you usually sleep before you arrive there?" "I usually arrive there after sleeping once," said she. "How many pairs of moccasins do you usually put on when you are coming?" said he. "I usually put on two pairs of moccasins before I reach home," said she. "And I will go thither. Make moccasins for me. With what is it in a straight line?" said her husband. "It is in a line with sunrise. I have been there regularly, but they are very watchful; therefore I have always come back unsuccessful," said the woman. "But still I will go there. Though I will go there at any rate, even if I return unsuccessful, prepare some provisions for me," said he. So he departed. He went, and went, and went, and went. He slept on the way. The next day, when the sun was low, he arrived there. Behold, the women danced. They beat the drum. As they took hair like that of his brother-in-law, they had it for dancing over it. Having arrived by creeping up on them, he stood looking at them. He peeped. The women stopped beating the drum. They went homeward to the lodge. At length they came in sight. They had pack-straps and axes. They went for wood. One woman had very white hair; one had very red; one, very green; and one, very yellow. Though they were approaching, they were continually scaring each other, and starting suddenly to flee. The Badger's son had painted himself very well. He had made himself very nice-looking. He had also made his clothing very good. He stood leaning against a tree. The youngest sister among the women, a girl, came first. She found the Badger's son. "Oh! elder sisters, I have found a husband for myself," said she. "Oh! little sister, we will break wood, and my sister's husband shall be on guard," said one. They broke branches of wood. When they finished tying up the wood in bundles, they said, "Cause us to carry them on our backs." "Oho! put the straps on the bundles. I will cause you to carry them on your backs," said he. When they had put on the straps, he pulled out his bow, and killed all of the four women. He cut off all the hair. And when he had gone to the lodge, he seized the hair of his brother-in-law, and put it in his robe above the belt. He set the grass afire. The smoke was black. And the brother-in-law said as follows: "O sister, I think that my sister's son is coming back. He has fired the grass." "Even I have always failed. How is it possible for your sister's husband to be coming home with them?" said she. Again he set fire to the grass. When he set fire to it, the smoke was red. "There is your sister's husband, coming home with them," said the Badger's wife. Again when he had come very near, he set the grass afire. The smoke was very white. "There

NOTES.

304, 6-7. kagé, čé iⁿdádi 'ácpae eté tē. Another elliptical phrase, which is, in full, kagé, čétědi iⁿdádi 'ácpae eté, é tē (younger brother, in this place, my father, you hunt, may, said it), or some like phrase. Frank La Flèche gives: čée hă iⁿdadi 'ácpae etě tē.

304, 12. iⁿgičagčídai. This was caused by the bite of the bear, as well as by the struggles of the Puma himself.

304, 19-305, 1. caⁿ' égaⁿ gáxa-gă, a strong command.

305, 3. ičadi t'aⁿ' tē. The Puma was considered the real child of the man and woman; and the young man was merely called so. He was adopted after the Puma. "Kage," in the text just above this phrase, may be translated "my child", being used instead of "nisiha."

TRANSLATION.

A man was keeping a Puma. And he had no children at all. And so he regarded this Puma as his child. At length a young man was going. When he arrived very near the lodge, behold, some deer were walking. Concealing himself from them, he reached the lodge, as he had no gun. And the father of the Puma, too, had none.

The young man said as follows: "O father, some deer are there, very easy to kill. Lend me a gun." "Oho! I have no gun whatsoever," said he. He caused the Puma to be the younger brother of the young man. "Go with your younger brother. Beware lest you scold your younger brother. Be accustomed to go very gently with your younger brother," said the father. At length the Puma went with the young man. "These are they, O younger brother," said the young man. He pointed at the deer for him. And so, after he pointed at the deer for him, the Puma went to attack them. And the Puma killed a deer just at the place where the young man had found the deer. And he carried it home. "Because your younger brother always does thus, I prize him," said the father. "And if you desire any kind of animal, tell your younger brother." The Puma continued to kill all kinds of animals. "O father, I will go hunting with younger brother," said the young man. "There they are in that place out of sight, where the very dense forest stands, extending up-hill. Sit there on the hill, and wait for your younger brother." And the young man sat on the hill, waiting for the Puma. "O younger brother, this is the place where my father said that you might hunt," said he. And the young man sat on the hill. And the Puma went headlong into the dense forest. He took hold of a deer. He made it cry out bitterly because he held it with his claws. And he arrived there at the hill. He went dragging it. He hung it up. "I desire a black bear, O younger brother, in order to eat fat meat," said the young man. At length the Puma caught hold of one. He arrived there. Behold, he was some time in killing it. Since the Puma got foam on himself in struggling with the black bear, he rubbed himself as he walked. "Ho! O younger brother, I desire a beaver," said the young man. The water was obstructed. And after a while the Puma went headlong into the water. At length he came back in sight, bringing a large beaver. "O younger brother, I desire an otter," said the young man. And the Puma killed an otter. And as their father was sad at heart, he was coming seeking them. And he arrived first at the place where the deer had been killed. Next he arrived at the place where the black bear had been killed. And he arrived at the place where the beaver had been killed. And he arrived at the place where the otter had been killed. "Fie! my child, you kill your younger brother with fatigue. Do stop it at once," said he. And they went homeward, carrying just that many animals. The father carried all on his back. And having reached home, both of his sons sat eating. The Puma was the principal one, as he had a father; therefore he sat with his father, near him, but not touching him. And his mother also in like manner took care of her own child. And after that the young man went hunting regularly with his adopted brother. "When your younger brother has killed just one animal, carry it on your back, and be coming home with him," said the father. The father feared for his son, lest he should make himself crazy by running, if he killed many animals. And so it continued. When he killed just one animal, he was coming home with him. And he arrived there with him as he hunted. "You will go thither with your younger brother to the place where the trees stand very thick by the creek which comes forth from the remote object," said he. And he arrived there. "O younger brother, this is the place where my father said that you might hunt," said he. So he went thither. When he had been there a very long time he was killing the male elk that was lying there. "O younger brother, kill a grizzly bear," said the young man. At length the Puma took hold of one suddenly. He went thither. He was crying very much like a grizzly bear. The grizzly bear said nothing but "H'a! h'a! h'a!" At length he was lying killed. The Puma had been pierced very deep with his claws on both sides of the body, under the forelegs. And the young man made the Puma rush on a buffalo bull. He killed the buffalo bull. And again the young man said as follows: "O younger brother, hunt the trail of a black bear in this place." The Puma was continually swelling up wherever he had been bitten on the body under the forelegs, in fact, all over his body. Yet the young man was repeatedly making him hunt, as if he was not satisfied.

At length the father went again to seek the slayers, his sons. He arrived there. At length he arrived at the place where the grizzly bear had been killed. And his heart was sad. At length he arrived there whither the Puma was coming, dragging the black bear which he had just killed. The Puma embraced his father suddenly. "Ho! You ought not to tell your younger brother about the savage animals," said the father. "Yes, O father," said the youth. "Do not tell your brother about even one of them any more," said the father. And again did the father carry all those animals that were killed. And he carried them home on his back. The mother, crying bitterly, embraced the Puma suddenly, when she saw his blood. The woman said to the young man the words which the father had said to him. "If you see even one of them, do not tell your younger brother about it any more. You came very near causing me to suffer," she said. And after that they sat, causing him to recover. They did not hunt, as they were rich in food. At length the Puma was missing, when it was very early in the morning. "O father, younger brother is missing," said the young man. "Your younger brother has gone hunting. He will be coming back," said the father. When the sun was high the Puma came home. And he pushed against his father to attract his attention. Then he went out, and his father followed him. They went towards the place where they got water for the lodge. When they reached there, behold, a large beaver had been lying there for some time. And they reached a place that was down-stream. And a large beaver had been lying there, too, for some time. And the Puma had killed just those two. The father carried them home on his back. And about the third day afterward the youth went with him. And the Puma killed two deer. He killed two black bears. And there he killed many. He killed ten: deer, black bears, and beavers. When the sun was very low, they reached home. "O father, younger brother has killed very many animals," said the youth. The next day all went to bring the meat into camp. The young man went with his father and mother. The Puma did not go. Another people attacked them. They killed the young man first. Next they killed the old woman. The father barely reached home. "They have killed your mother and your elder brother. Let us go thither," said he. They arrived there. As soon as they arrived the men killed the Puma's father. The Puma attacked the men. The Puma killed one and his horse. He attacked them again. The Puma encountered them one after another. He killed a man with the horse that he was on; and so on throughout the ranks of the foe. He killed a hundred. Piercing them with his claws, he pulled them off their horses and killed them. Just as the sun set, only one man was left.

311, 19. maⁿekaⁿ, from maⁿ, ground; and ekaⁿ, to move, stir; i. e., "they who scampered over the ground." Perhaps the craw-fish, rather than the crab, is referred to in this myth.

TRANSLATION.

At length the Raccoon was going. At length he said as follows:

"Young-er broth-er Coon! Let us go to eat grapes, Young-er brother Coon."

"O my elder brother, whenever I eat them, my teeth chatter rapidly, and therefore I am unwilling." "Younger brother Coon! Let us go to eat plums, Younger brother Coon." "O my elder brother, whenever I eat them, they make me sick, and therefore I am unwilling." "Younger brother Coon! Let us go to eat choke-cherries, Younger brother Coon." "O my elder brother, whenever I eat them, I am chilly, and therefore I am unwilling." "Younger brother Coon! Let us go to eat Crabs, Younger brother Coon." "O! elder brother, O! elder brother, elder brother, O! They always agree with me." At length they departed. At length they reached the place where the Crabs got water for the village. At length they pretended to be dead. "Beware. Don't you dare to stir at all. When I say, 'Oho!' you will stir. Beware. Even if you are tickled in the sides, even if they push their claws up your nostrils, even if they reach into your eyes, do not stir at all. When I say, 'Oho!' you will stir," said the elder Raccoon. At length some Crab girls arrived there for water. When they had been there some time, they found the Raccoons. They ran homeward to tell it. "Two Waçaquuxe are lying dead. Halloo!" said some of the men. At length they arrived at the lodge of the Crab chief, whither they had gone to tell it. And the Crab chief came in sight of the Raccoons. And he sent some away to attack them. And an old man went with them to act as a crier and to sing for the dancers. And they reached the Raccoons. And one said as follows to himself: "Let me see! I will tickle him in the side!" When he tickled him in the side, the Raccoon lay without stirring at all. When the Raccoon almost laughed, the Crab stopped. And the Crab went to the other Raccoon, and thrust his claws up his nostrils. He lay without stirring in the least. Going again to the former Raccoon, he took hold of his eyelids by the very edge. The Raccoon lay without stirring in the least. The aged Crab man proclaimed aloud, saying, "Ho! he says that you are to dance. Halloo!" At length they danced. They danced around the Raccoons. The old man said:

The oth - er has a spot - ted face. Halloo! At length the whole Crab village went dancing around them. At length the elder Raccoon said, "Oho!" Both Raccoons stood suddenly. They went to attack them. The Crabs ran with all their might to their lodges. The Raccoons walked along, eating and killing them. At length just two Crabs had gone home. "Come! Begone. You shall be called 'Maⁿ-ckaⁿ,'" said the Raccoons. The End.

THE RACCOONS AND THE CRABS.

NOTES.

313, 1: Miře+ must be intended for a vocative. This myth contains the only instance of its use in the texts.

313, 2. hazi, pronounced ha+zi; so gube, 313, 5, is pronounced gu+be; wajide, 313, 7, waji+de; and Ma^{n'}ckaⁿ, 314, 2, Ma^{n'}+ckaⁿ.

313, 3. a^{n'}ča^{n'}đaxete, from idaxete.

313, 6. iñgč a^{n'}wa^{n'}sa, i. e., iñgč a^{n'}wa^{n'}sa, from iñgč(e)-usa.

315, 2. za'ěqtiaⁿ, pronounced za+ěqtiaⁿ.

315, 4. bčugaqti, pronounced bču+gaqti.

315, 6. čeama Ictinike čipíi ača. Here the Raccoons are called "Ictinike" as well as "Wačaxuxe." And besides, the Omaha and Ponka delegates at Washington, in August, 1881, spoke of the (two) Ictinike who planned to catch the crabs. Frank La Flèche says that the Raccoons were as cunning as Ictinike, knowing all his tricks, but he and they should not be confounded.

315, 11. inde-qçexe, or inde qçeqçe, "spotted face," is a Çegiha name sometimes applied to the raccoon. Frank La Flèche says that "hi" jaⁿxe qañga" cannot be said of a raccoon.

315, 14-15. Haha! etc. Such phrases were commonly used by Ictinike in expressing his delight at having overreached others.

TRANSLATION.

At length the Raccoon was approaching. He sang as follows to his younger brother in the distance:—"O younger brother Coon! O younger brother Coon! O younger brother Coon! We go to eat grapes, O younger brother Coon!" "O my elder brother! whenever I eat those, my stomach aches me, and when I drink water I have the cholera morbus so bad that I have an action whenever I take a step," said the younger. "O younger brother Coon! O younger brother Coon! O younger brother Coon! We go to eat hackberries, O younger brother Coon!" said the elder. "O my elder brother! whenever I eat them, I am constipated for a long time. I get out of patience," said the younger. "O younger brother Coon! O younger brother Coon! O younger brother Coon! We go to eat buffalo-berries, O younger brother Coon!" said the elder. "O my elder brother! whenever I eat them, anulus meus prurit me, et scabo. I get out of patience," said the younger. "O younger brother Coon! O younger brother Coon! O younger brother Coon! We will go to eat Crabs, O younger brother Coon!" said the elder. "Thanks, elder brother! Thanks, elder brother! elder brother, thanks! I always think of eating those alone," said the younger. And they departed, planning as they went. They went towards a very large village of Crabs which was close by. "O elder brother! let us pretend to go and pay a friendly visit. And when they stand very thick around, let us attack them and eat them," said the younger. "No, let us kill them one by one as they go for water; and then we can eat them," said the elder brother. And the younger brother said, "No, I have a plan. Let us pretend to be dead on top of a ridge of hills, where the path which they take when they go after horses turns aside as it comes back this way." "Yes, that will do. That shall be it," said the elder. They went thither. And both lay flat on their backs in the path. They pretended to be dead. "Do your best," said the elder. "No matter how they treat you,—even if they thrust their claws into your eyes, even if they tickle you on the side, even if they thrust their claws up your nostrils, even if they kick your head aside very suddenly with their toes,—do not stir." At length one who had been seeking horses was coming back. He was coming back along the path. When he discovered them, he said, "Ci, ci, ci! those who are lying are two." He went around them. Then he approached them. He kicked one aside suddenly, but the Raccoon lay without stirring at all. And the Crab went homeward to tell it. "Two of those whom you call Waçaxuxe lie dead. Halloo!" said he. Those in the village sat as they were. "Hark!" said he who heard the call. At length an old man, who had been sitting at a very remote place, heard the call, and went further homeward to tell it. "He says that two of the Waçaxuxe lie dead. Halloo!" said he. The lodges were in great confusion (i. e., they made a great commotion by talking and shouting.)

They heard them. "You are to dance, he says, indeed! Halloo!" said the crier. And every one arrived there including even the children who were forward in learning to walk. Having arrived there, they stood around, being very close together. A very aged man was the last one to arrive. He approached and stood leaning on his staff. "Stand ye off! These Ictinike are cunning. Hold yourselves in readiness. Let us see! Feel them. Tickle them on their sides," said he. When they tickled them on their sides, they did not stir at all. "They lie as if dead. They are dead. Come, dance," said he. The old man sat singing for them. He beat a pillow with a round gourd, which he made rattle. Said he (in his song):

"Two raccoons lie dead.
Spotted face, Spotted face,
Spotted long tail,
Big offensive hair."

"O elder brother! attack them on that side next to you," said one of the Raccoons. Having started at once to their feet, they went along killing and eating them. They scared them into their lodges. Very few reached home. They did not chase them any longer, as they had eaten to their satisfaction. "Ha! ha! It is just as we desired. We have been caused to feel full after eating," said the Raccoons.

NOTES.

317, 6-7. Ahau! a-biama nudaⁿhañga. Insert "aká" before the period.

317, 7. aⁿniɕ etai, in full aⁿniɕa etai.

317, 9. nudaⁿhañgǎ iɕapa-gǎ. The scouts had gone out of sight of the war-chief; so they spoke to the one running, telling him not to proceed so rapidly, but to wait till the leader came in sight.

318, 3-4. áhi-bi ɕĩ, when the animal reached the man.

318, 8. ɕip'ande, etc. Whenever the Snake lifted his tail, it rattled.

318, 14. ciⁿ pronounced ciⁿ+ by Nudaⁿ-axa.

319, 13-14. egiɕe atañ-kedaⁿ, etc. Nudaⁿ-axa said that this referred to the war-chief who was the last one to eat part of the Snake. Half of his body, that is, all on one side, had been changed. On one side he was a snake; on the other, a man, the whole length of his body, as he lay extended on the ground.

320, 2-3. Majaⁿ udaⁿ gẽdi, etc. I agree with Frank La Flèche in substituting for this, Majaⁿ údaⁿ, dahé tañgá gẽ'di wiⁿ iɕaⁿ'awaɕáɕe taí: Land, good, hill, big, on the, one, you will place us.

320, 6. ðahe bazu cehiɕe egaⁿ, etc. This shows that the narrator was referring to a bluff in sight of the place where he was telling the myth.

320, 7. Next to the trees was grass, and below the grass, on the sides of the hill, was only the soil.

321, 1. Whenever any Snake recognized relations, horses, etc., he crawled over them.

321, 2. akigɕiⁿ, equivalent to jugɕe gɕiⁿ.

321, 7. When the tribe left the Snakes, they fastened the horses to posts driven into the ground. On their return they found fresh manure dropped here and there in a line with the posts; but neither horses nor footprints could be seen.

TRANSLATION.

Twenty men went on the war-path. They ate nothing. They were very impatient from hunger. They made a circuit and were coming back. "That will do, O servants! Look around as you walk. Do your best at searching," said the war-chief. And at length one was coming running. "O war-chief! I think that an animal is moving there," said he. "Oho! What sort of animal do you think it is?" said the war-chief. "O war-chief! I think that it is a buffalo bull," he said. "Oho!" said the war-chief. "If so, O servants! we may live. Go again to look at it." And one went running. Behold, the buffalo bull was going along walking. "Fie! Wait for the war-chief to come in sight," said the rest of the scouts. And they went slowly, waiting for him to appear. "Sit ye here," said he, addressing the servants. And he departed. "Lie ye looking at me," said he. He stood for the purpose of intercepting the buffalo. At length the buffalo bull was approaching him. He lay aiming at it. He pushed his gun along suddenly. He aimed directly at it. When it arrived, behold, it was a different animal. He lay fearing the sight of it. He took back his gun. He lay thinking, "If I do not shoot at him, he will be very apt to kill me! And if I shoot at him and miss him, still he will be apt to kill me!" All the time he lay, fearing the sight of it. It was a big Snake, with a rattle as large as a man's head. Whenever he lifted his tail, he rattled it: "Tcu+" (whispered). And he shot at the Snake, which stood (sic) without stirring at all. But after the Snake was shot at, behold, he fell suddenly. "Now the war-chief has killed him," said they. And the war-chief went back to them. He reached there again. "O psha! O servants! Though I have killed an animal, it is dangerous," said he. "Why! O war-chief! let us examine it at any rate, whatever sort of animal it may be," said they. "It is a big Snake," said he. "Really!" said they. All wondered. And all arrived there. "See! split it lengthwise with knives," said he. They split it with knives. Behold, the Snake was very fat. The Snake had a very good odor, just like that of the buffaloes when the Indians kill them. "O war-chief! the odor is very good. It is just like that of the buffaloes," said they. "Test it," said the war-chief. And kindling a fire, they put it on. The fire was very hot. And they were impatient from hunger. "Oho! Come, O servants! test it," said the war-chief. The sun had almost set. "O servants! let us sleep just here," said he. And they thrust sticks through the spare-ribs, running one end of each stick in the ground, close to the fire. When the spare-ribs were cooked, they put them in a heap. And as each one feared to eat before the rest, they sat putting them in a heap. And at length the war-chief said as follows: "Oho! O servants! bring a piece to me." And they took a piece to him. He ate it. At length he said, "Servants, it is very good. It is just like the buffaloes that we eat." And all ate, except one, who was a boy. Though they were willing, he did not eat. "O servant! it is like the buffaloes that we eat. The odor is not bad. It is very good. Eat it," said the war-chief. "I am unwilling," said the boy. And they sat in a circle around the fire which they kindled. But the boy sat apart from them. And it was dark. And having felt very full after eating, each one slept. At length the war-chief said, "Oho! Servants, arise! It is very bad." And he failed to talk with them, as, strange to say, they were all Snakes. Behold, the war-chief had finished changing the half of his body; the whole of one side lay stretched out in the shape of a Snake. The other war-chief said as follows: "Oho! Call yonder to him," referring to the boy. The boy came. "Come, O servant! look at us. O servant! you know that you did not eat because you feared this," said he. The boy stood crying. And the war-chief said, "It is a hopeless case. You alone will live. Do try to go homeward. We give to you everything which we sought in our travels." They gave him their sacredness (or, their charms). "You have waited this long for us, yet when it is day, you can go." At length the boy was afraid of leaving them. "Having filled one of the large robes, you will please carry us on your back. Please put us on a good land, on one of those large hills," said the war-chief. And it was day. All were sitting just so, coiled up and upon one another. And having taken a large robe, he put them in it. And he departed, carrying them. A very good hill was there. There he put them. It was not a small hill; it was a hill with a curvilinear top, like the one extending yonder, with two trees set down on the middle of the curvilinear top. And he put them there, by the bottom of the trees. As they knew that he was about to go homeward, all the Snakes lay thick over the boy (i. e., they covered the surface of his body, as he stood); they passed over his body. And leaving them, he went homeward. And he reached home at the lodges. "He who was the war-chief ate an animal, and changed his body into that sort of animal. He said that he wished to see whatever he has, in the summer, you who are his relations, the women and children, and even his horses," said the boy. The war-chief who was partly a Snake had said, "In the summer I wish to see the lodges at any rate." And when it was summer, they removed the camp. They arrived there. "We have come. Here it is," said the boy. And the people said, "Let us camp just here." And the women, the children, in fact all, arrived there. When they arrived there, behold, the Snakes came in sight. They had made dens there. "Those are they. Beware lest you fear them. Those are they. Beware lest you flee from them. Stand still," said the boy. At length all the Snakes lay thick on the boy. They went beyond him. The people stood in a row. And they condoled with them. They made a great uproar by crying. In fact, all condoled with them. And when the Snakes had gone throughout the line, and had passed over the bodies of the people, they were fully satisfied. And the Snakes were in a row at the dens, sitting with one another. They lay looking at the crowd of people. Their horses were placed there tied; the packs, the saddles too, the whips, bows, the leggings which they had abandoned when they were approaching to kill the Snake, also the moccasins which they had abandoned when they were approaching—all were put there. And it was another winter. Again they removed and came to the place. And then the Snakes were invisible. The horses which they had left, and which had recently dropped manure, were missing. Therefore it is reported that they took them back into their dens.

NOTES.

324, 3. egaxe ja^{n'}-biama. If this refer to the logs, it means that two logs lay parallel, and one at the end went across, forming a partial inclosure. If it refer to the men, it means that they lay around the fire, inside this inclosure.

324, 6. ukigčá^{n'} Kigčidĩndi^{n'}. Frank La Flèche makes these "uxigčá^{n'}" and "Xigčidĩndi^{n'}," which seems to confound the sociative in "ki" with the reflexive in "xi."

325, 6. ana akii-ma, etc. As many as reached the other side of the Snake that lay across their path, encouraged those remaining to jump over.

325, 7. naji^{n'} ta^{n'} abagčá-biama. As the verb is preceded by the classifier ta^{n'}, read "ábagčá amá."—Frank La Flèche.

325, 10. gáha kigčéčě. Frank La Flèche says that the Omahas say, "gahé kigčéčě," and the Ponkas, "gahá kigčéčě." See "bahá ičéčě" and "bahé ičéčě" in the Dictionary.

325, 19. ga^{n'}ama, etc. After the two war chiefs had moved a while on their way back to their comrades, they arrived again (gačuađi) at that place (unseen by the narrator) where their comrades were. But before they arrived in sight of the camp, one ordered the other to go ahead and tell the news.

TRANSLATION.

Some men on the war-path reached the place of their destination. They slept on their homeward way. At length they returned to the land where they were going to sleep. Behold, large logs were lying there. This was a very good place to sleep in. The logs were three. They lay around. At length, when it was day, there was a high wind. The war-chief looked around. Behold, the logs were three immense Snakes. "Ho, servants! It is very bad. Arise," said he. All the serpents were lying with their mouths gaping wide. And the men took a firm hold of one another. And the high wind continued to blow the men along towards the mouths of the Snakes.

He who was at the end stood crying. And he said as follows: "Ho, O servants! I have found a plan." And they gave to the Snakes all their possessions, such as arrows, moccasins, and knives. And from the time that they closed their mouths there was a calm. The Snakes made the high wind with their mouths, when they lay with open mouths. And the men went homeward by jumping over the Snake which lay across their path. "Ho! O servants! Let one of you go before," said the war-chief. And they were unwilling, as all were afraid. "Oho! O servants, I will be he! As the war-chief belongs to the class of men who are continually making efforts to accomplish anything whatsoever, and who are accomplishing it, not fearing to die, I will be the one to undertake it," said the war-chief. And when the war-chief was going homeward, the middle Snake was lying with open mouth. And leaping over him, he went homeward. "Oho! Be ye strong," said the war-chief. And then the other war-chief leaped over in like manner and went homeward. "Oho, O servants! Be ye strong. Desire to do just as we do when we are coming homeward," said the war-chiefs. And so they continued going homeward one by one; then one went homeward; then one was apt to go homeward, thirty men in all. Again one leaped over and went homeward. Again the one next to him leaped over. As many of them as reached the other side of the Snake exhorted one another to do their best. But he who stood at the very end of the line hesitated. The tears trickled down his face. "Ho, O servant! you are a man. We are men, and so we travel. O servant, you do wrong to cry," said the war-chief. At length when this man was going homeward, the Snake raised his back, forming a hump, and the man lay down suddenly on the Snake's back. And when the Snake threw the man over on his (i. e., the man's) back, he swallowed the man immediately. "Oho!" said the war-chief. "So, O servants! we walk alone. When any one person wishes to die at any place, he dies." So they went homeward. And they used to sleep on the homeward way. And thus they slept regularly when at a distance. At length two went as scouts. "O war-chief! some lodges are there in that place," said they. "Oho!" said he. "O war-chief! we are tired. Be strong. We desire to ride horses," said they. "Oho!" said he. And they reached there on their homeward way. They stood by the very edge of the lodges. Both war-chiefs went to the village. Behold, a great many horses were in a long line. And both war-chiefs drove them along before them. They took them away towards their comrades. After moving a while, they reached that place again with them. "Begone and tell them," said one war-chief, addressing the other. He arrived there again and told them. "Your war-chief has done a pleasant thing," said he. "Ho, O war-chief!" said every one. And the war-chief who had the horses arrived there again. "Oho!" said he, "tie ye all those horses with lariats." They tied the horses with lariats. And they drove all before them. And they slept regularly as they went homeward. They arrived home again at the lodges which they had abandoned when they were coming in this direction towards the foe. And all the horses which they had brought back they gave to the women and the old men.

The Sun and Moon used to reside on the earth prior to their quarrel recorded in the myth, of which this fragment is all that has been preserved.

TRANSLATION.

"I am out of patience with you. Notwithstanding I assemble the people, you scatter them, and thus cause many to be lost," said the Moon. "I," said the Sun, "have desired many people to grow, and so I scattered them, but you have been putting them in darkness, and thus have you been killing many with hunger. Ho, ye people! many of you shall mature. I will look down on you from above. I will be directing you in whatever occupations you engage." The Moon said as follows: "And I, too, will dwell so. I will collect you, and when it is dark, you shall assemble in full numbers and sleep. In fact, I myself will rule all your occupations. And we shall walk in the road one after the other. I will walk behind him." The Moon is just like a woman. She always walks with a kettle on her arm.

TRANSLATION.

A very beautiful woman dwelt in a certain village. And the young men used to go thither, as they desired her. And they always failed to win her. And one young man thought, "Let me see! They have desired the woman, and have always failed, but I desire the woman and I will go!" And the young man departed. And there was a very high hill, on which a person was sitting. The youth who was thinking of the woman drew near the man sitting on the hill. And the person who sat on the hill stood erect and then sat, at short intervals. And the young man who was thinking of the woman arrived there by the man. And the young man said, "My friend, why do you sit?" And the other said as follows: "My friend, I wish to attack these buffaloes, but I always go beyond them, so I tie stones to my ankles." The stones were very large, but he was tying them to his ankles. And the youth said, "My friend, if ever the time comes, you can run; but I am without a companion. Let us go." The man said, "Yes," and went with him. At length, they came in sight of two large lakes, where a man was sitting. When he wished to drink water, he bowed his head and drank; and he raised his head again. The young man arrived there. "My friend, why do you sit?" said he. "Yes, my friend, I wish to drink this, but I never get enough, so I am desiring to drink yonder one also," said the man. "My friend, if ever the time comes, you can drink it. But I have no companion; let us go," said the youth. And the man went with the two, making three. As they went, they saw another person, who was walking and looking at the sky. Having reached him, the youth said, "Why do you walk?" "Yes, my friend, I pulled the bowstring, and sent the arrow far away. But as the arrow has not come back to me, I am waiting for it to appear," said the man. "My friend, I am going traveling, but I have no one with me. You can seek your property in the future. Let us go," said the youth. When the man said, "Yes," they departed. They were four. At length there was a person lying stretched out. Whenever he raised his head, he lay down again. Behold, he was listening regularly to something on the ground. "My friend, why do you recline?" "Yes, my friend, the different kinds of vegetation are coming forth, and I am listening to their breathing," said the man. "My friend, you can listen to it in the future. Let us go. I walk on a journey, but I have no one with me," said the youth. When the man said, "Yes," he went with him.

At length they arrived at the village. And when the men arrived there, the people crowded around to gaze at them. "Five men have come," said the people. "Why have you come?" "Yes, we have come because we desire the woman," said the five men. "Though they come regularly on account of the woman, they always fail, as it is difficult to win her," said the people. And they said as follows: "If you wish to marry the woman, you will throw this rock away, and send it out from this place to a remote land. It always overshadows the village, and keeps away the sunlight." And the youth who desired the woman said, "Alas! my friends, it is very difficult." "My friend," said Ḥ-sīḡa-īka-ta (He-who-tied-stones-to-his-ankles), "what is difficult? It is by no means difficult." He went to the rock. When he arrived there, he leaned against the rock, and pushed it away. As the rock was cracked in many places by the fall, it was ground very fine. And from that cause, that is, from the rock which was ground very fine, came all the stones which are scattered far and wide over the whole earth, wheresoever they are. And they said again as follows: "Let the men eat. Cook ye for them." All the villagers cooked for them. They carried many kettles thither, also water. And the youth said as follows: "My friends, we cannot eat it all." And Ni-čátaⁿ-qañgá (He-who-drank-much-water) said as follows: "My friend, we shall devour it." "Yes, my friend," said the other one. All ate. Though they ate, Ni-čátaⁿ-qañgá took a kettleful and bolted it down. And he swallowed all the water. At length they ceased.

"There is one woman who is very swift at running. If you run a race together, and you come back ahead of her, you can marry the other woman," said the people. At length Iⁿč-síqaⁿ-íkaⁿtaⁿ said as follows: "I will go with her," referring to the woman. And he went with her; Iⁿč-síqaⁿ-íkaⁿtaⁿ went with the woman. She arrived with the man at the land whence she was accustomed to be coming back with them when she ran races. Said the woman, "I always go homeward from this place with those whom I accompany. Let us rest now." And when he sat with her, the woman said as follows: "Lie in that place." When she said it, she hunted lice for him. And the reclining man was sound asleep. When he was sound asleep, the woman left him and went homeward. The woman came in sight again on a very distant hill. "Yonder they come," said they. When they looked, behold, the woman was coming alone. And the youth said as follows: "Friend Wána'aⁿ (Listener), my friend is missing. Listen to him." And Wána'aⁿ listened to him. And, behold, he heard him snoring. "My friend lies sound asleep," said he. "Ho, friend Maⁿčídaⁿ (Pull-the-bow), make an attempt," said the youth. And big Maⁿčídaⁿ took an arrow and bit off the end, and pulling the bow, he sent the arrow with great force. And when the man lay thus, sound asleep, big Maⁿčídaⁿ wounded him right on the nose. And when he arose, behold, the woman had disappeared. And Iⁿč-síqaⁿ-íkaⁿtaⁿ went back. At length, when the woman had nearly reached home, he overtook her. Having gone homeward, the man left the woman behind, and reached the goal before her. So he overcame the woman; and the youth married the other woman.

NOTES.

334, 1. Wakanda, as here used, means "The Great Spirit," not "a deity."

335, 1. q̄aⁿje, equivalent to "q̄aⁿ-bajī" or "gahájī," uncombed.

335, 1. q̄i kě refers to the shape of the Pawnee camp.

335, 5. Sanssouci, the Omaha ex-interpreter, said that the Orphan had so great an appetite that the Pawnees grew tired of him. They put him on the ground, flat on his back, and fastened down his hands and feet with tent-pins. A wolf approached him. The Orphan told his trouble; whereupon the wolf pulled out the tent-pins, and took him to the camp.

335, 6. q̄éaké aká hă: "This is he for whom we have been hunting;" said by one not a relation, on discovering the object suddenly. Compare "q̄ejĩnga aká é aká hă," p. 156, note on 149, 12.

335, 7. egiq̄e waq̄e duba akáma. Wáq̄e amá jaⁿt'é ké q̄ĩ daⁿ'be ahíi tē íq̄a'eq̄e gaⁿqtiaⁿi: "When the white men arrived there to look at him as he lay sound asleep, they had compassion on him in reference to something." They thought that the Great Spirit pitied the Orphan, who was poor; and this caused them to help him.

335, 8. ugaq̄aⁿ uj̄n̄ge, the road made by the party in moving along.

335, 17. uhe uq̄uciqt̄i q̄aⁿi te hě, you will pitch the tent directly at the front, ahead of the party.

336, 8. hiⁿ+ ehnaⁿ-biama: The old woman was so astonished that she could say nothing else.

338, 16. iq̄igaⁿ gq̄uba gi'i-biama. This must not be taken literally, as he sent the people to his own lodge with great piles of goods.

339, 13. naⁿpa agihi-maqa cenawaq̄eq̄ti waq̄iⁿ a-i-bi ai aq̄a, a-biama. Here "qa," to, at, in "agihim-maqa," has the force of from. Compare "wenudaⁿ ati-hnaⁿ-biama nika-ciⁿga aji amaqa," in the myth of the Turtle on the war-path, 254, 2. Note the several speakers implied in this sentence. Some one who witnessed the attack gave the alarm, saying, "Naⁿpa agihi-maqa cenawaq̄eq̄ti waq̄iⁿ a-ii aq̄a." Those who heard this, but who were not witnesses of the attack, said, "Naⁿpa agihi-maqa cenawaq̄eq̄ti waq̄iⁿ a-i-bi ai aq̄a." The narrator of the myth, in repeating this to the collector, added to it "á-biamá:" "It is reported that they said it."

339, 19. eceq̄ti-hnaⁿ q̄aⁿctī. The woman was cross, wajīⁿ-pibajī. She remembered the words of her husband, the Orphan, whom she reminds of what he had said:—"You did say that. Remember this, and act accordingly."—Sanssouci.

The narrator made the following rhetorical prolongations:—334, 1. pahañ+gaqtci, for pahañgaqtci; 334, 4. piä+ji, for piäjī; 336, 14. u+daⁿqti, for udaⁿqti.

TRANSLATION.

At the very first the Pawnees knew the Great Spirit. They were always numerous. They went on the hunt. A real Orphan dwelt in a lodge with his grandmother, who was a very aged woman. The grandmother used to carry her tent-skin, one that was worn by use. The Orphan had a bow. His skin robe was unsightly, and his hair was always uncombed. He lived by visiting the lodges and begging. He went throughout the camp, from one end to the other, visiting the lodges and begging for food. They called him "The Beggar;" they made him have the name. They removed the camp.

Though they nicknamed him, they were always apprehensive on account of The Beggar, so he continued going throughout the camp. They removed the camp when it was morning. Behold, he slept. He slept by the old camping-ground (or, among the litter and remains of the old camp). He slept when they had departed, leaving the place a solitude. He lay sound asleep. At length he heard some white men say, "This one is he whom we seek." When he arose, behold, four white men were there. The white men went back. The Orphan departed. He was fully aroused. He went following the road made by the migrating party. The young men said, "You said that the Orphan had not come, but he has come again." They removed. Again he went to beg at the lodge of the head-chief, whose daughter had not yet taken a husband. And she gave food to the Orphan. And the chief said, "The people have no food. Only here does food abound. And whenever you wish to come, come hither." Soon after he came again to beg. "Really! when people have but little food, they eat only once a day. You have just gone home with the food which she gave you," said the chief. And his daughter gave the Orphan food again, because she knew him. They removed. And the daughter of the head-chief said as follows: "Mother, when they remove and depart this time, please pitch the tent at the very front of the path." And all the young men used to court the chief's daughter; yet she acted as if she did not wish to marry. When the mother pitched the tent, waiting for the Orphan to come, the women went to find fuel; they went for wood. They came again, carrying wood on their backs. And the chief arrived there. "You should have pitched the tent amongst the rest," said the chief. His wife said as follows: "Though it is so, I pitched the tent, as the girl, your daughter, commanded me to pitch it here." And the chief's daughter came back, carrying wood. She did not put it at the lodge; she put it aside. At length the Orphan's grandmother was coming directly to that place, carrying her worn tent-skin. "Venerable woman, come this way," said the chief's daughter, who sat by the wood, waiting for her to appear. As the old woman was ashamed, she did not speak. She placed the tent-skin by the wood. The chief's daughter made a tent of it. The old woman sat there, saying nothing but "Oh!" Each of the young men continued saying as follows: "Why! the chief's daughter has made the tent for the Orphan's grandmother. My friends, I think that she will marry him." She finished the tent. The chief's daughter carried her robes and beds to the Orphan's tent. "Why! It is just as I thought," said one. The Orphan arrived at his tent; but he did not enter it. In spite of what was done, he stood diffident about entering his tent, because the woman was within. "Fie! Come," said she. He entered his tent. She made a very good bed for him. She was sitting with him. She married him. She had food with him. And the young men said as follows: "Why, friends, the chief's daughter has married the Orphan." The Orphan said as follows to his wife: "Please tell your father to let them stop and rest to-morrow." The chief sent the criers around. And the people thought, "Why should they stop to rest?" "He says that you are to stop and rest to-morrow, halloo!" said the criers. And the people said as follows: "Why should one stop to rest when he is without food?" At length four white men arrived there. "Four white men have come," said the boys. "He says that you will, indeed, assemble yourselves, halloo!" said the criers, the Orphan having commanded them to do so. The chief commanded all to adorn themselves. "He promises, indeed, to give you all kinds of things, halloo! He says, indeed, that you will paint yourselves, halloo!" The white men promised to give a silver medal to the principal chief. At length, on the morrow, the white men came in sight. The wagons came and stood outside of the camp. The principal white man sat before them. And all the Pawnees went outside of the camp. And the four white men were approaching. And the principal white man said as follows: "Go and seek him whom we promised to make a great man." And the white men were seeking him among those who were in the line of the middle-aged and aged men. They returned to their leader. "Why! O leader, we did not find him," said they. "Fie! as you saw him at the very first, you probably know him. Ho! Come, go again and seek him," said the white man who was the leader.

And the Orphan put on his robe. He also had his bow. He stood among the young men. And when the white men finished looking at the line of the elder men, they departed towards the young men, to look among them. At length they found him. When they said, "This one is he," they went back to tell it. When they saw the Orphan, they went back to tell it. "That is he, I think," said one. "Ho! leader, he is there," said they on their arrival. All the white men went thither, being on seats in the wagons; they had the medal, and the robe too. They approached and stood there. The principal white man said as follows: "We, too, are employed, so we have come." He promised to tell something to their superior (the President). "He has promised to make one man head-chief, therefore we have brought all the things to him. As he alone is made a great man, do not be jealous of him. Though, indeed, we have brought the things to him, that is just as if it was done for you. Come, go after him. Put him in a robe, and bring him back," said the principal white man. Four went for the Orphan. They went to the rear for him. Putting him in a robe, they departed with him. Every one of the chiefs was displeased. The white men made the Orphan sit in the middle. The principal white man said as follows: "This is the one. Let us make him the principal great man. We have brought this for him to wear on his neck." Having gone to the Orphan, he made the latter wear the medal on his neck. "Come, bring ye the goods to him," said the white man. When they brought the wagons to him, the different kinds of goods, kettles, guns, in fact all, were placed in piles just before the Orphan. The Orphan pulled the tobacco out of one box. Putting his arms around all, he stood erect. Having stood erect with his arms around very large pieces of flat tobacco, he spoke. "Notwithstanding people sometimes ridicule one, they usually stop talking. You have been ridiculing me; but it is time for you to stop it." Having taken the tobacco, he was throwing it away to make them scramble for it. He gave most of the goods to his wife's father. His wife's father was displeased, because they did not give him a medal. The Orphan sent them to his lodge with a great many goods piled up very high. The white man said as follows: "We have been sent here to make this one the head-chief. When you are destitute of implements or goods, ask favors of him. We will come hither from time to time to perform for him what he may desire." The woman's father collected her relations. And her relations collected what good clothing they had. The chief gave a good horse, the one which he had before, to the woman, for the Orphan. When they ceased, they removed the camp. The Orphan ruled the whole village when they removed to hunt the buffalo. The Orphan rode horseback with his woman. Yet, when the people knew him very well, they invariably talked against him. They surrounded a herd. When they returned from seeing the buffaloes, the Orphan promised to take part in surrounding the herd. The woman's relations surrounded their own part of the herd. And when they had returned from surrounding them, the women spoke of going for choke-cherries. The Orphan's wife spoke of going thither. "Do so," said the Orphan. The woman departed, riding a very swift horse. The Orphan did not go with her. At length there was an uproar. Said the people, "It is said that they are exterminating those who went for choke-cherries, as they are chasing them hither." And they pursued the foe. The Orphan said, "Tie for me my very swift horse with very white hair. I must ride mine." The Orphan had only a dart. He went in pursuit of the foe. And they were coming back regularly and telling him, "They nearly took hold of the Orphan's wife." When he arrived there, the Dakotas had nearly caught her. When the woman was very nearly caught he arrived there. "I have come," said he, speaking to his wife. "You did say just that regularly. This one behind has very nearly taken hold," said the woman. "Oho!" said he. He attacked them. He pushed one and made him fall off his horse. He pierced him with the dart. Again many from the foe were driving them back. When they nearly caught hold again, she said, "You said just that. This one behind has very nearly taken hold." "Oho!" said he. Acting very impatiently, he attacked them. He pushed a Dakota, making him fall off his horse. He pierced him with the dart. Again they were driving them back. The woman said to him again, "This one who is behind has very nearly taken hold. You said just that heretofore." "Oho!" said he. He attacked them. He pushed at a Dakota, making him fall off. He pierced him with the dart. When the fourth time came, the woman said, "This one who is behind has very nearly taken hold. You said just that heretofore." "Oho!" said he. He attacked them. At length when his horse panted, he pushed here and there among them, and thrust a Dakota through with the dart. And they knew that he did so to them regularly. And they closed upon him, standing very close together. He disappeared.

When they ceased, it was said that they had killed the Orphan. They arrived from the Pawnee camp to seek the Orphan. Yet they did not find the slightest trace of the occurrence; they did not find the horse, and the man had disappeared altogether. They ceased. And when the woman reached home, she made good clothing for herself. And when it was night, the daughter of the head-chief had disappeared. And notwithstanding they wished to hear to what place she had stolen off, they did not hear. The first white men knew it when they had come and known the Indians; therefore the Indians thought that the Orphan might have gone on high. They thought that the woman too might have gone on high; therefore they have never heard anything about them down on this earth.

NOTES.

This is a Dakota myth.

345, 4. uqɕěqti, equal here to eca^{n'}qti, "very near to (the place where he first attacked him)."

345, 11. une akigɕaji iɕadi-aka. If, as Frank La Flèche suspects, this should be "une wágaji," the meaning is, "The father commanded them to seek for him."

346, 9. ugahanadzěqtiⁿ te. The second syllable was pronounced with considerable emphasis by the narrator. So also was the first syllable of wañgiɕěqti, 349, 11.

347, 17-18. edadaⁿ wiⁿ aɕniⁿ ɕa^{n'}ctě 'i-ă hě, equivalent to "edadaⁿ wiⁿ aɕniⁿ keɕa^{n'} 'i-ă hě." Said by the woman to her husband.

347, 20. edadaⁿ ga^{n'}ɕai ɣí abazu igaxe-hnaⁿ-biamá. A parenthetical phrase, used by the narrator in explaining the words of the speaker.

348, 10. egiɕe iⁿtca^{n'}qtei wahaⁿ aɕa-bikeama. The tribe had no food, and so had just removed in order to hunt.

348, 13. weɕě ɕeɕai, he gazed away towards him, and so discovered him suddenly. "Weɕě ɕeɕě" to gaze in the direction one is going; but "weɕě iɕě," to gaze back, or this way. They refer to looking at distant objects. See wadaⁿbe iɕai, 349, 5.

348, 16-17. edadaⁿ ukit'ě hniⁿ hau. "Hau," in several places in this myth, shows that the voice was raised in speaking to one in the distance.

349, 6. iⁿc'age aka ɕahe ɣaŋga ɕaⁿ ědi ti ɕaŋka, etc. The old man and his wife had come on their way as far as the large hill. Their son looked back from his place with the tribe, and saw them. They were in the rear, as the mourners follow the main body of the people.

350, 6. ɭe-ma muwahega-bají ama, used when seen by the narrator; but when otherwise, we must say, "ɭé-ma múwahegabají-biamá: "They say that the men killed many buffaloes by shooting them."—Frank La Flèche.

350, 15-16. On the night that the horse and mule were attacked, the horse was wounded by the envious brother-in-law. But the owner healed him by pointing the iron at the wound.

351, 3. usnue-kihaha, a long line of the buffaloes in every direction as they went homeward. See "snue," "kihaha," etc., in Part II.

351, 5. edadaⁿ gaxe ɕiñké'ɣa, i. e., the man who resided underground.

TRANSLATION.

There were some villages which were very populous. The chief's sons were unmarried, and his daughter was a virgin. There were two sons. They surrounded the herds of buffaloes. They used to kill the buffaloes. One of the sons of this chief attacked a buffalo when far apart from the rest. Very soon he shot at it. The buffalo had gone out of sight into the ground. The man and his horse, too, went headlong; but the buffalo went down first. The father sent out criers. "He says that his child intercepted the buffaloes, but he has not reached home. He says that you who have seen him will please tell it," said the criers. One man said that he saw him. "I saw him very distinctly. He went in pursuit. Perhaps he went headlong into a sunken place, for when he was on very level ground he disappeared altogether. I did not see him a second time," said he. The father commanded him to join him in seeking his son. When the man who saw him said, "It was just here," the people scattered far and wide, seeking him. All the people sought him. Behold, he had gone down the pit some time before. The buffalo had gone, having kicked off a piece of the soil. The horse, too, had gone, having kicked off a piece of the soil. There was no trail beyond the pit. And all the people went directly to it, without hesitation. The pit was very large, and extended far downward. The father spoke of removing thither suddenly. There they approached and camped; they camped around the pit. The father implored the young men and those who had been his friends. If there was one man who was stout-hearted, and who had a firm heart, the father wished him to enter the pit and go after the young man, and so he implored them. At length one rode round and round the village. He promised to enter and go after the missing one. "Tell his father. He must collect cords," said he. Having cut buffalo hides in strips, he collected the cords. "Please make a round piece of skin for me, and tie the long line of cord to it," said he. And they finished it. "Now it matters not to what place I go, I will put the body in the skin-bucket. I go to take hold of him, and when I reach the ground at the bottom, I will pull suddenly on the cord. When I pull on it repeatedly, you will draw it up," said he. At length he reached the ground inside the pit. It was very dark. When he felt around in the dark, the buffalo was lying alone, being killed by the fall; the horse, too, was lying by itself, having been killed by the fall; and the man lay apart from them, having been killed by the fall. Having taken this body of the man, he put it in the hollow skin. But, strange to say, when he went down he did not ask any favor for himself. And they rejoiced because he put the man in the vessel. And having taken the dead one, they forgot the living. Yet though he sat waiting for the skin-bucket to appear again, he was not drawn up; so he continued crying. The chief had induced him to undertake this by promising him his virgin daughter. "If you bring him back, you shall marry her," said he. The young man wandered about in the darkness. At length, when traveling in the path, he came suddenly upon an old woman. He petitioned to the old woman. "Venerable woman, though this land is very difficult to reach, I have come hither. I came to the hole in the ground up above. One person came hither, having fallen from a height into this pit. I came to take him back. They have not drawn me up; and I have no way of going back. Venerable woman, help me," said he. "There is nothing that I can do to help you. A person is in that place out of sight. Go thither. He is the one that will do it for you," said she. He went thither. When he arrived there, he knocked repeatedly on the door. Though he stood hearing them speaking, they did not open the door for him. The woman said as follows: "Fie! a person has come. Open the door for him." Behold, the man's child was dead, therefore he sat without speaking. He sat, being sorrowful. The young man arrived within the lodge, the woman having opened the door for him. Yet her husband sat without speaking. The young man was impatient from hunger. The husband questioned him: "From what place have you walked?" said he. So the young man told his story. "I walked up above, but a man headed off the herd, and having fallen from a height, he came hither. I came hither to take him back. They did not take me back; and I have no way of going back. Help me," said he. The man told him of the death of his child. "We had a child, but he died. We will treat you just like the child who died," said he, referring to his adopting him as his child. "All things which I have are yours," said the father. The young man did not speak, yet he felt some desire to go homeward. "And whatever you say I will do it for you. Even if you desire to go homeward, it shall be so," said the father. At length the young man spoke of going homeward. "Though you shall go homeward, if you say, 'I will go homeward riding a horse of such a color of hair, O father!' it shall be so," said the father. "Fie! heretofore we were deprived of our child, and this young man who has come home is just like him. Give him one thing which you had," said the woman, addressing her husband. "I make you my child. I will give you something. Whatever I desire I always make with it, when I wish to have anything," said the father. (When he wanted anything he used to point at it, and thus obtain it by means of the iron.)

"O father, I wish to go homeward riding a horse with very white hair. I also desire a mule with very white hair, and a good saddle," said the young man. "Come, go thither. Open the door of the stable. When you wish to see us again, you shall see us. Though you will go homeward, you shall say, 'Come, O father, I desire to go homeward,'" said the father. The young man went homeward. He made the rocks open suddenly by pointing directly at them with the iron. He went up the steps, making the ground resound under the horse's feet. And when he pushed aside a very large rock which lay as a cover to the entrance, he arrived again on the surface of the earth. The horse and mule were very sudden in their movements; they continued to shy at every step, as they snuffed the odor of what was a bad land in their estimation. When the young man had come again to the surface, he departed to seek his nation that he had left. Behold, they had very recently removed and departed. Though they waited some time for him to appear, they had removed the camp and departed. The horse and mule walked along, fearing the sight of the old camping-ground. The young man went along the road made by the migrating party. At length he suddenly discovered in the distance two persons on the large hill, who were walking in the path of the migrating party. They were the head-chief and his wife, who were walking along, mourning for the dead. When they looked behind, they said, "Yonder comes one on horseback, following the road made by the migrating party." He drew near. They sat waiting for him to appear. The horse and mule were fearing the sight of them, and snuffing a bad odor. "Why! of what nation are you?" the head-chief called out. "It is I!" said the young man. "But which one are you?" said the chief. "Your child went headlong into a pit when they surrounded a herd, and I went thither to get him. You did not bring me back. It is I!" said the young man. As he was very much changed, the old man doubted his word. "Fie! tell the real truth about yourself," said the head-chief. "When they surrounded the herd, your child went headlong as well as the buffalo, and he was killed by falling into a pit. And when you commanded them to get him, they drew back through diffidence. I am he who went to get him when you offered your daughter as a reward. I have hardly been able to come again to the surface," said the young man. Then they recognized him. The two men stood talking together on the large hill. The chief's son looked back from the camp. "Why! the old man and mother have come as far as the large hill, and a man on horseback has come too! He stands talking to them. I will go thither. Let me see! I will go to see them," said he. He went thither on horseback and came again to his father. "With what person do you talk?" said the son. "Why! he who went to get your elder brother has come back!" said the head-chief. They shook hands. And the head-chief gave his daughter to the young man. "Begone to tell it," said the father to the son. "Let all the men and chiefs assemble. Let all the stout-hearted young men assemble. They can look at my daughter's husband," said he. They assembled. They came to see the young man, and brought what things they intended giving him. "He says that he who went to get the man who was killed by falling has come back. The chief says that as he has made the young man his daughter's husband, you shall go to see the latter. He says that you shall take to him what things you wish to give to him. The chief says that he will give thanks for them," said the crier. All the young men and those who were brave (or, generous) went thither. And they all gave him clothing and good horses. His wife's father gave him the head-chieftainship. "Make ye a tent for him in the center," said the old chief. They set up a tent for him in the center. They finished it. "The nation did not eat. As they sat waiting for you to appear, they did not eat. You came back when they were just removing the camp," said the old chief. "Ho!" said he who had just reached home, "Let two old men go as criers." "The chief's daughter's husband says that you will rest to-morrow. He says that you will not go in any direction whatsoever," said the criers. The next day he commanded those who had come back on horseback to act as scouts. And the scouts came back very soon. By means of the iron rod which he had asked of his father, he made a great many buffaloes very quickly. He spoke of surrounding them. They shot down many of the buffaloes. He went to take part in surrounding them. His wife said as follows: "I desire to go thither to see them surround the herd. I must go to see the buffaloes. When they are killed, I will be apt to be coming back." When they killed the buffaloes, she was coming back; the wife stood on the hill. Her husband came back to that place. "Though I killed the buffaloes, they will cut them up," said he. They who surrounded them reached home. Again he spoke of surrounding them. "The chief's daughter's husband speaks indeed of sending them to act as scouts," said the criers. Again the herd of buffaloes had been coming in like manner to the land where the deed was done. They surrounded them. Again they shot down many of them. At length the son of the head-chief was in a bad humor. He was in a bad humor because he did not receive the chieftainship which his father gave to his sister's husband, whom he envied. And when it was night, the horse told of his affairs, saying to the young man: "O father, a man desires very much to kill us. It is so every night." And at night after that the young man used to take care of his horse and mule. At length on the morrow they surrounded the herd at the land where the deed was done. It was just so again; a great many buffaloes had been coming. At length the wife's brother wished the buffaloes to trample the husband to death. When they attacked the buffaloes, the wife's brother waved his robe. Turning around in his course, he waved his robe again; and when his sister's husband had gone right among the buffaloes, they closed in on him, and he was not seen at all. The people said, "The buffaloes have trampled to death the chief's daughter's husband." When the buffaloes trampled him to death, they scattered and went homeward in every direction, moving in long lines. And the people did not find any trace whatever of what was done. They did not find the horse. Even the principal one (the man) they did not find. When the buffaloes destroyed him by trampling, the horses had gone back to him who made things.

TRANSLATION.

A man and his wife had only one child, whom they prized. He used to go playing. He fell into the water. His father and mother, and even all his relations, were crying. His father was very much distressed. He did not sleep within the lodge; he lay out of doors, without any pillow at all. When he lay with his cheek on the palm of his hand, he heard his child crying; he heard him as he lay beneath the ground. All of his relations having assembled, the father spoke of causing them to dig. He spoke of digging into the ground. His relations collected horses to be given as pay. They collected goods and horses. And two men said that they were sacred. They promised to seek for the child. An old man went to tell the father. He brought the two men to the lodge. The father filled a pipe with tobacco, and gave it to the sacred men. "If you bring my child back, I will give you all as pay."

They painted themselves; the one made his body very black, the other made his body very yellow. Both went into the deep water. And these two men arrived there. They talked to the water-deity. The child was not dead; he was sitting alive. Said the men, "The father demands his child. He said that we were to take him back with us." "Though you shall take him homeward with you, when you reach the surface of the water with him, he shall die. Had you taken him back before he ate anything, he might have lived. He will desire the food which I eat; that being the cause of the trouble, he shall die. Begone ye, and tell those words to his father." The two men went. They arrived at the lodge. "We have seen your child; the wife of the water-deity has him. Though we saw him alive, he had eaten part of the food which the water-deity eats; therefore the water-deity says that if we bring the child back with us out of the water, he shall die." Still the father wished to see him. "If the water-deity's wife gives you back your child, she desires a very white dog as pay." The father said, "I will give her the white dog." Again the two men painted themselves; the one made himself very black, the other made himself very yellow. Again they went beneath the water. They arrived at the place again. "The father said that we were to take the child back at any rate; he spoke of seeing his child." And as the water-deity gave the child back to them, they went homeward with the child. When they arrived above with him, the child was dead. They gave him back to his father. And all the people cried when they saw the child, their relation. They plunged the white-haired dog into the water. When they had seen the child, and had buried him, they gave all the pay to the two men. After a while the parents lost a girl in like manner. She did not eat any of the food of the water-deity, and therefore they took her home alive. But it was another water-deity who had her, and he promised to give her back to them if they gave him four white dogs.

NOTE.

I first heard of the song in this myth in 1871, when I was with the Ponkas in Dakota. But the fragment of the text was given me at the Omaha Agency. Had the Fawn spoken the lament, he would have said, "Naⁿhá, níaciⁿgá-bi ehé, xáxa-bi ecé ĭntéde ě náčizide áhaⁿ, O mother, I said that they were men, you said that they were crows; but now your liver is sizzling on the fire!"

TRANSLATION.

A Doe was with her Fawn. The Fawn discovered the presence of enemies. "O mother, these are men," said the Fawn. "No, they are crows. They are not men," said the Doe. And the Fawn said again, "O mother, these are men." "No, they are not men; they are crows," said the Doe. Again he said, "O mother, these are men." "No, they are not men; they are crows," said the Doe. At length the men shot at her. The Fawn fled. (When he returned to the place, he found that the men had cut up his mother, and had put her liver on the fire. So he sang this lament:) "O mother, I said that they were men; you said that they were crows; your liver is sizzling on the fire."

TRANSLATION.

A great many persons went on the war-path. They were Ponkas. As they approached the foe, they camped for the night. They kindled a fire. It was during the night. And kindling a bright fire, they sat down; they made the fire burn very brightly. Rejoicing greatly, they sat eating. Very suddenly a person sang. "Keep quiet. Push the ashes over that fire. Seize your bows in silence," said their leader. All took their bows. And they departed to surround him. They made the circle smaller and smaller, and commenced at once to come together. And still he stood singing; he did not stir at all. At length they went near to the tree. And when they drew very near to it the singer ceased his song. And when they reached the tree, bones lay there in a pile. Human bones were there at the foot of the tree. When persons die, the Dakotas usually suspend the bodies in trees, in a horizontal attitude.

TRANSLATION.

A man went hunting, taking his wife and children, one lodge in all. They camped by the edge of a thicket. The man had a great many arrows. They say that it was when they had no guns. When they pitched the tent, the man went hunting by himself. He left the tent, and departed. About evening he went homeward to the tent. When he had nearly reached home, the man feared an unseen danger. Immediately he crawled up towards his tent. And behold, when many persons were nearly attacking the tent, he reached home in their rear. And having pulled off his moccasins and leggings, he left his robes also. He went to the tent to attack them just at the moment they attacked it. Without speaking at all, he wounded them. At length he was recognized. And the men fled. When they fled, he said, "Come, come;" and having taken his wife and children, he went with them into the thicket. Not even one of his family was killed; but he killed a great many of the foe.

NOTE.

Observe the use of “tě hă” instead of “-biamá,” as if the narrator had witnessed the adventure here recorded. As he did not, the uniform substitution of “-biamá” would have been consistent. But the text is given just as it was dictated. This apparently incorrect use of “tě hă” instead of “-biamá” will be found elsewhere in the Historical Papers which follow.

TRANSLATION

Some Dakotas camped. One Dakota joined them, who was continually moving his tent from place to place. And one wandered away from these Dakotas who had camped. And when he met another man who was on the war-path against the Dakotas, he killed him. And when it was very late in the evening, this man who was fond of moving removed and departed. One woman alone accompanied him. At length it was night, very dark, and this one who removed and departed, camped. And the woman set up the tent. And the woman said, “Begone to the tent. Make a light.” And when the man went to the tent and made a fire, behold, he saw the man who lay dead, with all his hair cut off, lying killed. As he feared the sight, he said, “Oh!” and immediately he became insensible. “You went to make a light; have you put on the wood?” said the woman. As he did not speak, she went thither and touched him. And she made a light. And when she saw him lying insensible, she tied a lariat on a horse, and left the tent, going back to the other Dakotas. And having reached there again, she said, “I went with the man, but a man lay there killed, and we camped just there, and he died from fright on seeing him.” On the next day, when the men went thither to see him, behold, he lay dead beyond recovery.

TRANSLATION.

Some Dakotas camped. And they killed a Pawnee. Having cut off his hands, they hung them up on a hill which was about two miles away. And at night, when it was dark, there was a very high wind. And the men collected and sat. And they sat telling their own adventures; they sat talking incessantly; in fact, they sat speaking of different kinds of news. And a man who was a boaster sat by the door. And one man, who was said to be very stout-hearted, was coming from the outside—in fact, a man who was said to be very sedate and very brave, was coming from without. The man who came from without said, “I have barely come!” And the boaster said, “How is it that you have barely come?” “Why! as there is a high wind, and it is very dark, I was very much afraid, so I have barely come,” said he. “Were it I,” said the boaster, “how could I possibly be hindered in getting here? There is nothing at all to fear.” “Nevertheless, I was very much afraid when I was coming,” said the other. “Nevertheless, as you feared even when you were right among the tents, it was wrong,” said the boaster. And the sedate man said as follows: “Let us see! if you tell the truth, and do not fear, go after the hands of the Pawnee. If you bring them back, I will give you a good horse.” “If I wish to go for them, I will go for them,” said the boaster. “Fie! come, go for them. I will give you a very good horse if you bring them back,” said the sedate man. The other one went after the hands. And this man said as follows: “What if he does not tell the truth! Let two of you walk thither.” So they went thither. When the two arrived very near, they sat down, not going any further; they sat waiting for him to appear. Behold, after a long while he had not come back. And as he had not come back, the two went back to the tents. And the brave man said, “Have you come home without him?” “Why! when we sat down on this side of the place, waiting for him to appear, he did not come back, so we came back,” said they. “Fie! he died. Let me see! I will go thither,” said he who was sedate. Without any weapons at all he went thither; having only his pipe, he went alone to the man’s hands. Behold, when the first man who went drew very near to the man’s hands, he had died. But this man took the hands, and carried them back. As he reached the tents, the sedate man said, “I have brought the hands back.” And this sedate man spoke: “I, too, have been accustomed to traveling and going on the war-path since I was small. And no matter what kind of trouble I encountered, I always found a loop-hole by which I managed to get out of it alive. And not even once did I say beforehand, ‘I am going to do that;’ I always concealed my plans. When I encountered any difficulty, I always thought that I was a man. I am not used to talking at random. I prize women, and I prize horses, too.” And the sedate man called two very poor men. He gave very good horses to both of the poor men, a very swift horse to each. And the sedate man gave a woman, too, to a man who, perhaps, had not married. “Though the woman only is precious, I shall live after giving her away. I wish to know my own heart, therefore I have done that. Go ye after the dead man,” said the sedate man.

TRANSLATION.

Some Dakotas had camped. At length the chief's son had wandered off to hunt. Behold, when it was night, a man came back to tell the news. Calling the chief by name, he said, "In that land they have killed your son." And the chief, having gone out of doors, sent a crier at once, saying as follows: "Ye young Dakotas who have always desired to be stout-hearted, I desire to see my son this very night. Go after him for me. If you bring him back, I will give you a very swift horse, also a mule." All the Dakotas hesitated, because they feared to see the corpse. And one Dakota, who, perhaps, was stout-hearted, thought, "Let me see! I will go after it." And he went after it. Yet he did not think, "When I arrive there I shall fear to see him!" At length, when he arrived there, he was very much afraid. And still he touched it. At length, when he was carrying it back, the body was constantly falling off the horse which he made carry it. He was crying all the while, as he feared to carry it to the tents. When it fell again and again, he thought, "If I go back without it, I am afraid that they would laugh at me," so he wished to take it back. Notwithstanding it fell, he took it up and made the horse carry it. And when he reached the tents with it, the chief gave him the horse and mule. Referring to his having brought the corpse back, he said, "Though the deeds of others have been difficult to perform, I have done a deed which was exceedingly difficult."

NOTES.

In 1880, Wacuce, who was then 70 or 80 years of age, was the only survivor of those who belonged to this war-party.

368, 5. qubéčⁱčⁱbi čⁱh^e (Nudaⁿaxa), or qúbekičⁱčⁱbi čⁱh^e (Frank La Flèche), "Be sure to make yourselves sacred," i. e., by means of the animals that you saw in your dreams as you fasted. See ičⁱáč^eč^e in the Dictionary.

369, 6. at'eañkič^e tai. Sanssouci gave as the corresponding Łⁱwere, "atc'ehiñki tanyi ke." He said that "At'eañkič^e tai" is equal to "T'e juangce tai, Let us die with him." He also gave another Łⁱwere equivalent for the whole phrase: "T'e naháre tč'éhiⁿ táho, hiⁿtč'é hiⁿrúctaⁿwi ké, Let us kill this one moving along; we have finished dying:" i. e., "We are bound to die, so let us cause him to die with us."

369, 7. uhe kē ackaqteci-biama. The path in which the Pawnee was walking was not more than fifteen or twenty yards distant.

369, 7. iⁿdádi - - - uič^a agci-biama, etc. His father returned to the chief just as they made the remark about the Pawnee. When they ran towards the Pawnee, he (Nudaⁿaxa's father) left them all behind, as he was a swift runner.

369, 9. wagikibanaⁿ-biama. The Pawnee called to his friends to come half-way and meet him.

369, 13. Sanssouci read, "Égič^e đáčⁱ amá a^{n'}he bacíbe wáčⁱi tē hă Pañ'ka amá." He gave the corresponding Łⁱwere, which means, "Behold, the Ponkas being the cause, the Pawnees broke through their ranks and fled, carrying the Ponkas along as the pursuers." He substitutes "amá" for "čⁱañka," as the Ponkas were the cause of the flight. The fullest expression would be: "Égič^e Pañ'ka amá éwaⁿi égaⁿ, đáčⁱ amá a^{n'}he bacíbe wáčⁱi tē hă Pañ'ka čⁱañ'ká," answering to the Łⁱwere.

369, 14. aⁿč^e agčⁱai, contraction from aⁿč^a agčⁱai.

369, 19. e wadaⁿbai te. The Ponkas saw him kill them.

370, 2. ucte čⁱañka. These were the eight or nine mentioned in the preceding sentence. So the whole party of the Ponkas numbered but fourteen warriors.

TRANSLATION.

My father went on the war-path. And he sang all the time. He always was singing as he walked. When he was a young man, he was always singing when he lay down at night. At length they went as scouts to a certain place. When the scouts were going back, they discovered the trail of men. "O war chief, some men have gone homeward in a long line!" said they. "Oho!" said he, "do persevere. Be sure to make yourselves sacred by the aid of your guardian animals." At length three men were passing along very close beside them. "Come, O war-chief, let us kill these!" said they. But the war-chief was unwilling. At length it was night and somewhat dark. "Hu! hu! hu! hu!" They were those who beat the drums. They were Pawnees. When my father heard it, he aroused the young man who was with him. "Arise!" said he. And they came back to tell it to the war-chief: "O war-chief, they who beat the drums are manifest. Those who are in that place near by came this way and camped." At day it became light again. At length the men were coming back, following the course of the stream. And without detecting the presence of the Ponkas, they went far beyond them on their homeward way. And one was coming back. "Ho!" said they, "let us cause this one to die with us." My father went as a scout. The path was very near. My father returned to the war-chief to tell it to him. My father left them all behind, as he was a swift runner. He overtook the Pawnee. The Pawnee having thrown away his robe, ran back towards his people in the camp. My father overtook him. He shot at the Pawnee repeatedly, wounding him with the arrows; he wounded the Pawnee every time, therefore he shot at him. And when Wacuce arrived there, he killed the Pawnee with a blow from his war-club. The rest of the Ponkas arrived afterward. After a little while the Ponkas intercepted their retreat on both sides of the path. At length the Pawnees in fleeing forced a way through the ranks of the Ponkas, carrying the latter along in pursuit. And my father remained sitting at the place where they had left him. And the Pawnees were coming very close beside him. Notwithstanding he wished to shoot at them, he never shot. "Heretofore have I wished to live; and behold, if they detect me, they will kill me," said my father. He referred to the Pawnee men who were walking in a dense body; if they found one man belonging to the foe they would be apt to kill him. This Qu'é-maⁿçin (White Hoof's father) killed very many of the Pawnees; he was very active. Behold, the Ponkas saw him kill four men of the Pawnees; he really killed them. Qu'é-maⁿçin was the only slayer besides my father; the rest of the Ponkas were not slayers. And the Pawnees killed eight or nine Ponka men. The Pawnees exterminated the remaining Ponkas. About five:—Nacki-qañ'ga (Big-head), Qu'é-maⁿçin, the father of Je-jé-ba^é (Buffalo-dung-in-heaps), my father, and Wacuce, came home alive. All fled, and scattered in the thickets; they scattered and hid themselves. During the next day they met each other, and assembled themselves. And they barely reached home; they were naked and very hungry.

374, 15. ȡasi-ꝼiĩge, or Wegasapi (Whip) was the father of White Eagle, the present head-chief of the Ponkas.

374, 16. wijiⁿꝼe. This elder brother was Ubí-skă, sometimes called Wacka^{n'}-maⁿ-ꝼiⁿ (He who makes an effort in walking), the second head-chief, who shared the power with Wegasapi.

PLAN OF THE BATTLE AND FLIGHT.

- A.—Bluff near the Pawnee village, which some of the Ponkas ascended to view the fight.
- B.—Ponka camp, where Nuda^{n'}-axa and the other non-combatants were nearly surrounded.
- C.—The route by which most of the Ponkas fled.
- D.—The route by which Nuda^{n'}-axa fled.

TRANSLATION.

At the very first, when I was small, they spoke of going on the war-path. And when I said, "Father, I wish to go to those people," he said, "No! Do not say that again to any one. When I was young, my child, I used to travel, but I used to know difficulties. Because you are young, I fear you would cry if you got into trouble." "Nevertheless," said I, "persons of any size at all who decide for themselves invariably travel; therefore I do that. I wish to travel." "Well, you shall go thither. When they attack one another, you shall go among them. Even if they kill you while you take hold of a man, it would be good," said my father. So I went to the persons who had assembled. Behold, they were all grown. (It is customary among Indians for the wounded ones to become great men by means of their suffering.) "Ho! it is right. It is his son, but he has come." They shook hands with me. They departed, traveling throughout the month. At length the moon was dead, and it was very dark. "Ho! bring ye hither the boys of different sizes who have come. Let them abandon their old names. Bring his son hither," said they. They meant me, and they called my father's name. The messengers took me thither. "You shall go thither," said they. Cúde-gáxe (Smoke-maker), Nañ'ge-tíça (He-starts-to-run), Mi"xá-skă (White Swan), and the others made me sit in the center. "Oho!" said they, "you shall abandon your name. Behold, his friend shall have a name, for there is a great abundance of them. When we were coming hither on the war-path, this one, his friend, cried for it; therefore he shall have Nuda^{m'}-axa (He-cried-for-the-war-path) for his new name." And Cúde-gáxe lifted his voice to tell the deities. "He is indeed speaking of abandoning his name, halloo! He is indeed speaking of having the name Nuda^{m'}-axa, halloo! Ye big headlands, I tell you and send it to you that you may indeed hear it, halloo! Ye clumps of buffalo-grass, I tell you and send it to you that you may hear it, halloo! Ye big trees, I tell you and send it to you that you may indeed hear it, halloo! Ye birds of all kinds that walk and move on the ground, I tell you and send it to you that you may indeed hear it, halloo! Ye small animals of different sizes, I tell you and send it to you that you may hear it, halloo! Thus have I sent to tell you, ye animals. Right in the ranks of the foe will he kill a swift man, and come back after holding him, halloo!" He also told the old name. "He speaks indeed of throwing away the name Nájiⁿ-tiçé (Starts-to-rain), and he has promised to have the name Nuda^{m'}-axa, halloo!" said he. We slept regularly each night. As we had not reached the Pawnee village, we had eaten nothing at all, and we became very impatient from hunger. We reached the Pawnee village. When it was night, they went to surround the village. My mother's brother said, "I will ride this horse." "No," said I. Still he spoke of riding it. The horse which he rode was very swift. And when they went to surround these lodges I was hungry. Said I, "Let us go and steal ears of corn." I went with a boy who was just my size. I called him my sister's son. We followed the path. One stream forked. When we went down hill, a field was there. The Pawnees had placed their squashes in heaps. We took many squashes and ears of corn. We returned to camp, carrying a great many on our backs. We distributed them in equal shares. We kindled a fire. The coals were bright, and we roasted the corn. At length it was broad daylight. Those on the hill said, "Yonder they come in hot pursuit." We sat below the hill, kindling a fire at the stream. At last they came close upon us, getting us into a tight place. The Omahas joined the Pawnees. The Ponkas fled, being scared off. They raised a dust with their feet. Just as the foe went down hill after the Ponkas, one of the latter was killed. Beyond that the Pawnees captured another. Next they killed Uhaⁿ-naⁿba, and an Omaha woman, ʒa-sába-wiⁿ, was captured. At length my mother's brother brought back my horse, having followed me. "Do your best. The people are very many," said he. He went homeward on foot, leaving me alone. I put the saddle on my horse, and mounted him. As I went down a steep hill, I loosened my hold on the lariat, giving him full rein. At length I arrived at a great distance from the foe. "Sit behind," said I to my mother's brother; but he refused. The paths stood so thick that they were without spaces between them. I went a little distance by another way, joining the rest after making a detour. When we reached the other side of a stream, the Pawnees let us go without further pursuit. At length one was brought to us, ʒáxe-jiñ'ga (Little Crow), whom a Pawnee had wounded in two places on the shoulder and in the upper part of the cheek. The arrow-head stuck in the cheek, so they pulled it out for him. We took him along homeward. We walked throughout the night, and when it was day we walked till night. We walked four nights after that, and until broad daylight. On the fifth day we reached home at Niobrara. The foremost were ten men. Having said, "It is enough," they went to their respective homes. At length four of the people from the lodges came in sight. The first one who came home was ʒasi-ʒiñge, and my mother's brother was the next in rank. All the people kissed them. Me alone did they not kiss. When I reached home, my father said as follows to me, as if in reproof: "Why! Go! You have seen the three men who were killed, and you ought to die there. I am unwilling for you to come back to this lodge. You desired that. It would be good for you even to die from hunger in some lone place." I came home very lean. My mother made a good couch for me. I slept there. My father gave me food. He said, "This Nudaⁿ-axa went traveling, but he has come home tired to death. Come to see him." My father gave a horse, a robe, leggings, and moccasins to the old man who was called.

NOTES.

Sanssouci says that this occurred in the summer, and he thinks that it was earlier than 1855.

378, 6. bǫgaqti, pronounced bǫu+gaqti by the narrator.

378, 16. egaⁿqti aǫiⁿ akama. He sat between two men, who held him. Each of them had one hand on a knife, to kill him if he stirred.

378, 16. Amaha-uǫici is another name of Agaha-maⁿǫiⁿ, meaning, "He who is unwilling to share his lodge with another." See "amahe" and "wamahe" in the Dictionary.

379, 7-8. ǫi ama sakibaⁿwaⁿǫai. The camps of the two parties of Ponkas, the Waiiⁿ-qude and the Hu-bǫaⁿ, were placed side by side. The Hu-bǫaⁿ chief sent two messengers to Ubiskǫ, to put him and the Waiiⁿ-qude on their guard. As the two camps were close together, it was very easy for Nudaⁿ-axa, who belonged to the Hu-bǫaⁿ, to hear what the criers proclaimed.

379, 8. Mactciñge was a brother of Hidiga (Myth-teller), Aⁿhajǫ (Flees not), or ǫáǫiⁿ-wa'u (Pawnee woman) of the Wacabe gens.

379, 16. ǫǫi tǫ'ǫa—Nudaⁿ-axa; e ǫǫi tǫ'ǫa.—Frank La Flèche.

380, 1. Caaⁿ d'uba. These were about forty lodges of Yanktons, with whom the Hu-bǫaⁿ camped.

380, 5. Uǫa'i-bi or Maⁿtcu-kinaⁿpapi was a member of the Wajaje or Reptile gens.

380, 7. By "buffalo bulls" he meant the Pawnees.

380, 16. wañgakiji, from wákiji, refers to the two parties of the same tribe. When two tribes come together again and camp, and then travel together, ákikiji is used.

Sanssouci says that when the Omahas were on the Platte River, in 1855, the Ponkas and Yanktons attacked the Pawnees, some of whom were opposite Fremont, Neb., the others being about five or six miles distant. The former were the ǫáǫiⁿ-máhaⁿ and the Pítaháwiratá. Several Omaha messengers were there at the time of the attack. The Omahas had sent word to the Pawnees to come in on a friendly visit. Īndé-suede (Long-Face) killed an Omaha Wéjiⁿcte woman who was among the Ponkas; and Black Crow, the head of the Ponka Níka-ǫáǫa gens, was wounded. Two Omahas, Mázi-kíde (Shot at a Cedar), and Miká-qega, rushed into the Ponka ranks. The Ponkas questioned them as to the numbers of the Pawnees, and then sent them back, saying, "The Yanktons would like to kill you." Returning, they told the Pawnees that the enemy were few. The Pawnees charged and routed the Ponkas and Yanktons, driving some of them into the Platte River. This was in the fall of 1855, and after Ubi-skă's victory.

TRANSLATION.

The Pawnees warred on us incessantly. And this old man, Agaha-maⁿčⁱn (He walks over them), had a sister who was captured by the Pawnees. And Agaha-maⁿčⁱn wished to see her, and he spoke of dying. Early one morning he was missing. The Pawnees dwelt in a land which was in that direction. He continued passing thitherward. He slept in lonesome places. At length he arrived early one morning. The Pawnees arrested him. "What is your business?" said they. "I have a girl as a near blood-relation, but you have taken her captive. I wish you to tell me where you have killed her. I walk so that the dogs may eat me there," said Agaha-maⁿčⁱn. The Pawnees were astonished. They pressed their hands against their mouths. "Really! he does not fear death," said they. All the Pawnees assembled, Agaha-maⁿčⁱn sitting in the center. They questioned him again, and he answered as before. Said they, "He told the truth." Then addressing him, they said, "Your sister is held by those who are in the village over yonder, down the stream and out of sight. We will give her to you. You shall go thither to-morrow." On the morrow Agaha-maⁿčⁱn went to the other Pawnees, who arrested him when they found him. They carried him at once into a lodge, and then they assembled. They spoke of killing him. The Pawnees whom he met at the first were late in arriving, so he came very near being put to death. There was a contest, as each one wished to be the first to wound him. Just so they were keeping him. And Amaha-učⁱci sat as if unconcerned, with his robe wrapped around him, the ends held by his hands, and with his arms crossed on his breast. One came from the other Pawnees. "Ho! cease that. He has already taken food and drink, and has smoked," said he. They promised to restore his sister to him. "You shall take your sister home," said they. And on the fourth day which they mentioned to him he and his sister were to go home. And when the full time had come, they went home, two Pawnees also going with them. And they passed the other Pawnee camp on their homeward way. In about thirty days they reached home. And when they reached home with the Pawnees, they gave the latter equal numbers of moccasins, leggings, robes, and horses, and sent them home. And from that time the Ponkas and Pawnees hated one another. This was when Agaha-maⁿčⁱn was a young man. It was when they finished pulling off the ears of corn. When they finished burying them in eaches, they departed on the hunt. And they surrounded the buffaloes at the Niobrara. At length, late in the evening, a great many persons left a trail in a long line. Then we placed the tents of the two parties of Ponkas side by side. Macteiŋge (the Rabbit) detected the Pawnees. When the sun was at the very bottom of the sky, behold, they said: "It is said that Macteiŋge went to the tents as a visitor, but he is coming back." "Wŭh! wŭh!" said Macteiŋge. As the people made an uproar the horses fled. The Ponkas went to chase the foe. Macteiŋge took part in it. They reached the place where the Pawnees dwelt. And when they surrounded them and had arrived just there, behold, the Pawnees were missing.

They had hid themselves. We took a great many of the things which they dropped and left: provisions in packs, moccasins, leggings, lariats. And the Waiiⁿ-qude (Gray-robcs) camped very close. The Ponkas searched over all the hills, but they could not find the slightest trail. And two men from our party went to the tent of my elder brother to tell about the affair. He sent out criers who said: "They report that they found some people in that place, and when they went to attack them, there was not even the slightest trail; but they deprived them of all their provisions, etc. So be on your guard and watch your ponies. Watch them even at night." And I heard one say that they had been there to tell it. And we continued surrounding the herds. At length some Dakotas came. And we went thither. And the Ponkas made policemen. The policemen and the chiefs talked together. "Ho! That will do," said they. And they attacked the buffaloes. They shot down a great many. And the Dakotas also surrounded them. When they sat still after carrying the meat to the camp, they said: "Yonder comes one on horseback!" At length they recognized him. "It is Uça'i-bi!" they said. He came from the Waiiⁿ-qude. He reached the tent of Drum, the two being related. "We surrounded the herd. We surrounded twenty-two buffalo bulls, and we utterly destroyed them. But the buffalo bulls wounded about seven of us," said he. And as the Hu-bçaⁿ (Fish-smellers) thought, "Who can they be?" they were impatient to hear about them. Said he, "Seeks-no-refuge is wounded. Starts-to-run is wounded. Two-Walking is wounded. Standing-with-bent-legs is wounded. Big-head is wounded." Though two remained, I do not remember the names. He said as follows: "Twenty-two Pawnees attacked us, but they were utterly destroyed." And we saw them alive; all recovered, not even one died. As the Pawnees were a great many, they chased them to a great distance before they exterminated them. They killed them by twos; they killed them by ones, one after another, as they went along. And we, the Hu-bçaⁿ and Waiiⁿ-qude, came together again. The Waiiⁿ-qude danced continually. My elder brother was the first to kill one of the foe. So they passed the song around:

"Hi-ai-o-hi+!
 Hi-ai-o-hi+!
 Hi-ai-o-hi+!
 Hi-ai-o-hi+!
 U-bi-skã was he!
 The first one was he!
 He did not send him home to you!
 And they fear us!
 They were exterminated!"

Smoke-Maker's new-born son was carried to the battle-field by an old woman, and was caused to put his feet on two dead Pawnees. Therefore they made him have the name, Trod-on-Two.

NOTES.

The exact meaning of Icibajĩ is uncertain: it may mean, "He to whom they do not give any wages." This is still a sacred name in the Țe-sinde gens, being borne by a son of the present head of the gens.

384, 7. jaⁿ-wetiⁿ. This was about two feet long, and four inches in diameter.

385, 4. gaⁿ-biama, in this way. The narrator said this when he imitated the action.

386, 3. nañka kě zikiça-biama. He made his back like that of the sparrow-hawk.

386, 7-8. ȡaⁿbe-onaⁿ ctecte maⁿ te hă, in Țȡiwere, "atá-ona qeũⁿ hauⁿ tó," I wish to see him at any rate; but "ȡaⁿbe te-hnaⁿ cte maⁿ te hă," in Țȡiwere, "atá ȡi tányi hauⁿ tó," I cannot do anything else, I must see him at all events.—Sanssouci.

387, 7. ikinewakiça-biama. The father of Icibajĩ was so proud of his son's success that he let the people scramble for the possession of all his property, as well as for his ponies. Chips were thrown into the air, each representing a piece of property. Whoever caught the chip as it descended, won the article. There were other adventures of the two, but I have not preserved them in Çegiha. Only one of these was gained and written in English, and it occurred after the adventures given here in the text. Mothers used to scare their children, telling them that Icibajĩ or Țexujaⁿ would catch them if they did not behave.

TRANSLATION.

A man took a wife and had one child. The boy did not hunt at all, he did not travel at all; indeed, he did nothing at all; as he was fond of the women, he was always talking to them. The people laughed at him and derided him as a boy without any sense. The father was the only one who spared him. He became a man; but he had no bow, and he was without any other weapons. The boy made a four-sided club, which he always had with him. When the people saw it, they always laughed at it. And hostile nations were continually going on the war-path; but this Icibajĩ never went, as he knew nothing about it. At length he made sacred two quill-feathers of a sparrow-hawk. He did this secretly. No one knew that he had them. At length Icibajĩ heard the men speak of going on the war-path. When they were talking to each other by stealth, Icibajĩ overheard them. And he thought, "I will go thither." But he did not tell it to any one at all. When his mother was not at the lodge, he took his quill-feathers and departed. When it was night Icibajĩ walked, watching very closely those who desired to go on the war-path. At length when day was near, they went on the war-path. And when they arrived some distance from the village, they sat down. And the rest assembling, one by one, came and stood; they assembled themselves. It happened that the war-chief did not know that Icibajĩ had joined the party. All of the warriors arrived. At length Icibajĩ was visible at the rear, peeping thus. And the warriors said as follows: "O war-chief! one has come." And the war-chief said as follows: "O warriors! begone and see who it is." And when two servants went to see, behold, it was Icibajĩ. And when they returned to the war-chief, they said, "O war-chief! Icibajĩ is the one." The war-chief was very glad. "O warriors! bring him hither. When he walked talking about the women, you were bound to laugh at him; but now it is otherwise." They went for him and brought him back. Behold, he had no bow, and he was destitute even of moccasins. "O warriors! give him moccasins and arrows too," said the war-chief. All the warriors gave him arrows, two from each. They also gave him moccasins, one pair from each man. They cut down a dry ash tree, and made a bow for him. So they departed. They slept regularly as usual, and when it was the next day they departed again. At length they had slept many nights.

At length the warriors detected a man. When they detected the man, they said, "O war-chief! a man is indeed coming right in a line with our course." "Ho! warriors, he is indeed the one whom we seek. Let us kill him!" And the warriors prepared themselves; they painted themselves; they painted themselves with yellow earth and white clay. Icibajĭ picked up all the pieces of white clay which fell as they rubbed it on themselves. And the war-chief said as follows: "Does it have to be just this way, O warrior?" "Yes, O war-chief! somewhat like it," said Icibajĭ. And he made his back yellow for him. "Make my back yellow," said Icibajĭ. And the war-chief said as follows: "Does it have to be just so, warrior?" "Yes, O war-chief! somewhat like it," said Icibajĭ. And the warriors pulled off their leggings and moccasins also. And they made Icibajĭ carry them. "Icibajĭ, carry them for us," said they; and they made him carry them. Icibajĭ said as follows: "O war-chief! I wish to see the man at any rate." "Beware lest you scare him off!" said the war-chief. "No, O war-chief! I wish to see him at any rate," said Icibajĭ. "Ho! Do so and look at him," said the war-chief. And Icibajĭ peeped at him. At length the man had come very near. And then Icibajĭ said as follows: "O war-chief! not even once hitherto have I come this distance." And Icibajĭ attacked him. He threw away the bow, having only the club. And having overtaken the man, he killed him with the club. "Even though men ridicule one, they usually stop it at some time. I wish that I could serve some one of you in that way," said he to the others. All the other warriors took parts of the scalp; but Icibajĭ did not. So they went homeward. When the warriors came again in sight of the village, they said as follows: "We attacked a man, and Icibajĭ killed him." And an old man proclaimed it aloud: "The warriors attacked a man, but Icibajĭ killed him for them, they say, indeed, halloo!" And the mother of Icibajĭ heard it. When she heard it, she said as follows, addressing her husband: "Do see for me whether that one tells the truth." "How is it possible for him to tell the truth? They were ridiculing him," said the husband. And when they had reached the very border of the encampment, the old man said, "The warriors attacked a man, but Icibajĭ did indeed kill him for them, halloo!" And the father having stood, went out of doors. When the father got out, he knew that they told the truth. And the father caused the people to scramble for his horses, and, in fact, for everything in his lodge. And Icibajĭ continued so. At length they went on the war-path. When they went on the war-path, behold, they discovered four men approaching. Again when they attacked them, Icibajĭ left his comrades behind, and killed all four of the men. And again when they reached home they said as follows: "We attacked four men, but Icibajĭ killed them." And an old man proclaimed it aloud. "The warriors attacked four men, but Icibajĭ killed them for them, they say, indeed, halloo!" And it was usually so when they reached any place when they were on the war-path: he always killed the men, and also brought back horses.

And his father commanded him to marry. "My child, do take a wife." And Icibajĭ was unwilling for some time. At length Icibajĭ took a woman. When he married her, Icibajĭ never lay with the woman. In what place soever he was when night came, there he usually slept. And his father said as follows: "My child, when they marry women, they usually lie with them. Do lie with her. You do wrong." And his father was saying it to him incessantly. At length Icibajĩ got out of patience with the old man. And when it was night, he lay with the woman. When it was day still he did not rise; he continued to lie with the woman without intermission. And though the woman wished to rise, Icibajĩ was unwilling. And notwithstanding their lodges removed and departed, he did not rise. When it was very late in the evening he usually reached them. Again when it was night, so he lay. Behold, very early in the morning, some men belonging to different hostile tribes attacked them. His father said: "Do arise. We are attacked." Yet Icibajĩ lay without speaking. At length when they had come very near, behold, a woman said, "Oh! Icibajĩ, in what place can you be? I have a very bad captor. Beware lest he see my parts which should not be seen!" When he heard her voice, he arose and took his club. And he went thither. When he joined the foe, Icibajĩ was killing them. He killed a great many of the enemy; in fact, all. The brave men were two. One was named Unahe, a member of the Hañga gens. Icibajĩ helped him. They were equally brave. And his nation loved Icibajĩ very dearly.

At length, when they went again on the war-path, one very brave man went with him. Jexujaⁿ was his name, and he was a member of the Kansas gens. And as they went, each one thought thus: "Which one of us has the best heart?" At length a very populous village was there. They arrived at it. And when they arrived there, they addressed the rest of the party, saying as follows: "Warriors, you will go homeward. Begone ye to a distance." And the servants went homeward. And Jexujaⁿ and Icibajĩ said, "Let us go thither," because they wished to know their own hearts. When they arrived there, it was very level around the village. When they were close to the village, behold, the men were playing the game banañge-kide (shooting at rolling hoops). They were standing in a great crowd. And it was just at noon. And Jexujaⁿ said to himself, "How shall we be when we go thither?" And Icibajĩ said as follows: "Friend, let us put our heads in these bones," referring to the very white buffalo pelvis bones that lay there. And having put them on, they went crawling. Yet each one thought thus: "Let me see! which one of us will fear danger when he sees it?" And when the men who played banañge-kide looked at one of the bones, behold, the bone had become very near. And one said as follows: "Friend, this bone was at a very great distance heretofore." And another said as follows: "Friend, it was always there." At length after a little while, behold, it had become very close. "Friend, you said heretofore that this bone was at a distance. It has come very close," said one. And Jexujaⁿ said as follows: "They recognize us. They have detected us." And Icibajĩ said as follows: "It is enough." And when Jexujaⁿ said, "Oho!" they threw away the bones, and attacked those who played banañge-kide. And each of them killed one of the players. And they went homeward. And the enemy said, "They are only two! Let us chase them." They went along in pursuit of them. At length the two carried their pursuers to a very great distance. And the pursuers scared the two into a thicket. Jexujaⁿ and Icibajĩ had gone headlong into a very dense thicket. And the enemy failed to do anything to them. And both were so continually.

NOTES.

This story refers to events which occurred about a hundred years ago. Two Crows, the grandson of one of the characters, is now over fifty years of age.

393, 1. Taⁿwaⁿ-ni, Village-stream. The Omahas call two streams by this name, because they camped near them. The Taⁿwaⁿ-ni of this story, Omaha Creek, is one of their old camping-grounds, according to Half-a-Day, the tribal historian.

393, 1. ȡačⁱn. These were the Republican Pawnees whom the Omahas call Zizíka-ákičisiⁿ (Joseph La Flèche), or Zizíka-ákisi (Sanssouci). They may be a Turkey gens.

393, 11. nikagahi igaqč^an aka, etc. This custom was observed by the Pawnees, Omahas, and Ponkas. Even if foes ate with them, they became relations, whom it was wrong to kill. A mouthful of food, a drink of water, or a whiff from a pipe, sufficed to establish the relationship.

394, 2. Sanssouci adds: neje-ni čatañkičai, "he was caused to drink urine," which was mixed with the beans.

394, 4. ɔni'ai. This should be ɔná'ai, from ča'a, to fail in eating or drinking all.

396, 2. deč^aba-biama. Seven is a sacred number in the Omaha and Ponka gentile system, and it is the number of the original gentes of the Dakotas. See references to this in the other historical papers in this volume.

TRANSLATION.

The Omahas dwelt on Omaha Creek. It happened that a war-party of Pawnees carried off some of their horses. The owner of the horses took three men and followed their trail. The man who went following them was named Wabaskaha. Having departed, they arrived at the Republican River, which the Pawnees call Kič^ačuda. The Pawnees dwelt there in villages, to which they had taken the stolen horses. It was during the spring. Having arrived there, they entered a lodge. Some of the Pawnees wished to kill the Omahas, but the rest did not wish to kill them. The chief whose lodge they had entered did not speak at all. As he thought, "If they wish to kill them, they will surely kill them," he did not speak at all. At length the chief's wife went for water. When she brought it back, she gave the water to the Omahas. Taking pieces of dried buffalo meat, the woman made them put them in their mouths, as she wished them to live. When they had eaten, the chief said as follows: "Come, cease ye and go outside. As she wished them to live, she caused them to eat." Every one of them went out and homeward. And the Pawnees were continually inviting the Omahas to feasts. One man, a very brave Pawnee, invited the Omahas to a feast. And he invited them to eat from dishes which were very large and filled very full of beans alone. The Pawnee had a club. Said he, "If you swallow the food, I will kill you with that; and if you fail to eat all, I will kill you with that." At length they swallowed it; they were satiated, yet they swallowed it. He did not kill any one. "Enough. You have swallowed it," said he. On the morrow the Pawnees talked with the Omahas: "Friends, though you have come hither for your horses, you shall not take them back with you. You can come for them in the early fall. And in the fall you must bring us some powder when you come." And Wabaskaha said, "Yes, I will do that."

The Omahas went homeward. As they went homeward, Wabaskaha was crying continually. He was crying and asking a favor of the deity. "Ho! Wakanda, though the foreigners have ill-treated me, I hope that you may help me," he said when he cried. And Wabaskaha wished to take vengeance on the Pawnees.

At length, when it was night, he and his comrades reached their own village. When they reached their own village, he went crying to his lodge. And they knew that he went away crying; all the people heard him. "That one who was following his horses is coming back, but he is coming crying," said they. When he cried, he cried in prayer to the deity. And the people knew that it was the crying of one who wished to go on the war-path. He did not tell it, yet they knew it. And all the people went thither, as they wished to know why he was crying. And Wabaskaha told his story. "I went thither; but they did not restore my horses to me. We came very near being killed. And they asked me for gunpowder in the fall. The Pawnees said, 'Bring us gunpowder when you come.'" All of the people pitied Wabaskaha; they were sorrowful. The next day the chiefs, the braves, and, in fact, all the people, assembled. They filled a pipe. And Wabaskaha stretched out his hands in supplication towards the people; he touched their heads, and said as follows: "Pity ye me. Do for me just what you decide as to my case." And the chief took the sacred pipe and filled it. He said as follows: "If ye are willing for us to take vengeance on the Pawnees, put ye that pipe to your lips; and if ye are not willing, do not put that to your lips." And every man put the pipe to his lips, and smoked it. And the chief said, "Come! Make a final decision. Decide when we shall take vengeance on them." And one said as follows: "O war-chief, let us eat only this summer. Let us pray to the deity too, only this season. Let us take vengeance on them in the early fall." And four men were the war-chiefs; they were continually crying: by day and by night they were continually crying. They continued saying, "Wakanda, pity me. Help me in that about which I am in a bad humor." And when they went on the hunt in the summer, they were always crying. The four men did not eat during the days; water, too, they did not drink. When it was night they used to drink water and eat.

At length they came back to their village, here on Omaha Creek. "Ho! Come, it is enough. Let us go," said they. And they went out of the village. Very early in the morning all the men went on the war-path. When they went, behold, some Dakotas came to the village; they came with tobacco to the Omaha village. They were seven. "You have come to-day when every one has gone on the war-path," said those who remained in the village. The Dakotas did not go back to their land. They spoke of going to those who had gone on the war-path. They said as follows: "When the rest come, you will please tell them." They referred to the Dakotas. And the seven Dakotas departed, following the Omahas who had gone on the war-path. The Omaha war party having gone, arrived at length at the Pawnee village. They arrived at the outskirts of the village when day was near. Having desired to attack them, they stood at the outskirts of the village. At length, when it was day, they attacked the Pawnees. The Pawnees said, "Really! though we are attacked, they are Kansas. After firing a number of shots, they will go homeward." At length, having reached the village, behold, they were Omahas. And the Pawnees knew the Omahas. They contended with them. Though they fought them, they killed some on each side: some Pawnees were killed, and some Omahas were killed. At length the Omahas pressed very close upon the lodges. At length when they arrived at the village, behold, the lodges were of earth. Thrusting holes through the earth-lodges, they were setting them afire. When one Pawnee lodge had holes thrust through it, the Pawnees standing inside went out and fled, going to a lodge elsewhere. A great many Pawnees were shot down. And as the Pawnees were almost exterminated, very few lodges were left after the slaughter. They deprived the Pawnees of every horse. And all the seven Dakotas who followed the war-party were killed. Two Crows' grandfather was also killed.

TRANSLATION OF AⁿPAⁿ-JAⁿGA'S VERSION.

The Omahas had the small-pox, and many died. They migrated, and went on the buffalo hunt. They arrived at the place where the Ponkas were. The Ponkas ate buffalo meat. And these Omahas, who had now recovered from the small-pox, were hungry, and so they were indisposed to make any exertions. "We go to you that you may eat," said they. "Do not come. You will give us the small-pox," said the Ponkas. "Psha! we will eat at any rate, and we shall soon be coming back," said the Omahas. They went thither. "Do not come," said the Ponkas, who threatened to shoot at them. And a few of the Omahas arrived there. Many of our Omahas had died from the small-pox. "Let us Ponkas die from wounds, when we are not sick. Come! Begone and tell them they can come with powder and weapons," said the Ponkas. "We must die from wounds," said the Omahas. The Omahas went to the Ponka village. (The old man told it a very long time ago.) When the Omahas approached, they attacked the Ponkas. Immediately they made the Ponkas abandon even the lodges which were there, and the Ponkas left all of their possessions. The Omahas shot down a great many of them. A very few Ponkas survived. A half-Omaha was coming back to us, forcing his way through the ranks of the combatants, and bringing a pipe. He was coming to make peace. An Omaha had him as a sister's son. The Omaha said as follows: "Sister's son, it is well that you have come home." When the Ponka extended his hand, as if to give it to him, the Omaha thrust a spear at the one who brought the pipe, and killed him. And still they continued fighting one another. At length a Ponka was approaching. "Come! you are going to destroy us. Cease it," said he. "He says, indeed, that you are to cease!" said the old man who was the crier. They stopped, owing to the act of him who came afterwards with the pipe. They ceased. A very few Ponkas remained.

TRANSLATION OF AⁿBA-HEBE'S VERSION.

One who was half-Omaha dwelt with the Ponkas. And when he heard that the Omahas were approaching, he said to the Ponkas, "Do not let them come. Shoot at them." The Omahas heard about him. And when they fought the Ponkas, they made the latter suffer. And the Ponkas were coming to them, face to face, bringing a pipe. And the Omahas said as follows: "When you give us the half-Omaha," calling his name, "we shall stop shooting." But the Ponkas refused. And the Omahas fought them again. And he who continued as a refugee among the Ponkas, this half-Omaha, was very active. And his own sister's son met him during the fight. And he feared to see his sister's son. He prayed to him: "I wish to live. Pity me." "Have you, on the other hand, pitied me?" said his sister's son. And the latter pierced him with a spear, laying him on the ground, pierced through and through. Again the Ponkas were bringing a pipe to the Omahas. They ceased.

TRANSLATION.

All of the Omahas went on the war-path. Seven went as scouts. The leader of the party was Čačewačě, of the Black-shoulder gens. "O war-chief," said he, "go ye and tell that seven lodges are there." And they came from the main body of the Omahas. "O war-chief," said they, addressing Čačewačě, "we have come to obtain a correct account." He caused them not to see the lodges. "Come! begone ye and tell it. The lodges are seven. Hasten ye," said Čačewačě. The main body came. They went thither by night. They desired to approach very near to the foe. The scouts had not yet told those with them that the foes were many; the Omahas hid it from their party. They arrived just there. Behold, the smoke-holes formed a long black line in the distance; they were a great many. "O war-chief, though they are many, we have already come. Let us contend with them at any rate," said one of the other war-chiefs. Just at the outskirts of the lodges they went crawling; they went crawling by twenties, each one holding the hand of the man next to him. They went creeping up on them, not uttering a sound. They pushed themselves forward with their feet, moving somewhat like frogs in leaping. A war-chief named Giaⁿha-bi had a sacred bag. He used a wéaqčade as a weapon; he made it a sacred thing and used it. He did so four times towards the lodges; he brandished it towards them. Four times he untied the medicine which he had made sacred. He caused the wind to send it off to the place; he made the wind waft the odor towards the lodges. When the medicine arrived at the place, it made the Pawnees forget their warlike temper; it made them forget the weapons. One of those who approached the outskirts of the village and lay there, pulled his bow and sent an arrow with all his might. It was still dark, and the arrow was not visible. They continued coming and commanding one another to make every effort, speaking in whispers. They approached very near to the outskirts of the village, and lay there crouching. At length the day gave light. Giaⁿha-bi pulled his bow, sending an arrow with force, and it was visible. He waved the sacred bag four times, and gave the attacking cry. When he had called four times, lo! they shot at the village. They contended with the Pawnees. They killed some of the Pawnees as they were seizing their weapons, and the others who were still sound asleep. The women, too, were in a nude condition, because they had not been able to fasten their garments when they arose so early in the morning, and as they ran, their clothing slipped off them. The Omahas made the Pawnees abandon their lodges; they took them far beyond the village when chasing them. As the Pawnees had forgotten their weapons, they were killed till they resembled many pillows lying on one another here and there, and in great heaps. They were scared into the canes. Still they passed beyond. The Omahas scared them again into their village. At that time the Pawnees seized their weapons; and then they killed the Omahas. When a few of the Pawnees who remained after the shooting arrived there, they were in a desperate mood. Those on each side killed many of their opponents. At length the Pawnees killed Čačewačě. "He says, indeed, that Čačewačě has been killed. He says, indeed, that you are to cease fighting," said the crier. They ceased. The Omahas captured all the horses, tent-skins, and food, which they brought home.

NOTE.

Aⁿpaⁿ-ĵańga said that this occurred before his birth, i. e., before 1830. Wacuce was an old man when he died in 1878; and it was his father, Gahige-ĵińga, who was captured by the Ponkas at the beginning of this battle. Gahige-ĵińga was then very young: Aⁿpaⁿ-ĵańga said that it occurred when the former was a "cenuĵińga-qtcī," a very young man; Sanssouci said that Gahige-ĵińga was a small boy. He was playing on the side of the Ponka camp at the commencement of the fight, and so was captured by the Ponkas. The messengers brought a pipe as well as Gahige-ĵińga, who was restored to his people.

TRANSLATION.

The Omahas and Ponkas came together, and traveled together when going on the hunt along the Niobrara River. They danced because they saw one another anew after a separation. A Ponka, who acted as a policeman, hit an Omaha. The Ponka was a policeman. They who struck contended together. The Ponkas being the cause, the Omahas attacked them, forcing them to abandon their lodges, ponies, and, in fact, all which they had. And the Ponkas were coming with their faces towards our people, to petition to them. And the father of Wacuce having arrived at the Ponka camp, he was taken captive. And they were bringing him to the Omahas to petition for peace. And they made peace.

NOTES.

Mawadaⁿčⁱn (Mandan) was a boy at the time of this battle, which occurred about A. D. 1846. See Aⁿpaⁿ-qañga's account of the death of Mawadaⁿčⁱn's elder brother.

406, 2. deč^an^ba^ha, the seven gentes or "council fires" of the Dakotas, who are here spoken of as being "in seven places," i. e., in seven parts of the country.

406, 4-5. Umaⁿhaⁿ gage hii te, etc. About three of the Dakotas turned aside from their homeward path, and came to the Omahas. They met some of the latter, who were driving their ponies. Wishing to show the Omahas what they had been doing to the Pawnees, the Dakotas hit them with their whips, striking them in soldier fashion. They did not wish to kill the Omahas. When they asked for some food, the Omahas misunderstood them. An Omaha fired and killed a Dakota.

406, 8. Ati-biamá gčubaqti, i. e., all of that gens.

406, 9. e íč^a-biamá, from "e íčě, to send (the voice) hither in saying," referring to the other party. But "e čéčě," would refer to the party of the narrator: "to send (the voice) away in saying."

406, 14. taⁿwañgč^an cađe ama, the six remaining Dakota gentes, to whom the members of the other gens fled.

406, 16. hegajĩ, pronounced he+gajĩ by the narrator.

407, 1. Ľii č^an, the Omaha village. Giqadě refers to the Omaha fugitives, meaning that they were at that time near their village, and so did not have to go far in order to reach it. See Dictionary for distinction between "acka" and "qadě." Caaⁿ ama (the Dakotas, understood), is the subject of wačⁱn a-ii; and the object is Umaⁿhaⁿ-ma, the Omahas, including "those Omahas who were not on horseback (Umaⁿhaⁿ cañge-agčⁱn-bajĩ-ma)," and those who were mounted.

407, 2. učⁱcaⁿ nañge, shows that the pursuers were mounted, as nañge refers to the running of the ponies, not of the men. See "qaⁿčⁱn" in the Dictionary.

407, 10. Gahige-jiñga. Sanssouci said that he was killed in this fight; but that this story is about the death of another Omaha, Wasaapa, the father of Wadjepa. He, too, could speak Dakota; and he was of Ponka blood on the mother's side.

TRANSLATION.

When I was a boy the Omahas passed the time very pleasantly in surrounding the buffaloes. At length I heard that a great many belonging to the seven tribes of the Dakotas had gone on the war-path. They went to contend with the Pawnees, and they were returning in scattered detachments or bands, after getting their fill of killing the foe. Some of those who returned by way of our camp wished to get food, and they spoke about food. About three turned aside from the trail, and reached the Omahas. As they did not wish to kill the latter, they hit them as soldiers do. They did not shoot at them with their guns, and those from this place, the Omahas, bringing the trouble on themselves, shot at the Dakotas. The Omahas contended with them; they killed one another. The Dakotas were scared off, as they were few. They went back to tell the rest. They all came. This Gahige-jiñga talked the Dakota language well. The Dakotas called to us to speak of what had occurred: "We were coming back to eat. We had returned, having our fill of the foe. And though we did not wish to injure you, you desired to contend with us." Gahige-jiñga said as follows: "Begone!" They had gone again, many persons. As the Omahas were few, the Dakotas fled, drawing the former far away in pursuit, tempting them, as it were. The Omahas left their lodges at a distance. At length many Dakotas came, the others having arrived at the camp of the six tribes. They attacked the Omahas, who fled towards their village in great disorder. They killed many of the Omahas. The Dakotas ceased pursuing and stood still. When the Dakotas chased the Omahas close to their village, they ran around the fugitives, and destroyed many of those who were not on horseback. Some of the Omahas who were mounted took men behind them, and each had a third man clinging to the horse's tail. If any one heard that his relation was killed or captured, he stopped his flight, and went to him, both dying together. When they told one old man, "Your son has been killed," he said, "Ho! I will stop running." He went thither. He went headlong, pushing in among the combatants, who were standing very thick. He perished with his son. At length they stopped pursuing. "Let us cease," said the Dakotas. The Omahas were shot down in great numbers. The Dakotas spoke of talking to Gahige-jiñga. "We will talk to you. Come this way," said the Dakotas. When Gahige-jiñga went thither on foot, one Dakota, who was mounted, came there to talk to him. They talked together. Another Dakota, who sat in the rear, was aiming at him. As the Omahas saw him who was sitting and aiming at Gahige-jiñga, one of them called over to their friend to make him aware of the danger. "Yonder sits one of those in the distance, aiming at you. Stop standing there." When the Dakota shot this way at him, he killed him. "Gahige-jiñga would not listen to any one!" said the Omaha, "though I said 'You are tempted!'" They ceased. The occurrence mentioned having put a stop to the pursuit, the Dakotas ceased fighting. All the Omahas that were killed were more than thirty. Night was coming when they ceased. The rest were coming back to their village, which was not far off.

NOTES.

409, 1. waqe-hebe. This was Paris Dorion, a half brother of Mawadaⁿčíⁿ, being the son of a former husband of Mawadaⁿčíⁿ's mother.

409, 1. udaⁿqti, pronounced u+daⁿqti by the narrator.

410, 7. anaⁿjiñǵe, a kind of torture practised among the Pawnees, when they took captives that they wished to sacrifice to the deity. Two upright posts were planted in the ground, about three feet apart. Transverse poles were fastened to these at the top and bottom; but the lower one was about a foot or two above the ground, so as to allow room for a fire to be kindled under it. The captive was fastened within this frame, in a standing attitude, but with his hands and legs stretched out. The fire was made under him, and he was roasted to death.

410, 10. Taⁿwañ'čāⁿ učewiñxiča-biama. Sanssouci said that these were the Jícičit'aⁿ (Plenty of lodge-poles), the Dakotas from Crow Creek Agency, with the Yanktons, and perhaps the Brulés.

410, 12. Ágaqčāⁿqti ědi a-i-biama. They moved towards them with the whole camp or tribe, just as when going on the buffalo-hunt. "Ágaqčāⁿ" is equivalent to "áwahaⁿ."

410, 18. čawačíⁿ ati, v. from "čačíⁿ ti," showing that there were pursuers, and that they were coming rapidly. Had there been no pursuers, "čugčíⁿ" would have been used.

410, 19. $\phi\phi\phi\text{ai-g}\check{\text{a}}$, an uncommon use of " $\phi\phi\phi$," which is usually preceded by some other verb which it modifies. $\phi\phi\phi\text{ai-g}\check{\text{a}}$ is here equal to " $\text{ienaxi}\phi\phi\text{ai-g}\check{\text{a}}$ " Attack, or " $\text{ti}\phi\phi\text{ai-g}\check{\text{a}}$," Pass ye on. Gu+! describes the sound made by the Dakotas as they ran.

411, 6. $\text{ma}^{\text{n}}\text{cande unaji}^{\text{n}} \text{gi}^{\text{i}}\text{n-biama}$. The horse carried him into a hole made by a wolf or by a badger.

411, 7-8. $\text{Ca}^{\text{n}}\text{ca}^{\text{n}} \text{qii } \phi\text{a}^{\text{n}} \text{ieginaxi}\phi\text{a wa}\phi^{\text{i}}\text{n a-i-biama}$. After the Dakotas rode over the Pawnee they continued in pursuit of the rest, chasing them and forcing them to rush towards their own village. " $\text{Ieginaxi}\phi\text{a}$ " in this case is equivalent to " $\text{agikibana}^{\text{n}}$, to rush homeward to their own as fast as possible;" and its subject is understood, " $\text{a}\phi^{\text{i}}\text{n ama}$," not " $\text{Caa}^{\text{n}} \text{ama}$."

411, 9. akicuga-biama , was pronounced by the narrator with a very strong emphasis on the first syllable.

412, 3. $\text{egihe use-hna}^{\text{n}}\text{-biama}$. The Dakotas set fire to each lodge on the outside. The fire burnt inward and killed all the occupants.

412, 4. wabaciba-biama . " $\text{a}\phi^{\text{i}}\text{n ama}$ " is the subject, and " $\text{Caa}^{\text{n}}\text{-ma}$," the indirect object. On the other hand, " waca-biama " has " $\text{Caa}^{\text{n}} \text{ama}$ " for its subject, and " $\text{a}\phi^{\text{i}}\text{n-ma}$ " for its indirect object. Sanssouci said that there was one lodge where the Pawnees had plenty of ammunition. There they held their ground, killing many of the Dakotas. Then the latter, having turned their attention towards the fugitives from the other lodges, who were running towards the water, killed many.

412, 5. $\phi\text{e Ca}\phi\text{a}\phi\text{ega}\phi\text{i}\text{ke}$, etc. Sanssouci said that this was not Middle Chief, but a man named $\text{T}\acute{\text{a}}\text{-ri-k}\acute{\text{a}}\text{-wa-hu}$, who had been sick for some time. Sanssouci, Joseph La Flèche, James Dick (another Omaha), Peter G. Sarpy, and many others, visited the Pawnees, and came away with the robes in April of that year. The fight was in May. This was before Joseph La Flèche lost his goods, as narrated in the next paper. The Omahas had their village at Omadi, near the present town of Homer, Neb., while their agency was near Bellevue. Joseph La Flèche said that the $\text{Tcaw}\acute{\text{i}}$ were not exterminated in this battle. Those who were killed included the old people, women, etc., of the $\text{Tcaw}\acute{\text{i}}$, $\text{Ziz}\acute{\text{i}}\text{ka-}\acute{\text{a}}\text{ki}\phi\text{isi}^{\text{n}}$, and $\text{W}\acute{\text{i}}\text{tah}\acute{\text{a}}\text{wi}\phi\text{at}\acute{\text{a}}$, who had come together and settled near the agency at the request of their agent. Many of the young men were away; forty were absent on the war-path, and about as many had gone to make a friendly visit to some other tribe. Besides this, those who had not removed to the agency were not injured.

TRANSLATION.

A half-caste married a Ponka woman. The Ponkas were very kind to him. He had a son born to him. His first-born child died. He spoke of going on the war-path against the Pawnees. He departed. He was found by an aged Pawnee man, as he sat very near the village. "Where is the person sitting?" said the Pawnees. "A man has come to that place out of sight, and is sitting there," said the old man. When they arrived there, behold, he was sitting there. He had cut off his hair with a knife and had covered his face with earth. When they arrived there they arrested him and took him back with them. They questioned him. "What is your business?" "I am on the war-path," said he. "Of what nation are you?" said they. "I am a Dakota, and I am also of Ponka parentage," said he. He did not confess that he was partly of this tribe; he did not confess that he was partly white and partly of Omaha blood. As he thought that they would save his life if he confessed the aforesaid thing, that he was partly white and partly of Omaha blood, he did not confess it. They killed him; they made the upright frame for him, and they fastened him in it. As they wished to acquire good crops, they burnt him in the frame and greased their hoes with him. The principal Pawnee of those who killed him was named Inde-suede (Long Face). The Dakotas heard how he had confessed that he was a Dakota, so they were displeased at his murder. The tribes assembled themselves. They spoke of seeking their friend. The tribes were in seven places. They assembled themselves. They approached with all the people, just as when they traveled on the buffalo hunt. When they drew near they left their women and children, and approached the foe. After going for a long time they arrived. The policemen went along paying attention to those with them, as they were apprehensive of being surrounded and stampeded. When the Dakotas were walking thither by night, some men stole off from the main body. When they arrived very near to the Pawnees, these few took the Pawnee horses just at daybreak. "They have gone off with the horses," said the Pawnees. They pursued the Dakotas, and nearly overtook them. They came towards the main body of Dakotas when engaged in the pursuit. And the Dakotas said as follows: "Strange! There are some coming who went off by stealth, and their pursuers are coming rapidly and have nearly caught them. Ho! Come, rush on them." They made the ground tremble under their feet; they made a drumming noise as they ran in great numbers: "Gu+!" The Pawnees turned right about and fled homeward. Those Dakotas who had swift horses caught up with the retreating enemy, and stuck close to them. The other fleeing Pawnees went homeward. One of these sat riding round and round, as he depended on his horse. He sat thinking, "They cannot overtake me in any event; and even if they do, I can escape." They came very near him. He went homeward. The horse carried him into a hole in the ground and there stumbled. The Dakotas killed the fallen man by riding over him. The other Pawnees retained possession of the village. Without stopping they rushed on their own village, the Dakotas coming on after them. The Dakotas scared the Pawnees into their own village.

The Pawnees were standing very close together. They and the Dakotas contended together. One Pawnee was an uncommonly fine-looking man; his clothing was excellent and he rode a good horse. Every time that he retreated to the lodge he put on a different suit and mounted another horse. Then he rode round and round, braving the attacks of the Dakotas. At length they killed him because they took his horse. They did not mutilate the fine-looking man. They continued gazing at him and expressing their admiration. His wife's father was "The Middle Chief." The Dakotas ceased fighting. They said through the criers, "The chief says that you are to rest." And the women, too, came. The Dakotas sat smoking their pipes. The Pawnees said as follows: "Be ye coming hither. You have come as enemies. Come ye hither." The Pawnees made that speech, because they thought that the others would draw back through fear. They thought, "Those who sit smoking will draw back," so they called to them. The Pawnees filled the stables very full, having put all their horses in them; and they stood very thick upon their earth-lodges. They thought it probable that these who sat smoking had ceased fighting. At length the Dakotas said, "Come! let us put the horses aside, and attack them on foot." They fought them, scaring them back into their lodges. They shot down a great many. They set fire to the lodges, and the fire burnt right through, killing those within, the lodges being full. They took all the horses from them, each Dakota selecting ponies for himself. At length the Pawnees abandoned their possessions to the Dakotas, the latter having forced them to leave their lodges. They scared them into the water. This Middle Chief died from sheer exhaustion, not having been wounded at all. When the wounded ones died in the water one Dakota was constantly hitting them, without any reason but that he wished to be very stout-hearted. "You have taken hold of enough. Come back," said his friends. The Pawnee boys were very forward in learning to pull the bow. They stood on an island. An arrow was coming directly toward the Dakota. It went right to the mark, wounding him and killing him in the water. "Strange! he did not listen to any one!" said the Dakotas. They were caused to suffer, yet they took all the skins and horses from the Pawnees. I have seen many Pawnees beyond that place, but since then very few of the Tcawi have survived.

NOTES.

415, 1. Baḡai taⁿwaⁿ, "Baḡai's town," situated in Iowa, opposite Bellevue, Neb. "Baḡai" is the Omaha name for the late Peter G. Sarpy, one of the pioneers of Nebraska, and a native of Saint Louis. He married, according to Indian law, Nik'úmi, a woman of Iowa and Oto parentage, and thus became the stepfather of Nik'úmi's daughter, now known as Mrs. Mary La Flèche. Mr. La Flèche ("Djo") was employed by Sarpy, who sent him to trade among the Omahas and other tribes.

415, 3. ḡikima aḡutaⁿqtiaⁿ, refers to Arizona Point, on the Missouri, just beyond the town of Tekamah, Neb.

415, 6-7. d'uba etī nudaⁿ aḡai tē. "None of the Omahas went on the war-path at this time. All were out hunting for game. Some went as far north as the present reservation. This was in the winter of 1846, when the Omahas had their winter camp at the mouth of Papillion Creek, below their village."—Sanssouci.

416, 3. ḡeḡedaⁿ-najiⁿ iḡadi enaḡtei niⁿḡa jugigḡe. The rest of this family were killed in the attack.

416, 4-5. wiⁿdenaḡti t'ewaḡai tē - - - Umaⁿhaⁿ-ma. "About seventy-five Omahas were killed. The Mormons helped to bring the wounded Omahas to Bellevue. My wife remembers this occurrence. She was very young, and was with her parents at a place about five miles below the scene of the slaughter."—Sanssouci.

416, 6. ḡizabahe, a locality at the head of the Elkhorn River, in Nebraska. The name seems to denote that there were many sand hills in that region. The hunters divided into two parties before they arrived there. ḡahige-jīḡa (Little Chief) was the head of one party, and ḡaxe-ḡaⁿba (Two Crows) followed him. The younger Aⁿpaⁿ-ḡaḡa (Big Elk) was the head of the other, which Sanssouci joined. Sanssouci was then trading among the Indians.

416, 7. heḡa-bajī and heḡajī were pronounced he+ḡa-bajī and he+ḡajī by the narrator. ḡaxe-ḡaⁿba is said to speak the language far more correctly than any other man.

416, 9. ḡaḡiⁿ taⁿwaⁿ duaḡicandi. Columbus, Neb., now stands at this place.

416, 14. wanace taⁿwaⁿ ḡandi. The Pawnees were then dwelling by Fort Kearney, near Grand Island.

TRANSLATION.

The Omahas went on the hunt in the winter. They dwelt at Sarpy's town. I went to hunt the buffaloes in that unseen place, so I have no direct knowledge of the attack; yet I heard the report about it. The hunting party came to the bend of the Missouri, just beyond Tekamah. And Joe arrived there. Sarpy caused Joe to keep a trading-post. He caused him to walk among the Omahas, trading for deer-skins. At length the Omahas camped at the point of timber this side of Tekamah. At length the men went hunting; and some, too, went on the war-path, leaving the women, the old men, and the children. Joe, Standing Hawk, and Village Maker were the only young men who remained there. At length the Omahas who had gone on the war-path found the trail of Dakotas. They were still near the women and children, and when they went back to them they did not return to them, as the Dakotas exterminated the latter before the men reached home. And the hunters carried fresh meat homeward; and they, too, reached home after the people had been destroyed. The Dakotas had deprived Joe of all his goods. They had taken all his horses, and all the horses of the whole tribe. Standing Hawk and his father were the only survivors of their household. Just half of the women and old men were killed, about forty in number. The rest fled into the bushes, carrying the children, and all of these were alive. And I reached ġizabahe. We men were occupying about ten lodges. The buffaloes were very numerous. We killed a great many buffaloes. There were a great many robes and winter robes; therefore we used to pitch our tents at very short intervals. We returned to the forks of the river, just this side of the Pawnee towns. There we camped and lay down for the night. Behold, when we arose again in the morning, all our horses were missing. We followed their trail. We wished to ascertain about our horses, to what land they had gone, before there was any snow, which would cover the trail. Behold, after stealing them, they had carried them homeward, leaving a trail in a long line. We departed, seeking our property. Behold, the Pawnees had taken them homeward. The Pawnees dwelt by the soldiers' town towards the head of the Platte River. And there we arrived when seeking them. And when it was night, we stole the Pawnees' horses in like manner. And three Omaha young men were coming back again very close to the soldiers' lodges. At length they met the Pawnees who were returning from the war-path. Though the Pawnees were many, the Omaha young men killed one. And we who moved were bringing back horses in like manner. When we came back home to the village, I heard them say that all of Joe's goods had been taken from him. I heard them say that the Dakotas had destroyed the Omahas.

419, 214-20, 1. Gaⁿ akihaⁿ bčugaqti, etc. The Omahas divided into two parties, and went all around the creek till they came together again. Then they went beyond for a short distance, but as the trail was lost they returned to the stream.

420, 4. aⁿnajiⁿ editaⁿ use ačĩⁿ agčai. The Omahas set fire to the grass on both sides of the stream.

420, 6. nahega-bajĩ, pronounced na+hega-bajĩ by the narrator.

420, 12. Aⁿb ičaugčē akikičai. Two Crows was mounted, and his horse was nearly killed by a bullet.

422, 3-4. Umaⁿhaⁿ-ma wiⁿ - - aňgídadaí. His name was yawáha.

422, 7. ďádeawákičē. Frank La Flèche said that "ďáde" is often used in the sense of "scalping;" though instead of it, the narrator might have employed the phrase "najiha hébe čizéawákičē (hair, part, I caused them to take it), I made them scalp him."

TRANSLATION.

When the vegetation came up in the spring, the Dakotas came on the war-path to attack us again. The women went to empty the caches and the Dakotas arrived there. They attacked the women. Maxewačē, who was very small, joined the three women who were the eldest, when the Dakotas killed his mother. And it was said that the women who emptied the caches had been destroyed when far away from the village. One woman who had come home alive told that. Then the young men put lariats on their ponies, and went thither in pursuit. And when the men reached the hill again, they stopped going. And I, when I went homeward later, came again to the place where they had stopped. The old woman who came back wounded, as well as Maxewačë, came home alive. I questioned her: "Of what tribe were they, old woman?" said I. "I think that they were Ponkas. They talked to me in the Omaha language," said the old woman. "Come," said I, "let us go homeward; let us see them." Only three of us went: Kictawagu, another youth, and I. The rest were coming after. When we got in sight, a man stood on the hill. When we reached there again, the old man scolded us. When we said, "What is the matter?" he said: "They killed the women early in the morning. What could you have been doing that you delayed so long? They departed long ago." "If you knew that they killed them at some time in the morning, you should have gone home to tell it. And did you think that an old woman, who was altogether unable to move, could reach home soon by running very swiftly?" said I. He said as follows: "These are the ones. They lie in sight. They killed them in that place, which is out of your sight." And as we went thither on our homeward way, we reached the women. We pulled out the arrows, and wrapping the bodies in their blankets, we laid them down. At length all the horsemen, fully a hundred, reached there on their way home. Then we did not depart; we stood looking at the dead.

At length a chief reached there; it was Ickadabi. "Come," said he, "let us chase them." All the men said, "Oho!" We followed their trail; we pursued them. We did not go very fast; we walked along very slowly as we followed them. We who went in advance went on foot following their trail. The horsemen sat at the outside, next to us. At length the creek extended wide; it was not in a ravine; but it was covered with grass and tall canes, through which the foe had pushed when going homeward. And as the ground had been burnt bare on both sides, the Omahas sought their trail. Those on horseback rode back and forth on the hills in the distance, seeking their trail. And when the man who followed them in the tall grass came very near, the Dakotas crouched down suddenly. The one man came very near finding them, but he turned around and came back. He came back to his horse and mounted him. And all the mounted men sought for them beyond the stream; having passed all around, they met one another. An Oto was with us. The Oto had a gun, and I had a bow. I said as follows: "My friend, I think that they lie crouching in the grass. You will please set it afire." An Omaha came back. And starting from the place where we stood they went along setting the grass afire. And the horsemen stood all around in groups on the hills, as far as the latter extended, looking directly down on the flames. The fire burnt fiercely, as the grass was tall. I stood apart, with about six horsemen. At length the fire reached the men. I heard a call: "I go homeward to you, halloo!" said one. The fire made the Dakotas come forth. At length they shot at us, and had gone along.

"Send your voices this way, and tell us if you who came and killed women are Ponkas," said Ickadabi. But the Dakotas did not speak. And Ickadabi said, "I am Ickadabi." As he said it, they spoke of fighting. They contended with one another throughout the day. When the Omahas had pursued them for several hours, a Dakota was wounded. The Omahas made them abandon one of their number who was unable to move rapidly. The rest of the Dakotas went homeward. The Omahas surrounded the man who had been left. I left my horse, and went afoot. The man who could not go rapidly had a bow. The Dakota was desperate, and he was constantly scaring back the Omahas. I arrived there later. When I reached there, forthwith I went to attack the Dakota. When I got near, though he shot at me repeatedly, he always sent the arrows elsewhere. And I killed the Dakota; I hit him with the bow, and felled him; and the Oto speared him. Then the men snatched for pieces of the body. They cut it up. When they finished cutting it up, we chased the foe; the rest had gone in pursuit. And we went thither. The Dakotas had gone headlong into a very dense forest. And the chief that I said had arrived, even Ickadabi, said as follows: "Ho! cease ye. Come back and rest yourselves awhile from panting. After some little time you may contend with them again." "Ho! so let it be," said they. All sat together at the hill. They also caused their horses to rest. The Dakotas were sitting together in the forest; they sat singing and making a great uproar. The party of Dakotas were depending upon the forest. They kept on saying, "Come ye! let us contend together," as they thought that we would draw back through fear of them. "Hold! sit and wait. After some little time, of course, we shall contend together," said Ickadabi.

At length the Otos arrived. We dwelt near to them; therefore some went thither to tell them of the fight. The Otos came to chase the foe. They came when we had scared the Dakotas into the forest. And the chief said as follows: "Hold! wait. When some little time shall have elapsed, of course we shall contend with them." And the Otos stopped going. We all sat for a long time, say, for a little more than an hour. The chief stood erect and proclaimed: "Ho! it is ended. Come! contend with them." And all said, "Oho!" The forest was a curvilinear one. "Surround them. Go to the other side and be coming back," said the chief. And they fought them. They did not kill one another for a long time. At length it was said that an Omaha was killed; but when I arrived there, behold, it was not so; he was but slightly wounded. When he sat aiming at the foe, a Dakota was the first to shoot at him, wounding him in the arm. Again, when some time had elapsed, an Oto was wounded and was killed outright. At length one of the Dakotas was killed by the Omahas. And the Dakotas killed an Oto. We drew back from the Dakotas for a long time, and they continued killing our men. "Leap ye into the forest at all hazards," said Ickadabi. "Beware lest they continue killing some of you, if you draw back from them," said he. And all the men jumped into the woods at all hazards. When we had gone half-way through, we faltered and stopped. Again, after a little while, Ickadabi said as follows: "Jump in at all hazards. If you falter before them, beware lest they continue killing you." We brought two of them out of the timber, capturing both of them alive. The foe had killed an Omaha; and not recognizing him in the excitement, we dismembered him as well as the Oto, our ally. When I attacked a Dakota, he fell into the water. As he let his gun drop, it fell right into the stream. I leaped into the water, and as he came again to the surface, I caught hold of him by both arms. Having made him stand, I caused the Omahas to scalp him. The Omahas met the other Dakotas who fled together across the stream. As these Dakotas had no loads in their guns, they were killed. They shot at one another even till night. When the sun had fully set, the Dakotas were destroyed.

NOTES.

This event occurred in 1849 or 1850, in Nebraska, south of the Niobrara, and near the Nisni, a branch of the Loup Fork of the Platte.

425, 7. wa'íⁿ agçi. This refers to the Omahas, who went after the bodies of the two who had been slain.

425, 9-10. ihaⁿ ugiñe d'úba, etc. This refers to the Omahas, whom the Dakotas regarded as few, and as separated from "their mothers," i. e., the main body of the tribe.

426, 1-2. E'aⁿqti - - çaçiⁿce ědi ɔne etede: "You who are wishing to go and see what is to be done, should have gone thither." This was said to each head of a household.

426, 3. ědi açai haⁿi tẽ. Sanssouci preferred to say, "ědi açai haⁿi tẽ xĩ," making "haⁿi tẽ," it was night; and "xĩ," when.

426, 8-10. ukit'ě - - - Iwidahaⁿ tai miñke. The Ponkas camped so near to the Dakotas that Whip could reprove the latter while pretending to scold the former.

426, 9. Eataⁿ unaⁿpe iⁿçeɔnaⁿi ă. Aⁿpaⁿ-iañga said this was equivalent to "Eataⁿ naⁿ'peaⁿ'çakiçai ă." Sanssouci said that this should be, "Eátaⁿ úçañpi iⁿçeɔnaⁿ éinte." He derived "úçañpi iⁿçeɔnaⁿ" from "úçañpi gíçañ."

426, 12. naⁿza gaxai. Sanssouci said that some of the Omahas made an excavation as a shelter for their horses. The embankment was about four feet high. It was in the shape of a crescent, and was between the tribal circle and the bluffs.

427, 1. weanaxiçañ cu-içai, from "wenaxiçañ cu-içě." "Cu-içě" must be distinguished from "cu-çeçě," which denotes sudden motion from the place of the speaker and his party toward the party of those addressed.

427, 4. Mactu çidaⁿ. Mr. Reed had come to reside among the Omahas in order to study the language, and to assist the principal missionary, Rev. Mr. McKenny.

427, 5. Caⁿ-ama denotes a reversal of the previous state after moving awhile.

427, 7. Ugida-qtiⁿi: ugiđe is the possessive of uđe; "qtiⁿ" is added for emphasis, showing that the Omahas were driven back so forcibly that they went as far into their lodges as they could get.

427, 12. 'eçañçai is almost a synonym of u, to wound.

427, 15. jibe keçañ. The addition of "çañ" seems to convey the idea of past action or condition.

427, 19. waɔnuɔnude gaⁿ wegitiⁿ çeçañ-biama. The Omahas mangled the bodies of the two Dakotas, one of them being that of Kipazo's son, the murderer of Aⁿpaⁿ-iañga's brother. They disemboweled them and threw pieces towards the foe, who cried with rage as they retreated.

427, 20. aki-biama Caaⁿ ama, wagi'iⁿ. This was not their home, but some place on their homeward way.

428, 2. Jacage a tẽ uçaⁿwakiça-bi egaⁿ. Sanssouci said that this should read: Jacage naⁿbe tẽ úwagiçisna^{n'}-bi ega^{n'}, uça^{n'} wakiça-bi ega^{n'}; literally, "Deer-claws—hand—the—they slipped on for them, they say—having—they caused them to hold them, they say—having."

428, 4-5. Ji tẽ açiaza tẽ - - - agaspa-biama. They had the tent spread open over the tent-poles, and they kept the sides down with sods of earth, which they placed all around the tent after they had put their dead inside.

TRANSLATION.

The Omahas continued surrounding the buffaloes. My elder brother went one morning to shoot at a buffalo calf, and some one went with him. They killed a calf in a valley, and stood cutting it up. The Dakotas approached them by crawling, there being about six horsemen. My brother had no load in his gun, and the other Omaha had a bow. The Dakotas attacked them, coming with a rush. They killed the two, as they had no weapons. At length some one came back to tell it. They came back to tell that two Omahas had been killed. The Dakota murderers fled homeward. The Omahas went to the place and brought the bodies back. The Dakotas reached their home at the village. They rode round and round; they went around the lodges repeatedly. The Dakotas were very numerous, and the Ponkas were there too, the tribes having come together. "Some buffalo calves are there, seeking their mothers. Hasten ye." This was said by Kipazo, the father of the principal murderer, as he went along the line of lodges. He was the head-chief of the Dakotas. He also went along the line of Ponka lodges. "When they capture your relations, the Omahas, you can take them, if you recognize them," said he. The Ponkas did not heed him. So he went again to say it to them. "If you do not join the party, you shall certainly be the ones whom we will attack," said he. The Dakotas were departing. The women sat in the Indian carriages, and so they were departing. And the principal Ponka, Whip, went along the line of Ponka lodges. "You who are wishing to go and see what is to be done, should have gone thither," said he. Whip, his son Maⁿtcu-waçihi (Grizzly-bear-scares-off-the-game), and the Ponkas too, departed at night. At length they were approaching the place of meeting, where they stood. When they assembled themselves all together, some of the police who had assembled went watching one another. The police walked all around: some at the front, some at the sides, and some in the rear. The police attacked the company from time to time, hitting those who showed any disposition to walk leisurely. Whip scolded them. "I have always known your nation in particular. Heretofore you were always unfortunate. Why do you threaten to punish me? You are they who have always acted just like women. And that tribe (i. e., the Omahas) is composed of men, not women. I will know how you behave on meeting them," said he. When they went thither, they approached as they walked by night.

Now I will speak about the Omahas. In the evening the Omahas made an embankment or wall, inside of which they placed the tribal circle. The crier proclaimed thus: "He says, indeed, that you are to make an intrenchment for the children. He says, indeed, that it is said, 'They will surely come.'" The Omahas made the embankment. And they planted the tent-poles all along it, interweaving them. Then they placed outside of these the tent-skins, all along the embankment, one after another, as far as they would go. "He says that day is at hand, and that you will do your best. He says, indeed, that they have come," said the crier. The night scouts were continually arriving there, having heard the noise made by the feet of the coming foe. "He says, indeed, that you will do your best. You have none to help you. You will lie with all your weapons in readiness. You will fill your guns with powder. They have come, indeed," said the crier.

The day came forth. They charged on us in coming this way; they made the ground resound all around as they ran. Some of the horses from this place broke their lariats and ran; they ran around us. The Dakotas carried homeward the horses which arrived outside by running. A white man joined the hunting party and was among the Omahas during the fight. They carried off his horse too. His name was Mr. Reed. He continued saying, "The Dakotas will give me my horse again;" but there was not the slightest prospect of that. In about half an hour they contended with us all around the lodges. By and by the Omahas were driven back into their lodges; they were coming back right along to the rear. The Dakotas shot at random when they shot at the lodges. They killed many horses. The arrows of the Dakotas came regularly to the lodges. The Omahas cut holes in the tent-skins, and when the Dakotas came in sight the Omahas shot away at them. The Dakotas killed an Omaha, Two Crows' elder brother, in that manner. He cut a large hole in a tent-skin and peeped out. At length he was wounded right in the forehead. His name was Uçucinajiⁿ (Stands-at-the-front). When they walked on the outside of the embankment, an Omaha who wore a wolf-skin was hit. "Buzzard is wounded," they said. And another was wounded when they walked outside. "Big Kettle is wounded," they said. A third was ǰaçiⁿ-naⁿpaji (He-who-fears-not-a-Pawnee). When Mandan heard that he had been wounded, he went thither, and was wounded himself, in the leg, below the knee. "Mandan is wounded," they said. When the Dakotas shot at Mandan, they made him fall suddenly. They dragged off any of the Dakotas who had been killed; having put ropes around their necks, they made the horses drag them away. But now, at length, they were not approaching. They ceased fighting. Two Dakotas had been killed at the front. The Omahas rushed on them, and cut up the bodies on reaching them; they cut them in many pieces, and threw them back at the enemy, who went homeward crying. And the Dakotas reached a place again, carrying the bodies of their fallen comrades. They danced the Mandan dance at the very large tent. They caused all the dead Dakotas to sit in the middle. Having made them hold deer-claw rattles on their arms, they made them sit as if they were singing. They sat singing with them. In fact, they caused all the dead to sit in the tent. When they had opened the tent, and had put it over the poles, without delay they weighted down the sides with sods. When they finished it, they fled homeward. They said, "The Omahas will come," therefore the Dakotas fled homeward. And among the Omahas they buried their own dead. He-jañka-jañga (Big-forked-horn) had been wounded right in the neck and killed. Wanukige was wounded in the foot. Agaha-wacuce was wounded and was killed at once. Iⁿc'age-wahiçe was wounded in the leg, and ǰaçiⁿ-gahige (Pawnee-chief-who-keeps-a-sacred-pipe) on the head.

TRANSLATION OF TWO CROWS' VERSION.

The Omahas went alone on the summer hunt, without the Pawnees. We followed the course of the Elkhorn River. Joe joined the chiefs, those who governed the tribe. As we proceeded we discovered buffaloes. We killed a great many of them. We surrounded and killed them a great many times. In fact, there were men who killed them by tens, fifteens, and even by twenties. So we were almost unwilling to surround them again, as we had our fill. We continued bringing in the buffaloes. At length, very early one morning, long before sunrise, when I arose from sleep, behold, the buffaloes were coming very near. Joe did not kill one which he chased around and then to a distance to a lone spot. Then Joe loaned me the horse and asked me to kill the buffalo. So I killed it and we cut it up. I carried the meat, and Joe bore the hide. We went back to the camp, which was not far from us. When we got back in sight of the lodges, behold, they chased some buffaloes. They were coming this way, right in a line with us as we went back to camp. When we had nearly reached the camp, the buffaloes wheeled around and departed. Behold, the men had shields and went in pursuit of the enemy.

NOTES.

Mawadaⁿçin told his story to Frank La Flèche, from whom the collector obtained it, in November, 1881. The event occurred when Mawadaⁿçin was very young, say about thirty-five years ago.

432, 1-2. ñii çandi ahi-bi xī. As the Pawnees camped in a rectilinear inclosure or line, the proper phrase would have been, "ñii kēdi," etc. "Jíi çaⁿ" refers to a curvilinear encampment, such as the Omahas and cognate tribes use.

432, 6. jaⁿ wagiçē, synonym, jaⁿ wéadai tē.

432, 8.-433, 1. maⁿçin'-ti ñíjebe íba-t'aⁿ. The shape of the earth-lodge, including the covered way leading to the inner door, resembles that of a frying-pan. The lodge is the pan, and the covered way represents the handle. The two young Pawnees lay on top of the covered way.

NOTES.

Ni-xebe is Boyer Creek, in Iowa, opposite Calhoun, Neb. Dixut'ai is on this creek. This is where the Omahas died from the small-pox, whence this name: in full, dixe ut'ai, from dixe, the small-pox; and ut'e, to die in. This place is where the first whites were in Iowa, about fifty miles in a direct line southeast by south from Omaha Agency, Neb. These white men who attacked the Omahas were Mormons.

435, 11-12. edadaᄋ wanagᄋᄋ ᄋiᄋiᄋa gacibe hiwaᄋaᄋᄋ ᄋiᄋiᄋge há: "You have no domestic animals which you send outside of the land where you dwell; but I have wild animals which are outside of my dwelling-place, though on my land." This seems to have been the idea implied in ʒe-saᄋ's remarks, though it is not fully expressed in the text.

435, 16. gᄋaᄋᄋiᄋaᄋᄋaᄋᄋ, equivalent to "aᄋᄋajuaᄋi" from "ᄋajuaᄋi." The former is from gᄋaᄋᄋiᄋᄋᄋ.

435, 17. wiebᄋiᄋ gaᄋ níkaciᄋgaᄋaᄋiᄋe ɔniᄋ tate. "The land in Iowa from Dixut'ai, or Ni-xebe, southward had been sold to the President; but the Iowa land north of Dixut'ai had not been sold. Yet the white people came on it, and the Omahas have not been able to get any pay."—ᄠaᄋiᄋ-naᄋpajĭ.

436, 5. gaᄋi, so; i. e., they waved their hands at the Omahas.

436, 7. ucte keᄋa waᄋiᄋ ahii. The main body of the whites went in advance of the main body of the Omahas, endeavoring to head them off. The four Omahas were driven towards the main body of their people.

436, 18. Wanace-jiᄋga ehe ᄋiᄋ. I do not know why ᄠaᄋiᄋ-naᄋpajĭ spoke of him in this manner.

436, 17-18. ni ɣaᄋhaqtei kě aᄋᄋᄋiᄋ, close to the stream, on the very bank.

438, 8. akiagᄋai ᄋaᄋ+. The latter word is crescendo, and with the rising inflection.

438, 11. aᄋwaᄋiᄋiᄋi, from waᄋiᄋiᄋ, a frequentative which has a diminutive force. Compare "ana'aᄋaᄋ" (I have heard a little now and then, but I am not sure that it is exactly correct), from "na'aᄋaᄋ," frequentative of "na'aᄋ."

439, 14. ᄋajaᄋtiᄋᄋiᄋge ɣí gii-gá há. When the scouts became sleepy, first one and then another made the cry of a coyote. Then all four returned to the rest of the party, and lay by the fire till almost day.

439, 15-16. ᄋahaᄋ atiaᄋai waᄋᄋiᄋe. All arose and dressed hastily. A little before sunrise two went out as scouts, passing directly along in the path to be traveled by the war party (literally: Min' éčanba-báji tēdi naⁿbá wadaⁿ'be ačai, uhé ačé tai égaⁿ ukaⁿ'ska).

439, 19. saⁿ itata-qtcī agčai kě; "saⁿ" refers to the light soil bare of grass; the horses feet had trodden down the stubble (or, burnt grass), leaving the lighter soil, which was seen in the distance. "Itata" shows that there were several horses, and that the ground was trodden thus in many places; and "kě" denotes the long line of such tracks on the homeward way.

440, 1. aⁿba t ičaugčē, in full, aⁿba tē ičaugčē. So, miⁿ č ičeqtcī, in full, miⁿ čaⁿ ičeqtcī.

440, 20—441, 1. iⁿc'age majaⁿ wečajiŋga, etc. The old men who remain at home act as criers day and night. They go among the tents and to the bluffs where they exhort the distant warriors, after this style: "Wackaⁿ' egañ'-gă. Nú hniⁿ égaⁿ, učágacaⁿ maⁿhniⁿ'. Majaⁿ' áhe gaⁿ'čaqti áčahe maⁿhniⁿ'. Águdi čajaⁿ' ekaⁿ'hna xī, ě'di jañ'-gă hă. Gúdugá-qčē jaⁿ' čihé." The following is a translation of this address: "Do your best. You have gone traveling because you are a man. You are walking over a land over which it is very desirable for one to walk. Lie in whatever place you wish to lie (i. e., when you are dead). Be sure to lie with your face the other way (i. e., toward the enemy)."

441, 3. qīaditaⁿ ača'aⁿ čačīⁿce iⁿte. This is probably a quotation from the usual song of the women. When Hebadī-jaⁿ of the *x*aⁿze gens was addressed, they sang thus:

Wanáqčīⁿ-ă! Áča'aⁿ čačīⁿcé iⁿte.

Hasten! What are you doing that you remain away so long?

Ĵīnuhá, čaaⁿ'čā caⁿ' čačīⁿcé.

Elder brother, now at length, you have left him behind.

Hebádi-jaⁿ! Caaⁿ' jīñ'ga kúčē ačīⁿ' gí-ă.

O Hebadī-jaⁿ! come back quickly with a young Dakota.

441, 7. hiⁿbe aŋgugiqaⁿ aŋgčīⁿi. They had removed their moccasins before crossing the stream.

441, 19. siđahi aⁿnia-majī agčī tate ačā. This refers to going home on the horses, and thus avoiding traveling on foot, which would have pained their feet (naⁿnie). When čačīⁿ-naⁿpajī caught the horses, he did not recognize them, as it was dark. After the rest had gone to fasten them, Agaha-maⁿčīⁿ returned and thanked him, saying: "They are our horses. We thank you."

442, 4. ědi aŋgačē te. čačīⁿ-naⁿpajī meant Agaha-maⁿčīⁿ and himself.

442, 17. caⁿ čiskieqti aŋgagčai. They drove most of the horses. The warriors being mounted kept around the sides and rear of the herd.

443, 16. Caaⁿ iⁿwiⁿaⁿhaŋgačīⁿ, in full, Caaⁿ iⁿwiⁿaⁿhe aŋgačīⁿ.

444, 8. naⁿba waqčī agčai. Sanssouci said that only one Omaha was killed at the big headland, and that there were more than two in the party which attempted to cross the river at that time.

444, 10. Maⁿčka-gaxe belonged to the Qu^xa or Raccoon section of the Wasabe-hitajī. Hence his name may contain an allusion to the myth of the Raccoons and the Crabs (or, Craw-fish).

444, 13. agi 'iča-biama, e učā aki. This was told by Agaha-maⁿčīⁿ.

444, 14. haⁿadi wakide-ma, etc. This was said by some of čačīⁿ-naⁿpajī's party.

445, 1-2. majaⁿ maⁿčīⁿ-qī gaxe čaⁿqa aki. At Sarpy, Neb., near mouth of the Platte.

We killed deer when we went on the autumnal hunt. We hunted all sorts of small leaping animals. When we approached any place to pitch the tents, we were in excellent spirits. Day after day we carried into camp different animals, such as deer, raccoons, badgers, skunks, and wild turkeys. We had ten lodges in our party. As we went, we camped for the night. And we camped again at night, being in excellent spirits. At length we reached a place where some white farmers dwelt. They gave us food, which was very good. At length they assembled us. "Come, ye Indians, we must talk together. Let us talk to each other at night." "Yes," said we. As they came for us when a part of the night had passed, we said, "Let us go." They came with us to a very large house. Behold, all of the whites had arrived. That place was beyond the Little Sioux River, at Boyer Creek, where the first white men were, across the country from this place. They talked with us. "Oho! my friends, though I, for my part, talk with you, you will do just what I say," said one. "We will consider it. If it be good, we will do so," said the Omahas. "I am unwilling for you to wander over this land," said the white man. Ue-saⁿ (White-Buffalo-in-the-distance) said, "As you keep all your stock at home, you have no occasion to wander in search of them; and you dwell nowhere else but at this place. (But we have wild animals, which are beyond our dwelling-place, though they are on our land.)" "Though you say so, the land is mine," said the white man. "The land is not yours. The President did not buy it. You have jumped on it. You know that the President has not bought it, and I know it full well," said Ue-saⁿ. "If the President bought it, are you so intelligent that you would know about it?" said the white man, speaking in a sneering manner to the Omaha. Ue-saⁿ hit the white man several times on the chest. "Why do you consider me a fool? You are now dwelling a little beyond the bounds of the land belonging to the President. It is through me that you shall make yourself a person (i. e., you shall improve your condition at my expense). I wish to eat my animals that grow of their own accord, so I walk seeking them," said Ue-saⁿ. "Nevertheless, I am unwilling. If you go further, instead of obeying my words, we shall fight," said the white man. "I will go beyond. You may fight me. As the land is mine, I shall go," said Ue-saⁿ. "Yes, if you go to-morrow, I will go to you to see you. I shall collect the young white people all around, and go with them to see you," said the white man. Having removed the camp in the morning, we scattered to hunt for game. I went with three men. About forty white men arrived, and stood there to intercept us. They waved their hands at us, saying, "Do not come any further." As we still went on, they came with a rush, and tried to snatch our guns from us. When we refused to let them go, they shot at us: "Ku! ku! ku!" As we went back, we were driven towards the rest of our party. The leader of the white men said, "Do not go. If you go, I will shoot at you." We stood on an island; and the white men surrounded us. "You have already shot at us," said the Omahas. The white men doubted their word, saying, "It is not so about us." "You have already shot at us, so we will go at all hazards. I am following my trail in my own land. I am going to hunt. Why do you behave so? Make way for us. We will go to you," said Ue-saⁿ. "If you speak saucily to me, I will shoot at you," said the white man. "Ho! if you wish to do that, do it," said the Omahas. As they departed, the whites made way for them. We went along a bluff, and then down-hill, when we reached a creek. It was a good place for us to stay, so we remained there.

At length about two hundred white men came in sight. We were just thirty. We were in the hollow by the edge of the stream. Wanace-jiñga, whom I have spoken of, arrived in sight. He looked at them. When he made a sudden signal, he was wounded in the arm. "They have wounded me! There is cause for anger! They have wounded me severely," said he. "Oho! come, let us attack them at any rate," said the Omahas. We all stood, and gave the scalp yell. Having formed a line, we went to attack them. We scared off the white men. All of them were mounted; but only one Omaha, Agaha-maⁿçiⁿ, was on a horse. He rode round and round, and gave us directions what to do. "Miss in firing at the white men. Shoot elsewhere every time," said he. At length the Omahas intercepted the retreat of the whites. "Come, stop pursuing. Let us cease. It is good not to injure even one of the white people, who are our own flesh and blood," said Agaha-maⁿçiⁿ. We returned to the women. Then we departed. We reached a place where we pitched the tents. There were a great many deer; they were exceedingly abundant. Throughout the day we walked shooting at the long line of deer, and they were moving back and forth among themselves. At evening, when the sun set, the hunters reached the camp. Some men had killed five, some four, others three, and so on. They were in a good humor. "To-morrow we will camp at that land," said they. And we fared as well the next day, killing many deer. Those who were on the hunt reached another place, where they camped. We pitched the tents by a stream. And all who went to hunt brought back game on their backs. Then, behold, it was proposed to go in different directions. We divided into three parties; one went to the right, one to the left, and the third kept straight ahead. I joined the last. When we camped, there were plenty of deer, and we killed them. Going on towards home, we camped again. At night the hunters returned, saying, "Two men were there who were Dakotas. We did not talk to them, and they did not talk to us." "Surprising! you should have talked to them. If you see them to-morrow, shake hands with them and talk to them," said one of us. At length they reached the camp the next night. The Dakotas were missing. "They went traveling in some direction or other, so we did not see them." "If you see them to-morrow, do talk to them," said one of us. We slept. There were four lodges of Dakotas. At night they sent the tents homeward, and the women fled. The men alone were coming, creeping up towards us. We sent the horses towards the mouth of the small stream by which we camped. The Dakotas surrounded us, seeking the horses. At length they found them and took them off. As we knew nothing at all about our loss, we went hunting again, and we shot deer. When we went towards the camp, as evening arrived, behold, the children and women stood on bluffs resembling these, and they made a great uproar by crying. "Wherefore?" said we. "They have taken away every horse!" said they. "Alas! they have done us a very great injury." And we sat very sad. "Oho! let us go back again. Let us remove the camp." When we removed, all carried little packs, the women, the children, and all who were grown. As we went homeward, we reached the stream called Zande-buqa, where we camped. We slept, and it was day. "Do consider the matter a little," said they. "Ho!" said I, "I think that when one man injures another, it is desirable to repay him. The Dakotas are like us in their Indian habits. We know just as well as they how to use the hands for shooting at foes or game, for working in any way. We know how to creep up to them in the darkness, and snatch their horses from them. I think that we can do it well. Let us pursue. We shall follow the trail. I, even I, will do the sacred cooking."

I did the sacred cooking. I collected the men. I cooked fresh venison, which I valued at two dollars. The kettle was worth five dollars. I put some goods in the middle of the tent; a red blanket, a green one, a black robe, and two figured calico shirts, the last of which I valued at a dollar and a half each. To those who had been invited, I said, "Ho! I leave this pile of things to you. I will seek that man who did the injury. I shall make every effort in walking to find him. Please give me your temper. I buy it of you." "Ho!" said they, "though we will give it to you, please do your best." They took a pillow, which they put in the middle with two gourd rattles. "We will sing for you to dance. As you have bought it, we will give it to you. You shall return after doing to them as they did to you." They sat singing, making the gourds rattle by striking them against the pillow. As the night was long, they beat the rattles even till day. And all those who desired to go on the war-path with me danced. "I will kill him," said one. Another said, "I will take hold of him." "I will take hold of one when he is not wounded at all," said a third. "I will snatch horses from them," exclaimed a fourth.

It was day. And as they had given something to me, I, too, gave presents all around. "You may take a sacred bag, and what is bound up with it (what is always fastened securely to it)," said my guests to me. When it was dark, we stole off one by one, secretly, without being detected by any one at all. The next day it was said, "They went on the war-path last night." We reached a place outside of the village, and there we slept. "Ho! warriors, go ye as scouts," I said. Those who go as scouts at night, usually go about a mile from the camp before they lie down. "Ho! warriors, when you become sleepy, come back," said I. * * * When it was time for roosters to crow, I said, "Arise! arise!" All arose hurriedly. * * * The next day the scouts came back very suddenly. As they were returning, two war-chiefs went out to meet them. "O war-chiefs, they have just taken them homeward on this side of the stream. The feet of the horses have recently made a series of bare spots along the ground where the grass has been burnt." They also referred to the fresh manure dropped by the horses as they went. "They have gone back, making a line of clusters of whitish spots on the burnt grass," said they. "Ho! warriors, come, let us see it," said the war-chiefs. They went thither. "This is it," said the scouts. "Ho! warriors, it is that. Let us follow them," said the war chiefs. They followed them, walking the whole day. At length, when the sun had just set, they reached again a place where they had been, and there they camped. Behold, the foe had reached home with the horses. The tents were four. We slept at night, and we pursued them the next day. Though we passed along the road, we did not overtake them, and we slept on the way. The next day we continued the pursuit; but we did not overtake them, so we slept on the way. We pursued them four days. When half of the day had gone, and it was noon, we stopped, as we were very tired. We ate, and then continued the pursuit. At length, when we reached the forks of a stream, the trail had gone up a crooked branch to the right hand. We went straight on to head them off. We ran down-hill, and walked fast up-hill till noon. When the sun was very low, we stopped. Two went as scouts. When they had been absent but a short time, they returned. At dark we reached another place, having arrived again at the crooked branch, up towards its head. When we reached it again, we sent two scouts down-stream. As they went, they came very suddenly upon twelve Dakota tents. Then the scouts were returning to us. "There they come! there they come! there they come!" We threw ourselves down to hide. At length the scouts came back. "O war-chief! we discovered them. Twelve lodges departed," said they. We were coming back (i. e., down the crooked branch), following the trail of the foe. At length we reached the place where the twelve Dakota tents had been pitched, when it was altogether deserted. They had gone, but the coals of the camp-fires were still very bright. "We will pursue them for a part of the night," said we.

These Dakotas had gone down-stream till they met the rest of their people who had our horses. We overtook them just at midnight. "Ho! warriors, I suspect that the old men at home are exhorting us. Ho! warriors, let us overtake them before this night ends. Do make a desperate effort. I suspect that your grandparents are yearning for you. I think that they are saying about you, 'When shall he come in sight after so long an absence? What are you doing that you are continuing so long away from the lodge?'" We kept in pursuit along the road. The scouts went and returned without finding any one. When we forded the small stream which went aside from the creek, and had reached the other side, one of the war-chiefs said, "Warriors, I will smoke." It was Agaha-maⁿçiⁿ. We sat, putting on our moccasins after wading. Agaha-maⁿçiⁿ said, "Put on the moccasins hastily." "Ho! warriors, when you finish smoking, you may come. I, for my part, will go as a scout," said I. I followed the road. I ran a little, now and then. The long line of trees made a dark shadow in the distance. When I drew very near, the horses followed the road, and came directly to me, and I drove them before me, and was bringing them back to our men. I myself recovered the Omaha horses. I brought them very near to those who were sitting, and made them stand there motionless. Then I went to the men. I ran a little, now and then. I went back to these who were sitting, having been very close to them. They had not yet stirred at all; they were still smoking. "Ho! warriors and war-chiefs, you are sitting still. Some persons are coming back along the road," said I. "Why! warrior, what can be the matter? In what direction can we go after sitting here so long?" said they. I said as follows: "O warriors and war-chiefs, I brought some of them back a great while ago." "Thanks! O war-chief! thanks! O war-chief! thanks! O war-chief!" they said, as they extended the palms of their hands toward me. "We shall indeed come home without having our toes ache us from too much walking." "Tie them! tie them!" said I. They threw lariats over the horses' heads, and tied their lower jaws. "Ho! warriors, let all of you sit here and keep them together. Warriors and war-chiefs, they did not detect me at all. Let us do it again to them," said I. The rest of them, who were the servants of the war-chiefs, tied the horses, and sat motionless as they held them.

"Ho! war-chief, let us two go thither," said I. Then we two went thither. It was dark, yet we bowed our heads repeatedly as we went. They had camped just so, in a line. "O war-chief, you will go to the tent at the other end of the row," said I. "Yes, I will go thither; but how about you, to what one will you go?" said he. "O war-chief, I will go to the tent at the other end," said I. "No matter what happens, I shall reach home with some of them." I went thither. Behold, the horses were fastened just by the door. I arrived there. As the horses perceived that I had a different odor, they fled, drawing back to the end of their lariats. Taking my knife, I cut one lariat after another, and went back, driving the ponies. "Ho! warriors," said I, "I have brought these, too." They extended the palms of their hands toward me. "Thanks! O war-chief! thanks! O war-chief! thanks! O war-chief! O war-chief, you cause us to be thankful," said they. In one night I had taken horses twice. "Ho! mount them! mount them! mount them!" said I. They mounted the horses at once. I mounted a horse which had never been ridden, and when I sat on him, he kicked up his hind legs, and threw me very far away. "Ho! warriors, place him in the rear. We must go homeward," said I. And we went homeward, having most of the horses all together. We rode till day. We went faster and faster, not stopping till noon. Then we stopped. The horses were suddenly motionless. The next day there was a deep snow. We were very impatient on account of the cold. "We are cold, we are cold. It is good to kindle a fire," said we. I divided my horses among eight of the party, saying to each one, "Keep that one. Come! still let us go homeward." We rode very rapidly. We rode even till night. And without sleeping at all, we rode even till day. Again we rode very fast, keeping on until night. We reached our camp the next day when the sun was very low, having traveled a great distance. The people said, "The warriors have come home, halloo! The warriors have come home, halloo! They have brought back horses, halloo!" We slept, as we had reached the camp.

At length the Dakotas came in pursuit of their horses. I saw just one when he was creeping up to us. I detected him when I went out of doors; it was dark, yet he was visible as he walked. I told my wife. "One of these Dakotas has come," said I. I seized my gun, but the Dakota, suspecting me, fell flat, sticking to the ground. He soon hastened away, walking softly. At day we fled, starting from the stream, Waq-ujīnga, a branch of the Little Sioux River. We fled southward to a ravine, where we camped for the night. At night it was dark. At length the Dakotas overtook us; they were many, but we were few. One of them peeped over the bluff at us. Now a white man resided there. He questioned him, saying, "Are you an Omaha?" "No," said the other, "I am a Dakota." Then two white men came down-hill, and came to see us. The white men said as follows: "You are Omahas. The Sioux are there, but they cannot be there for any good purpose." The white men did not speak the Omaha language, yet they managed to tell us. We were fleeing from the Dakotas. "As they told about the Dakotas, the horses should be secured," said our people. At length the Dakotas attacked us. They wished to snatch the horses from us. We fired at random, scaring off the Dakotas, and retaining possession of the horses. Without delay we were fleeing from the Dakotas. We fled southward, and traveled all night. We reached Ma'a-uhānge, The End of the Cottonwoods, below the Little Sioux. We made skin-boats, and crossed the Missouri in them. Thirty-six of our pursuers, who were returning north, came back to a large headland on the Iowa side. At the foot of the bluff were some Omahas, who had been hunting deer. These Omahas knew nothing about our party and the Dakotas. The latter crept to the edge of the bluff, and peeped over. At length two of these Omahas came to a creek, where they made a skin-boat, in which they attempted to cross the creek. At length the Dakotas shot at them, killing both. The rest of them, including the women and children, reached the bank of the Missouri in safety. A horseman from our party approached the river. They called over to him from the other side: "They have gone homeward after killing two of our party, halloo!" The horseman called over to them, saying, "We were attacked last night, when they fired at us. We walked by night, and having walked even till day, we have come back so far on our way home." Then he said, "Who has been killed?" "They went homeward after killing Maⁿcka-gaxe and the youth with him. Still, we will go homeward. We have made skin-boats, but we have not yet finished them. All those who are up the stream will go homeward to you," said they. The horseman reached home, telling that they spoke of coming home. At length they were coming crying. "They are coming crying. Those who shot at us last night probably killed one of our people when they were on their way back to Dakota," said some of our party. Agaha-maⁿčⁱ told me, saying, "Those who attacked us last night went back after killing some one at the foot of the headland. It is said that they killed your son, Maⁿcka-gaxe, and then went homeward." All of the lodges were coming. "We shall come home to you with all the lodges. Wait for us," said those who stood on the other side of the river. He who came back to tell it said, "They say, 'All of the lodges will come home to you. Wait for us.'" All returned to us in two days. They went homeward, following the course of the Missouri towards its mouth. All were carrying an abundance of game, and they had plenty of wild honey. At length they reached home at the place where the earth-lodges had been made. As they had reached home, they were in excellent humor. All the people danced in groups, dancing the Mandan dance. I rode the horse which I had brought home. I painted my face, and wore good clothing. I hit the drum, "Ku!" I said, "Let Waqa-najiⁿ take that for himself." I presented the horse to one who was not my relation. His kindred spread out the hands with the palms towards me, to show their gratitude. "You do not fear being poor. You are very brave! You have made yourself a great man!" said they.

453, 7. egi^{n'}wi^{n'}a^{n'} tai, in full, éga^{n'} i^{n'}wi^{n'}a^{n'} tai.

453, 17-18. Če Iȳiga^{n'}čai čīnkčja ačai. Sanssouci said that Joe and the other chiefs were just about to start for Washington, when Uha^{n'}-na^{n'}ba and the rest prevented Two Crows and his friends from going on the war-path. But why should Uha^{n'}-na^{n'}ba act as head-chief before the departure of his superiors? They were Joseph La Flèche, Ma^{n'}teú-na^{n'}ba, Wanúkige, Gčeda^{n'}-náji^{n'}, Íckadabi (Louis Sanssouci), and Logan Fontenelle. Logan and Louis, however, went as interpreters rather than as chiefs.

454, 6. Nuji^{n'}ga ahigi, "many boys." These were only eight. The four war-chiefs were Ma^{n'}xe-ča^{n'}ba (Two Crows), đačī^{n'}-na^{n'}pajī, Wanace-ji^{n'}ga, and Sínde-xa^{n'}xa^{n'}.

454, 9. ȳeska na^{n'}ba. These were two stray oxen.

454, 13. Ha^{n'}čē ȳi uspe kč, Wood Creek, by Henry Fontenelle's farm, near Decatur, Neb.

454, 15. Ni-base ča^{n'} is a point of timber on the Missouri River, between the towns of Jackson and Ponca, Neb. It is east of Ionia Creek, in Dixon County, Neb., which is called Máqude-wa'ái by the Omahas. This latter is also the Omaha name for the adjacent land.

454, 18. ȳandeačica^{n'}, i. e., "back from the river, towards the interior of the country;" while Nicudeatačica^{n'}, its opposite, means "towards the Missouri, along the bank of the river."

454, 20. Nindugčade a^{n'}gakii ega^{n'} a^{n'}gugiqča-bajī; literally, "As we reached the place where we had been, by creeping backwards, we did not overtake our enemies." They fell back. But "they fell back" because they were lost in the thick forest (see map) near a lake in that vicinity; and they wandered on till they found themselves back again at the place where they had struck the trail at the edge of the forest.—Sanssouci.

455, 8. ȳi đahadi enaskačehai, refers to a block-house (at Omaha Agency), which was about a quarter of a mile from the place where the story was told.

455, 11. na^{n'}baha means, in this case, "on two sides," and hence is almost equivalent to agča^{n'}ka^{n'}ha^{n'}, "on both sides."

455, 15. itaxa^{n'} usai. This refers to Qe wateicka, the Big Sioux, along which the party proceeded for a little while.

455, 21. a^{n'}gaiačē tai, the specific of "a^{n'}gačē tai," denoting motion to a particular place. See "ičé" in the Dictionary.

457, 3. egičē wagaqča^{n'} ča^{n'}ka^{n'} a-ii ȳi a^{n'}gakii. Frank La Flèche and the collector have been puzzled by the use of "a-ii ȳi" in this sentence. It would have been omitted, were not Two Crows one who speaks the purest Omaha. The collector can offer but one explanation. The warriors were probably anxious to learn the result, so they were approaching Two Crows and Sinda-xaⁿxaⁿ (a-ii); then, after they met, all reached their camp (aṅgakii).

457, 4. e'aⁿ hă used instead of "e'aⁿ ă."

457, 6. deɕaⁿba t'eaⁿwaⁿɕai. They killed seven Yanktons.

457, 9. iɕaugɕe, pronounced iɕa+ugɕe.

1. Where the Yanktons farmed. 2. The Lake. 3. The Forest.

TRANSLATION.

We dwelt beyond Omaha City, and towards the Platte. The Dakotas came on foot to attack us. All of us Omahas dwelt on the Nebraska side of the river, at the point of timber near Sarpy's village. Some of the women had buried corn in the ground at the village. Being hungry, they went back to eat it. Behold, the Dakotas who had come on the war-path reached there. And when the women reached there, they were attacked by the Dakotas, who killed two of the women. The remaining woman was struck with a gun, and gashed in many places, but she came back to us alive. The Dakotas cut off all the hair of the two women, and after cutting the scalps in pieces, they carried them homeward. We pursued them, but we did not overtake them. We could not find their trail in the dark. When I reached home, behold, men came for me at night. I arrived there. And behold, four men had assembled; and I was the fifth. At length they said, "Collect some men; these people, the Dakotas, have injured us; let us repay them. Assemble the young men." All of them, too, assembled the men. And I collected the young men. We collected fifty persons. I said as follows: "Ho! they are just like us, and we resemble those who have treated us cruelly; we have guns and other weapons as they have. Let us repay them for what they have done to us. Come! let us go thither." And all were willing.

But before we could leave, the chiefs manifested their unwillingness for us to depart. They collected goods, and sent for us five leaders. When we arrived there, behold, the chiefs had invited us on account of the goods which they had collected. Behold, they commanded us not to go on the war-path. "You will not go on the war-path. Take these things. These chiefs went to the President to sell land. If they come back and consent to your going, you may then go," said the chiefs who had not gone to Washington. I was unwilling. I was displeased. I went home without taking any of the goods. So we did not go on the war-path, as we waited for the return of those who went to the President. They came home from the city of the President. When they had come back, I went to Joe. "I wished to go on the war-path, but the chiefs forbade me; so I did not go. Consider the matter for me," said I. "Oho!" said he, "go, of course, if you desire it."

When I reached home, I collected the men. I sent the messengers after dačĩna pajĩ, Wanace-jĩnga, and Sĩnde-xa"xa". We collected many young men. "Come!" said I, "it is my desire for us to go on the war-path, and to kill one of the Dakotas." And we assembled at night. When that night was half gone, we were coming towards our present reservation. It was day when we reached Omaha City. And we continued our march in this direction. At that time there were no white people in that region above Omaha. At length two oxen were wandering about there. The young men, who were the servants, wished to eat them, so they spoke of killing them. "O war-chief, we will eat them," said they. "Ho! servants, kill one and eat it; but do not disturb the other one," said I. Passing on, we stopped again for the night. The next day we went on till we reached the hollow by Henry's house, where we spent the night. Going thence the next day, we reached the present Winnebago reservation, sleeping when we arrived at the northern boundary. The following day, we went as far as Ni-base, which is on this side of the ancient farming-place of the Iowas. When we arose in the morning, we discovered the proximity of persons. When we said, "Ho! let us wait for them to appear," ȡaɕiⁿ-naⁿpajī was unwilling for them to pass by. I said, "Let us head them off on that side. I am in favor of our going by a path which is more towards the interior of the country." But ȡaɕiⁿ-naⁿpajī spoke of going towards the Missouri. And then we got ourselves into a difficulty. We did not overtake the men, because we were tired. We dropped back, and so they got away in spite of us. When we awoke in the morning, we had no food. The servants were hungry. "Ho! O ȡaɕiⁿ-naⁿpajī, go hunting. The servants are hungry," said I. ȡaɕiⁿ-naⁿpajī went hunting. At length he came back, carrying a deer. So we ate it.

During the day we went across the country to the Missouri. That night we slept on the bank of the river. In the morning the stream was wide, as there was a freshet. We made a skin-boat of the deer-skin, and we put in it our guns, bows and blankets. The river extended as far as yonder house on the hill. When we put the things in the boat, we swam across with it. We barely reached the other side, as we were very weary. When we sat down on the other side, and had finished putting on our moc-casins, the grass was set afire in two directions. We sat looking at the trail of the Dakotas who had been traveling about. We sat concealed. "Ho! come, warriors, consider the matter. This smoke is in two places; to which one will we go?" said I. ȡaɕiⁿ-naⁿpajī said, "O war-chief, let us go towards this one in the rear."

So we went. We left the river, and departed across the country, by a near way. The fire had been made towards the head of a stream, and as it was near by we went towards it. At night, we lay down for a short while. Then we walked throughout the night; and when it was almost day we slept. In the morning we looked around for the men, but did not find them. And we were all day in coming back towards the place where Sioux City now is. We looked around very carefully as we walked, but we did not find them. Late in the afternoon the sun was very near the bluffs. "Come, let us go, O servants," said I. So we went. There was a bare cliff, without trees. "Let us soon go out of sight. Quicken your steps," said I. Before we reached it, ȡaɕiⁿ-naⁿpajī and Wakide-jiñga crouched suddenly, they being the first to find the people. We, too, lay crouching. ȡaɕiⁿ-naⁿpajī came back to us to report. "O war-chief, at this very place they cut wood, for they make the sound "ȡaqi," said he. "Ho! servant, as they are people, it is nothing." After we stopped and stood awhile, the other man came back to report. "O war-chief, they are people. They are women, but they sing Mandan songs," said he. "Ho! warriors, it is enough," said I.

So we went. We sat on a very small piece of the ground that was bare of vegetation; that is, we sat on a round tract of grass which had not been burnt by the prairie fire. The sun had nearly gone. "Ho! servants, it will be night. The sun has set. Ho! come, O servant ȡaɕiⁿ-naⁿpajī, go as a scout. Count the persons that have camped, and see how many they are," said I. At length ȡaɕiⁿ-naⁿpajī returned to us. "O war-chief, the lodges are two. They have but one horse." "Ho! that is enough. Ho! O servants, let us contend with them. You will do your best. Ho! to do it again but this once, Sīnde-xaⁿxaⁿ, go to try them whether they are sound asleep. You will come back and report," said I. At length Sīnde-xaⁿxaⁿ came back. "O war-chief, they are sound asleep." "Ho! come let us attack them, O servants. Make your weapons sharp," said I. They sharpened their knives and arrow-heads, and they put extra loads in their guns, some three bullets, others four. Then I made them sit awhile, and I took Sīnde-xaⁿxaⁿ to make a final inspection. They were in a canvas tent, and just at one side of it we heard them snoring. As we stood at the rear of the next tent we heard its occupants snore. I called to Sīnde-xaⁿxaⁿ. "One of those snores. You will kill him by holding your gun close to the place where he lies," said I. "Let us go back to the servants to tell them," said I. And we went back. At length, after some of them came towards us, we all reached the servants. "O war-chiefs, how is it?" said they. "They are sound asleep," said I. So we went thither. We reached the rear of the lodges. We surrounded them and shot at them. As the lodges were attacked and shot into, their occupants were all shot down; we killed seven. We contended with them when just half of the night had gone, even at mid-night. When we finished killing them, we were coming this way. "Ho! warriors, let us cease. Come, it is enough," said I.

So we were coming back. We walked all night, and just at day we reached the Missouri. We crossed the river before sunrise. We walked all day; and at noon we killed two deer, as we were hungry. We sat eating them. Then we continued our homeward march till we stopped for the night. The next day we walked throughout the day, and at night we killed a deer. The next day we walked till night, and so at night till about eight o'clock. Then we reached the house of a white man. Said I, "The white man will fear us, thinking that we are Dakotas. So let us ask him for food. I will open the door. Do you rush in after me." When I peeped in at the window, the white man was standing without any clothing at all. (He asked us if we were Dakotas, and was glad to find that we were Omahas.) The white man made us thankful, saving our lives, as it were, by giving us food at night. At night, when it was not day, that is, before the sun rose, we reached our village. Then all the people were stirring. "The men who killed the Dakotas have come home," said they. As we said that we had killed seven, all the people were delighted.

TRANSLATION.

In former days we went on the hunt with all the tribe, following the course of the Elkhorn River. About thirty of those called scouts were at the two sacred tents. As we went along, we killed some fish, a considerable number. The policemen took the large ones for themselves, and then cooked them. After eating, we departed, walking by night. We followed the course of a stream, whose banks were covered with trees. We did not sleep by the creek; we slept out from it, on the open prairie. At day, when it was light, behold, male elk were walking near us. The good marksmen exhorted one another. When the men shot at them they broke the leg of a male. When he made a dash, I caught hold of him and kicked him over. Those who came afterward hit him on the head. When they ate him at night, I did not eat any of the meat. I ate a small fish which a boy caught for me. At length two elk came directly toward us, following the stream. We killed one of them, the female, and having cut the meat into slices, we scorched them a little over a fire. As we went, one of those who had departed as scouts discovered the buffaloes. The scouts were about twenty miles from the camp, but all ran back suddenly to tell what they had observed. The next morning the camp was removed, and the tents were pitched near the herd, which we surrounded. When the sun was just about yonder, a man departed. Behold, some men were creeping towards the camp. They were Dakotas. The Omahas pursued the foe. I joined. At length it was dark; but still they continued shooting at them. A few of the Dakotas suffered very much. The Dakotas depended on the darkness, and they were in a desperate mood. They attacked us, and killed an Omaha. Then the Omahas spoke of attacking them. They met. One Omaha rode a very swift horse, having no weapon but his hatchet-pipe. He wished to hit one of the foe who had not been wounded. When he arrived just there, he seemed to forget about the hatchet. He wished to pull him from his horse, by catching him by the hair. But his own horse was so strong in the neck that he could not be managed; so he carried his rider not only to the Dakota, but a considerable distance beyond him. And when the Omaha thought of taking hold of the Dakota, he had missed catching hold and had gone by. The Dakota, who was then behind him, wounded him. The horse was coming back carrying his master. "I have been killed outright!" said he. He died soon after. And one Omaha was speared and struck down. Another one was on a horse that refused to run, as it feared the hillocks which were in that neighborhood. A Dakota came and killed the Omaha. They ceased fighting at midnight. The next day they struck the tents and departed. Three men came back bringing dried buffalo meat. They assembled for the dance. They caused the dead to sit with them as they sang. "Let us sing afterwards," said they. They spoke of singing with the dead. When they had finished burying them, one man, Ľaháwagče-jíde (Red Shield), went out about a mile, though the chiefs forbade him. He still went on, being near to the bluff. If any young men pursued him, he refused to come. He still went on. Those who were there sat calling to him to go to them. He would not let the Omahas have their way, when they forbade his going. Just as he arrived at the hill the Dakotas came thence in pursuit of him. They soon came to him and killed him. His horse was coming back running to the camp. "Cease fighting," said they. Our warriors were returning to the camp. We removed. The Dakotas attacked us again. Then we removed the camp and went on the hunt. Many Dakotas were coming to attack us. They contended with us. The two parties contended together, being very close. They usually missed in shooting at one another. The Omahas killed a horse belonging to the enemy. The Dakotas killed the white interpreter who was with us. His horse was very swift, but he had gone right into a quicksand in the stream. The Dakotas soon reached him; but they did not kill him until he had shot one of them, as he had a double-barreled gun. When the Omahas were on the hunt with all the tribe, they usually scattered, and went in small parties, by twos, and sometimes singly. In one season the Dakotas attacked us three times.

TRANSLATION.

I went three times on the buffalo hunt. When I was there the first time, I was small; therefore I did not shoot at the buffaloes. But I used to take care of the pack-horses for those who surrounded the herd. When they surrounded the herd at the very first, I spoke of shooting at the buffaloes. But my father said, "Perhaps the horse might throw you suddenly, and then the buffalo might gore you." And I was in a bad humor. My father went with me to the hill. We sat and looked on them when they attacked the buffaloes. And notwithstanding my father talked to me, I continued there without talking to him. At length one man was coming directly towards the tents in pursuit of a buffalo bull. And the buffalo bull was savage. He attacked the man now and then. "Come! go thither," said my father. I tied a lariat on a large red mare that was very tall. And taking a very light gun which my father had, I went thither. When I arrived there the buffalo bull was standing motionless. The man said that he was very glad that I had come. The buffalo bull was savage. The man shot suddenly at him with a bow and wounded him on the back. And then he attacked us. The horse on which I was seated leaped very far four times, and had gone off, throwing me suddenly. When the buffalo bull had come very close he wheeled around and departed. So I failed to shoot at him before he went. I reached home just as my mother was scolding my father about me. When the horse reached home with the bridle sticking to it, she knew that I had been thrown. My father said nothing at all, but sat laughing. Addressing me, he said, "Did you kill the buffalo bull?" And I did not speak, 468, 11. hučuga gaxai tẽ. As the hučuga was curvilinear, "tẽ" cannot refer to its shape. It admits of two renderings: "the one act," and "when" or "as," implying the occasion, time, or reason.

469, 2. jaⁿ kẽ. The sacred pole is not kept erect, except on special occasions.

469, 3. nikagahi čañka. Frank La Flèche read "aka" instead of "čañka."

469, 7. waiiⁿhahage čaⁿ, the lower corners of a buffalo-hide, i. e., the part towards the feet of the buffalo.

469, 18. cenujiñga nučafiⁿ, etc., refers to those who had not yet distinguished themselves in battle.

470, 1. qi-učipu, a small lodge, such as the Winnebagos use. See "qi-učipu" and "učipu" in the Dictionary.

470, 3. qi-suede učukihehebe gaxai. The length of the long tent depended upon the number of small tent-sticks obtained by the warriors.

470, 5-6. quepa . . . agudi čataⁿce-daⁿ. This is equivalent to "wawenai," asking or begging them to give something. After the old man said this, the fathers used to bring their children, each with four presents. These gifts, in modern times, have consisted of a piece of dried buffalo meat, a gun, a fine robe, and a kettle. When a gun could not be had, "nikide," which were precious, and were used for necklaces, were offered instead. Sometimes a horse was the fourth gift.

470, 15. ukit'ẽ ama, etc. The front flaps of the long tent were raised a little. Then the attacking party passed between the dried meat and the grass-figures, and assaulted the chiefs. Both parties fired four times. Then the fight ended.

470, 18-19. Before the sacred pipe was taken back to its tent, the chiefs smoked it, and then it was taken over to the side of the young men, who represented the enemy. Here and there one would smoke it. Four times did they carry the pipe around for some of them to smoke it; and then it was returned to its sacred tent.

471, 3. ičakigče ihuxiçai. On the evening of the day of the sham fight.

471, 5. macaka. Frank La Flèche read, "mácaⁿka."

471, 15-16. Those on horseback used to watch for the pipe-bearers to come around, and when the women were on the other side of the circle. Then a horseman would take one of the pipes, which he "held for" a man ("uíçan"), to whom he gave his horse, etc. See Jaçin-naⁿpaji's War Story, the final paragraph. The men danced in a peculiar course, going from west to south, thence east and north; but the women followed the course of the sun, dancing in the reverse order, from the east to the south, thence by the west to the north.

TRANSLATION.

I.—Our ancestors spoke of making something to keep the people upright, something to make them behave. They spoke of making two sacred tents, and also of making another. When the chiefs had assembled, they consulted one another. They spoke of making sacred the cedar and cottonwood pole and two flat pipes. When they finished the pipes, they elected their own chiefs; and each gens of the tribe constituted itself according to its sub-gentes. And the gentes of the tribe gave to one another the minor sacred things which they now possess. They made the two tents sacred to the buffalo; and they made the one tent sacred to human beings; that is, to killing them in war. At length they completed all that was sacred. And these who had made themselves chiefs, they who were the first rulers, talked to the people. "Respect ye these two tents which ye have made sacred. When the tribal circle is formed, they shall stand in the middle. Indeed, make it a rule to give to them whatsoever very good things you have. And desire even the chieftainship from us," said they, addressing the young men. "In that event you will be stout-hearted. If any of you give many presents to strangers, you may paint your children's foreheads. If you acquire this privilege by becoming very poor, you will be great men, and future generations will keep up the customs as long as the tribe shall last."

II.—They spoke of removing the camp to go on the buffalo hunt. When they came back and told about the buffaloes, they used to give good robes to the pole of the sacred tent. When they surrounded a herd, they used to gather together the buffalo tongues for the tent. When the buffaloes were killed, the chiefs said, "Ye two young men, you will gather buffalo tongues and place them at the sacred tent." The young men used to thrust one end of their bows through the tips of the buffalo tongues, and carry them along by means of the bow-strings, which they put in front of them, next to their chests, the bows being on their backs. They were the very first ones to reach the lodges again. When they reached home in the evening, they used to cook. The chiefs assembled, wearing robes with the hair outside, and entered the sacred tent, where they ate after putting the food in the lower corners of their robes. He whose sacred thing it was, Hañga, he who had made the feast, sat singing as the others ate.

III.—When a man continues to fear unseen danger, they go out as scouts. The chiefs assemble. An old man calls: "I who move wish you to learn about the land for me!" Forthwith fifty or sixty young men go to the sacred tent of the Weji^{etc.}. The young men go as scouts, running around the circle of tents. At length they come back to report, perhaps, that they detected the presence of men. And they regard this service as fully equal to going on the war-path. They come back by making a detour, and perhaps they flee.

IV.—When they killed a great many buffaloes they usually started homeward. At length the chiefs assembled, and spoke of making a sacred thing. They cooked a piece of dried buffalo meat at the two sacred tents, that they might assemble for the ceremony. The chiefs collected about a hundred young men, who were stripped to the waist and who sat in a circle around the two tents. Some of the men here and there were considered brave, so they wore robes and had on gay shirts. When they had eaten all the food the feast was ended. As the brave men followed the line of the tents, they were snatching bent tent-sticks from those who dwelt in small tents. And the owners did not refuse, nor did they ask why the braves tried to deprive them of their tent-sticks. They carried the sticks which they had taken back to the sacred tents. They made a long tent, using the sticks as long as they lasted. They made the principal sacred thing (i. e., they placed the pole) in the middle of the tent. They asked each first-born child for a piece of dried buffalo meat. An old man called about two hundred children by their names. "O grandchild, wherever you are standing, even though you bring but one thing, you will put it yonder on the ground for me, at a short distance." When they collected the dried meat all beheld it. They spread it out the length of the long tent. Wakaⁿ-maⁿçiⁿ placed four of the fattest pieces of the meat in the middle. He cut them with a knife. He cut the fattest in slices as large as one's hand. These he mixed with red clay, and then rubbed the sacred pole with the compound, making it exceedingly greasy. At length he completed it. They assembled the warriors, having spoken of feigning to contend with the enemy. The horsemen rode round and round. The chiefs had made four grass figures, in the shape of men, which they had put in as many places in front of the long tent. The mounted men and the chiefs shot four times at one another; and four times did the former pretend to kill the grass figures. And four times they pretended to cut them up. They took very close aim at them when they shot at them, and they knocked them down every time that they shot. They shot at the figures with guns loaded only with powder. The hostiles attacked the chiefs. Four times they fought one another. They stopped running. The enemy ceased fighting. Four times they went to the keeper of the tent of the sacred pipe, taking to him a robe to wrap around the pipe. They untied the pipe covering. Then they wrapped the pipe in the robe, and carried it to the long tent. After the ceremony they took it back to the sacred tents. It was that pipe which they used during the ceremony, after filling it with killikinnick which had been made sacred. The chiefs alone sat puffing out the smoke, when they put the pipe to their lips.

V.—Now I will tell you a custom pertaining to the sacred pipes. When the chiefs assembled they said: "It is good to dance." It was Iñke-sabě, the keeper of the pipes, who promised to make a dance, and talked about it. The chiefs consulted with one another about having the dance directly after the other ceremonies. All the men of the Iñke-sabě gens went after a cottonwood tree, from which they cut off all the branches but those at the top. Two women accompanied the men, having their "macaka." When they brought the tree back they planted it in a hole in the ground, which had been made in the midst of the tribal circle. They caused old men to act as criers. "You are to dance! You are to keep yourselves wide awake by using your feet!" said they. The men of the Iñke-sabě cut ten sticks in the neighborhood of their tents. Having gone around the tribal circle, the bearers of the sticks gave them out, one by one, to the several gentes. The head of each gens said as follows: "They have come to give us the stick because they wish us to take part in the dance." Nearly all the young men were naked. They rubbed white clay on themselves. The women and girls wore dresses and painted themselves. Here and there a young man was seen who wore good clothing. All the elder men of the Iñke-sabě gens sat close around the pole. They wore robes with the hair outside. They had four drums and four gourd rattles. Both of the sacred pipes of the young men of the Iñke-sabě were to occupy a prominent place in the dance. The two young men who kept them filled them and carried them on their arms as they proceeded in the dance. Those who desired to make presents were mounted and rode round and round the circle of the dancers. Those on foot danced around the pole. The members of the Quqa section, who were the professional singers, sat within the circle of the dancers. The men turned around, and the women danced in an outer circle.

Mother's brother, I am very poor. I wish to see you both. I will see you this year, in the winter. The Omahas have no horses at all; they are poor. I went to the land of the Dakotas, but I came home without a horse. I went to see Spotted Tail, but he did not give me a horse. Tell me, mother's brother, if your children are not sick. Many of the Omahas will see you in the spring, when it is warm. I sit with Two Crows, who knows me. When you get the letter, send me one immediately.

TRANSLATION.

My child, before you went, I was not poor at all. When you departed, I was very poor. I always remember you, and I greatly desire to see you. It is not probable that there will be any way for me to get to see you. I am sad because you went so far away. I hope to hear good words from you. I send you this when there is no moonlight. Enough.

Bird-Chief seeing it be with him. White-Beaver causes this to come to you.

NOTES.

This is a curious letter. The first sentence was intended for Wahe'aⁿ; then six were addressed to Waji^{n'}a-gahiga; and the rest, to Wahe'aⁿ.

476, 2. Pahañga i^{n'}c'age, etc. This should be "I^{n'}c'age čiñké ijiñ'ge giñ'a^{n'}baji tēdi, gít'e hă:" literally, "Old man—the one who—his son—he saw not his—when—he died to him—."

476, 6. Jábe-skă, Wačacpe, or Ma^{n'}či^{n'}-tea^{n'}xi, was an aged Ponka who remained with his Omaha kindred when his people were removed to the Indian Territory, in 1877.

TRANSLATION.

Your elder brother is dead. He died before his father saw him. And you, O Waji^{n'}a-gahiga, please receive the letter. Send word back to me if you are doing well when you get the letter. I will hear it. Your daughter had twins. Both died. I wish you to promise to come home very soon. Enough. Your elder brother is dead, so I tell you about your own. Scabby Horn, your father, is almost dead. He will die before you see him. Look at this with Waji^{n'}a-gahiga. White Beaver sends it to you.

TRANSLATION.

Your father is almost dead. He will be apt to die before you see him. Jabe-skā (White Beaver) causes the letter to come to you. Your relations will die before you see them. You promised to reach home, but you did not tell the truth. Your sister gave birth to a child, but it is dead. Your sister's son, to whom she gave birth, is dead. I send this to you on the day after the moon died (i. e., August 1).

O brother-in-law, please send me a letter as soon as this one reaches you. I will reach you before the cold weather. I do not know the road at all. It will be my desire to know the land in which you dwell. If the children that my sister has are well, I wish to hear about it. I sowed fifteen acres of wheat. My child is very ill. When he dies, I may go to you. I am very poor. I am constantly hoping to see you. If the land in which you dwell be good, I wish to hear correctly about it. Enough.

NOTE.

Agitcita is another name for Waji^{na}-gahiga, mentioned in Jabe-skă's letter. He is called Wanace-ŋaŋga, Big Soldier, in the Ponka Census List of 1880. His daughter married an Omaha, Wanacekičabi, referred to in the letter just given.

NOTES.

480, 9. a^{n'}ča^{n'}wañgča is from učugča; but Sanssouci read, "a^{n'}ča^{n'}wañgigča," from the possessive, učugigča.

480, 9-10. Čeama, negíha,—wiča^{n'}be, etc. This is a curious instance of a sudden digression on the part of a speaker. He intended speaking about the tribe, but he proceeded to tell of his own affairs. Then he returned to the Omahas. The correct order would have been, "Čeama, negíha, Umaⁿhaⁿ ama usniqti wi^{n'}detaⁿ tēdihi xī čida^{n'}be ta ama. Wiča^{n'}be ta miñke ča^{n'}ja, negíha, wamuske uaji učewi^{n'}agiče bčictaⁿ xī, wiča^{n'}be ka^{n'}bča."

TRANSLATION.

When you receive the letter, send me one. O mother's brother, I hope to hear just how you are getting along in the new land. Even if it be unsuitable, send back and tell me just how it is. Mother's brother, I am very poor. I am crying all the time, because I do not see you. I suffer on account of what I have lost, O mother's brother. I am very poor, mother's brother. Though I wish to see you, mother's brother, it cannot be till I have finished harvesting my wheat that I sowed. These Omahas will visit you when the very cold weather shall have gone half of its course. These Omahas, mother's brother, are eccentric. They do not prosper, and that is very hard for me. Send me back word whether my mother and mother's brothers are not sick. Whatever may be their condition, I wish to hear about them. Mother's brother, when I heard the letter which the Ponkas sent back, my heart was glad. In like manner, mother's brother, give me some words. My heart will be glad.

NOTE.

Nine letters were written for the Omahas on the same day, August 22, 1878. Several alluded to the contemplated visit of the Ponkas; but Siɣaⁿ-qega alone gave the number who intended going. Siɣaⁿ-qega addressed three Ponkas in his letter: Antoine, Majaⁿ-ibahaⁿ (Knows-the-Land), and Cábě-nájiⁿ (Stands-Dark-in-the-distance).

TRANSLATION.

Younger brother, the Omahas will go to you. As they are going, I stand ready to go to you. They will go to pay you a friendly visit. Twenty persons wish to see you. Now, I have nothing whatever; I am very poor. I wish to see three young men among you: yourself, Majaⁿ-ibahaⁿ (Knows-the-Land), and Cabě-najiⁿ (Stands-Dark-in-the-distance). When I think of you, I am always sad. Yet I have a strong desire to see you three who are out of my sight. You know the trouble of the tribe. It is now in trouble; we are in great trouble. I mean that I am poor. I wish these two young men to see the letter with you, Antoine. I desire to hear if your children have been sick, or even if they are dead. I mean you, too, Majaⁿ-ibahaⁿ. NOTES.

483, 3. aⁿcte is used in comparisons, figures of speech. See "iⁿcte," in the Dictionary.

483, 3. The third sentence of this letter is puzzling, not only to the collector, but also to Sanssouci and Frank La Flèche. Still it is given as dictated. There may be a comparison between the bare words of the Omahas, and the deeds of the Ponkas.

483, 10. uⁿuwikie, etc.: "I speak many words to you because I am poor."

TRANSLATION.

I have written that letter to send to you. When it reaches your land, and you receive it, I hope that you will send one back very soon. What these persons, the Omahas, speak, I continue working at, as it were; but I remember your deeds. As I remember you, I desire to decide for myself, when that letter reaches you, and you send the words to me. I also wish you to tell me accurately about the things which your neighbors have given you. I wish to hear. And you, too, Aⁿpaⁿqañga (Big Elk), I always remember. And, in fact, I have written to you all the words that I send to your land, that you, too, Aⁿpaⁿqañga, may hear them. Do you, too, send me some of your words. When men do what is good, they should be remembered. As you invariably did me good, I remember you. And as I talk to you, I send you a great many words when I talk with you about these. As I am somewhat poor, I send to you, talking with you in a great many words. I send to you to ask a favor of you.

When I do not see you I am poor; but when I see you I am not poor. Since you departed my heart has been sad; I have continued sick. It is always good for you to consult the chiefs and the young men about your affairs. What things you gave to these gentes of Omahas were always good. They ever remember you. Your plans were good at all times. I hope to see you in another season. I desire you to send and tell me the way to your land. If the interpreter whom you have, knows the way, send and tell me. His name is Battiste. I wish to hear how many days' walk it is from the Oto village to the Ponka village. I hope to see all of you brave sons of Ponka chiefs. As I am so used to you, I am ever hoping to see you. I always ate your food. It was pleasant to me, therefore I have a strong desire to see you. When Battiste receives the letter and sees its contents, he will tell you.

Maqpiya-qaga had been a member of the young men's party, but he joined the chiefs' party prior to sending this letter. TRANSLATION.

My sister's husband, as your son is dead, my heart is always sad. As you and your child made great efforts in helping me with my farm while you were here, and till you went to that land, I was grieved when I heard of his death. This one, my wife, is always crying. Indeed, I have been walking with a heavy heart ever since I heard it. I have nothing left me but the horses which carry the wagon. As I did not like to give up the land which I have, because I had expended so much labor on it, I sowed the whole of it in wheat. I have all the kinds of small vegetables; I have potatoes, and a great deal of corn. We Indians who walk here are generally lonesome every day. All the Omahas remember you. We have been to visit the Dakotas. When we came home, they gave us horses. Now, I wish to see you, but it is difficult. I mean that I have no one to see to my house in my absence. Still, I think that very many of us shall see you. I desire you to give me one of your young men. Now am I disgusted with the Omahas, because they do not wish to be Indians. If we men go with our chiefs, it is good. The Omahas act the white man, but at the same time they hate me. That is what I hate. And they desire to throw away the Indian chiefs; therefore I have a strong desire to see you in yonder land. Those with $\text{ḡaḡi}^n\text{-na}^n\text{pajī}$ wish to live as white men, and to throw away the Indian life. If you send back a letter, we fear that bad words will reach you suddenly.

TRANSLATION.

I will tell you a very few words. Before you went to the Indian Territory, you used to send me letters. But you have not sent me even one letter this spring. Yet I have sent you about three. And I thought that you were offended with me, because you had not sent me a single letter. But one of your friends, to whom you have sent a letter, has told me; so I cause him to send one to you. You knew what our condition was when you departed. We have continued so. I was delighted to hear from you, and to learn that you had no sickness in your household. You knew the land when you departed. You went somewhat as if you were very fearful about yonder land; therefore I have always been apprehensive on your account. Michel's mother is very sick. I do not know whether she will live or die. It was very warm this summer. Indeed, I do not know even one summer in the past, which was as warm. By the by, Frank took a wife last summer, but she is dead. We do not know yet whether we shall improve in the land. We are unsettled. Still, I hope to go traveling to yonder land where you are. If my agent be willing for me to go, I shall be apt to travel. But he is generally unwilling for the Omahas to travel. Still, tell me how many miles you are from the Pawnee village, and how many miles, too, you are from this land. I will speak on another subject. It is the subject about which I told you from time to time, when you lived here. I did not say, "Abandon your Indian life." I did not say, "Live as a white man." Nor did I say, "Live as an Indian." But I say again: Depend upon God. Remember Him. For if, instead of remembering God, you love this world alone, you shall be sad—you shall surely be sad in the future. God is ahead of us. We will go to Him. When we arrive there, we shall know for ourselves. When we walk here on this earth, God sits looking at us. And we have altogether forgotten God. Now I have written enough on this subject. When you write, send me word how many have died of the Pawnees whom I know. And write whatever you wish to write to me. Write to me how many horses you have.

TRANSLATION.

I think that you treat those Indians, the Ponkas, well, as you go on. I wish to treat these Indians, the Omahas, well; but it is difficult. Though we continue without any serious troubles, we chiefs keep to ourselves. When we cultivate anything in this land, we always gain more than we planted. Try it yonder. As I cannot see you, it is hard for me; yet I have said it because I remember you. I wish to know all about the kinds of food which you have planted in the land in which you dwell. I desire to hear how those Ponkas are, who were sick. Those who are here have much sickness. Your aunt wishes to know all about your condition, therefore I send you a letter. Maⁿteu-wačili, tell this news to Wanaⁿpajī. His aunt has made it. It is very good for me to be here. Still, when I remember you, I am always sad. I went to see the Dakotas; and Spotted Tail took me freely by the hand. He did not give the Omahas any horses, but he gave ten to me alone. I mean myself. The Yanktons have invited us to visit them next season, when this crop of corn shall have matured. I wish to hear just how you are getting along with the neighboring tribes.

TRANSLATION.

I wish to hear how you are. I wish to hear whether you and your people are in good health and are prospering. Since you left the land, we ever think of you throughout the day. I desire to hear from you whether you are doing very well in the land to which you went. We do not know about our own affairs, how they will be. For up to this time the white people have not done for us even one of the things which they promised. Therefore that is it; that is why we do not know when we may, at least, see you, without hope of anything else. Still, I for my part wish to see you, and I hope that, when the letter reaches you, you will send one back very soon. I desire to hear the news. Your younger brother, Heqaga-jiñga, is dead. He was a very stout-hearted man, but he is dead. The men and chiefs are very sad. Even the women and the young men are sorrowful. What vegetables we planted are good. We have plenty of wheat, and we have done very well in raising corn.

When you sent the letter to me, the work was abundant. I was sick; but now I am all right again. When I finish my work, you shall see your child. We are poor; we have no horses. We shall go to see you. We will go to you in the cold weather. I do not wish to lose the woman, your daughter; therefore you shall see her. When I see you, O venerable man, I wish it to be good for my heart. We still have the horse about which I told you last winter. You will be apt to see it. When the letter reaches you, I wish you to send me one very soon, telling how you are. I wish to hear from you. Your daughter desires to hear from her three children.

TRANSLATION.

I think of you to-day, when Sunday is over (i. e., on Monday). There is no news, yet I make a letter to you. We are thinking of what we have made from the land which we work, and which you knew when you departed. What we planted is very good. All the vegetables which we planted are abundant. I hope that you may do well in the land in which you dwell, whatever kind of land it may be. I hope that you may have a great abundance of the vegetables which you plant. I hope that when you receive this letter, you will send one back to me very soon. I desire you to tell me how you are getting along in the land. A long time ago you used to send me letters; but since your removal, you have not sent me any. I hope that your family is doing very well. I hope that the children are doing very well. I am thinking much about them this very day. I think of all the Ponkas. I have many of them for friends, some I have for relations, and some, too, for younger brothers. And I hope that my child, Wagiaⁿ-maⁿze, is doing very well. A person died here the other week. The young man was named, Heqaga-jĩnga. My household is doing very well; no one is sick. I sit thinking, "The Ponka people were truly good, and their departure was hard!" Some of these people with whom we dwell are very bad. They do not leave us any horses. It is difficult for us to do anything to them; in vain are we angry. We are very poor. The Winnebagos took four of our best working-horses yesterday. I hope that you will send me a letter soon. I have employed a very honest man, so he makes a letter for me. Last spring when the grass was tall I was among the Dakotas. I reached the Yanktons. They gave us seventy horses. If I had a child, a boy, in this land it would be very good for me. If he helped me in working it would be very good for me. I think that I should have brought one back when I went to see you. When I saw the land in which you used to dwell, it was such as causes sorrow. I was sad, thinking how I used to see you when you dwelt in that land. I thought that I would not be apt to see you soon, therefore I was sad. When I saw the paths which you used to go along, I was sad. At last you have forgotten your land. I saw all the Dakotas who were in the land where you used to dwell. But they have gone back to the up-river country.

TRANSLATION.

When the letter came back, I met it just then and took it. As my brother-in-law, Čuxa-maⁿčičiⁿ, is dead, I think that you will hear of it. Our people are very sick, so my heart is not very good. Many young men have just died; many of the very good young men with whom I went have died. And as to the matter about which you wished to hear, i. e., the chiefs, they are doing very well. I was sure of going to you, but now I am not going. Please tell my father, Čeki, that my brother-in-law is dead. Cause Nuciaha-gi-hnaⁿ, too, to hear it. Say, "It is reported that your mother's brother is dead." I work for myself, and it is very good for me. These chiefs always remember you. When the letter came and I told them, their hearts felt good to hear from you, O ye Ponkas. It was like seeing you. The people usually die in five days. The sickness is bad. I send to you seven days after the death of my brother-in-law. The woman whom I married came near dying.

TRANSLATION.

O JiŇga-nudaⁿ, son of Wabacki, I wish you and your elder brother to send me a letter. I wish to see you to-day, so I send you a letter. I have done very well in this land which you left when you went away, but to-day we are unfortunate. To-day I had my wheat destroyed by a prairie fire, and much of the food which I had made for myself was burnt. I send to you to inquire about a boy, the son of Cínudaⁿ-skā (White Dog). I wish to hear just how he is. Please send back and tell me how he is. Until to-day I did not like the gentes of the people, but to-day they have their way. I have spoken about enough. O JiŇga-nudaⁿ, I wish you and your elder brother to send back a letter very soon. I desire to hear just how you dwell in the land. Make some efforts and work for yourselves in yonder land which you have reached. In that event you will prosper. When you left us and went away we were working for ourselves, and so I did very well. But to-day my wheat was destroyed by fire.

TRANSLATION.

Venerable man, as all the wheat which I had has been destroyed by fire, I send a letter to you that you may hear it. I have nothing left but the wagon. I desire to hear about my kindred which are there: Nudjaⁿ'haŋga, Hidíga, and Jade-gi. I wish to hear if they are alive. I also wish to hear about Gahíge-ŋega, Wajiŋga-đa, the venerable Agaha-maⁿ'çiⁿ, the younger Ickadabi, Maⁿ'tcú-skă, and the two old women whom I call my mothers. And the rest of you I know not. The wife of one for whom ǵaçiⁿ-naⁿ'paji danced the calumet dance is my relation. She is my own grandchild, though she does not know me at all; but now I know her, and so the letter goes to you. Now I wish to hear how many of you have died among those I did not know.

My heart is far more sad than tongue can tell. I was with very good young men, but now many have died; therefore my heart is always sorrowful. Now is my heart sad beyond measure, because my wheat has been burnt. The old woman whom I call my mother is sick, and she has not yet regained her strength. All your grandchildren are sick. Their father died formerly. Tell this to the old women.

NOTES.

This letter was dictated partly by Sanssouci, the ex-interpreter, and partly by Cañge-ska. The interpreter appointed by the agent was Charles P. Morgan, who had been Ponka interpreter before the removal of the latter tribe in 1877.

503, 1. aⁿna'aⁿ-báji-cteaⁿ'i. The ending "cteaⁿ'i" shows that what was done, or left undone, was against the wishes of the speaker and his friends; but "aⁿna'aⁿ-báji-qtiaⁿ'i," we have heard nothing at all, would convey a different idea.

503, 2. tatéiⁿte, i. e., taté éiⁿte, has a future signification.

TRANSLATION.

I have received the letter which you sent. You told of yourselves that you were sick, and we are so, too. The choicest ones of the most stout-hearted of our young men have died. Wacuce is dead, so is Cuṣa-maⁿčín, and ḍahe-ṣadě, and Heqaga-jīṅga, He-snata, ḍede-gahi's daughter (the wife of ḡaⁿze-haṅga), White-feather's son, Cyu-jīṅga's son, Wauqtawačé's wife, Gahige-wadačīṅge's wife, and the grandchild of Ickadabi (i. e., of Louis Sanssouci); and in addition to these, many very small children have died. And up to this time have I been wishing to hear the news from you, how you were. There is nothing else for me to tell you about the Omahas. You should have mentioned the names of the deceased Ponka chiefs. We are poor and suffering. The President does not give us even money annuities. And as to work, we have done our best, but we are still below the mark, as it was not much. We have not done very much. Work alone should be pleasant for us, as it is apt to benefit us. I refer to working for ourselves. Our gentes do not behave when they speak; they do not listen to the words of us chiefs. That is the only thing which is a little difficult for us to bear. The President having caused it for us, the gentes do not listen to our words. The interpreter has just abandoned them, by resigning and taking himself out of their company. He got out of patience with the gentes on account of their words. And the agent has just appointed as interpreter the man who was made Ponka interpreter yonder at the old reservation in Dakota. We did not appoint him; in fact, we chiefs have heard nothing about it officially. The agent has not yet told us. We do not know how it will be when he tells us. It will probably be one thing or the other in that case; we may consent or we may not consent. Send back a letter when you receive this.

NOTE.

This Waji^a-gahiga is the head of a part of the Omaha Waji^{nga}-čatajī, while the other one is the head of the Ponka Wasabe-it^ajī gens. The Omaha bearing this name is an old man, and his letter is a good specimen of the oratorical style, especially the first part, in which Acawage is addressed as "my child," Ma^{ntcu}-wačihī, as "my younger brother," and Ma^{ntcu}-ja^{nga}, as "my grandchild."

TRANSLATION.

O ye head-chiefs, Acawage and Ma^{ntcu}-wačihī, as I do not see your young men, I am poor. I wish to see you, who are my own kindred. I think that I shall reach you by the time that the cold weather arrives. I hope that you will send back a letter very soon, O my child, O my younger brother, O my grandchild, ye who are head-chiefs. As I am poor, I desire to see the tribe who are my kindred. I think that all the young men wish to follow me. I think that I shall bring them to you. Indeed, I think that all the chiefs wish to follow me, O my child, O my younger brother, O my grandchild, ye who are head-chiefs. I send you a letter because I am sad at heart on account of the death of my young man who dwelt with me. All the people are sad; they are poor. Now they think of you. My child, I wish to see you. As all of the stock, the horses that you gave me, are gone, I am poor, my child. As I am poor, I have almost died from that cause. These Dakotas came here. I gave them all the horses which I had. But, my child, when I was there they did not give me even one horse. These Omahas, my child, wish to see you, and so do I wish to see you. I think that I shall reach you, my child, during this cold weather. My child, I hope that you will send back to me and tell me just how it is with you. I hope that I may hear it very soon. I wish to hear very soon the words of your young men, and also those of your chiefs.

NOTES.

This letter was written before October 25, 1878.

505, 1. t'éskaⁿi, i. e., t'e eskaⁿi, "Dead, they might be."

505, 3. uqčeqtci kíčě ta-bi. Frank La Flèche does not understand how "kíčě ta-bi" can be used here, and it is a puzzle to the collector, who suggests the substitution of "tičačě te, you will please send it here," or "gčíčačě té, you will please send one back."

506, 1-2. wíuwačághná kíčačě ta-bi. Frank La Flèche and the collector have agreed in substituting for this, "wíuwačághná xǐ, íčačě taí, when you tell us of our own, you will send one here."

TRANSLATION.

Jabe-skā begins to inquire, as he thinks that Gahige-jīnga may be dead. As he thinks that Waqa-najiⁿ, Acawage, or Gahige-jīnga may be dead, he has come to inquire about the deceased one. Jabe-skā desires to hear about his own. He says that some one will cause a letter to reach him at home (sic) very soon. He wishes to hear about his own kindred. The letter will please reach home soon (sic).—O Acawage, receive the letter which I send you, and look at it with them. O Gahige-jīnga, Waqa-najiⁿ, and Wahe'aⁿ, look ye at it. When you receive the letter, if one of you has not died, please cause the letter to reach home very soon (sic). He wishes to hear if either of his relations, Wahe'aⁿ or Wačidaze, has died. You will tell us by sending a letter here. And if they be alive, Jabe-skā wishes to hear correctly about them.

My elder brother is dead, and my heart is constantly sad. O Acawage, you will hear that Ikuhabi is dead. My wife has nearly reached death on several occasions. I wish to see you this year, but I have failed, as my brother died, and my wife is approaching death. If I wish to see you another year, I think that I shall see you. O Ceki, your younger sister, Gakie-maⁿɕiⁿ's wife, died to-day.

TRANSLATION.

My child, I always think of you. I have not heard at all how you are, though it has been my desire; yet I hope that you will send a letter back, and tell me how you are. As I do not see you, I am very poor. I have hoped to see you, but I have failed each time. I hope that you will tell all your friends. I am not sick; I walk without any trouble at all. I hope that you are just so. I cause some one to send you a letter. I hope that you will send one back very soon. A white man talked with us about the land. He went home after telling us to work the land with our hands. I think that we will be in the land for some time. I think that we will not reach yonder where you are. I send to you to tell you such things.

TRANSLATION.

To-day I saw the letter that you sent. This man read it to me. I am glad to hear that your household is in good health. I hope that Wakanda may help you. I heard that Big Elk and five chiefs had died. And as so many of you have died, it is grievous, O ye people. We, too, are sick to-day. Five very excellent men have died, and now there are those who are very apt to die. The women, too, are dying. As this land, too, as well as yours, is full of death, we have been dying. We are very much afraid of arriving yonder at a land in your neighborhood. Though the people who know something have been talking about us and to us, we have been making great efforts on our own account. They wish to settle our business in a satisfactory manner. They will doubtless make a satisfactory settlement of our business in this place. Therefore we do not wish to reach the land near you, if we can avoid it. Whatever they decide upon for us we shall abide by, yet we hope that we shall not depart from this place. They are not sick in the agent's country (i. e., Indiana) as far south as his city (i. e., Richmond). As I remember you to-day, I send you a letter. My household is without sickness. I have told you again and again of one thing in this land which is somewhat hard for us. The Winnebagoes are hard for us to bear. I hope that, as this letter goes very soon, you will give one and send it to the writer who is here.

TRANSLATION.

My child, I always think of you when I am poor. I am ever hoping to see you. My friend, you have gone, though I thought that I should never be poor if you always remained here in this country. As you went, I am very poor. I wish to hear all, what you are doing, and how you are. I hope to hear very good words from you who are my own relation. My child, when you departed, you knew that I worked the land where I dwell. I have now exceeded what I did then. We are just like the white people in raising all kinds of food. We have not yet finished our work; we are far from the end. It is winter, and yet we have not been able to finish gathering all of our crops. The land which you saw is full of wheat. We stand in the land with nothing at all to occasion apprehension; we are firmly settled. We wish to hear all the names of your people who have died. One of Wacuce's sons is dead. His name was Ėdi-a-i-najiⁿ.

I have received the letter which you sent home. Send me a letter, and tell me just how you dwell in the land. I send you this in order to make that request. Some of those men (i. e., Omahas) went to you. I desired to go to you when they did, but they went to you without me, as a letter had not come from you. When I received the letter, it was just as if I talked with you. O elder brothers, I am very poor. I did not think, heretofore, that you dwelt in a land near by; I thought that you dwelt at a very great distance. And I wish to hear how many days it takes to walk to the land in the warm region where you dwell. We have brought our sickness to an end; we have recovered.

NOTES.

Cahieča, or Cheyenne, a Yankton Dakota, was adopted by the Ponkas, who have made him the head of one of their sub-gentes. He was enrolled in 1880 as Múxa-náji^{n'}, which is a sacred name of his gens.

512, 13. kagé refers to Heqaga-jĭŋga, whom Waqpe-ca called his younger brother. He is spoken of by his household or ordinal birth-name, being the third son. Waqpe-ca might have said: "Nújiŋga isaŋ'gaačéde t'éě hă, Heqaga-jĭŋ'ga: I had a boy for my younger brother, Heqaga-jĭŋga, but he is dead."

TRANSLATION.

Mother's brother, I always think of you, in whatever land you walk. I wish to hear from you how many of you have died. The land in which you stand is not straight, so I have not gone to you. I am very sad, because it is just as if you were dead. Heqaga-jĭŋga, the third son in our household, is dead. Īquhabi, your sister's son, too, is dead. I hope that you will send back a letter to me. TRANSLATION.

My near relation, I remember you to-day. I hoped to see you, but I am not in good health; I still have sickness left; I have not recovered. I am still poor in this land, as you saw me before you departed. And I do not remember you only; I remember all the Ponka chiefs, and all the young men. I remembered you last spring, when I went to the Dakotas and was coming back, at which time, owing to one occurrence, they did an unfortunate thing. And as that is the case, I remember you.

I hope that you will send back what news there is, and write for me the names of all the people who have died. I wish to hear about all of them. When I think of you, I am sorely grieved. When you dwelt near, I used to go to you when I wished to see you. But now I am not in that condition, so I am sad.

If you see those Omahas who have been sent to you, please send a letter, as I wish to hear about them. I hope that they are very well; I wish to hear very good words about them.

When those Omahas who are my near kindred reach you, I hope that you will give me one of your horses. I hope that you will cause them to bring it back for me, or else that your son, Uhaⁿjiŋga, will bring it to me. As one of my wagon horses is dead, only one is left to me. If you give me a horse, I hope that a letter will come before it. Send it. I think that this letter is long enough. I send to beg of you because this land is without horses, and you are in the land where there are plenty of them. If Uhaⁿjiŋga does not come back, please ask one of the young Omahas to bring the horse home to me.

He-waⁿjiča is a Ponka of the Nikadaŋa gens. His name is given as pronounced by the Ponkas, but it is intended for the Dakota, He-waⁿjina (One Horn), which would be Hé-wiⁿáqtcĩ in Čegiha. Gahige-wadačĩŋge is a Ponka of the Hisada gens.

"Umáha" is the Ponka form of "Umanⁿhan;" and "wabáxu," letter, book, is equivalent to the Omaha "wabággeze."

TRANSLATION.

I have come back to the Omahas without any sickness at all. I desire to know just what thing you are doing. I have come back to the Omahas in very good health, without any sickness at all. But I said that I did not think I would go homeward to the Omahas. I say that I hope you may come back. These Omahas are doing very well. They are desirous of receiving any kind of person whatsoever who comes back. I wish to hear from you that you have no sickness or pain. I desire to hear how my young relations are, no matter what their condition may be. I suffered very much when I came back to the Omahas; I came back without any outer garments. But this one, my mother's brother, bought a blanket for me. I hope that when the letter reaches you, you will give me one very quickly and send it back. I think that my sister will go alone to her home among the Dakotas. The letter goes to you three days after my return to the Omahas.

My child, I was very glad when I came to this house and received this letter. It was very good for me, being just as if I saw you. And, my child, I shall send letters to you from time to time. And, as to your younger brother, who has reached you, I sent him to you because I was poor. My child, when I remain here, working the land, I do all the work very well. And, my child, as I am always thinking of you, I think that if you have any one thing I may have it. My child, I am constantly hoping to see you at some time or other.

NOTES.

Nidahaⁿ went to the Ponkas without the consent of his agent, who threatened to punish him if he did not return by a certain time. This was the trouble to which Čačⁿ-naⁿpájě referred in the phrase, "úckaⁿ t'aⁿ anájiⁿ."

The second and third sentences were addressed to Čačān'ga-najiⁿ, but all the rest was intended for Nidahaⁿ.

TRANSLATION.

TRANSLATION.

Though we are doing very well while we are here, I think that we shall go to the Dakotas. My sister's husband has three horses, two blankets, two hatchets, a calumet pipe, and plenty of wheat; so we have not suffered at all by staying here. You fare very well yonder where you are, and in like manner are we doing well. When we finish collecting our wheat from those who have given it to us, I think that we shall go to the Dakotas. My sister has given birth to a girl. Tate-kahomni always thinks of Wajiŋga. I wish to hear from you again about everything that has occurred. I desire to hear just how the very aged woman is. I wish to hear, too, about Țe-waⁿ and her daughter. And even when I hear correctly about them, I always remember you, though I may not be able to accomplish anything. As for you, if you prosper, I will go to see you; and if you have a difficult time, you will come to see me. I, my very self, am always glad, whatever may be my condition; yet I always remember you. I hope that you will send me word about those three youths with whom I used to go: Maⁿ-akibanaⁿ, Țahučicaⁿ, and Haŋga-ckade. I always remember you three. You promised me heretofore to visit me when I reached home. Send me word whether you are doing well or are in trouble. And even if you have a hard time, send me word if you have anything which is very pleasant. I always join these Omahas in their games, but still, I always remember you. Even when I am very glad, I always feel sad when I think of you.

Cúde-gáxe, commonly called "Smoke-maker," was a member of the Ponka Čixida or Soldier gens, of which Martcu-wačihí is the head. In the fall of 1878 he escaped from Ponka Agency, Ind. T., with his immediate family, He-waⁿ'jiča and Unajiⁿ-skă, and arrived at the Omaha Agency in December, 1878.

519, 3. Wahaⁿ-čĩnge sometimes means "an orphan," but here it is, perhaps, a proper name.

TRANSLATION.

All of these Indians have aided me. They have given me a horse, and have filled my tent with food. The agent has given me great assistance. He has given me land, and all the things for me to sow or plant. As I wish you to know this, I cause this letter to be sent to you. I am going to-day to your sister's daughter, who is among the Dakotas at Yankton Agency. They have sent me an invitation, and have promised to give me two horses. I give you a letter as I go. I go in very great haste. When I return, I will plant. Desire to come back with Wahaⁿ-čĩnge and his grandmother. If you wish it, desire to bring them back.

519, 8—520, 2. Iḡigaⁿčai uju . . . ai tẽ. Cañge-hiⁿ-zi said that when Indian Commissioner Hayt visited the Ponkas, and spoke to them in council, he told them that the Indian Bureau could not send them back to their own land, on account of the expense of the removal; but if any of them went back of their own accord, nothing would be said about it. Such was the interpretation of his speech, according to Cañge-hiⁿ-zi; and perhaps there were others who understood it so.

TRANSLATION.

Elder brother, I send to you on Monday to tell you a few words. Elder brother, I have not even one thing which is very troublesome to me. Put down the mind of an Indian; take up the mind of a white man. Do not help the person whose plans are wrong. Make for yourself a way that tends to your advantage; make yourself ready. The President did no work at all when we reached the place where you are; and should we come back, it would be difficult for him to pay for the expense. Therefore he said that if we, of our own accord, brought ourselves back to this place, there should be no accusations, and it would be a very good thing. All the Indians are sad, and so are all the white people. Should you come to any decision, do you and Heqaga-najiⁿ act upon it. I was very sorry to leave you when I came back. I hope that you will make the very decision that I made. When you receive the letter, give me one very soon.

Friend Battiste, I consider you my friend. Aid those men with their undertaking. The white people promise to take up our case at the time of the fall hunt.

Younger brother, I have just come home, and have received the letter which you have sent home. And I make a letter to-day, as you have asked for one. There is, as it were, no very good news in this land. The only thing by means of which a man can make his living is to do his best with the land. He who continues wandering is not apt to improve. When, in telling of your sickness, you said, "Not even one of my children has died," my heart felt good. But that will not be the only thing; on

TRANSLATION.

I shall work very hard to-day. And as I think of you, I write about some things and send the letter to you. These Omahas always think of you; it is pleasant for them to talk with you. I have heard about you, as the Ponkas who have come back have been telling about you. I would like to see you to-day. And when I think of you I hope to see you. You have plenty of horses; therefore I hope to see you. The Omahas are now working much more of their land than when you saw them at work. They are very glad; therefore I send to tell you. As the President wishes them to work for themselves, he has promised to give them fruit trees, apple trees, plum trees, cherry trees, grape vines, in fact, all kinds. That is enough for me to tell you. I send to you that you may hear it. And during this year they will make an equal distribution of cows among the men who have farms.

APPENDIX.

Mr. Frank La Flèche, an Omaha who was referred to in the Introduction, came to Washington in August, 1881, having been appointed to a clerkship in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. The collector wished to obtain Mr. La Flèche's assistance in revising the proof-sheets of this volume; but he did not meet with much success till over two hundred of the preceding pages were in type. As Mr. La Flèche's corrections and alternative readings are of considerable value, it has been thought best to publish them in this Appendix. The parts of the Appendix for which the collector is responsible are followed by "D."

ERRATA.

The following words occur so frequently in the first two hundred pages of the texts that a general reference to them will suffice:—

25, 3; 80, 17; et passim. For "áçita," read "áçiq̃a."

10, 18; et passim. "Aⁿhaⁿ, yes." When it means simple assent, read "Aⁿ'haⁿ;" but when it implies consent, the Omahas say, "Aⁿhaⁿ'."

107, 13; et passim. For "aⁿiç̃a-gă," read "aⁿ'i iç̃a-gă, hand it to me;" from the verb, "í iç̃ě."

9, 7; et passim. For "ábae," read "ábae."

52, 4; et passim. Translate "çéç̃a-biamá," by "sent off, they say."

13, 10; 229, 7; et passim. For "çé te amá," read "ç̃e té amá."

143, 2; 211, 16; et passim. For "éç̃ě," indeed, read "éç̃e."—D.

111, 16; et passim. For "éç̃ii tẽ'di," read "e ç̃ii tẽ'di."

10, 3; et passim. For "gañ'ki," read "gañ'ç̃i," from "gaⁿ" and "ç̃i."

9, 2; 10, 8; et passim. Hă, the masculine oral period, is supplied by Mr. La Flèche after many imperatives and other clauses. While the collector is familiar with this usage, he has good reasons for believing that such a usage is optional with the speaker. In like manner, the Dakota oral period "do" is obsolescent.

35, 9; 36, 1; et passim. For "Haú," read "Hau." When "Hau" is not addressed to a person, it marks the beginning of a paragraph, in which case the following words in the text and interlinear should begin with capitals. See 71, 15.—D.

16, 1; 16, 4; et passim. For "hégajíqti," read "hégaj̃'qti."—D.

46, 8; et passim. For "í'u," read "íu."

57, 9; 210, 16; et passim. For "iⁿ'iç̃a-gă" or "iⁿ'iç̃a-gă," read "iⁿ'i iç̃a-gă," from "gí'i iç̃ě."

80, 4; et passim. For "ĩn'daké," read "Hĩn'daké."

24, 1; et passim. For "kañ'ge," read "ç̃añ'ge;" so for "kañ'gẽq̃tci," read "ç̃añ'gẽ-q̃tci."

15, 3. "Wasábe níkagáhi fiñké" would be followed by "qí hě"; but as the phrase is "qí hě," we must read, "Wasábe níkagáhi aká."

15, 6. For "Liébe ě'di," etc., read "Liébe tě'di a-ínaji'-bi qí, xagé gáxa-biamá Mactciñ'ge aká." "Gáxa-biamá, he made it, they say," should be distinguished from "gaxá-biamá," referring to turning grass by hitting it, or by blowing on it, and from "gaqá-biamá," referring to one who outruns another.

15, 10. Read "Égiŋe Mactciñ'ge fiñké ě'di gfi' fiñké amá."

15, 11. Supply the classifier "tě" after "qijebe."

16, 4. "Éde níaci'ga," etc. Read: "Éde níaci'ga bęúgaqti ugŋá'a-á-biamá."

16, 8-9. "Áqta' t'ewaŋáŋě tă. T'ěŋě tē píbaji hě."—Or, "Áqta' t'ewaŋáŋě tada'. T'ěŋě uŋici hě: How is it possible for you to kill them? They are hard to kill."

16, 10. Supply "aká" after "Wa'újiŋga."

16, 15; 18, 4. Supply "amá," the pl. sub., after "Wasábe."

17, 4. Supply "fi," the mv. ob., after "Mactciñ'ge."

17, 6. Omit "tě'di."

17, 9. Change the end of the line to "tc'ęŋiŋai, á-biamá."

17, 14. Supply "aká," the sub., after "Wasábe"; and for "Áta' ja'," read "Eáta' aja' ă."

17, 18. Supply "aká," the sub., after "Mactciñ'ge."

18, 1. For "Wasábe," read "Wasábe-ma, the Black bears."

20, 1. Read: "Mactciñ'ge aká."

20, 2. Or, "wakan'daŋiŋai éga', as he makes himself a god."

20, 6. Capitalize the first words in the text and interlinear. For "pai," read "pa-í."

21, 1. Supply "aká," the sub., after "wa'újiŋga;" and capitalize "ke" and "come."

21, 8. Supply "qí," when, after "gan'teqti."

21, 9. For "ikágewaŋáŋě amá," read "ikágewaŋáŋě ama ŋa'," referring to a single Pawnee. Corresponding changes should be made in the translation, page 22: "O grandchild! a young Pawnee, your friend, met me and took me to his home. As he made me eat, I did not come home."

21, 11. For "wakéga, á-biamá," read "wakéga amá, she was sick, they say."

23, 2. For "kíde," read "kéde," the recl. ob., when.

23, 4. For "éga'i édega'," read "éga' édéga'."

23, 12. For "éŋi'" read "ŋi'," you are.

23, 19. For "naji'i-gă," read "najiñ'-gă," stand thou.

24, 4. Omit "aká" after "Liáqti-gikidabi."

24, lines 4-6 of translation. Read thus: "And when Liáqti-gikidabi thought, 'At last they will be apt to kill them!' he went thither." The last line should read, "They cut it up, and divided it between them."

25, 4. "Unai" should be rendered, "Were sought."

25, 5. For "íbisande atá-qti," read "íbisandeaŋá-qti, pressing close against."

26, 3. For "áma amá," read "a'ma amá."—Frank La Flèche. I have suspected that there was another form of this word, judging from the Dakota equivalent "u'ma (unma);" but I never heard it among the Ponkas. Compare níŋa and ni'ŋa; búŋa and búŋa'; béni and béni'; mácaka and máca'ka, etc.—D. For "paháciaŋa," read "paháciaŋata'."

26, 9. Omit "é," and read "áwatęŋata'," whence?

26, 10. For "číadi ga^{n'} a^{n'}čizai," read "číadi a^{n'}čize hă"; as "a^{n'}čizai" requires the classifier "aká" or "amá" after the subject.

26, 19. For "učíqpačě," read "účíqpačě, making them fall by pulling them."

30, 22. For "O elder brother, of what sort is it when you do that?" read: "O elder brother, how is it that you are so?"

32, 1. For "iqa^{n'} aká," read "iqa^{n'} čičké."

32, 5-6. For "Mactciñ'ge č'di ahí-bi xī," read "Mactciñ'ge č'di hí xī."

32, 9. For "íba-ha^{n'}-bi," read "íbaha^{n'}-bi."

33, 4. Translate "etai éde" by "should have."

33, 8. For "ǵahé kě bčazáča-biamá," read "ǵahé kě bčazáčě amá." For "učéwi^{n'}-wačai," read "učéwi^{n'}čá-biamá, he collected it, they say."

33, 16. For "cehé," read "céhe," and for "da^{n'}bá-gă," read "da^{n'}ba-gă."

35, 2. For "wéčixuxú," read "wéčixuxú-hi." (Other Omahas, however, say, "wé-čixúxu-hi."—D.)

36, 1. For "naji^{n'}-gă," read "naji^{n'}i-gă, stand ye."

36, 5. Translate each "tě" by "when."

36, 10. As the subject of this sentence is "wamí" instead of "Mactciñ'ge," the sentence should read thus: "Mactciñ'ge wamí má kě jíde ké amá, čiqai tě." "Jíde ké amáma" would refer to a line of red objects in motion.

38, 2. Omit "á-biamá" after "Uhu+!"

38, 3. Supply "čá^{n'}ctī," heretofore, after "ka^{n'}bčéga^{n'}."

38, 5. Omit "á-biamá" after "Kagé."

38, 6. Omit "Kagé, á-biamá." (But we have such a use in English: "My friend," said he, "my friend, I have something to say to you."—D.)

38, 7. Omit "á-biamá" after "Añ'kajī."

38, 8. For "witeí tce" read "witeí te," the regular pronunciation.

38, 9. Supply "xī," when, after "ičai"; and omit "á-biamá" after "ji^{n'}čéha."

38, 10. Omit "ji^{n'}čéha."

38, 11. Omit "aká" after "Ictínike."

38, 14. Omit "amá," after "Mactciñ'ge."

39, 2. Omit "aká."

39, 14; 39, 20. For "Ma^{n'}čiči^{n'}-bagí ačiči^{n'} máma," read "Ma^{n'}čiči^{n'}-bagí a^{n'} máma."

39, 18; 40, 3; 40, 7. Omit "amá" after "Ictínike."

40, 20. Supply "ă," before "á-biamá. It is equivalent to "áha^{n'}."

43, 3. Read, "Úhe a^{n'}wa^{n'}čá mañčiči^{n'}-gă."

44, 16. For "Ga^{n'}-hniñké," read "Gá-niñké, You who are that one out of sight."

44, 16. For "ěbécťě," read "ěbé čěwa^{n'}."

44, 18. For "gčiči^{n'} miñké," read "agčiči^{n'} miñké."

45, 6. For "učáčā^{n'}jī čniñké," read "učáčā^{n'} čniñké."

45, 8. For "éga^{n'}qti" read "éga^{n'}qti-na^{n'}." (Or, "éga^{n'}qti-hna^{n'}."—D.)

46, 2. Omit "á-biamá" after "dúčā^{n'}."

46, 10. Supply "aká," the sub., after "ijiñ'ge."

50, 3. For "gčé čičké," read "čéčičké," this st. ob.

50, 3-4. Read: "Ga^{n'} kída-bi ega^{n'}, kúsandě'qti ičā^{n'}čā-biamá. Uqpačě í amá xī, uqá amá." (The sentences in the text are correct, but Nuda^{n'}-axa gave short ones because he was dictating.—D.)

75, 6. Omit “úqφú’a wéφě xǐ,” and supply, after “wa’ú amá,” “wéφě ahí-bi xǐ,” joining this to the next sentence.

75, 7; 75, 10. For “cǐ,” again, read “xǐ,” when.

75, 7. For “tí-biamá,” read “tí amá.”

75, 8. For wai^{n'}-biamá," read "wáiⁿⁱ^{n'}-biamá."

75, 10. Supply “kě” after “sǐn'de.”

75, 13. Supply "aká" after "Ictínike."

75, 17. Supply "amá" after "Ictínike."

76, 14. Supply "tě" after "daqúge."

79, 16. Supply “ega^{n'},” having, after “ači^{n'}-bi.”

79, 17. Supply “cti,” too, after “kě,” and read “ačín'-biamá” for “ačín'-bi.”

80, 14. After "jiñ'gajiqti," supply "hé tǎ gaqágaqtí-bi."

80, 17. For “çiñké,” read “aká.”

80, 18. Read: "ě'di ahí-bi xǐ, ě'di gǝi^{n'}-biamá, when he arrived," etc.

81, 8. For “aĩgáxai ada^{n'},” read “aĩgáxai-da^{n'},” we do it, when.

83, 1. For "ta^{n'}wañgɕaⁿ e," read "ta^{n'}wañgɕa^{n'}-ma," the villages or nations.

84, 8. For “ečégaⁿ égaⁿ,” read “ečégaⁿ-bi egaⁿ’.”

84, 10. For “úkizá-biamá,” read “úkiza amá.”

84, 12. For "wáxu *ɕ*ionaⁿi ké *í*kɪɕé-hnaⁿ-biamá," read "wáxu *ɕ*ionaⁿi kéde *í*kɪɕá-biamá, they found by accident the awls which had been dropped."

84, 14. "sătǎⁿhai," in five places.

84, 15-16. Read: "Égiçe máçe amá xǎ, nújiĩnga nanⁿ/ba nanⁿ/-biamá."
 At length writer they when, boy two grown, they say.

85, 1. For “áçaskabe áça-biamá,” read “áçaskabeçá-biamá, they made it stick;” and for “áma,” the other, read “ámaⁿ” or “aⁿma.”

85, 15. For "wahútaⁿçeiⁿ," read "man'dě."

87, 14. Supply "ga^{n'}," as, before "pi."

88, 4. "ú'aⁿt'aⁿ, there is a cause, blame."

96, 1. For "kě" read "xǐ," when.

96, 8. For "gaxá-bi egaⁿ," read "giáxa-bi egaⁿ, having made it for him, they say."

96, 11. Omit "aká" after "Ictínike."

97, 5; 97, 7; 97, 10. For “ga^{nté}gaⁿ,” read “gaⁿ/tegaⁿ.”

97, 7. For “waŋnize te,” read “ŋnize te, you may take it.”

97, 14; 97, 17. For “jiǐngá-bajǐ,” read “jiǐn’ga-bájǐ.”

97, 18. For “waⁿibagíqti,” read “waⁿ/ibaginⁿ/qti.”

99. 1. Read: "In̄ga^{n'}-siⁿ-snéde Míyasi céna^uba ákikipá-biamá."

99, 7. For "ágēiⁿ te hă," read "ágēiⁿ-biamá, he sat on him, they say."

99, 8. "pamákide" or "pamaⁿ/kide."

99. 13. Translate "aká" by "the ones who."

100, 4. For "é wawagiká-biamá," read "é wawagiká-bi egaⁿ."

100. 7. For “ágigçei^{n'}-daⁿ,” read “ágigçei^{n'}-bi ega^{n'}.”

100, 15. Omit "çiñké."

101. 1. For "na'aⁿ'i," read "na'aⁿ'-bi."—D.

102, 13. of translation. Supply "cum ea" after "mane."

103, 6. After "ákiagčá-biamá" insert the following: "Kí Míyasi aká ubáhaqa

For "éskaⁿbčégaⁿ," read "éskaⁿ ebčégaⁿ, it might be, I think."

103, 13. Supply "amá" after "Jenúga."

104, 7; 104, 12. Supply "amá" after "Jenúga jiñ'ga."

104, 10. Supply "ǎ," the interrogative sign after "ekaⁿona."

104, 13. For "jáha-bi," read "jahá-bi-dé, when he thrust at it, they say."

107, 1. Read:—

"Wahaⁿ/čicige aká iⁿqaⁿ/ júgigče akáma. Ǧaⁿhá, ǧí čaⁿǧá bčé te, á-biamá."

107, 2. Supply "á-biamá iⁿqaⁿ/ aká," after "čáji-ǎ hé;" and "á-biamá Wahaⁿ/čicige aká" after "bčé ta miñke." Join the next sentences, thus: "Ė'ǧa ačá-bi egaⁿ/, ǧí čanⁿ/di ahí-biamá."

107, 4. After "ačⁿ/ tičái-gǎ" supply "á-biamá," referring to the men. "Mactciñ'ge čidaⁿ/be tí hǎ" was said to the head-chief by his attendants. Then the head-chief gave his orders to the people: "Ké, ačⁿ/ ǧí-gǎ," etc., ending with "Ėgaxe ičaⁿ/čai-gǎ;" after which supply "á-biamá níkaǧáhi aká."

107, 5. The next words were said to the Rabbit by the chief: "Ké, wačátciǧaxe taté hǎ, eǧá-biamá Mactciñ'ge, Come, you shall dance, said he to the Rabbit."

107, 6. Read: "Ké, iⁿ/quǧái-gǎ, á-biamá Mactciñ'ge aká."

107, 7. After "oniⁿ/ hǎ" supply "á-biamá níkačⁿ/ga amá," as the men said that to the Rabbit.

107, 9. "Ėgaxe ičaⁿ/čai-gǎ. Gañ'ǧí ánasái-gǎ hǎ" is not as good as "Ėgaxe ičaⁿ/čabádaⁿ ánasái-gǎ hǎ." See "bádaⁿ" in the Dictionary.

107, 14. For "čéčč ǧí," read "ičéča-bi egaⁿ."

107, 15. For "Ůaⁿ/čičiñ'ge čanájⁿ/," read "Ůⁿ/aⁿ/čičiñgé čanájⁿ/i."

108, 1. Frank La Flèche has returned to the regular pronunciation "wajiñ'ga."

108, 4. For "áigáča-biamamá," read "áigáča amáma, carrying on his arm—was, as he moved, they say."

109, 3. Read: "Kí Wahaⁿ/čicige aká kída-biamá ǧí, t'éča-biamá."

110, 6. For "wéucii," read "wíucii;" and for "wabčⁿ/wiⁿ," read "wábčⁿ/wiⁿ."

110, 7. Supply "aká" after "Wa'újiñga."

110, 20. Change the first word, "taⁿ," to "čičiñké," to agree with "bičičiñké-ama" that follows, implying that she was placed in a sitting attitude.

111, 10. For "niúčicaⁿ," read "néučicaⁿ."

111, 18. For "ěbéi tč," read "ěbé iⁿte."

- 227, 2. Supply "kě" after "ɣáqti;" "čǐnké" after "Isañ'ga"; and "amá hə" after "céčectěwaⁿji."
- 227, 3. Supply "čaⁿ" after "ɣijébe."
- 227, 4. Change "egaⁿ" to "ɣǐ," when.
- 227, 6. Change "ahí ɣǐ'ji" to "ahí-bi ɣǐ'ji"; supply "čǐⁿ" after "isañ'ga;" and read: "sigčé č'e té amá hə," instead of "sigčé č'é te amá."
- 227, 15. Prefix, "Kǐ aⁿmaⁿ," And the one, to "gá-biamá."
- 227, 17. Supply "tē naⁿ-qtei: the ob.—alone," after "naⁿbéhiujiñ'ga."

227, 19. Read: "Háxige aká ja^{n'}abe gáxa-bi ega^{n'}, ní kě'di uqpáfa-bi ega^{n'}," etc.
 227, 20. Frank La Flèche reads, "utána^{n'}" instead of "uta^{n'}na."
 228, 1. Read: "Mi^{n'}xa-jiñ'ga-ma," the Ducks (pl. ob.); and change "edéce fáfi^{n'}cé" to "edéce-máce, what say you?"

228, 3. Period at the end of line; and omit the following "á-biamá."

228, 5. Change "a^{n'}fi^{n'} akí" to "a^{n'}fi^{n'} akíi há."

228, 6. Read: "biamá xǐ, ímaxá-biamá: E^{a'}a^{n'} xǐ-na^{n'} éfa^{n'}baí ǎ, á-biamá xǐ, Mi^{n'}- fuma^{n'}ci cúdemaha^{n'}."

- 247, 7. Read "Ma^{n'}ze kě nájidč'qti gáxa-bi xǐ, ú tčě uibaxa^{n'}-biamá." "Uibaxaⁿ-biamá" means "he thrust it into the wound for him, they say."
- 247, 8. Omit all as far as "xǐ," inclusive, the rest of the line being changed to "Haⁿ! haⁿ! é amá xǐ, Ca^{n'} qčĩäji."
- 247, 10-11. Omit "Gañki amá," and join the two lines, thus: "jant'éqti ičé hă, á-biamá xǐ, čĩ égaⁿ gi'a^{n'}-biamá." For "Gañ'ki jĩn'ga kě," read "Ga^{n'}-ke jĩn'ga xǐ: a little while he lay—when."
- 247, 13. For "na^{n'}ba," read "naⁿbá čañká." For "akiwa" (the Ponka form), read "akíča."
- 247, 14. For "wáxai xǐ," read "wáxa-bi xǐ."
- 247, 16. Omit "gigčá-ba," "á-biamá," and "Kĩ."
- 247, 18. For "čtĩ," read "čaⁿčtĩ," heretofore. Omit "e."

- 248, 4. Read "Gǎé ga'ǎa ǎǐ, na'wape amá hǎ Wě's'ǎ-nídeka."
- 248, 7. Supply "ǎǎká" after "Wakan'dagi."
- 248, 9. For "s'ú-biamá," read "sú-biamá."
- 248, 12. For "agǎai Hǎxige," read "agǎa-biamá Hǎxige amá."
- 248, 14. For "hna'-biamá," read "-na' amá." (Or, "hna' amá."—D.)
- 248, 17. For "ukíǎataqtia' ǎi," read "ukíǎataqtia' ǎi hǎ, it is sticking very tight in his throat as he moves."
- 248, 19. Supply "wi," one, after "Jábe-wá'ujǎnga."
- 249, 1. For "aká," read "ǎǎká."
- 249, 3. For "mand úǎǐ," read "mandé ugǎi'."
- 249, 7-8. Omit "ugǎi' tá aká hǎ, Uǎǎǎa"; and for "ugǎi'-de," read "ugǎi'-i-de."
- 249, 10. Read "Hǎxige aká ǎǎha ǎǎa'ǎi-de wě's'a-má dá," etc.
- 249, 11. Omit "ǎǎ" and "ǎǎ'ki."
- 249, 18. Supply "ǎǎké" after the first "isaǎga"; change "Ni'ǎa" to "Ni'ǎa-biamá"; and "ǎǎǎa-biamá" to "ǎǎǎǎa-biamá," he made his.
- 254, 5. For "ugǎcke tǎdi hidé tǎ," read "ugǎcke hidé tǎ'di."
- 254, 7. Read "wě'a'-na'ǎi hǎ, níkawasa'."
- 256, 3. For "ahí," read "ahí-biamá."
- 256, 9. For "úha'ǎi," read "úha'-biamá." (Then we should read: "Nuda'haǎǎǎa-biamá; ucté amá wagǎǎǎa'-biamá."—D.)
- 256, 11. Supply "aká" after "ǎǎǎǎga"; so in line 14, after "I'ǎǎǎa."
- 257, 7-8. Read: "ǎǎǎǎǎa-ǎǎ. E'a' ma'hni' éǎte, á-biamá." Make a similar change on page 258, lines 6 and 7.
- 257, 15; 258, 12-13; 259, 6; 260, 10. "Edáda' náa'ǎǎǎa íǎǎi ǎǎ, if any difficulties are found," or "if anything is found that gives me trouble."
- 258, 9. For "taté," read "te hǎ."
- 258, 16. Omit "á-biamá" after "ba-ǎǎ."
- 258, 18; 259, 18. For "ǎǎ atí wi," read "ǎǎ wi tí hǎ."
- 259, 8-9. Read "wada'ba-ǎǎ." Omit "á-biamá."
- 259, 12. For "Qe-í!" read "He-í!"
- 259, 15. Omit "aká" before "ǎǎǎǎde."
- 260, 5. Supply "ǎǎ," too, after "Sí tǎ."
- 260, 9. Read "wawénǎǎǎa ǎǎǎ-bi ega', ǎǎǎti wi," etc.
- 260, 15. Supply "amá" after "ǎǎǎǎga."
- 260, 16. Read: "Éǎǎǎǎti ǎǎ i'wi'ǎǎ-ǎǎ hǎ."
- 260, 18. Supply "aká" after the second "ǎǎǎǎga."
- 261, 7. Supply "tǎ" after "na'bé."
- 261, 12. Read: "Kǎ wa'ú wi' áǎi ǎǎǎ-biamá ǎǎ, Mǎǎǎhe kǎ íǎǎ-biamá."
- 261, 19. Supply "aká" after "ǎǎǎǎga."
- 262, 6. Supply "úda'ǎ," good, after the second "wǎǎu." The following word, ínahi, shows that the adjective was omitted from the text.
- 262, 8-9. Read: "Hi'bé íǎǎǎǎǎte té, á-bi ega', íbatá-biamá ǎǎ, na'béhi tǎ

- 262, 13. Read: "agčáfiⁿ-bi egaⁿ, Xépaŋga fiŋkě'di akí-biamá."—D.
- 263, 2. Supply "čaⁿ" after "Cinan'děqti"; and after "cínande" in the next line.
- 263, 19–20. Read: "Xáci agčí-majī xī, égiče čagčé tai hă, á-biamá Xépaŋga aká."
- 264, 1–2. Read: "Maquíde d'úba áhigi gaqtaⁿ-bitéama xī, náji té amá."
- 264, 11. Omit "Gá-biamá."
- 264, 14. Supply "xī," if, after "anaⁿbixaⁿ."
- 264, 15. Omit the second "á-biamá."
- 265, 1. Change the last sentence, thus: "Cí Xépaŋga aká, Hiⁿ!" etc. "And the Big turtle said, 'Hiⁿ+' again." This makes the Big turtle cry out twice. (But I prefer the text as dictated, which refers this sentence to one of the men as speaker.—D.)
- 265, 3. Omit "aká" after "Xépaŋga."
- 265, 13. Change "weáqaqá" to "weáqaqái hă."
- 265, 15. Change "Čéčandi" to "Čéčandí hă."
- 265, 18. Change "enáqtei éčaⁿbe amá" to "enáqtei éčaⁿbe gčín'-biamá: alone—in sight—he sat, they say."
- 266, 3. For "čané?" read "čané ă."
- 266, 7. Supply the interrogative, "ă," after "taté."
- 266, 8. Insert "íče," he promises, between "aⁿčactaⁿ" and "áča."
- 266, 9. Read: "Čaqtá-bi é hă, á-biamá. Hí-utaⁿna čaqtá-bi é hă, á-biamá."
- 267, 7; 267, 14. Change "akí-biamá" to "kí amá, it reached there again, they say."
- 267, 9. The Swans sewed up the pouches of the Pelicans.
- 267, 13. Insert "gě" between "núde" and the verb.
- 267, 17. Supply "aká" after "Xépaŋga."
- 268, 1–2. Read: "Účicaⁿ maⁿčín'-biamá, déxe čaⁿ gigčásaču maⁿčín'-biamá."
- 268, 13. Supply "amá" after "Níkaciⁿga."
- 268, 15. Supply "tě'cti" after "ictá fiŋgaí."
- 268, 17. Change "wáqčī" to "awáqčī, I killed them"; and "číáqčī-hnaⁿi" to "číáqčī-naⁿi-ma, those who killed you regularly."
- 277, 1. Change the first sentence, thus:—
 "Taⁿwaŋgčaⁿ wiⁿ ădi-čaⁿ amá; héga-bají-biamá."
 Nation one it was there, they say; not a few, they say.
- 279, 7. Change "baxú ă'di" to "baxú kě'di," at the peak.
- 279, 17. Omit "Hiⁿbé čaⁿ;" and read: "Níaciⁿga pahaŋ'ga taⁿ hiⁿbé wa'í čaⁿ čionúda-bi egaⁿ," etc.
- 280, 1. Supply "čaⁿ" after "Hiⁿbé."
- 287, 1. Change the first sentence to "Níkaciⁿga d'úba qí amáma."
 People some camped, they say.
- 287, 4. Supply "aká" after "mín'jiŋga." So in 288, 5.
- 288, 6. Change "wékináqčī tě" to "wékinaqčīⁿ-bi egaⁿ, having hurried to get ahead of her."
- 288, 8. "Eča+!" The women say this when their husbands die.
- 289, 17. "Égiče" is of doubtful use here. Omit it.
- 290, 3. Supply "amá" after "mín'jiŋga."
- 298, 10. Omit "Wa'ú" and "mín'jiŋga."
- 298, 16–17. Read: "Usá-biamá xī, cúde tě sábě amá." So in 299, 1–2: "Cí usá-biamá xī, cúde tě qúqti amá."

- 310, Title. For "Crabs" read "Crawfish." So on 313, et passim.
- 318, 3; et passim. For "wahutaⁿϕiⁿ" read "wahutaⁿϕě."
- 370, first line of notes. Insert "snede" after "Wacuce" and in the seventh line change "juangce" to "juañgϕe."
- 372, 14. For "Nañge-tiϕa" read "Nañge-tiϕe." This battle is that which is referred to by Sanssouci in the notes on the next text, at the bottom of p. 381.
- 375, note on 374, 2, Change "Úhaⁿ-naⁿba" to "Úhaⁿ-naⁿ'ba."
- 378 and 381. For "Ámaha" read "Ámaⁿhe."
- 381, note on 378. For "amahe" read "amaⁿhe," and for "wamahe" read "wamaⁿhe."
- 381, note at bottom of page. This is the battle described by Nudaⁿ-axa, 372-5. Four Omaha messengers were with the Pawnees at the time of the battle, fide J. La Flèche and Two Crows (1882).
- 381, notes, et passim. For "waiiⁿ" read "waiⁿ."
- 382, first line. For "Miya qega" read "Nañka hega."
- 402, 13. "Jii ϕaⁿ" should be "qii kě," as the Pawnees pitched their tents (and built their earth-lodges) in the form of a parallelogram.
- 409-412. This text is full of mistakes, fide J. La Flèche, who was present with the Pawnees when they killed Paris Dorion. Two distinct fights have been treated in this text as one by Big Elk.
- 421, 4. W. objected to the use of "ukigϕiⁿ" in this connection, substituting "ugϕiⁿ", sitting in.
- 433, 2-3. áma aká dagahaⁿi, etc. J. La Flèche and Two Crows never heard of this. They doubt it.
- 435, 15. Je-saⁿ was not there, fide J. La Flèche and Two Crows.
- 438, 12. Omit "buja," fide same authorities.
- 439, 18. For "Unaⁿsude" read "Unásude," bare spots were made on burnt ground.
- 442, 13. weñaⁿaⁿϕagiϕe, you cause me to be thankful.
- 444, 20. For "hide keja" (though good Omaha) read "hídeája," at or towards the mouth, down-stream, south (fide J. La Flèche and Two Crows).
- 445, first note. The same authorities denied that these white people were Mormons. They confirmed Sanssouci's statement in the notes on 444, 8, on p. 446.
449. The same authorities say that the sacred bag there mentioned was carried only when there was a large war party, and that such a party did not steal off one by one, as stated in the next sentence, which refers only to a small war party.
- 450, eleventh line from the bottom. Read: "and tied them around the horses' jaws."
- 458, note on 454, 6. "The four war-chiefs," etc., read "the two war-chiefs or captains were Two Crows and Wanace jiñga, the two lieutenants being Jiaϕiⁿ naⁿpají and Sínde xaⁿxaⁿ."
- 463, 1. Insert "amá," between "Wakidepi" and "aⁿigϕajii."
- 466, 7. Read "aká."
- 468, 3. For "nikagahi" read "nikaciⁿga," and for "mazi" read "tañañge;" omit "edabe."
- ^{the pl.}

- 472, note on 471, 15-16. Omit first sentence, fide J. La Flèche and Two Crows.
- 472, translation, I. For "chiefs" read "people," and for "cedar" read "ash," to conform to changes in the text.
- 474, translation, V, near the end. Read: "They had one or two drums." Omit "the young men of" before "the Iñke-sabě." Change the "members of the Quṣa section, who were the professional singers," to "The Iñke-sabě singers."
- 481, translation, line 8. After "eccentric" insert "(or, are not progressive)."
- 487, 16. For "čagčīⁿ" read "čagčīⁿi" (2d pl.), and change "iⁿwiⁿčagă" to "iⁿwiⁿča-gă."
- 488, 8. For "wedahaⁿ amá" read "wédahaⁿ-ma," as they did not die willingly.

- 490, 1 and 2. Change "maⁿhniⁿ" to "maⁿčīⁿi."
^{you walk they walk}
- 499 and 500, titles. For "Wata-najiⁿ", read "Wataⁿ-najiⁿ."
- 510, first note. For "brother-in-law" read "son-in-law."
- 515, note, et passim. Read "Niⁿdahaⁿ."
- 523, title, et passim; Dele "n."
- 523, 1. "gě" used for "gědi." Compare the use of "tě" for "tědi" when, referring to a single occasion. But "gě" and "gědi" refer to different occasions, as the Ponkas returned in separate parties.

NOTES.

This myth should follow that of Ictínike and the Buzzard. (See pp. 74-77.) It should precede that of Ictínike and the Four Creators.

552, 3. Tci-tei-tei! Could this have been intended as the explanation of the origin of the verb, tei, coi?

Je da uçiqaga told part of this myth, as follows: Çétēdedí-biamá Jaoniñ'ge.
 There was they say Striped here chipmunk.

"I-ctí-ni-ké çá-çiⁿ-cé! Caⁿ-te-çá çá-gi-ⁿ çá-çiⁿ-cé, çá-çiⁿ-cé! Hé-cka-çá-çá!
 Ictínike you who move Letting it alone you carry yours on your back you who move you who move Tc!tc!tc!tc!tc!" á-biama. "Wū! níkaciⁿga ictá çañ'ga pē'jī," á-biama Ictínike aká.

 Ah! person eye big bad said they Ictínike the say (sub.)

[It is said that there was a striped chipmunk. And they sang thus: "O I-ctínike, you who move! You who move, you who move carrying your own on your back though you do not disturb it! He-cka-çá-çá! Tc!tc!tc!tc!tc!" "Ah! the bad person with big eyes!" said Ictínike.] Then Ictínike took four sticks (sic), one being part of a daⁿqě (artichoke?), one part of a potato plant, the third a turnip or a part of that plant, and the fourth part of a plum tree. He threw them among the "ja" (vegetation resembling and including sunflowers), saying to the first, Haú, gá-niñke daⁿqě they call shall Indian mouth made to shall they eat shall you you move by you

of sight! You shall be called 'da^uŋŋe!' Indians shall move their mouths on account of you! they shall eat you!"

ŋaŋi^u na^upají's version follows: The striped chipmunk ridiculed Ictinike and ran into his den. Ictinike took sticks, which he thrust into the den in order to reach the striped chipmunk. But the latter bit off the ends again and again (ŋada^uda^upa) till each stick was not more than four inches long. Ictinike threw the da^uŋŋe stick among the ja (sunflowers, etc.). Uspáspa, níhaŋga áŋa'ábe éga^u (hollow places, resembling those seen where there is a spring on a hillside?) refers to the place where he threw the piece of the potato vine. He threw the piece of the turnip on the hill and the plum stick among the "ŋandehi cugaŋti" (very dense plum trees).

It is evident that the last informant modified his language, not caring to tell the myth exactly as he had heard it.

TRANSLATION.

After punishing the Buzzard, Ictinike resumed his wanderings. He stopped somewhere for the night, wrapped himself in his robe of raccoon skins, and lay down. Before he woke in the morning, membrum virile rigit, carrying the robe up into the air. And the robe continued waving to and fro far above the head of Ictinike. At length Ictinike awoke, and when he beheld the robe it gave him needless trouble. Just as he said, "Fie! this is the Buzzard! How can you possibly take your revenge on me? I am awake," the robe was coming down again very slowly. Then he recognized it. "Bother! how could I have been deceived by my own robe!" So he wrapped up the membrum virile and journeyed on till he came suddenly upon a striped chipmunk. The latter said, "Tsi-tsi-tsi!" "Do not say that again," said Ictinike, but the chipmunk repeated the cry. "Whew! he really underrates me," said Ictinike, enraged at the chipmunk, whom he chased into his retreat in the side of a bank. Tum Ictinike membrum virile explicuit, et in foramen id trusit donec Tamiam vario colore distinctum tetegit. Hic partem membri quod longissimum erat, praemordit. Itaque membrum ulterius intrusit. Iterum Tamias vario colore distinctus partem praemordit, et sic facere non intermisit. Tum dixit, "Tsi-tsi-tsi." "Sane," inquit Ictinike "dic, 'Tci, tci, tci!'" Tum membrum ex foramine extraxit. Miratus est id tam saepe praemorsum esse ut modo curtissima pars remaneret. Itaque in foramen manum trusit et membri partem extraxit. As he threw it far to one side he exclaimed, "You shall be called, Hazi (?ha, skin; zi, yellow)." And grape-vines came out of the place where it had fallen. Again he thrust his hand in and took out another piece, which he hurled aside, saying, "You shall be called, ŋande." And plum bushes (ŋande hi) sprang up from the ground where the piece had fallen. In like manner he accomplished the creation of all kinds of fruits and vegetables.

NOTES.

Ictínike married after his adventure with the Jániŋge, as told in the preceding part of the myth. The order of his adventures is as follows: 1. With the Buzzard (see pp. 74-77). 2. With Jániŋge. 3. With the Beaver. 4. With the Muskrat. 5. With the Kingfisher. 6. With the Flying squirrel.

The four Creators were the Beaver, whose deeds are told in the myth; the Muskrat, who made rice out of water, roots of trees, and men; the Flying-squirrel, who made nuts of his “cande”; and the Kingfisher, who made all the fishes.

554, 16. Naxideckaⁿni (O.), eq. to Nidaⁿ-bčexa (P.), the blue kingfisher. - F. La Flèche.

Samuel Fremont (Wadjepa) said in 1889 that the *nida*ⁿ b̄eɣa and the naxíde ckúni were different birds, resembling in plumage, beak, and fondness for fish, the naxíde ckúni being slightly larger than the other fisher. Frank La Flèche insists that they are two names for the same bird.

TRANSLATION.

Ictinike married and dwelt in a lodge. One day he said to his wife, "Hand me that tobacco-pouch. I must go to visit your grandfather, the Beaver." So he departed. As he was entering the Beaver's lodge the latter person exclaimed, "Ho, pass around to one side." And they seated Ictinike on a pillow. The wife of the Beaver said, "We have been without food. How can we give your grandfather anything to eat?" Now, the Beaver had four young beavers. The youngest one said, "Father, let me be the one who shall serve as food." So the father killed him. After boiling her son, the Beaver's wife gave the meat to Ictinike, who ate it. But before Ictinike ate it the Beaver said to him, "Beware lest you break even a single bone by biting! Do not break a bone!" Yet Ictinike broke the bone of one of the toes. When Ictinike felt full, after eating, the Beaver gathered the bones and put them in a skin, which he plunged beneath the water. In a moment the youngest beaver came up alive out of the water. When the father said, "Is all right?" the son said, "Father, he broke one of my toes by biting." Therefore from that time every beaver has had one toe, that next to the little one, which has seemingly been split by biting. When Ictinike was about to go home, he pretended that he had forgotten about his tobacco-pouch, which he left behind. So the Beaver said to one of his children, "Take that to him! Do not go near him, but throw it to him when you are at a great distance from him, as he is always very talkative." Then the child took the tobacco-pouch and started after Ictinike. After getting in sight of the latter, the young beaver was about to throw the pouch to Ictinike when standing at a great distance from him; but Ictinike called to him, "Come closer! come closer!" And when the young beaver took the pouch closer Ictinike said, "Tell your father that he is to visit me." When the young beaver reached home he said, "O father, he said that you were to visit him." The Beaver replied, "As I apprehended that very thing, I said to you, 'Throw it to him while standing at a great distance from him.'" Then the Beaver went to see Ictinike. When he arrived there Ictinike wished to kill one of his own children (in imitation of what he had seen the Beaver do), and was making him cry by hitting him often. But the Beaver was unwilling for him to act thus, so he said, "Let him alone! You are making him suffer." And then the Beaver went to the stream where he found a young beaver that he took back to the lodge, and they ate it.

On another day Ictinike said to his wife, "Hand me that tobacco-pouch. I must go to call on your grandfather, the Muskrat." So he departed. As he was entering the Muskrat's lodge the latter exclaimed, "Ho, pass around to one side." And Ictinike was seated on a pillow. The Muskrat's wife said, "We have been without food. How can we give your grandfather anything to eat?" Then, said the Muskrat, "Fetch some water." And the woman brought the water. He told her to put it in the kettle and hang the kettle over the fire. When the water was boiling very fast the husband upset the kettle, and instead of water out came wild rice! So Ictinike ate the wild rice. When Ictinike departed he left his tobacco-pouch, as before. Then the Muskrat called one of his children, to whom he said, "Take that to him! Do not go near him, but throw it to him when you are at a great distance from him, as he is always very talkative." So his child took the tobacco-pouch to return it to Ictinike. But when he was about to throw it to Ictinike the latter said, "Come closer! come closer." And when he took the pouch closer Ictinike said, "Tell your father that he is to visit me." When the young muskrat reached home he said, "O father, he said that you were to visit him." The Muskrat replied, "As I apprehended that very thing, I said to you, 'Throw it to him while standing at a great distance from him.'" Then the Muskrat went to see Ictinike. And Ictinike said to his wife, "Fetch water." Ictinike's wife went after water. She filled the kettle and hung it over the fire till it boiled. When Ictinike upset the kettle, only water came out. Ictinike wished to do just as the Muskrat had done, but he was unable. Then the Muskrat had the kettle refilled, and when the water boiled he upset it, and an abundance of wild rice was there, which he gave to Ictinike. And thereupon the Muskrat departed, leaving plenty of wild rice.

On another day Ictinike said to his wife, "I am going to see your grandfather, the Kingfisher." When he arrived there the Kingfisher stepped on a bough of the large white willow, bending it down so far that it was horizontal; and he dived from it into the water. He came up with a fish, which he gave Ictinike to eat. And as Ictinike was starting home, he left one of his gloves, pretending that he had forgotten it. So the Kingfisher directed one of his boys to take the glove and restore it to the owner; but he charged him not to go near him, as Ictinike was very talkative and might detain him too long. Just as the boy was about to throw the glove to Ictinike the latter said, "Come closer! come closer!" So the boy carried the glove closer. And Ictinike said, "Tell your father that he is to visit me." And the boy said to his father, "O father, he said that you were to visit him." The Kingfisher replied, "As I apprehended that very thing, I said, 'Throw it to him while you stand at a great distance from him.'" Then the Kingfisher went to see Ictinike. When he arrived there Ictinike climbed upon a bough of a large white willow, bending it till it was horizontal; he leaped from it and plunged beneath the water. And it was with difficulty that the Kingfisher seized him and brought him to land. Ictinike had swallowed more of the water than he liked. Then the Kingfisher plunged into the stream, brought up a fish, which he gave to Ictinike. But the Kingfisher departed without eating any portion of it.

On another day Ictinike said to his wife, "I am going to see your grandfather, the Flying-squirrel." So he departed. When Ictinike arrived the Flying-squirrel said to his wife, "Hand me that awl." He took the awl and climbed up on his lodge. When he reached the very top per testes subulam impulit, causing a great many black walnuts to fall to the ground. Thus he provided black walnuts, which Ictinike ate. And when Ictinike departed he left one of his gloves, as before, pretending that he had forgotten it. In like manner did the Flying squirrel send the glove to Ictinike by one of his sons. And Ictinike sent by the son an invitation to the Flying-squirrel to visit him. When the Flying squirrel reached the lodge of Ictinike, the latter took an awl and climbed to the top of his lodge. He had barely reached the top of the lodge when per testes subulam impulit. And he forced out very dark blood. "Why," said the Flying-squirrel, "he has surely hurt himself severely!" So the Flying-squirrel took the awl and climbed up on the lodge. And the Flying-squirrel made a large quantity of black walnuts for Ictinike.

NOTES.

560, 1. jeqçin ibiqa-bi aⁿ. This is referred to in the last sentence of the myth containing the Omaha explanation of the gray down (?) on ripe plums. All fruits and vegetables were thought to be of phallic origin.

560, 6. Uhiack egaⁿ ete, ɣigaⁿha, or ɭigaⁿha, uhiack egaⁿ ete. Both used.

560, 11. qa-biama wa'u-ma, instead of aqa-biama wa'u ama, as the women were requested to go.

560, 12. iteqa-bi te amede, the women were absent then; perhaps this explains the use of such a form.

561, 2. gçize agi-bi ɣi, implies that the mother went to the cradle, took it up, and was returning to the other woman when the severed head fell to the ground (?).

TRANSLATION.

Once upon a time Ictinike was going somewhere. Near the place was a lodge in which dwelt two women. Ictinike traveled till he reached the bank of a stream, and then he went along the bank. Beneath the water there appeared to be a great many plums, and they were red. "Oh!" said he, as he undressed; and, putting aside his miserable attire of raccoon skins, he dived down after the plums. But he seized a large handful of dirt. On returning to land and viewing what he had behold it was a lot of dirt! Again he looked at the water and there were the plums. So he dived again and with a similar result. Having returned the fourth time with nothing but dirt, he chanced to raise his eyes to a cliff above the stream, and there were many plum trees filled with fruit, which caused the branches to hang down over the stream. It was the reflection of these in the water that had deceived him. Then he put on his clothing, ascended the cliff, and gathered the plums, with which he filled one corner of his robe.

Then he went to the lodge. He rubbed semen over the plums, and threw them one by one down through the smoke-hole of the lodge. On seeing the first plum one of the women said, "Oh, sister-in-law! I have found a plum!" They scrambled for the plums. On entering the lodge, Ictinike observed, "Whew! my relations, my grandchild, and her sister-in-law have returned here! Why! those plums are very abundant, and yet you two have not picked any of them?" "Oh! grandfather, we have not gone anywhere. If they are near here, we may pick them for ourselves," exclaimed one of the women. "Ho, go and pick them," said he. The child of one of the women was still in the cradle, and the mother had set it up in the cradle against the side of the lodge. So Ictinike said, "When you go leave the child in the cradle with me, as it might get hurt if you took it among the plum trees." "Oh, grandfather! it shall be as you say," said the mother. Ictinike promised to watch over it as over a relation. So the women departed.

Presently Ictinike started to his feet in great haste, seized the kettle that had been placed there full of water, and hung it over the fire. Then he killed the child, and cut the flesh in narrow strips, which he boiled. But he put the head back in the cradle, wrapping it in the head covering, and arranged it just as if it was alive. He put wood on the fire without delay, and went out of the lodge from time to time to see whether the women were coming. At last the meat was cooked, and he sat eating it. Having devoured all of it before the women returned, he departed. When the women got home Ictinike was missing. "O sister-in-law," said one, "the old man is not here. Why! my child is still sleeping just as he was when I left him!" As she took up the cradle and was returning with it to the other woman the head of the child fell to the ground. "Oh! dear little child!" said she. Both the women wept.

And while they sat crying Ictinike, who had painted his face with clay, disguising himself, entered the lodge. "Strange! what cause have you for crying?" "Oh, grandfather! Ictinike came and told us about plums, and when we went to pick them we left the child here in the cradle; but he ate it and departed, after putting the head back in the cradle and wrapping the head-covering around it." "Really!" said he, "let me see; hand me the ax, I must pursue him." They gave him the ax and he departed, running very rapidly. He ran till he reached a very dense forest, where he sought for some wood mice. Passing the butt-end of the ax along a decayed log in which were some wood mice, he killed the mice and covered the ax with blood. He took the ax streaming with blood back to the lodge, and when he entered he said, "I killed him and I have now returned." "Oh! grandfather," said the women, "was not the place where you found him near here?" "Not at all! it is very far, but I overtook him by going very rapidly." This myth explains the cause of the gray down (?) on ripe plums: Ictinike was the cause of it.

In the myth of Ictínike, the women, and child, ugigḫa^{n'} is used instead of ugḫa^{n'} or uigḫa^{n'}, to describe Ictínike's act, though he had not yet eaten the child.

TRANSLATION.

Ictínike was journeying. When he came in sight at a bend of a stream, a Big Turtle was sitting there in a sheltered place warmed by the sun. Ictínike drew himself back out of sight, crouching at intervals as he retraced his steps, and ran down the hill to the place where the Big Turtle was. "Why! how is that you continue to pay no attention to what is going on? It has been said that yonder stream is to dry up, so all the quadrupeds that frequent the water have kept close to the (deep?) water," said Ictínike. And the Big Turtle said, "Why! I have been coming here regularly, but I have not heard anything at all. I usually come and sit in this place when the sun gets as high as it is at present." "Hurry!" said Ictínike, "for some of the young men died very soon for want of water. The young otters died, so did the young muskrats, the young beavers, and the young raccoons."

"Come, let us go," said the Big Turtle. So Ictínike departed with him. As he accompanied him, Ictínike sought for a dry bone. Having found one that would be good as a club, Ictínike said, "Friend, go on. Mingam." When he was alone, Ictínike seized the bone, and soon overtook the Big Turtle, walking beside him.

"Friend," said he, "when a person walks, he stretches his neck often." So the Big Turtle began to stretch his neck very far, and he was walking with his legs bent exceedingly. As he was going thus, Ictinike gave him a hard blow on the neck, knocking him senseless, and he did not stop beating him until he killed him. "Ha! ha!" said Ictinike, as he carried the body away, "there are some days when I act thus for myself." He kindled a fire and began to roast the Big Turtle. Notwithstanding his desire to feast on the Big Turtle, he became sleepy, and said, "Ho! I will sleep, but you, O 'Ijaⁿxe,' must keep awake. When you are cooked, O, Big Turtle, you must say 'Puff!'" So he went to sleep. Then the Coyote was coming very cautiously. He seized the Turtle, pulled one of the legs out of the coals, and sat there biting off the meat. When he had devoured the meat on all the limbs, he pushed the bones back into their former places, arranged the fire over them, and departed after putting every thing just as he had found it. At length Ictinike awoke. He pushed into the ashes to find the Turtle, took hold of one limb and pulled it, when to his surprise only that limb came forth. "Pshaw!" said he. Then he tried another limb, with a like result, and still another, but only the bones appeared. When he had pulled out the fourth leg he was astonished. "Surprising! O 'Ijaⁿxe,' I said to you, 'do not sleep,' but you have disobeyed me." Thereupon he scratched "Ijaⁿxe," but the latter fled often. "Do not flee," said Ictinike. All at once he exclaimed, "Surprising! I had eaten the Turtle, but I had forgotten it!"

TRANSLATION.

The Coyote was going in a straight line across the prairie. While he was seeking something a person said very suddenly, "Stop!" The Coyote thought, "Who can it be?" He looked all around, but found no one. Then he went a few steps, when some one said, "Walk around me!" Then the Coyote saw that it was the Snake. "Fie!" said the Coyote, "when I walk here I do not wish to walk around any one at all. Do you go to one side. Get out of my way!" The Snake replied, "Though I am here, I have never thought for a moment of giving place to any one!" "Even if you think so," said the Coyote, "I will run over you." "If you do so, you shall die," said the Snake. "Why should I die? There is nothing that can kill me," said the Coyote. "Come! Step over me! Do it in spite of me," said the Snake. Then the Coyote stepped over him. And the Snake bit him. But the Coyote did not feel the slightest pain. "Where is it? You said that if I stepped over you I should die.

Where have I received my death-blow?" said the Coyote. As the Snake made no reply, the Coyote departed. After sometime he came to a creek. As he was about to take a drink he looked at the water, and he saw his reflection in the water. He appeared very fat. "Whew! I was never so before. I am very fat!" Saying this, he felt himself all over again and again; but that was all which he did. He departed after drinking the water. By and by he said, "I feel very sleepy." So he pushed his way into the thick grass and lay there. He died while sleeping, never awaking, and he was much swollen.

TRANSLATION.

Once upon a time a Snake lay across a road, at right angles to it. The Coyote came, and said to him, "Why! Snake, lie further off! If I step over you, you shall die." To this the Snake replied, "Though the path is just this size (i. e., not large enough for both of us), you are the one, not I, to pass the other to one side!" "Whew!" said the Coyote, "do as I said, lie further off!" "It is you, not I, who must pass further from the path," said the Snake. "Well," said the Coyote, "I will step over you, and you shall die." "No," said the Snake, "when a person steps over me, he usually dies." "Yes, I will die. Let us see which one of us has told the truth," said the Coyote. When he stepped suddenly over the Snake, the latter bit him on the leg or foot. "Ho," said the Coyote to the Snake, "you shall die, as I have stepped over you." "You shall die," said the Snake. Then the Coyote departed. And as he went he said, "Whew! my body never was in this condition heretofore. I am very fat!" He stretched his neck as far as he could, looked at his back, and examined himself all over. Notwithstanding his condition, he gave the scalp-yell often. When he found himself gaping incessantly, with his mouth wide open, he said, "Whew! the Snake told the truth!" At length his entire body was swollen so much so that the skin was tight on him, and the tip of his nose was puffed up. "The Snake told the truth!" said he again. He seated himself at a sheltered place warmed by the sun, coiled himself as far as possible as a snake does, fell into a sound sleep, from which he never awoke. Thus he died. And on account of this event, when the snakes bite any quadrupeds, the entire bodies of the latter swell, and the animals die.

TRANSLATION.

A Gray Fox was very fat. The Coyote said, "Younger brother, what has made you fat?" "Elder brother," said the Gray Fox, "I lie down in the way of those who transport crackers, and I pretend to be dead. And when they throw me into the wagon I lie there, kicking the crackers out. Then I leap out and start home eating. It is the crackers which have made me fat. And, elder brother, I wish you to do likewise. You, elder brother, have large feet, so I think that you will knock out a great many crackers." And then the Coyote went to the place and lay down in the road. And when the white man came along he threw the Coyote into the wagon. The white man thought thus: "It is not the first time that he has acted thus!" So he tied the feet of the Coyote. Having put the Coyote in the wagon, the white man went to his home. He threw out the Coyote by a miserable outhouse. Then the white man brought a knife and cut the cords which bound the feet of the Coyote (he did not cut off the feet, he severed only the cords with which they were tied). He thought that (or acted as if) the Coyote was dead, so he put the Coyote on his back and started off to the house. (But the Coyote managed to get loose, and) he ran homeward. He went back to attack the Gray Fox. "O, younger brother," said the Coyote, "you have made me suffer." "You yourself are to blame! Be silent and come to me!" said the Gray Fox. "You brought the trouble on yourself as you lay down in the place where the white man came with the load of goods." "O younger brother, you tell the truth", said the Coyote. The Gray Fox had tempted him.

TRANSLATION.

At the first the quadrupeds were made fat. And he who made them wished to know to which one the fat was becoming. So he called all the quadrupeds. And they collected there. He seized by the head each quadruped to whom the fat was not becoming, scraping off the fat from the neck downward, thus depriving the quadruped of it before releasing him. At length some one took the Rabbit to him. "I will be the one! Fat will become me," said the Rabbit. "Let us see! Come!" said he who made the quadrupeds. And he made the Rabbit fat. "Fat is more unbecoming to you than to any other quadruped," said the being. So the being seized the Rabbit by the head and scraped off the fat from the base of the neck. But he pulled suddenly at the flesh in the space between the shoulders. Therefore, since then there has been a depression in the space between the shoulders of a rabbit, and only in that place is there a piece of fat adhering to that quadruped. At length the person saw that the Raccoon was the only quadruped to whom fat was becoming, so he made the whole body of the Raccoon fat.

TRANSLATION.

When the Rabbit was journeying, he reached a certain village. The people said, "The Rabbit has come as a visitor, halloo!" On meeting him they said, "Whom did you come to see?" "Why, I will go to the lodge of any person," said the Rabbit. "Why! the people have nothing to eat. Jaqtigikidabi is the only one who has plenty of food. You ought to go to his lodge," said they. Still the Rabbit passed on to the end lodge and entered it. The host said, "Friend, we have nothing whatever to eat." "Why! my friend, when there is nothing, the people usually eat anything (that they can get)," said the Rabbit.

At length Jaqtigikidabi invited the Rabbit to a feast. "Oho! friend, you are invited! Hasten!" said the man whose lodge the Rabbit had entered. All the people were afraid of the Giant. No matter what animal any one killed, the Giant kept all of the meat. The Rabbit arrived at the lodge of the Giant. As he entered the host said, "Oho! pass around to that side." But the Rabbit leaped over and took a seat. At length food was given him. He ate at it very rapidly, but he left some (which he hid in his robe). Then he pushed the bowl aside. "Friend," said he to the Giant, "here is the bowl." Then he said, "Friend, I must go." He leaped past the fire-place at one leap, at the second leap his feet touched the servant of the Giant on the chest, and with another leap he had gone.

When he had reached the lodge, he gave to his host the food which he had not eaten. The man and his wife were very glad to eat it, as they had been without food.

The next morning the crier passed through the village, commanding the people to be stirring. And they said, "Jaqtigikidabi is the one for whom they are to kill the game." So they went hunting. They scared some animals out of a dense forest, and thus they shot at them. The Rabbit went thither very quickly. But he found that the Giant had anticipated him, having taken all the game as he departed. When the Rabbit heard the shooting in another place, he went thither immediately, but again he found that the Giant had anticipated him. "This is provoking!" thought the Rabbit. When some persons shot at the game in another place, the Rabbit noticed it and went thither immediately, arriving there in advance of the Giant. "Friend," said he to the man who had killed the deer, "let us cut it up!" But the man was unwilling, saying, "No, friend, Jaqtigikidabi will come by and by." "Fie! friend, when one kills animals he cuts them up and then makes an equal distribution of the pieces," said the Rabbit. Still the man refused, as he feared the Giant. So the Rabbit rushed forward and grasped the deer by the feet.

When he had slit the skin the Giant arrived. "You have done wrong! Let it alone!" said he. "What have I done wrong?" said the Rabbit. "When one kills game, he cuts it up and makes an equal distribution of the pieces." "Let it alone, I say," said the Giant. But the Rabbit continued to insert the knife in the meat. "I will blow that thing into the air," said the Giant. "Blow me into the air! Blow me into the air!" said the Rabbit. So the Giant went closer to him, and when he blew at him the Rabbit went up into the air with his fur blown apart. Striding on, the Giant seized the deer, put it through his belt, and departed. That was his custom: he used to suspend all the deer that were slain by his belt and take them to his lodge. He was a very tall person. At night the Rabbit wandered about, and finally went all round the Giant's lodge. He seized an insect (louse) and said to it, "O, insect, you shall go and bite him right in the side." At length, when it was morning, it was said that the Giant was ill. His side itched him. And as he continued to scratch there, he made a hole in his flesh, and died. And the people said, "Make a village for the Rabbit!" But the Rabbit said, "I do not wish to be chief. I left my poor old woman by herself, so I will return to her."

NOTES.

See Susanne La Flèche's version, pp. 65-66.

578, 10 and 11, sapiqtiaⁿ and na^{n'}ji^{n'}etcēqtcí, pronounced, sa+piqtiaⁿ and na^{n'}+ji^{n'}etcē-qtcí.

579, 1 and 2, t'ea^{n'}ʔagiʔē-qtcí ja^{n'} and t'eágiʔē-qti-ma^{n'}, references uncertain; the Rabbit and his grandmother probably spoke of the catamenia, which they say originated when the Rabbit threw the blood. Otherwise the references are to the injury done to the Rabbit by the old woman's disobedience.

579, 5, bahe íʔē is used instead of bahe ʔeʔē, because the door-flap was knocked out from the Rabbit, toward the spectator, his grandmother. Náwa! is a Pawnee intj., Ho! The Rabbit was known to the Pawnees as Siʔe maka^{n'}. It is uncertain whether this was a Pawnee name, or the Pawnee pronunciation of an Omaha name. The next word, ʔecaʔu, is the Omaha notation of the Pawnee, recaru (re-sha-ru), chief. All this paragraph about the Pawnees appears to be a modern addition to the myth.

TRANSLATION.

The Rabbit was going somewhere. At length he reached a place where there were some (wild) Turkeys. "Come," said he, "I will sing dancing songs for you." Then the (wild) Turkeys went to him, saying, "Oho! The Rabbit will sing dancing songs for us!" "When I sing for you, you larger ones must go around the circle next to me. Beware lest you open your eyes! Should one of you open his eyes, your eyes shall be red," said the Rabbit. Then he sang,

"Alas for the gazer!
Eyes red! Eyes red!
Spread out your tails!
Spread out your tails!"

Wherever he found a large one, he seized it and put it in his bag. While he was acting thus one of the Turkeys opened his eyes a little, and exclaimed, "Why! he has nearly exterminated us large ones!" Off they flew with a whirring sound. The Rabbit took home those he had in the bag, saying to his grandmother, "Do not look at what is in that bag! I have brought it home on my back, and I wish you to guard it." Then he went to cut sticks to serve as spits when the Turkeys were roasted. When the old woman was alone she thought, "What could he have brought home on his back?" So she untied the bag, and when she looked in, out flew all the Turkeys, hitting their wings hard against the grass lodge, and flying out the smoke-hole. The old woman barely killed one by hitting it with her skirt. At length the Rabbit came home. "Oh! I have inflicted a severe injury on my grandchild!" said she. "Really! Grandmother, I told you not to look at it!" And then the Rabbit plucked the feathers from the Turkey. When he finished that, he dissected the Turkey, took the entrails and thrust them at his grandmother, saying, "Grandmother, take those entrails." The old woman was standing erect as she worked, and as the Rabbit thrust the entrails at her he threw some clotted blood, which hit the pudendum muliebre. "For shame! Grandmother, you have scared me nearly to death!" said he. And the old woman replied, "Oh! I have scared my grandchild nearly to death!" And she went outside the lodge and kindled a fire. Then the Rabbit said that he would invite the Pawnees to feast on the Turkey. So he went as a messenger to invite them to the feast. On his return he himself knocked the door-flap out from the lodge (towards his grandmother?), and when it fell back in place with a sudden tapping sound he called out, as if a Pawnee were speaking, "Nawa! Siçe-makaⁿ the chief!" Then the grandmother, who was outside, heard this, and she said, "Oh! how well acquainted the Pawnees are with my grandchild!"

The Rabbit lied when he said that he had invited the Pawnees, for he himself sat there in the lodge making the replies to his own words.

TRANSLATION.

All the birds were called together. To them was said, "Whichever one of you can fly furthest in the sky shall be chief." And all the birds flew to a great height. But the Wren got under the thick feathers of the Eagle and sat there as the Eagle flew. When all the birds had become weary in their wings, they flew down again; but the Eagle soared aloft. And when the Eagle had gone as far as he could, the Wren went still higher. And when all the birds had reached the ground, the Eagle returned alone after a great while. As they thought that all were there, they began to make a reckoning. Behold, the Wren was the only absentee! So they awaited his return. After a long time he returned. The Eagle had been thinking too highly of himself, being sure of the appointment; but the Wren was made the chief one.

TRANSLATION.

The Grizzly bear was going somewhere, following the course of a stream. At last he went straight toward a headland. When he got in sight a Buffalo bull was standing beneath it. The Grizzly bear retraced his steps, going again to the stream, following its course till he got beyond the headland. Then he drew near and peeped, and saw that the Buffalo bull was a scabby one, very lean, and standing with his head bowed, as if very sluggish. So the Grizzly bear crawled up close to him, made a rush, seized the Buffalo bull by the hair of his head and pulled down his head. He turned the Buffalo bull round and round, shaking him now and then, saying, "Speak! Speak! I have been frequenting this place a long time, and they say that you have threatened to fight me. Speak!" Then he hit the Buffalo bull on the nose with his open paw. "Why!" said the Buffalo bull, "I have never threatened to fight you, who have been frequenting this country so long." "Not so! you have threatened to fight me," said the Grizzly bear. Letting go the hair he went around and seized the Buffalo bull by the tail, turning him round and round. Just as he was quitting him he gave him a hard blow with his open paw on the scrotum. This made the Buffalo bull walk with his legs far apart. "Oh! Oh! Oh! Oh! Oh! you have caused me great pain," said the Buffalo bull. The bob-tailed Grizzly bear departed. The Buffalo bull thought thus: "Attack him! You too have been just that sort of a person." But the Grizzly bear knew what he thought, so he said, "Why! what are you saying?" "I said nothing," said the Buffalo bull. Then the Grizzly bear came back. He seized the Buffalo bull by the tail, pulling him round and round. Then he seized him by the horns, pulling his head round and round. "Now, when I said that you thought of doing that, you denied it," said the Grizzly bear (referring to his previous charge of threatening to attack him). Then he seized the Buffalo bull by the tail, treating him as he had done previously. He hit him with his open paw. And the Buffalo bull walked with his legs wide apart, exclaiming, "Oh! Oh! Oh! Oh! Oh! you have caused me great pain." Again the Grizzly bear departed. And the Buffalo bull soliloquized as before. But the Grizzly bear knew it, and attacked him as he had previously done. A third time did the Grizzly bear depart. But when he asked the Buffalo bull what he had been saying, the latter replied, "I said nothing of importance. I said to myself, 'Attack him! You too have been just that sort of a person.'" "Yes," said the Grizzly bear. Then the Buffalo bull stepped backward, throwing his tail into the air. "Why! do not flee," said the Grizzly bear. The Buffalo bull threw himself down, and rolled over and over. Then he continued backing, pawing the ground. "Why! I say, do not flee," said the Grizzly bear. When the Buffalo bull backed prior to attacking the Grizzly bear, the latter thought that he was scared. But the Buffalo bull approached the Grizzly bear, puffing a great deal, till he drew very near, when he rushed on him. He sent the Grizzly bear flying through the air. When the Grizzly bear was returning to the ground, the Buffalo bull caught him on his horns and threw him into the air. When the Grizzly bear fell and lay on the ground, the Buffalo bull thrust at him with his horns, just missing him, but piercing the ground. The Grizzly bear crawled off by degrees, the Buffalo bull following him step by step and thrusting at him now and then, though without piercing him. This time, instead of attacking the Buffalo bull, the Grizzly bear plunged headlong over the cliff, landing in a thicket at the foot of the headland. The Buffalo bull rushed so fast that he could not stop himself at the place where the Grizzly bear plunged over the cliff, but he continued along the edge of the cliff for some distance. And when he had thus gone, he stood with his tail partly raised (and bent downward). Then the Grizzly bear returned to the bank and peeped. "O, Buffalo bull! Let us be friends. We resemble in disposition," said the Grizzly bear.

NOTES.

This myth is a variant of “The Young Rabbit and Ictínike,” on pp. 50-57. It agrees in many particulars with a myth told by another Omaha, Richard Rush, or Mac'awakude, of the $\mathfrak{H}^n$ ze gens.

588, 1. et passim, sakib' ihé, a common but faulty rendering of sakíba íhe (F.).

588, 7. Ōnaji te, aⁿǵaⁿi ǵaⁿctí, used by old women instead of Ōnaji te, ehe ǵaⁿctí. With this use of the plural for the singular, compare the use of the singular for the plural in the letters and speeches of chiefs, in the first and second parts of this volume.

588, 14. sa! sa! archaic interjection of reproof, objection, or disputation.

588, 15. uǵade ǵiǵiṅge (fide F.) is always used in connection with a fear of some mysterious person or object, and it seems out of place here.

589, 1. wajiṅga bǵuqaṭi gǵiza-biama, he took the entire bird (in a magical way), as it was his because he killed it. But there still appeared to be a dead bird there, as is seen from the next line but one.

589, 3 and 4. Gaⁿ wajiṅga ǵiṅke aǵiⁿ agǵa-bi egaⁿ, níkagahi aka eǵiⁿ akii-biama, Ictínike aka ctí aǵiⁿ akii-biama. This to F. is full of mistakes, being poor Omaha. First, agǵa-bi implies that all the people dwelt in the chief's tent (or else that when they killed the red bird they were a great distance from the village), so we should substitute aǵa-bi. A similar objection might be urged against akii-biama or aki biama, for which ahi biama should be read. The whole sentence, according to F., should be: Gaⁿ wajiṅga ǵiṅké níkagahí ǵiṅké éǵiⁿ abí-biamá, Ictínike ctí ǵ'di aǵiⁿ abí-biamá.
 And bird the one chief the one hav- reached there, Ictínike too there hav- reached there, who who ing it they say, ing they say.
 for him

589, 8. weǵitaⁿ-tegǵe, archaic term, name for an appliance that is obsolete among the Omahas, but still in use among the Dakotas. It consists of two forked posts supporting a transverse pole, set up between the fire-place and the seat at the back of the tent. It was used for suspending the shield, saddle, bow, etc., of the owner of the tent.

589, 14. ecé used here and elsewhere by G., when géce would seem proper (before the words commanded to be spoken).

589, 14. $\mathfrak{I}^n$ e níkaciṅga, etc., not plain to F.

590, 5. ǵate te-daⁿ+, archaism for ǵate te hǎ, as is ǵate tai-edaⁿ (591, 6.) for ǵate tai hǎ.

590, 8. tiaṅa aka, the chief.

591, 13. Ictínike t'eǵǵe ǵiṅke iǵaⁿǵǵe ǵiṅke, etc. Iǵaⁿǵǵe ǵiṅke is superfluous (fide, F.).

TRANSLATION.

Once upon a time there was a village of Indians. And an old woman and her grandson, called the Orphan, dwelt in a lodge at a short distance from the village. The two were very poor, dwelling in a low tent made of grass. The grandson used to play games. One day he said, "Grandmother, make a small bow for me!" The grandmother made the bow and some arrows. The boy went to shoot birds. And after that he used to bring back many birds, putting them all around his belt. The boy became an excellent marksman, usually killing whatever game came in sight of him. About ten o'clock each morning all the people in the village used to make a great noise. At last the Orphan said, "Grandmother, why do they make such a noise?" The grandmother said, "There is a very red bird that goes there regularly, and when he alights on a very tall cottonwood tree he makes a very red glare over the whole village. So the chief has ordered the people to shoot at the bird, and whoever kills the bird can marry the chief's daughter." "Grandmother," said the Orphan, "I will go thither." "Of all places in the world that is the worst place for you to visit. They like to abuse strangers. They will abuse you. There is no reason why you should go." The boy paid no attention to her, but took his bow and went out of the lodge. "Beware lest you go," said his grandmother. "I am going away to play games," said the Orphan. But he went straight to the village. When he drew near the village, he noticed the red light all around. He also saw a great crowd of people, who were moving to and fro, shooting at the bird. The Orphan reached them. One man said, "Come, Orphan, you may shoot at it." But the Orphan continued to hesitate, as he feared the people. But the people continued to approach him, saying to the rest, "Stand off! Stand off! Let the Orphan shoot!" So the Orphan shot at the bird. And he barely missed it. Just then Ictinike shot, and sent a reed arrow beside that of the Orphan. The people said, "Oh! the Orphan came very near killing it!" But Ictinike said, "I am the one who came near killing it." When the bird flew away the people scattered, returning to their lodges. And the Orphan went home. Said he to his grandmother, "I came very near killing the bird." "Do not go again! They will abuse you. Did I not say, do not go?" said the old woman. On the morning of another day he went thither. And the people were making a great noise. And it happened as on the previous day; he was told to shoot at the bird, and he barely missed it. On the third day he met with similar bad luck. But on the fourth day he hit the bird, wounding it through and through. "Oho! the Orphan has killed it," said the people. "Nonsense!" said Ictinike, "I killed it! I killed it! You must not grumble! You must not grumble!" And as Ictinike would not let the people do as they wished, he snatched the honor of the occasion from the Orphan.

And the people came in crowds to view the spectacle, the body of the famous bird. And when the Orphan approached the spot, he pulled out a feather, so the people thought, but he really took the entire bird, and carried it home. And the chief said, "Bring my son-in-law hither!" So the people took the bird, as they imagined, that had been killed by Ictinike, and brought it and Ictinike to the chief. And Ictinike married the elder daughter of the chief, making his abode in the chief's lodge.

In the meantime the Orphan had reached home. "Grandmother," said he, "I have killed the bird." "Oh! my grandchild! Oh! my grandchild!" said she. "Grandmother, make me a 'weçitaⁿ-tegçe' between the fire-place and the seat at the back of the lodge," said the Orphan. And after she made it (the Orphan hung the red bird upon it?). And the Orphan and his grandmother had their lodge filled with a very red light. By and by the young man said, "Grandmother, make me a hide hoop." And his grandmother made the hoop for him, placing it aside to dry. But the Orphan could hardly wait for it to dry. At last it was dry. "Ho, grandmother, sit in the middle (between the fire-place and the seat at the back of the lodge?)," said he. Then the Orphan went out of the lodge and stood on the right side of the entrance. Said he, "Grandmother, you must say, O grandchild, one of the Buffalo people goes to you." And the old woman obeyed. She rolled the hoop from the lodge to the Orphan. When the hoop rolled out of the lodge, it changed suddenly into a buffalo, and the Orphan wounded it through and through, killing it near the entrance. He and his grandmother cut up the body, and his grandmother cut the entire carcass into slices for drying. At this time the people in the village had nothing to eat. The grandmother prepared a quantity of dried buffalo meat mixed with fat, and the Orphan told her to take it to the lodge of the chief, and to say, to the chief's (unmarried?) daughter, "O, daughter-in-law! your father may eat that." The old woman threw the bundle into the lodge, turned around suddenly, and went home. When the bundle was thrown into the lodge, the chief said, "Look! Look! Look!" And when one of the daughters went to look she could not see any one. (The Orphan, by his magic power, had rendered his grandmother invisible; therefore on the fourth day he said, "Grandmother, you shall be visible when you return.") And Ictinike said, "Only one old woman dwells apart from us, and she is the one." And it was so four times. When the fourth time came, the old woman carried a sack of buffalo meat on her back, and on top of the sack she carried the bird. Then said the Orphan, "Grandmother, now you shall be visible when you return." So the old woman departed. When she was very near the chief's tent, that tent began to shine with a red light. As she passed along by the lodges the people said, "Oho! we did think that the Orphan had killed the bird, but you said that Ictinike killed it. Now the Orphan's grandmother has brought it hither. To whom will she take it?" And the people stood looking. "Oho! she has carried it to the chief's lodge!" When she reached the entrance, she threw down the sack, letting it fall with a sudden thud. "Oh! daughter-in-law, your father and brothers may eat that," said she. "Look! Look! Look!" said the chief, "she has done that often!" And Ictinike said, "Only one old woman is left there, and she is the one. Who else could it be?" And they went to see. And behold it was the grandmother of the Orphan. "It is the Orphan's grandmother," said (one of the daughters). "Ho! bring my son-in-law to me," said the chief. And they took the pack which the old woman had brought and they hung it up with the bird. They placed it beside that which Ictinike had (seemingly) killed, and which had been hung up. And as they sat in the lodge it was filled with a very red glare. When they had returned with the Orphan, he married the younger daughter of the chief, making his abode in the chief's lodge. The Orphan's hair had not been combed for a long time, so it was tangled and matted. So Ictinike's wife said to her sister, "Sister, if he sits on the rug, he will make lice drop on it! Make him sit away from it! Is it possible that you do not loathe the sight of him?" The Orphan and his wife were displeased at this. When the wife wished to comb his hair, the Orphan was unwilling.

At length, one day, when the sun was approaching noon (i. e., about 10 a.m.), he and his wife left the village and went to the shore of a lake. As they sat there the Orphan said, "I am going beneath this water, but do not return to your father's lodge! Be sure to remain here, even though I am absent for some time. I will return. Examine my forehead." Now, in the middle of his forehead was a depression. He had been a poor Orphan, and was brought up accordingly, so he had been hurt in some manner, causing a scar on his forehead. Then he started to wade into the lake. He waded until only his head was above the surface, then he turned and called to his wife, "Remember what I told you. That is all!" Having said this, he plunged under the surface. His wife sat weeping, and after awhile she walked along the lake shore, weeping because he did not return. At last her eyelids became weary, and she went to sleep at the very place where they had first reached the lake. When she was sleeping very soundly her husband returned. He took hold of her and roused her. "I have returned. Arise!" On arising suddenly and looking behold, he was a very handsome man, and his hair was combed very nicely, so the woman hesitated, thinking him a stranger, and she turned away from him. "Oh fie! you like to make sport of people! I married a very poor man, who plunged beneath this water, and I have been sitting weeping while awaiting his return," said she. "Why! I am he," said her husband. Still the woman paid no attention to his words. "Why! see that place about which I said, 'Examine it!'" When the woman turned around and saw it she no longer hesitated, but embraced him suddenly and kissed him. Then the husband went to the shore, drew together a quantity of the green scum that collects on the surface of water, and made of it a robe and skirt for his wife. The Orphan had birds resembling short-eared owls over his moccasins and robe, and he had some tied to his club. Whenever he laid down the club the birds used to cry out. Late in the afternoon he and his wife departed for the village. When they arrived the people exclaimed, "Why! The wife of the Orphan has returned with a very different man. I think that the Orphan has been killed. He went off in the morning. Why! this is a very handsome man." When the Orphan reached the chief's lodge all the birds made a great noise. Then said the wife of Ictinike, "Sister, let my sister's husband sit on part of the rug." "Why, elder sister! your sister's husband might drop lice on your rug," said the younger sister as she turned up one end of the rug and threw it towards the elder sister. Whereupon Ictinike's wife began to cry, and she cried incessantly. At last her father said to Ictinike, "This world is very large, but you are known everywhere as one who possesses various kinds of knowledge. Use one of these and make my daughter stop crying."

By and by Ictinike said to the Orphan, "Younger brother, let us go to cut arrow-shafts. Let us make arrows for your wife's brother." But the Orphan did not speaking. So Ictinike addressed him again, "Younger brother, let us make arrows for your wife's brother. Let us go to cut arrow-shafts." Then the Orphan replied, "Come, elder brother, it shall be so." And Ictinike was highly delighted because the Orphan was about to go with him. When the Orphan spoke of laying aside his magic garments Ictinike objected. "Wear them at any rate! Why should you put them away?" So they departed together. When they reached the edge of a very dense forest, some wild turkeys flew off and alighted in a tree. "Oh! younger brother, shoot at them! I will eat a roasted one as I recline," said Ictinike. "No, elder brother," said the Orphan, "we are going in great haste." "Oh! younger brother, kill one for me," said Ictinike. "When my elder brother speaks about anything he has so much to say he does not stop talking!" said the Orphan, who then went towards the tree, taking his bow, in order to shoot at the turkeys. Just as he stood pulling the bow, Ictinike said in a whisper, "Let it lodge on a limb!" And when the Orphan shot he sent the arrow through the bird. "Let it lodge on a limb! Let it lodge on a limb," said Ictinike. And it fell and lodged on a limb. "Oho! younger brother! climb for me, get it and throw it down," said Ictinike. "No, elder brother, let us go on," said the Orphan. "Why! you ought not to leave your arrow as well as the bird," said Ictinike. "Go up for it and throw it down!" "Why! when my elder brother speaks about anything he has so much to say he does not stop talking!" said the Orphan. He decided to go and climb the tree. So he went to the base of the tree. "Ho! lay your garments there! If you get caught in the branches the garments will be torn," said Ictinike, referring to the magic clothing. So the Orphan stripped off his garments, placing them at the foot of the tree. As he climbed, Ictinike said in a whisper, "Let this tree shoot up high very suddenly!" As the Orphan heard him whisper, he turned his head and questioned him: "Why! elder brother, what did you say?" "I said nothing of any consequence, younger brother. I was merely saying, 'When he brings that bird back I will eat it.'" So the Orphan continued climbing. When Ictinike whispered again, the Orphan repeated his question. "I said nothing of importance," said Ictinike. "I was merely saying, 'He has nearly reached it for me.'" Then the Orphan climbed higher. Ictinike whispered again, and made a similar reply to the query of the Orphan, who began to apprehend mischief. When Ictinike whispered the fourth time the Orphan said, "Fie! elder brother, but you have been saying something!" "I said nothing of importance," said Ictinike. "I said, 'Let this tree extend to the upper world.'" And as Ictinike went around the tree he hit it at short intervals, saying, "I say, 'Let this tree shoot up high very suddenly.'" And the tree extended to the upper world. And the Orphan stood in a very narrow place between the limb of the tree and the upper world. "Alas!" said he. And he wept incessantly. His hair, too, became exceedingly tangled. At length a young Eagle went to the weeping man. "O man, what are you saying," said he. "O grandfather! O grandfather! O grandfather!" said the Orphan to the young Eagle. "Come! do say it. Tell your story," said the Eagle. "Yes, grandfather, I am one of those who left at the timber at the foot of the bluff some parts of a young male elk for you all to fly over and eat." "That is right. One of your grandfathers shall come (to rescue you)," said the Eagle. So the Eagle departed. And the Orphan stood weeping, being very sorrowful. Presently the Buzzard went to him. And when the Orphan told him of another animal, which he had left for the buzzards, he was told, "That is right. One of your grandfathers shall come (to rescue you)." Then the Buzzard departed, leaving the Orphan weeping. By and by the Crow approached. And when the Orphan told him of an animal which he had left for the crows to eat he was told that another grandfather (a crow) should come to aid him. After the departure of the Crow the Magpie came. He made a like promise and departed. Then came the promised Eagle. "O grandfather! O grandfather! O grandfather!" said the Orphan, praying to him. "Ho! Catch hold of my wings at the shoulders, and lie on my back with your legs stretched out. Beware lest you open your eyes! Lie with closed eyes," said the Eagle. So he departed, flying with the Orphan on his back, flying round and round the tree till he became very tired. Then he alighted from time to time to rest himself, and when rested he resumed his flight. Finally he left the Orphan standing on a lower limb. Then came the Buzzard, who took the Orphan on his back, after giving him directions similar to those given by the Eagle. The Buzzard flew round and round the tree, going lower and lower, alighting from time to time to rest himself, and resuming his downward flight when rested. Finally he left the Orphan standing on a lower limb. Then came the Crow, who took the Orphan still lower. But while he was on the Crow's back he opened his eyes slightly and he saw the ground emitting a yellow light. So he lay down again on the Crow's back and begged him to continue to help him. But about this time came the Magpie very suddenly. And the Magpie carried the Orphan lower and lower till they reached the ground. When they reached there the Magpie lay insensible, as he was exhausted. When the Orphan went to get his garments he found that Ictinike had departed with them, leaving his own garments at the foot of the tree.

Now, when Ictinike returned home wearing the magic garments the birds on them did not cry out at all, so Ictinike pretended that they wanted to cry out, saying, "Keep quiet! You make a great noise in people's ears!" But when the Orphan returned on the Magpie's back to the foot of the tree the birds on the garments knew about it, and they cried out with a great noise for some time, as Ictinike had on the garments. Then Ictinike exclaimed, "Do keep quiet! You make a great noise in people's ears!"

When the Orphan hunted for his quiver he found that Ictinike had taken it, leaving instead his quiver with the reed arrows. When he looked at the arrows he found among them some wooden arrows having the points cut sharp with a knife. He also found that Ictinike had left there his robe of raccoon skins. The Orphan was highly displeased, but he seized the arrows, straightened the wooden ones, and with them he killed all the animals about which he had told his deliverers. Then he started back to the village wearing the robe of raccoon skins and taking the quiver. When he drew near the village the birds knew it, and they cried out and flew a little now and then. This made Ictinike feel very proud, and he commanded the birds to keep silent.

At length the Orphan returned and entered the lodge. He sat there a while, Ictinike still wearing the magic garments. At last the Orphan said to him, "Fie! you used to wear that thing, so wear it again!" throwing to him the raccoon skin robe. And the Orphan took back his own garments. But his hair was still in great disorder. After his return nothing special happened for some time. The Orphan caused a drum to be made. Said he to his wife, "I have returned after being in a very lonely situation! Tell the venerable man (your father) that I wish all the people to dance."

And his wife told her father. And her father commanded an old man to go around among the people and proclaim all the words that the Orphan had told. So the old man went through the village as a crier or herald, saying, "He says indeed that you shall dance! He says indeed that all of you in the village, even the small children, are to dance!" The Orphan, his wife, and his grandmother, having the drum, went inside the circle (of lodges). The Orphan fastened his belt very tightly around his waist and then said to his wife, "Grasp my belt very hard. Beware lest you let it go!" Then he told his grandmother to grasp the other side (of the belt), saying, "Do not let go!"

When all the people assembled inside the circle of lodges the Orphan sat in the very middle (surrounded by the people). And when he beat the drum he made the people rise about a foot and then come to the ground again. The people were enjoying themselves when he beat the drum. When he beat it a second time he made them jump a little higher. Then said his grandmother, "Oh! grandchild! I usually dance very well." He made her jump and come down suddenly as he beat the drum, just as he had done to each of the others. When he gave the third beat he made the people jump still higher, and as they came down he beat the drum before they could touch the ground, making them leap up again. He beat the drum rapidly, sending all the people so high into the air that one could not get even a glimpse of them. And as they came down after a long time, he caused them to die one after another as they lay on the ground. He thus killed all the people by concussion, which resulted from his beating the drum.

Though the Orphan's wife and grandmother were taken up into the air at each beat of the drum, it happened that only their feet went up into the air and their heads and bodies were turned downward, because the women held him by the waist, as he had ordered them. Of all the people only three survived, Ictinike, the chief, and the chief's wife. As the chief was coming down he implored the Orphan to spare him. But the latter was inexorable, sending him up repeatedly until he grew tired of hearing the chief's entreaties. Then he let him fall to the earth and die. In like manner he caused the death of the chief's wife. Only Ictinike remained. "O younger brother! I go to you and my wife's sister! Pity ye me!" said Ictinike. But the Orphan beat the drum again and when Ictinike fell to the ground the concussion killed him.

NOTES.

Another version of this legend was published in the proceedings A. A. A. S., Ann Arbor meeting, 1885, p. 399. Ukiabi was the chief of the Hisada, a Ponka gens.

The lament of Ukiabi, as given by Jenuga zi or Yellow Buffalo, was as follows:

"Tá-ku-ḡa ha maⁿ.bḡiⁿ' ḡe á-ḡiⁿ-hé ḡa ha+a+
 Nān'-de í-sa aⁿ.ḡiṇ'-ge á-ḡiⁿ-hé ḡa ha+a+
 Tá-ku-ḡa ha maⁿ.bḡiⁿ' ḡe á-ḡiⁿ-hé-gaⁿ ḡa ha+a+
 Nān'-de í-sa-aⁿ.ḡiṇ'-ge hiⁿ'-si-ḡa ha+a+!"

It may be translated freely thus:

"I am walking to and fro!
 I find nothing which can heal my sorrow."

Ukiabi was buried in the side of a high bluff back of Fort Randall. This bluff is known to the Ponkas as "Ukiabi qai ça", Where Ukiabi was buried."

Yellow Buffalo said that his maternal uncle saw Ukiabi (!!). The face of Ukiabi was exceedingly hideous. Lumps were on his forehead, his eyes were large, and his nose, which was small and turned up at the tip, had an indentation across the ridge, which made it appear broken. It seems probable that a historical Ukiabi is here confounded with the original one, judging from the statement in the next legend about the origin of the game of plumstone shooting.

TRANSLATION.

Ukiabi was a mysterious person, exceeding all others in performing wonderful deeds. He had four sons, one of whom was grown, and the rest were small. The grown son closely resembled his father in being mysterious. He looked on his father as a rival and wished to kill him. One day the son changed himself into a yellow-tailed hawk, and flew round and round far above the clouds, very near the upper world. That day his father was reclining in the lodge. By and by the father looked all around and discovered his son in the distance. He recognized him at once, and knew that his son wished to kill him. So he said to his wife, "Old woman, çî-giçaciçe does very wrong." "Do say something else," said she. "He has no bad intention, I am sure." "You mistake, old woman, he wishes to kill me."

Then the father changed himself into a hawk, and darted through the smoke-hole of the lodge. He dashed toward his son. All day long he traversed the earth in close pursuit of his son, turning to the right or left whenever the latter did so. He chased him back to the lodge and down through the smoke-hole. The son took the shape of a plume and was lying there when the father entered. The father recognized him immediately. Then the chase was resumed; he chased him and chased him until the son went beneath the water and became a fish. Again the father detected him.

He chased him, and chased him, and chased him, till the son reached a water monster that was lying in the stream. The son rushed into the mouth of the water monster and lay concealed within his body. The father too entered the monster, driving the son out at the other end.

Again Ukiabi chased his son till he dashed down through the smoke hole. He assumed the form of a louse, but his father recognized him. No matter what form he took his father assumed the same form. Among the forms taken were those of a prairie chicken, a grizzly bear, a wild cat, and a very white swan. Finally the son became a hawk. Then he had expended all his mysterious power, and he became weary.

He tried to force his way up through the foundation of the upper world. When his body from the hips upward was through the hole in the upper world, and only that part from the hips downward remained on this side, the father trod on the os sacrum of the son, thus killing him. The pursuit had lasted throughout the night, and until half of the sun was visible above the horizon; just at that moment did he kill him. Early in the morning the people cried in the lodges. "Strange to say, Ukiabi's son is dead!" said they. And then every one went to see him.

There he lay dead! He lay flat on his back. The father took some Indian red paint and reddened the body in spots. He did not cry for some time, but sat there singing and shaking a gourd rattle. At last he concluded his song, and then he cried. First one household and then another took up the wail, until all the villagers condoled with Ukiabi. The Ponkas have thought that there never was such an exhibition of grief as that shown when the venerable Ukiabi killed his son.

TRANSLATION.

Ukiabi the venerable man had two men as his servants. He sat with them one day at sunset and said, “O friends, I wish to marry the single woman who dwells yonder (describing her residence). Both of you will go and court her for me.” But Ukiabi's wife said, “How absurd! Do speak about something else! Why should those who have pretty daughters give you one?”

“Go thither,” said Ukiabi. So the men departed. They reached the lodge where the young woman dwelt, and thus presented their request to both of them: “You have a very pretty daughter whom a man wishes to marry, so we have come to-day to speak to you about it.” The husband said nothing, but the wife spoke immediately, “Who is the man that wishes to marry her?” The two men replied, “Our friend, Ukiabi, is the person." "Fie! Go to your own lodge in the distance! He can hardly be considered a human being! I have a very pretty child, and I wish her to marry a human being. I do not wish her to marry a mysterious power." So the men departed. Meanwhile Ukiabi lay stretched out. But he arose and sat erect.—Let us return to the messengers. As they went homeward they talked together. One said, "My friend, the woman's words were bad! Let us not tell our friend about them!" But his comrade replied, "Why! He knows all. Why should we not tell about them?"

When they returned Ukiabi said, "Ho, you and your friend have come back. Tell me just what they said." So they told him. After hearing their report Ukiabi told his wife to hand him a plume. Then he blackened the face of one of his friends, put plumes all over his crown, and attached quill feathers to it here and there. He decorated the other man in like manner and made each man wear a buffalo robe with the hair outside. Then he instructed them how to act. He named a place whither they were to go. "Go to that place and make a hole for a pole." (Both servants had hoes.) "When you shall have prepared the ground sufficiently strew plumes on it and draw the figure of a man. Do not return. Remain there when you shall have completed the task. I will join you."

At the appointed time Ukiabi went to the place in question. When he was in a forest he changed himself into a wild cat. When he raised his feet the ground shook, and his steps made fire blaze up at sudden intervals. His servants were aware of his coming. "Your friend draws near," said one. He arrived. When he got there his servants said, "O friend, we completed our task long ago but you did not come." Ukiabi replied, "Well, you can go again. Leave the hoes. Take these five plum-stones to the lodge of the young woman. Stand at the entrance. Patter with the soles of your feet on the ground at the left side, by the tent-pole. Show her the plum-stones."

The servants departed. At length they reached the lodge where the girl dwelt. She came out from the lodge. They did as Ukiabi had ordered, and then they stepped backward, moving towards their home. The woman followed close after them. After walking backward for some time the two men turned around and ran homeward, closely followed by the woman. Thus the men drew the woman after them. As she went she acted as a deranged person does, tearing her skirt and pulling her hair down over her forehead. She continued acting thus till she had torn off every shred of her skirt, and she was entirely nude. At last they reached the place where they had left Ukiabi. The two men and the woman reached him. Ukiabi amicosque cum ea concubuisse, aiunt. By and by Ukiabi made one of the servants fill a kettle with water for the woman and he washed her face for her. Whereupon she regained her right mind.

Then Ukiabi addressed her thus: "Keep the plum-stones for gambling. You shall always win. You shall live many years. You shall be a very aged woman before you die. Had I wished you to die you would have died ere this; but I did not wish you to die. Your mother spoke bad words about me, and for that reason have I done this thing to you. Well, you can go home. You must start for home while it is yet dark. By the time that day is at hand all shall be well with you."

Then the woman departed. But Ukiabi took the form of a prairie hen and was the first one to start home.

TRANSLATION.

Long ago a Dakota died and his parents made a lodge for him on the bluff. In the lodge they erected a scaffold on which they laid the body. Now, there was in that village a young married man, whose father dwelt with him. And two old men visited the father, and smoked with him, talking about various things. At length the father of the young man said, "My friends, let us go to the corpse and cut off summer robes for ourselves from the tent skins." But the young man opposed this, saying, "No! Do not do so! The death of the young man was a very pitiable occurrence, and, as they had nothing else to give up for him, they erected the tent there and placed him in it that he might decay in it. Let him rest undisturbed!" In spite of his son's words the father remarked, "As he is already dead, what possible benefit can he get from the tent? We have no robes, so we wish to cut off parts of the tent skins for ourselves." Then the young man said, "Really! You have determined to have your own way! Well then! Go as you have said and we shall see what will happen!" He spoke thus by way of reproof. And the old men arose without saying a word, and went to the place where the corpse lay. When they had gone the young man said to his wife, "O wife, get my piece of white clay. I must scare one of those old men nearly to death." But the woman was unwilling, saying, "Let them alone! They have no robes. Let them cut off robes for themselves." But as the husband would not stop talking about it, the wife got the piece of white clay for him. The husband took it, and with it he whitened his whole body and even his head and face. When he had finished he went in a course parallel to that taken by the old men, and reached the corpse before they arrived. He climbed the scaffold and lay on it, thrusting his head out through the tent skins just above the door-way. At length the old men were approaching, ascending the hill and talking together in a low tone. The young man lay listening to them. At length when they had reached the lodge, the old men sat down. And the leader said, "Friends, fill your pipe. We must smoke this last time with our friend up there." And one of them said, "Yes, your friend has spoken well. That should be done." So he filled the pipe. He drew a whiff, and when the fire glowed he turned the pipe stem towards the seam of the skins above the door-way. He looked up towards the sky, saying, "Ho, friend, here is the pipe! We must smoke with you this last time. And then we will separate. Here is the pipe." As he said this he gazed above the door-way and saw the head extending from the tent in the manner that has been described. "Oh! my friends," said he, "look at this place behind you!" And when the two looked they said, "Really! friend, it is he!" And all fled. Then the young man leaped down and attacked them. Two of them fell to the ground in terror, but he did not disturb them, going on in pursuit of his father. When the old man was overtaken he fell to the ground, as he was terrified. The young man sat astride upon him, and said, "You have been very disobedient! Fill the pipe for me!" And the old man said, "Oh! my grandchild! Oh! my grandchild!" hoping that the supposed ghost would pity him. Then he filled the pipe as he lay stretched out and gave it to his son. And when the young man stopped smoking the father said, "Oh! my grandchild! Oh! my grandchild! Grandchild, pity me and let me go. We thought that we must smoke with you this last time, so we went to the place where you were. Grandchild, pity me." "If that be so, arise and extend your hands to me in entreaty," said the young man. So the old man arose and did so, saying continually, "Oh! my grandchild! Oh! my grandchild!"

It was as much as the young man could do to keep from laughing. At length he said, "Well! begone! Beware lest you come again and go around my resting-place very often! Do not visit it again." Then he let the old man go. On returning to the burial lodge he found that the two old men were still lying where they had fallen. When he approached them they slipped off with their heads covered, as they were terrified, and he let them go undisturbed. When they had departed the young man hastened home. He was the first to reach there, and after washing himself he reclined at full length. He said to his wife, "When they return, be sure not to laugh. Make an effort to restrain yourself. I came very near making them die from exhaustion." And when the old men returned the husband and wife lay as if they were asleep. But the old men did not lie down; all sat in silence, smoking together till daylight. When the young man arose in the morning the old men appeared very sorrowful. Then said he, "Give me one of the robes that you and your friends cut off and brought back. I too have no robe at all." But his father said, "Why! We went there but we did not get anything, as we were attacked. We came very near being killed." To this the son replied, "Why! I was unwilling for this to happen, so I said, 'Do not go,' but you paid no attention to me and went. But now you think differently and you weep." And when it was night the young man said, "Go again and make an attempt. Bring back a piece for me, as I have no robe at all." The old men were unwilling to go again, and they lost their patience, as he teased them so often.

TRANSLATION.

There was once a Yankton village in which was a young man who was waiting for a chance to marry. The chief had two daughters, full sisters, who were unmarried, and one son who was the youngest child. And this man who, as I have said, was waiting for a chance to marry, wished to court the sisters, and he was waiting on their account.

One night he went to their tent, which was a whitened one, and he lay down outside at the rear of the tent in order to listen to what the sisters might say. At length the sisters began a conversation. One said, "Younger sister, we shall marry the person who takes our little brother and enables him to insult our enemies." "Oho!" thought the listener. As he lay there he matured a plan. Returning home he asked his female kindred to sew moccasins. And they did it for him. The next evening, when it was too dark for persons to distinguish one another's faces, he started to seek the boy. The boy was playing, and the young man found him. When he said, "Come, younger brother," the boy went with him. The young man carried him on his back all night long, going across the prairie in a straight line. When he carried him thus he was going on the war path. He killed a buffalo bull, cut up the carcass, and cooked the fresh meat that it might serve as rations for the journey. He carried the provisions on his back, and besides them he carried the boy. When he reached a stream he seated the boy among the undergrowth and gave him some dried meat to eat. Then said he, "Do not depart! Remain here! Beware lest you peep outside of the undergrowth! I will return." Then he went as a scout. Not discovering any one at all, he returned to the boy, and spoke to him as if he were a full-grown man, "O war captain, there is no one at all. I did not find anything whatever." Then he took him on his back again, resuming his march. Late in the evening he seated the boy amidst the undergrowth and went off as a scout. At length there was some one shooting. It was a man who killed an elk. The young man wished to fetch the boy, but it was difficult, so he sat considering what to do. He crept up carefully towards the man and killed him before his presence could be detected.

Then he fetched the boy. "O war captain, I have killed a man. Hasten!" He carried the boy on his back, running to the place. On arriving there he caused the boy to tread on the dead man. Then the two started home, taking part of the scalp of the slain man. As the man started back, he thought intently of the women, "I will take a wife," and he was very glad. On returning to the place where he had first met the boy and had overheard the sisters, behold, nothing remained but a single tent and the deserted village site. All the inhabitants had removed, leaving only the one tent standing. On reaching it he noticed that small pieces of sod had been piled up against the door-way, and that but a short time had elapsed since the departure of the other inhabitants. He followed close behind the villagers, and at length saw two persons sitting on a hill. Nearing them, he saw that they were the parents of the boy whom he was carrying.

They came towards him and kissed their son and also the young man. "You have done very well, but you have injured yourself," said they. When the young man carried off the boy he did not tell any one at all what he intended doing. And when the sisters did not find the boy, their brother, they killed themselves. The boy's father said to the young man, "You should have told about it when you carried him off. You have done well, but since his sisters had only him as their real brother they loved him, and, thinking that he was either lost or dead, they killed themselves." Then the young man related every occurrence to the boy's father, telling how he had killed the man.

The father said, "Come! Let us go. It is enough. You must eat." The young man said, "Depart ye! I will join you later." So he sat there and they departed. When they had gone out of sight he retraced his steps till he reached the place where the sisters had killed themselves. He pulled down the cubes of sod that had been piled up against the entrance, and then went into the tent. There were the two women, side by side, just as they had been laid there. He went to them, forced his way in between them, and lay down. Then he killed himself.

TRANSLATION.

O ye people, if you ever accomplish anything for yourselves it will be only when you work so hard for yourselves that you pant incessantly thereafter. Do your best! Do not depend on any one else. The Mysterious Power made us all Indians in this country, but all those things which he made for our constant good have disappeared. The entire country is full of white people, so the quadrupeds which had been made by the Mysterious Power for our advantage have been exterminated, they have been shot. In the former days we went about killing the quadrupeds who had no owners, we governed ourselves, going wherever we pleased, we went about just as men should do. But now it is impossible for us to think any longer about those deeds of the past. Although we are ignorant of the customs of the white people, let us shape our course in that direction. In that case we shall prosper.

NOTES.

This was the first text of any sort dictated to the writer (in 1872). “Gray Hat” was the name given by the Ponkas to the late William Welsh, of Philadelphia. A translation of this letter appeared in the “Spirit of Missions” (of the Protestant Episcopal Church) for 1872.

629, 5. Waçage qude gçi xi, rather, Waçage qude ihe gçi xi, When Gray Hat came back by this route. Wajiⁿdaçiⁿ, Washington, in Ponka notation; but the native phrase, wajiⁿ daçiⁿ, means, foolish disposition.

630, 4 and 5. One “eskana” is enough; omit the other (i. e., either one).

630, 8. Wi naⁿxide aⁿskäqti, etc. The speaker names himself, but the true reference is to his people, the Ponka. Nearly all the personal statements should be so construed.

630, 11. Çecetaⁿ eskana aⁿctaⁿbe eg eteaⁿi ede, I think that you (pl.) should at least have seen me (i. e., should have come to see me) by this time. L. gave another reading: Çecetaⁿ eskana aⁿctaⁿbe égaⁿ etai éde, I think that you should have visited me ere this.

630, 15. For gebçegaⁿ, L. reads, kaⁿbçegaⁿ, I hope. But the other, too, makes sense.

631, 1. çeskä jaⁿ ‘iⁿ-ma, those cattle which carry yokes, i. e., oxen.

631, 4. içaniⁿia te ahaⁿ, ebçegaⁿ. L. reads, içaniⁿia éte áhaⁿ, ebçegaⁿ, I think, “I ought to live by means of it!”

Wagaⁿze in this letter refers to the missionary, i. e., the author.

TRANSLATION.

O Gray Hat, when you came hither after your visit to the tribes up the Missouri River I talked with you. (And now I talk about the same business.) I have been to the place of the President, I mean Washington. I went thither to sell my land to the President. I saw some people down the Missouri River who were just like Americans, and I noticed that when they sold their land they were rich.

The President gave me a good road. I have not found it, therefore I am poor. I am poor, I say, for that reason. I am always in darkness. I hope that I may soon come out into the day of God and his Son. O ye Americans, I hope that henceforth I may reach the light. I think that if you will help me my children will improve, thus realizing my hopes. O ye Americans, though these Dakota tribes are very bad you give them many things and they are wealthy. But my people have behaved well, they have obeyed your words (though you have not given us many things). (If) there are a great many white people along this Missouri River, I shall die poor. When you are attending to the Indians who will not behave I am obeying your words. I am ever in darkness. I think that you should at least have visited me before this time.

A missionary is here at the Ponka village. He knows about my poverty. He shall hear of the things which are difficult for me to endure. From time to time I will get him to write about those things. And when you hear his words, O ye Americans, I imagine that you will think "He tells the truth."

Those whom we have had as our agents have not been upright. I have not found any of their acts advantageous to me. I desire to have one of the truly honest persons. If you send me one of that kind and he aids me, I may improve by means of his assistance.

O Gray Hat, when I heard that you were to speak (in our behalf?) our affairs really improved a little from that time onward. I desire only what is right. I think that it is good. In future I ought to improve. Therefore I desire substantial appliances of different kinds. I desire wagons, cows, oxen, plows, scythes, spades, cross-cut saws, nails, harness, and a grist-mill. If I obtain the things which I have named, I think that I ought to improve by means of them.

The lands which I have are by no means large, therefore I desire substantial appliances of different kinds. It has been thirty-three winters since I returned home after my first visit to the President, and I have not yet had even one substantial implement. Therefore I desire them. The missionary knows what I wish to obtain. And I hope that you may do for me just as I desire. There has not been even one thing here of advantage to me. My only present dependence is the missionary.

634 THE ČEGIHA LANGUAGE—MYTHS, STORIES, AND LETTERS.

Łaqaŋga najiⁿ, now called Łenuga zi, Yellow Buffalo Bull, came to Washington in April, 1889, and furnished the author with an account of his dancing society, two legends of Ukiabi (pp. 609, 613), and other information. Betsy Dick was an Omaha doctor, mystery woman, leader of a dancing society, interpreter, etc. She spoke several Indian languages besides having a knowledge of English. From her the writer obtained several Oto myths.

633, 3. Nujiŋga č'i' i č'iŋke e aji hă. Note the use of č'iŋke, when the sentence affirms no voluntary action, but the mere fact of his being a different person. Had a voluntary action been predicated of him, the sentence would have begun thus: Nujiŋga č'i' i aka.

633, 6. nikagahi waci epai t'e. L. inserts ede before t'e: He was the chief's servant, but he is dead.

633, 7. t'e čictaⁿ gč'iⁿ, He is at the point of death, or, He is about to die.

633, 11. Nujiŋga used without aka, probably incorrectly.

TRANSLATION.

Standing Buffalo wishes to see you. He desires to see his clothing about which you told us. He wishes you to give it to him very soon. The colt which I gave you when you were here last fall, and which you took home with you, has returned. The youth who gave it to you is not the one who now has it; he did not take back the colt. He who has taken it is the Ponka, who has the colt's mother. Do not look for it as your own. The people have been nowhere. They are staying at home. We are very poor. Gaide-maⁿč'iⁿ, the chief's adherent, is dead. Smoke-maker's son, Qega-č'iqaⁿ, is about to die. I sent you a letter formerly, but no reply has come. Now I send this one to you. Standing Buffalo wishes to see you before the end of this month. When you came here in the autumn he had pity on you and gave you a horse.

All have heard about the things concerning themselves, about which you told us (i. e., promised us) when you returned to us. They did not beg these things of you. They asked you for nothing but a drum. They desire to see what belongs to them before the end of this month. My young man (Standing Buffalo) speaks of going to you. You promised to send me a letter, but it has not come. I wish to hear whether you have acquired anything. When this letter reaches you, I wish you to send me one on the day after you receive it. I desire to hear how you reached home.

TRANSLATION.

Ceki, I have your money; I took it. Three persons contended with me for it, trying to get it from me, but I did not give it to them. (I refer to) the agent, the interpreter, and Grizzly-bear's Ear. I am strong, therefore I have not given it to them. I had put away ten dollars of my money for you, but my wife's brother died, therefore I gave it away to the people. I had acquired two horses, and also domestic cows, which you told me to desire, but my wife's brother died, therefore all is gone; everything is gone! I wished you to see your own money, so I put it away. I wish to hear when the Omahas who went on the buffalo hunt reach home. When you see the letter, please send one to me on the following day, and I may hear of it (?). Enough.

NOTES.

Dr. J. A. Potter, of Yankton, South Dak., was agent among the Ponka before 1869.

636, 1. Pahañgadi . . . kageha. F. said that the words were used incorrectly, and that it was impossible to discover the meaning. G. said it was a badly constructed sentence (ukigče piäji), and that the words were "učudaⁿbe piäji," bad for one to consider. But W., an older Omaha, found the sentence a plain one. His explanation is given in the translation. For kaⁿbča, I wish, F. substituted, kaⁿbčegaⁿ, I hope.

TRANSLATION.

I have been living as a white man for six months. Formerly, when I was a wild Indian, you did not help me. At that time I had no one to teach me. But now I have the missionary, and I wish to improve. So if you are willing to make me thankful suddenly (or unexpectedly), I hope, my friend, that you will send me something or other.

I am always thinking about you. I have not known good agents. I have been always thinking about my hunger. Just now the white agent has given me one of the Ponka oxen. You are good, but he has excelled you. I refer to another agent, a very good man, who has come recently. O father, if you are pleased with what I am doing, I wish you to give me some tool or other useful appliance.

TRANSLATION.

I send you this letter for which you asked. This agent whom we now have is very good; so he continues showing to us ("to whom he belongs as agent") the things which shall be important for us. As you commanded me to hear about it, I have done so. I sent a letter to you for White Quill-feather. O Ceci, I have the money. You said, "I will return." Write to us. You said, "I will take hold of it." I desire a paper very soon, I mean a letter. We usually doubt the Omaha agent. When a letter is sent to me, I wish to hear what you intend doing. All of us have a similar desire.

Uhañge-jaⁿ, Lies at the end, or Big Snake, was a brother of Standing Bear, of the Ponka Wajaje gens. Hiram Chase was the trader at the Omaha Agency, who had taken an Omaha woman for his wife.

The classifier kě is contracted before ujawa, in this sentence, although this is not always done.

NOTES.

All the Ponkas, except Jiŋga-nudaⁿ, mentioned in this letter, were scholars of the author. Standing Buffalo was the younger man of that name.

The creek called "Cehit'aⁿ," or "Where apple trees abound", is probably Willow Creek, a tributary of the Niobrara River, Nebraska.

TRANSLATION.

Little Picker (or Grazer) fell, but he has returned alive without being struck by the Dakotas. They dashed on us again. We chased them to the head of Willow Creek (?). We overtook seven horsemen, who assaulted us. We threw ourselves to the ground, to hide, one after another (?). Knows-the-Land was brave; Big Grizzly-bear was brave and dangerous (to the foe); he survives. Standing Buffalo was brave. Standing Buffalo wounded a Dakota with an arrow when he stood very close to him. Boy Warrior was brave.

NOTES.

The letter was dictated by Heqaga-sabě in the presence of ɭaɣaŋga-najiⁿ, Ni-ane, and Miɣasi-nikagahi.

639, 1. ɣí cupí seems elliptical; perhaps it should be ɣii ɕaⁿɣa cupí (to the village I went to you) I went to your village, as he did not go to a single Omaha house to the exclusion of all others.

639, 4. waɕage appears superfluous here. Maⁿ'zě unájiⁿ refers to some present rather than to the Ponka man, Iron Shirt.

TRANSLATION.

Last autumn I went to your house(s) on the Omaha land. And you told my young men about trinkets; you heard about only an otter skin and an eagle quill-feather for me. You came to this place in the early fall. All the young men have heard of their hatchet-pipe of which you told them. You promised to give us an iron shirt (sic), a head-dress of eagle tail feathers, a buffalo robe smoked dark, moccasins, and metal armlets. You told them about it; we did not beg of you at all. Of your own mind you promised to give them to us. We have thought, "At last after much delay he may have acquired them;" but what you told them about is not so at all.

TRANSLATION.

When I was with you last autumn you made very good words for me. O father, send me a decision in whatever way it may be very honest. I wish to go to you to-day, but I am sick. And these Dakotas also are abusing us, therefore I do not go to you on account of my fear of some unseen danger. I wish to go to see you next autumn. I left one of my colts there (with the Omahas). I desire you to induce the Ponkas who are with you to bring it back for me. I wish the Orphan to promise to give me a pipe. Tell him about it. You have not caused me to hear about even one of the things about which you told me (i. e., you have not sent word about their coming). Two men asked just one thing of you; they begged a drum of you.

They desire it on this very day, but you have failed, so you need not think of it any longer. They do not wish you to give them anything. You have not spoken true words. We have a box, therefore they have no further desire for one (from you). You are (as) a woman, but you speak very great words! They are waiting very anxiously for what was promised. You told them about the trinkets, so they promised to go to see you; but now that you have failed (to send them) they speak of not going to you. Enough.

NOTE.

641, 2. aⁿ'iäji (the 3d sing.) should be aⁿ'i-baji, in the plural, to agree with the pl. subj. the chiefs.

TRANSLATION.

I tell you what is difficult for me to bear. The principal Ponka chiefs, Grizzly-bear that-starts-the-game-from-the-thicket, Striped-horse (Zebra), Black Crow, Bird-chief, and The Chief, have not given me a wagon; this is very hard for me. Just now, Major, I wish you yourself of your own will to give me a wagon. You do not desire the Ponka chiefs to make the decision; I wish you alone to decide and give (the wagon) to them. I think, Major, that there will be trouble in the tribe if all the chiefs who are here, after thinking of the matter, do not give me a wagon. Yet I have done nothing wrong. They promised to give the wagons to the young men, but I was unwilling. There are probably two wagons which will belong to Standing Bear's gens, and I suppose that the second one may be mine. Try to help me!

NOTES.

This Frank La Flèche is the younger brother of Joseph La Flèche of the Omaha tribe. Frank is a chief of the Ponka half-breed "band." His daughter Susanne is the wife of Makata. She and her husband were at the Quapaw Reservation, Indian Territory, when this letter was written.

The author was present at the interviews with the President and other officials, as a check on the interpreters, whom he corrected once or twice.

642, 9. ieskă. This interpreter was Baptiste Barnaby, who was not a Ponka. He was fond of liquor; so the agent brought the chief of police, Big Snake or Uhañge jaⁿ, to watch him and keep him sober. Big Snake did his work well.

TRANSLATION.

I think that we shall fail to obtain the land which we desire for ourselves (i. e., the old reservation in Todd County, Dakota). We shall now ask for the Omaha Reservation (as our home). Up to this time we have not mentioned the damages at all (but we shall do so hereafter).

We have no sickness whatever. If there is a total failure (to get either our old land or the Omaha Reservation), we will speak of the damages (or pay). They have said to us, "You can seek a land for yourselves in the Indian Territory." We have not yet expressed a wish to go where they have said. Now, you and your husband must attend to the horses. I send you all that I have to tell you for some time. The interpreter is bad; he drank whisky as soon as we brought him here.

NOTES.

The sender of this letter was a member of the "chiefs' party" in the Omaha tribe. Čákučú-čakitáwe, or "Sun" was a Pawnee.

645, 2. Susi, said to mean the late Joseph La Flèche; but its derivation was not explained. Júwagčai (instead of Jugčai, they are with him) shows that the speaker regarded La Flèche as inferior to the forty men.

645, 13. E., said by F. to be unnecessary here. G. gave, as an equivalent to the last sentence but one, Éskana cupí égaⁿ xí, čáⁿ'be xí, učí'čáⁿbe etégaⁿ há, Oh! if I could only go to you and see it, I might examine it.

TRANSLATION.

That letter goes to you. At any rate, as I think of you (pl.), letters shall be reaching you regularly. Just about this time I am thinking how you are getting along. And I wish to hear from you again. The Omahas do not receive any more money annuities. They used to receive money at different periods in the past; but now they do not receive it, as (the white people) do not give it to us at all. Therefore you will not have your way about the money for which you asked; as they continue to give us none, you can not have your way. I said that I had plenty of wheat, and so it continues. I sowed a large piece of land in wheat, and I have two hundred bushels. I long for you to be here when wheat and other kinds of food abound. I also have plenty of corn. I have plenty of Irish potatoes. I have all the (fruits or) vegetables of the white men. I have an abundance of whatever I have. Formerly I hated the Omaha chiefs. But now the people are prospering, and I do not hate the chiefs. I adhere to the chiefs' side, going in and out among them, and attending the feasts, so I am prospering. The chieftainship is good, and if I should hate them I might do wrong. The chiefs have said to me, "You ought to do something for a poor man if you see one in that condition. When a man desires something, and is poor, do you aid him." Therefore I pity the poor man now. All the horses which I had have been expended, as I have been making presents regularly to various poor men. And only those horses remain which draw my wagon. I hope that I shall see you. Now I am without any horse beside them (the wagon horses).

The Omahas wish to live as white men. La Flèche and forty men (who side) with him desire to live as white men. All the Omahas are unwilling. All the young men prize their chiefs. We hate those who live as white men. The chiefs and those who do not live as white men will be coming to you this year. If you see one of those who live as white men, you should not give him anything, for those who live as white men desire to abandon the life as Indians. But I do not wish to throw away from myself the Indian way. My sister came very near dying from illness. But now she is convalescent. I have not yet been there to see her, as I have been very busy attending to my work. Her son has been coming regularly to tell me how she is. I am progressing with the raising of many small vegetables, and I fear lest they should be stolen; therefore I have not been going thither. I keep at my work very close to the house. I am far from the land (where you are now), therefore I have not been there. I hope that you may cultivate a large tract of the land (in which you now dwell). When I go to see you, I will be apt to examine it to see whether you cultivate it extensively.

I desire to marry a Pawnee woman.

The Winnebago agent was Howard White. Two Crows, or χ axe čaⁿba, is a leading man of the Omaha Hañga gens.

647, 1. níkaciⁿga čičiŋa, Henry Rice, a half-breed Winnebago, who had learned where two of the stolen horses were secreted.

TRANSLATION.

You who are the Winnebago agent, one of your Indians has gone back to you after talking with me. He is one who knew two of my horses which I have lost, and as he found out about them; he spoke to me on the subject. And at length he called to me (to go to the Winnebago Agency) and promised to join me in speaking about the matter if I went to (see) you. It is he who knows the Winnebago Indians that are the thieves; but since I have no interpreter I am not going to see you, so I send you a letter. But I hope that you will summon him and question him very particularly. He is (Henry) Rice. I hope that I may hear (what he says), if he tells you a straight story. If it be just so, send a letter to the Omaha agent.

TRANSLATION.

Your mother's brother, who went to visit Spotted Tail, sends this letter to you. Send me word to what land Spotted Tail has removed. From time to time do I think how I shook hands with him. I also remember how he invited me to visit him. I desire to hear truly in what sort of land he is dwelling. I am very sick; we Omahas have much sickness among us. I have lost by death a young man whom I regarded as very stout-hearted. Therefore I am grieved. I am very sad. His name was Heqaga-jiñga.

TRANSLATION.

Return! Your elder brother, Blackbird, has eight stacks of wheat. And I have four stacks. When you hear it you ought to be glad. My heart is made sad by your leading such a solitary life. Your going was bad for me. I wish you to send me word very soon, some time before the cold weather, how the Otos are progressing. I wish you to come back before the winter comes. An Omaha, Little Elk, has died. You will hear that. And my wife is sick. I am apprehensive about your going to the Ponkas. I hope that you may not go. By Sunday the threshers will have returned to this place. Your elder brother made twenty wagon-loads of hay, which he has in his barn. He has done very well with the barn. When you receive the letter which I send you, and look at it, give me one in return. Tell me how you are getting along. I wish to hear it.

NOTES.

652, 4. Ačabahu, evidently Ma^{n'}tcu-na^{n'}ba's notation of Arapaho, the real name of the latter being Maqpiyato, given in the text as Maqpiyaqu. This last is the Omaha and Ponka notation of the tribal name.

652, 8. ta^{n'}wa^{n'}gča^{n'} deča^{n'}ba, the seven villages or peoples of the Teton Dakota may be intended, rather than the Otceti cakowi^{n'} or Seven Council-fires, i. e., the whole Dakota nation. Mikooji, the Omaha notation of Mikooju or Minneconjou, is one of the seven Teton divisions.

652, 9. For "Wača^{n'}be" read "Wača^{n'}be tědi," when I saw them.

654, 7. The name Ma^{n'}tcu-na^{n'}ba is supplied by the author in order to complete the sense. It was understood by the senders of the letter.

TRANSLATION.

Though I sent you letters at various times, you have never sent me any. I am sad when I behold the Indian land which you abandoned when you went away. I hope that you have pitied my two Omaha young men whom you have kept. I wish to hear a very good account of them. You are on good terms with the neighboring tribes, the Arapahos, Comanches, Cheyennes, Kansas, Osages, Quapaws, and Ponkas; therefore you forget me. And I, for my part, am thinking about you very often. I, too, have just seen some nations. I have seen the tribe of Spotted Tail, the Seven Nations.

When I saw them the Dakotas gave to my Indians eighty-seven horses. I, the principal one, for my part, gave to Spotted Tail the horse on which I had ridden to him. I gave to the principal Minneconjou chief a very good robe which I took there. I was there without their doing anything at all for me in return. Spotted Tail said to me, "When the question of my land is fully settled you may see me." I gave to them all the clothing, the shirts which I wore. I gave them the leggins and moccasins too. I gave them everything.

And now with reference to your own condition, send me word how you are getting along, whether you are doing well. I desire to hear from you. And I wish to hear how many of the Pawnee chiefs have died. I also wish to hear how many of the stout-hearted young men and policemen have died.

And I wish to hear how you are succeeding with your food, what you have done towards raising a crop of corn. And with reference to the buffalo which you eat, I wish to hear whether the buffalo which you eat are close by (your land).

I will tell you one of my deeds. I have made a little food for myself. I have acquired 3,000 bushels of wheat; what I have acquired is difficult to be counted. And so it is with the corn. And as to the vegetables of the white people, apples, turnips, onions, parsnips, potatoes, large grapes, cherries, in fact, all the small vegetables (and fruits) of the white people have I brought to perfection. I have raised them. And these white people have told me to make another attempt. They say, "Do not be lazy."

I have lost two very stout-hearted men. Pawnee Chief's son, Little Elk, is dead.

We prized Brave and the young man just named, above all others, yet both died. We people are sad. Cause both of the Omaha young men who are with you to hear about (the deaths of) these two. Both must hear about (the deaths of) their kinsmen. Tell the young Omahas!

I have pulverized (made fallow) the whole Omaha land which you know. Just one thing is hard for me. I have few domestic animals, cows, hogs, chickens. When you get the letter, return a similar one very quickly. Send back many words to me. Even though I have been wishing to go to you, I have been always failing to accomplish my desire. It is hard for me. Yet I attend to the land, therefore I am ever unable to go to see you. Throughout the winter have I wished to see you, but if I can not visit you, you shall hear from me again.

These Omahas are very sick to-day; two stout-hearted men have died. Children and women also have died. Therefore I send a letter to you that you may hear of the sickness. I have written enough to you. Brave died on Thursday. (Maⁿteu-naⁿba's) younger brother, Little Star, writes with him.

NOTES.

The writer, Pidaiga, belongs to the Omaha Ůeda-it'ajĩ sub-gens of the Čatada gens. He and other Omahas owe Mr. Heron some money. They ask in this letter what he intends doing about the hides which they had tanned for him. Will he credit them for the hides, and so allow them to cancel part of their debt?

655, 4. qeha-nasage, to be distinguished from qaha-nuxa, a green hide.

TRANSLATION.

My friend, I send you a very few words in writing. These young men with whom I visited you have thought from time to time of what they owe you, but so far they have utterly failed to pay their debt. And I am sad because they have given you nothing for a long time.

These young men wish to hear about the four buffalo hides which you hired them to tan when we were with you. Send word hither whether you will cancel part of the debt with (this work on) them, and how you propose doing. And I, too, wish to hear how you will allow for the four hides which you hired them to tan. Send and tell me just how it is. Now, I am apt to reach your land, that is, if the agent is willing for me to go I will come to you. I have sent you enough in writing. You (will please) send a letter back very quickly.

I send a letter for you. I am very sorrowful. My younger brother is dead; therefore I send you a letter. Tell it to my friend Wagiaⁿ-maⁿžě. When you saw me formerly I was doing very well, but it is not so (now). The six horses which you gave us are wanting; they have been given away. On my return from visiting you they came to dance; (but) we had no horses at all! I wish you to hear it. Your younger brother is very destitute of horses! I send to tell you a very bad thing: when any of us are sick for four days the sick ones usually die. Thus many persons have died. I wish to hear about your children. I wish to hear about your elder brothers also, how they are.

TRANSLATION.

My father, on this very day I experience trouble. O father, I can come to no decision whatever. During this present week he whom we called "Fourth son" has died; his name was Wacuce. Tell Mawataⁿna. Furthermore, father, a most excellent young man, Little Elk, is dead. We have much sickness in the nation at present, and so there is nothing to be done. Father, we do not understand the letter which Hełiaka mani has sent, as it is written in the Indian language. The Omahas understand about one-half of the words, but they wish to hear your words. (The reader) did not know many of the words, therefore I send a letter to you to question you. We wish to hear what he means.

O father, pity the Omaha people again. Come to a good decision in their behalf. O father, though I have no father of my own, I am benefited by your being alive. As you have (already?) pitied the Omahas, I say that which I think concerning the nation.

NOTES.

659, 5. čĩnke, superfluous (fide F.), but given by the chief, who is one of the aged men, and an orator. Perhaps there have been some changes in the language within the past ten years. F. and G. are young men.

659, 7. dudañgačĩⁿ, contr. of duda añgačĩⁿ.

659, 8. Ceđataⁿ, etc. F. at first accepted this reading, having inserted the commas after "agčĩ" and "wačaⁿi-ma." Subsequently he gave the following reading: Ceđataⁿ cañ'ge wáčĩⁿ agčĩi-ma, wačá'ii-ma, bčúga wémaⁿčaⁿi hă Húñga amá, The Winnebago have stolen from us all the horses which you gave us, and which we brought back from yonder place where you are. But G. says that Maⁿteu naⁿba used "iⁿmaⁿ-čaⁿi," as he spoke as a chief, regarding his people's horses as his own.

659, 9. Wakega tčě, etc. F. and G. read, Wakéga tčě' aⁿčictaⁿ ctěwaⁿ májĩ hă, ádaⁿ daⁿqti iⁿpimájĩ hă, The sickness has not stopped on me at all, therefore I am much sadder than I have ever been.

659, 12. bčě tate, etc. As Maⁿteu naⁿba spoke for his tribe, this sentence would be, if expressed in ordinary language, Éde añgáčě taité aⁿčaⁿ'bahaⁿ-bájĩ hă, wawákega aⁿnájiⁿi égaⁿ, in the 1st. pers. pl.

TRANSLATION.

O Walking Elk and Running Buffalo, I have received and read the letter which has come. And I send this letter to you. I can not come to any decision. Many persons are dead, including women and children. Two very stout-hearted men have died, so I am crying incessantly. Wacuce (or, Brave), the mother's brother of your Mawataⁿna, and the one who has been the keeper of the sacred pipes, is dead. The other dead man was named Little Elk. I regarded them as very stout-hearted men, but they are dead. You ought to know one of them, Little Elk. When we dwelt on this side of (Omaha Creek?) you brought a horse to give to him. It was a dun horse. The Winnebagos have stolen from me all the horses which the Omahas received from you and brought back to yonder place(?). The sickness has not yet stopped its violence among my people in the least degree, therefore I am much sadder than I have ever been. Even while I sit talking thus many persons have been lost to me by death, therefore I am sad. And my relations, the Ponkas, have sent here to invite us to visit them, but we do not know whether we shall go or not, because we still have sickness among us. I wish to hear what plans have been made by those real Dakotas, who are under Spotted Tail. I have received no money, as the white people have given me none. I am very poor because the horses have been expended, so I send you a letter by some one, I send you a very few words by some one.

TRANSLATION.

I am glad to hear such a full account of you. My child and my wife generally think of you. Just as this letter starts to you five of the most stout-hearted men among us have died. We have succeeded in all that we have undertaken. We have done well, too, with the wheat which we sowed. Now from this time forward I think that I shall remember all of your kindred from time to time. I think that I shall go that way. I think that I shall go to the Otos. I think that in two weeks some of the Omahas shall depart. We have three kinds of sickness among us (?). The sick ones usually die when they have been ill not more than a week. How are those people on the other side of the Missouri River? I wish to hear about them, that is, the people in Spotted Tail's village.

NOTES.

Lion was the keeper of the sacred pipe in the ḡaḥa gens. He was the friend of Battiste Deroín and Ckaḥe-yíñe. Battiste is the Oto half-breed interpreter.

663, 4. ekita^{n'}ha refers here to both tribes, Omahas and Otos. There had been much sickness in each tribe, and when both should recover the Omahas intended visiting the Otos.

TRANSLATION.

My friend, I send to you to speak to you. My friend, I wish to see you, but I am sick. When I recover I will come and visit you. (Note by author.—This may be intended for the whole tribe, instead of the speaker alone.) And now the Omahas are speaking of going to you before I do. I am unwilling for them to speak of going to you. We have many sick among us, and you, too, have sickness. When both you and we recover, we shall all come together to see you. We shall delay, as they have not finished threshing the wheat. When they finish it, we will come to you. I am sad because you and we too are losing our people by sickness. When you receive this letter send me back one like it very soon. I do not wish the Omahas and the letter to miss (or pass) one another on the way when the former go to you. I desire you to send word hither, saying, "Stop on the way and wait for a letter!" I refer to all the Omahas. I do not wish them to anticipate me in going to you. At some future day we (will) all go together to visit you.

Please send and tell me how it is; I wish to hear the exact state of affairs. When you get this letter send me one very soon. Tell me about the sickness of your children, Battiste; I wish to hear about them. I am still dwelling very pleasantly among the Omahas, and I am attending feasts from time to time. I wish to hear whether the Otos went to the Pottawatomis. I wish to hear whether they went or stayed at home. If you send hither and say anything, I will return to you. I still wish to return to you, but it is difficult. If it is (still) difficult, I will not return to you (now). If you send and tell me the truth, and all is well, I will go back to you. I wish to hear about those lodges beyond (your village?), whether they went or not. I wish to hear whether White Horse (the Oto chief) spoke of going to the Ponkas. If he wishes to go to the Ponkas, send me a letter.

666, 2 and 3. F. inserts "č^{n'}" and omits "caⁿ," though the latter is thus used by many Omahas.

666, 3. Egaⁿ ǵědi, meaning conjectural: perhaps he expected to get the clothing for himself at different times. F. renders it "then."

TRANSLATION.

The letter which I sent you by some one has not been answered, but my brother-in-law has died, and I send this letter to you because I think that you will (thus) hear it. I regard you as a person just like him, but my sister's husband has died. His children have no one to look after them, therefore it is impossible for me to go to you. I told you heretofore that those in the household were not sick; but now every one is sick. The rest of the people have not yet recovered at all: they usually die in five days. The sickness is bad. Formerly I was very glad, but now I am sorrowful. Though I said in the past that I would go to you, I will not go (now).

When the letter reaches you, send me back one very soon, as I am very anxious to hear from you. Some of the very best men have died. Many very kind men with whom I went have died. I continue very sad all the time. They continue to give us no money. And therefore you have not been seeing even one dollar (of our money?). I had clothing, but my sister's husband died, and there is none (left)—all is gone. Indeed, I have not even any trinkets. Throughout this year and even throughout next winter I will desire clothing for myself. When I shall have acquired (these garments) at different times in the future (?), I may see you. I send the letter to a Ponka as well as to you. He is the Ponka who has sent me one. He is the Ponka who has sent me a letter. He is a Ponka chief, Standing Bear, whom I regard as my friend.

TRANSLATION.

I, for my part, O Big Spotted Horse, have sent a letter to you and your elder brother (Ciŋŋitawe?). I dwell a very poor man in this country in which you left me. I wish to see you to-day, (but) I send you a letter at any rate (though I can not say when I may come). And while I myself am at least doing well and I am prospering in what I have been doing for myself, to-day all of the wheat which belonged to six persons, including myself, and all which I had put into a heap, was consumed by fire.

NOTES.

669, 1. Čutaⁿqti uwibč^a, etc. Given just as dictated. The author is sure of this. But the sentence is reconstructed thus by F.: Iⁿteaⁿ wikage megaⁿ, čutaⁿqti uwibč^a cuč^ač^ai hă. This accords with the general usage, as observed in the epistles collected by the author.

The two Yanktons, Heqaka-mani and Tatañka-iⁿyañke, had written to say that they were coming to visit the Omahas.

TRANSLATION.

Just now I will send and tell you and my friend the exact truth. The nation is in a very bad condition; for three months we have been ill, and we have not yet recovered. Therefore I am unwilling for you to die (by taking the sickness from us); I do not (send this word because I) hate you. Should any of you die from the sickness you would blame me. Enough! Do not come! The sickness is continually bad! And, moreover, we have not received money; we are very poor. The Winnebagoes have made away with our horses; they have stolen them; therefore I am wishing to fight them; I am displeased at present. With reference to the (other) nations, over a hundred Ponkas have died; and the Iowas, Sacs and Foxes, Otos, and Pawnees have had much sickness among them. You know the Omaha head-chiefs. That one of them who has the name of Standing Hawk will decide; it is he who will do for you what is right. You will surely recognize Standing Hawk (by this): you gave him six horses. I have sent you enough.

TRANSLATION.

My friends, I received the letter to-day, and I send you a reply very soon. Some Indians have come to talk with me; I made them my friends and they have come. When I heard them speak to me I was very glad. Enough (about this). And now a man is dead: Iñuhabi died day before yesterday. He was my Indian, my young man. No matter who dies in the nation, I am grieved, for all are mine. And when I heard that my people had reached you, and you had given them horses, I was well pleased, my heart felt good.

I was sad when I heard formerly what you sent to tell me of the deaths in your nation. But now you have not told me of the death of even one person, therefore I feel very glad. And ho! ye chiefs, and ye young men, too, I am delighted because I have not heard of your deaths! I hope that henceforth you will make it a rule to tell me (at least) one piece of news (when you write). We are apt to recover. I have come to a white man's house when I have received this letter. I shall not see you for a long time. My wheat can not be threshed for a long time, therefore I shall not see you for a long time. They will not thresh it for me before midwinter.

TRANSLATION.

My grandchild, I petition to you. I ask you and the Oto chiefs to do for me just according to the plan which I have made. I am sad at heart. Throughout the day I am ever crying, but I am delighted to hear from you after an interval of (only) two days. From time to time have I regarded the domestic animals which you have given me as helpful appliances in connection with my work, and so I have desired them. I have been glad on account of your giving me these things when I begged them of you. I (i. e., my people) have not yet recovered from the sickness, therefore I have lost one of my most stout-hearted young men, Íṣuhabi by name, the son of Lion.

I am glad because you and your mother continue well. The Omahas have pitied your sister, and have given her four domestic animals; therefore your wife's brother works very hard for himself, and so I continue well pleased. The members of my household are doing very well. I have sent you enough.

NOTES.

673, 6 and 7. Observe how Jañga-gaxe says one thing four times. He could have expressed himself in one sentence, thus: Wamúskě kě ícpahaⁿ çagçéde (or, çagçédegaⁿ) i^{n'}naçiñ'ge hă, My wheat which you knew about when you went home has been consumed by fire. Jañga-gaxe was an Omaha.

674, 10. Gañɣĩ Waçutada-ma iça-bi ai, etc. This should be changed, in order to conform to the standard Omaha, to read thus: Gañ'ɣĩ Wáçutáda-ma içá-bi aí, aná'aⁿ hă. Égaⁿi tē aná'aⁿ ka^{n'}bça, And I have heard that the Otos have gone away. If it is so, I wish to hear it (F.). Had the Otos gone of their own accord Wáçutáda amá á-íáça-bi should have been used; Wáçutáda-ma içá-bi shows that they went because they were forced or requested.

674, 12. amede. F. prefers the fuller form, amédegaⁿ, as it is said that (you have a horse).

675, 4. Pañkaɣa ɣii, etc. Explained by the third sentence preceding it. Jañga-gaxe wished his Oto friend to send a letter to the three Ponka chiefs, Maⁿtcu-waçihi, Acawage, and Wěs'ă-ɣa^{n'}ga.

675, 5. Waqĩ^{n'}ha íwiɣiɣa (sic). Not plain to any of the author's Omaha informants, who have aided him since 1882. L. suggested Waqĩ^{n'}ha wíɣiɣa, I ask a letter to him (or, them), as a favor from you. F. rendered this, I ask a letter for you (sic!). He gave another reading, Waqĩ^{n'}ha tiañ'kiçá-gă, Send a letter to me. W. said that either wíɣiɣa or tiañkiçá-gă should be used. But G. substituted, Waqĩ^{n'}ha çíɣiɣaí, They (the Ponkas) beg you to send a letter to them. The context seems to require this last.

TRANSLATION.

My wheat has been consumed by fire. What you knew (about) when you started home has been burnt. The wheat has been burnt. The wheat that you knew (about) when you started back has been burnt. And I shall not be able even to cancel my debt. There is nothing at all by means of which I can do anything; I suffer greatly from the burning of the wheat. But (that is not all)—there has been much sickness in the nation, and your brother-in-law, Cuɣa-maⁿçiⁿ, has died. I am very well. I spoke of going to you, but as I am kept back by my inability to cancel the debt, I may not get to you. That is the way; I promised to come to you, and if I keep well, I will come to you; for I may make enough to cancel the debt if I keep in good health. This one whom you call your mother has been sick, but she has just now recovered. Your mother generally thinks of your children, whom I call my grandchildren. I wish to hear just what you are doing, therefore I send a letter to you and them. And I wish to hear whether the children, too, are well. I also wish to hear whether your wife is well. I desire you to send me a letter. I have waited for you (to send me one), but you have not sent me a letter. If you say, "I will come to you," send a letter to me. I have heard that the Otos have gone (to the Indian Territory). I wish to hear whether this is so. I wish to hear correct words, if you do not desire to go. And if you wish to go, I wish to hear the truth. They say that you have a horse, so I wish you to give it to me. If you say something, I will come to you. I do not wish you to give it to any other person. When you receive the letter, I wish you to send one hither very soon. I wish to hear any words whatsoever that the chiefs of your nation (may send). And I depend on you to-day for anything with which you have helped me. And when you say anything, I wish to hear it correctly.

I wish to hear an exact account of the Ponkas, who also are there. I have always remembered the things about which the eight Ponka chiefs, who came back and with whom I was, spoke to me. I am thinking from time to time of the Ponka matters about which I spoke to you when you came to this place. I am thinking from time to time of their invitation to visit them. I wish to see them. I am usually thinking of the words about which I spoke to you. Hear correctly for me. I think from time to time of the words of White Eagle, Standing Buffalo, and Big Snake. White Eagle invited me to visit him; he has caused him (sic) to remember the words. Remember them and go thither! Please send a letter to the Ponka village. They ask you to favor them by sending them a letter.

It does not refer to improvement. W. said that L.'s reading was equivalent to the other one.

Heqaga-sabě was a Ponka and a refugee at Yankton Agency, Dakota.

TRANSLATION.

I sent a letter to the Ponkas (in the Indian Territory). And I have heard one item of news about them: they say that "many Ponkas have died," it is said that there have been over a hundred deaths, and that five chiefs have died. Only one principal chief, Big Elk, has died. And although they usually have horses, it is said that as they are dying from hunger they are selling them. In fact, it is reported that all are sick, and they have many troubles. I have heard no more to-day. We Omahas, too, have many sick among us; five men have died. Though you have heard it, still I tell you. Little Elk, Brave, Čuxa-ma^{n'}čīⁿ, and Čahe-čáp'ě, whom you knew, are dead. Íquhabi, too, is dead. These are all who have died. The sickness has not yet ceased among us; it is rather on the increase.

TRANSLATION.

My friend, as I think of you to-day, I write you a letter of a few words. My friend, I hope that you may hear what I speak. Last winter I told you about one thing. I continue to tell you the words which I succeeded in writing to you last winter. As God made us here in the land in which we dwell, here we dwell. Before the white people came we thought that the land was ours. But the President said that the land was sold, and so it was sold. We reserved for ourselves a very small part of the land, and that we have for ourselves. But the white people wish to take that from us and send us to another land; that is very hard for us! To deprive us of our land would be just like killing us. But we wish to live, therefore I write a letter to you. And you think "Indians are bad!" Therefore we tell you that we will live as white people. This is the very truth which we tell you. And when we live as white people, we wish to keep our own land. Therefore we wish to live as white people. (Although I wish to tell you all the things which are difficult for us, I can not do it; so perhaps on another day I will tell you some again.) My friend, when white people, Americans, who have seen Indians tell you anything, they usually tell you what is true about them. And those who have not seen them at all generally say, "It is said that Indians are bad." When they talk together they say, "The Indians are very bad." Now, my friend, we hope that you may speak what is in your heart, and, having God in mind, have pity on us who are Indians! Whether it is night or day, we are ever apprehending some trouble. My friend, I wish to make a very few remarks upon another matter. You white people say that we are to have the white soldiers for agents. But we know about the soldiers. And as we know about them, we fear to see them (among us). We do not want them. We know about them because the first agents that we had were soldiers. They usually act just as if they were the only human beings! And when they wished to abuse a man or a woman, they usually abused the person in utter defiance of all our ideas and customs. Even if they wished to kill them, they usually killed them. In fact, they usually treated them just as so many hogs and dogs. Therefore we do not want them (among us again). When the Indians did wrong, they were not usually the first offenders. Even when the soldiers did wrong first, they usually concealed their bad deeds, and showed to the President the bad deeds of the Indians. (And, my friend, I add some words again. Though there are here and there among us Indians those who speak very true and honest words, the President does not, as it were, accept them from us as true. He accepts only the words of the agent. That is very hard for us to bear. That is the chief thing which gives us trouble.) And though I will repeat one subject, still I will say it just as I have done. The President (?) hates us Indians who have sold our land to him, and who continue the cultivation of the soil, treating us as if we were those Indians called the Sioux. You think that we are just like all Indians; but we are unlike them. Some Indians desire (to act) on the side of the white people, and others are not so. The latter are those called Sioux. And when you think that we are just alike, we are not so, we are unlike. We Indians are of different nations. You, for your part, O white people, are of various kinds, and we are so too. If on the one hand the Dakotas hate us, and on the other hand you dislike us, how can we hope to live? That being the case, we wish to live, and so we wish to proceed towards you. Even though it is possible for us to fail, still we wish to acquire the privilege of living as white people. For only in that way can we prosper. Now, I have told you enough about that subject. I will tell you about another matter. We work for ourselves because we wish to live. We work for ourselves because we know full well that it is good for us. But this season we are in great trouble. Our wheat has been withered by the heat; therefore we have not realized from our wheat crop more than thirty or forty cents a bushel. Consequently it seems as if we had not accomplished anything at all for ourselves. Yet we have different kinds of vegetables; we have cultivated them for ourselves; potatoes and corn, for instance. And when we see these white persons (who are near us) we think, "They surely prosper!" Therefore we desire (to imitate them). It has been just three years since we began to have tools, as we have learned that all tools that are your own are life-sustaining. And we know very well that we ought to try to work at various occupations, therefore we desire to do this. And when we write this letter to you God is, as it were, sitting with us; therefore we hope that you will not talk at all about (depriving us of) our land. We wish to keep our own, therefore we petition to you. We petition on the one hand to you who have aided us Indians, and we petition on the other hand to you who are on the other side. Pity us Omaha Indians. We do not refer to all tribes, we refer to ourselves alone.

TRANSLATION.

My friend, I send to you to petition to you. I think that whosoever exists wishes to live on the land. When I hear the words of (white) persons I am, as it were, very chilly! When we first worked the land for ourselves we lived by means of food. And (?) I think that it is good. Whatever Indian (person with red skin) exists desires to continue alive in the land. As God has told me that thing in order for the land to be life-sustaining, I send to tell you the word. I hope most earnestly that you will accept the words which I send you for the purpose of petitioning to you. Well, my friend, I have sent you enough of a petition.

TRANSLATION.

My friend, I will tell you one thing. And on my own account I will tell you the exact state of affairs. We Indians who are loving your ways are not very many. We are all those who sold the land to the President. We Indians are working for ourselves. Have you forgotten us who have been working for ourselves? We who are good Indians have given you words regularly. You have treated us just as you have the bad Indians, who do not wish to do anything. But we good Indians wish to continue distinguished from others. I have told you enough.

NOTE.

The text is given as corrected. When it was dictated two explanatory words were mentioned before aⁿčáⁿčai, in line 7. The former, eweañ^gičai, means, “we think about them.” The latter, aⁿwañ^giqaⁿčai, from wagiqaⁿča, means, “we desire (it for) them, our own (kindred).”

TRANSLATION.

My friend, I will send you a very few words which I speak as I pray you (to do something). Even if I hear but a very small part of your words, I am always very quick to take hold of it. To day, my friend, I hope that you will pity us. Pity ye us! Friend, help us again! Friend, I hope that I may ever continue to live and work in the land where I was made. Whensoever I may die, I hope that my children may follow your road. And in that event we think “Our children will be apt to have a knowledge of your deeds!” We think that only when they follow your customs can there be happiness. We love (that course). We wish to pray for something (for our children?). Well, my friend, I have told you enough.

NOTES.

Though the letter does not name the Omaha referred to, the author learned that he was Sida maⁿᄎiⁿ, a member of ᄎAᄎiⁿ naⁿpajĪ's sub gens, who had resided with the Pawnees for years. After the death of this Omaha his name was assumed by another old man, likewise a member of the sub-gens.

685, 1. The first sentence is explanatory.

685, 9. ᄎecaᄎu kíᄎibaski, the Omaha notation of the Pawnee name.

TRANSLATION.

(He dwelt at the Skidi village.) 'I have heard it said that he is dead. If it be so, I wish to hear very accurately about it. O you who are the (Pawnee) agent, I ask a favor of you, I petition to you. O ye who are the Pawnee chiefs, I ask a favor of you; get for me all that the deceased owned. If you act uprightly for me in getting my own property for me, send hither to tell me about it. And if you send hither honestly to tell me about my own, I (will) send to you to petition to you, which is just the same as my seeing you (face to face?). Formerly he (the dead man) abandoned this land and departed. His land here has been lying altogether idle; but when he was yonder where you are he had possessions; and I wish you to send and tell me just what he had, whether articles in the lodge, horses, oxen, wagons, or anything else. And I wish to learn whether he left a child. Speak first to the chief Recaru kiribaski about it. My friend, ask him what he (the deceased) had. My friend, the interpreter, I petition to you. You are apt to know what he (the dead man) owned. My friend, I have not continued to act as a common Indian. As I act like the white people, I wish to improve my own property very honestly by means of what he (the deceased) owned at the time of his death. If you can settle the affair for me, send to tell me about mine very quickly. When I hear about my own I will come to a decision.

TRANSLATION.

O ye Pawnees, I think of you from time to time. I hoped to see you, but I have been working, and now that I have finished I remember you. O ye Indians whom I have seen! I wish to know how many of you have died, and so I send to you to ask you (about it). We Indians whom you saw in the past are now doing well. When you came here you saw us on the land, on the land in which we dwell, and there are we imitating all the acts of the white people. The President has given us very good titles to our lands, so we are rejoicing and going forward; but when I think of you I am sad, and so I send to ask you a question (about yourselves?).

The Omaha chiefs went to the Yankton without taking the "young men." The Yankton paid them no attention, so the chiefs thought that it was because the Yankton wished the "young men" to come.*

TRANSLATION.

Last year you came to visit our tribe. Then you made very fair promises to four men, who have not forgotten them. Now they have done their work, and I think that they will visit you. We have had considerable sickness, and our people have died. This has made us very sad. Therefore we remember you especially, and we shall visit you. When the chiefs went to see you you did not pay them much attention, so they concluded that it was because you thought of us, the members of the progressive party, and they said so on their return to us; therefore we are going to visit you. Joe gave you a horse when you came, but he did not go to you (with the chiefs); and now he remembers his friend. Two Crows gave you a horse when you came (to see us), and now he remembers his friend. Big Elk gave you a horse when you came, and now he remembers his friend. When you came, I Hupeča gave you a horse, and now, my friend, I remember it. Only we write our names and send to you. All your other friends to whom you gave (i. e., promised) horses will go to you in order to see their own (horses). I, Taⁿwaⁿ-gaxe jiñga, wish you to tell my adopted children among the Yanktons that I have been sick, and that I came very near dying. If I live I will remember them, and I desire to see them.

NOTES.

This letter was sent to Panyi-naqpasi and his son, who were Otos.

689, 9. Iⁿc'áge ut'ai čaⁿ, etc. An appeal to the patriotism of the Otos. "I wish to hear from you concerning the place where your old men (ancestors) have died (and where their bones lie)." Do you prize it? Or have you lost all love for the land and its associations?

TRANSLATION.

My sister's son and my grandchild, I have sent you a letter at any rate. I have heard that some persons of your nation wish to migrate to another country, and I send to you to ask you about it. I wish to hear how many of you are not going; I wish to hear the facts. And I wish to hear from you, O ye chiefs, how many of you are not going. And we, from this time forward, are progressing towards recovery from the sickness. By the time that the cold weather is over there will be none of it. I am sad on account of your contemplated departure. I am displeased because you set little value on the land which you are abandoning. But I, for my part, now know that the land is the chief good thing (for us). I know now that the land is the best thing for us, therefore I prize my country. I wish to hear from you what you think about the place in which your ancestors died. Therefore please send a letter very quickly, on the very evening of the day when you receive this letter.

690, 7. Φiqaŋge, see 477, 3.

TRANSLATION.

Your father wished to see you (again), but he died (without seeing you). Waqa-najiⁿ wished to see you. The venerable man is dead. Your younger sister wishes to see you, but her husband is working, and so we will not go away. Last winter your younger sister gave birth to a boy, but he died. I wish to hear whether you and the children, in yonder land, are well and happy. Your younger brother has sent his picture back twice. The old man was ill as he came from that land (Indian Territory?), and, as the illness continued, it killed him. In vain does your younger sister wish to see you.

TRANSLATION.

The letter which you sent me has come. It is good for me to hear from you. The gentes rejoice because you continue alive; they are happy to hear from you. When you gave me the news concerning your travels, you did not tell me whether you had been very prosperous or unfortunate. You ought to tell me if you are doing well, and even if you are not prospering. In that case, I will tell it to these gentes. I will tell you the thing about which you asked me. You wish to hear about those (Omahas) who have died only during this year. I will tell you. (Their names are as follows:)
 Wacuce, Gahige's younger brother; Cuŋa-maⁿ'čičiⁿ, Yellow Smoke's younger brother;
 Little Elk, Pawnee Chief's son; Iŋuhabi, Waqa-najiⁿ's younger brother; Čahe-ŋap'ě, Yellow Smoke's sister's son; He-snata, Nemaha's son, of the Elk gens; Iⁿteaŋgačča, Yellow Smoke's younger brother; Standing Hawk's brother-in-law, Wac'ají, of the Ictasanda gens, and son of Kidahanu; Prairie Chicken's son, Small Breast; Buffalo Rib's son; Fire Chief's daughter, the wife of ʒaⁿ'ze haŋga (or Henry Blackbird); Big Foot's wife; Maŋgčičaⁿ's wife, the daughter of Maⁿtcu-xi; Wacuce's grown daughter;
 Lover's wife; Ickadabi's grandchild; Ča-saⁿ-najiⁿ's grandchild; Four Hoof's daughter;

Horn-on-one-side's daughter; Kawaha's daughter; the grandchild of the elder Village-maker; Wacuce's son, Ēdi-ai-najīⁿ; and the Ponka old man, Hexapa. There is other news, but I will not tell you. If you wish to hear it, send a letter again. Yellow Smoke sends you this message: I have sent you two letters, but you have not replied; therefore you shall not hear from me again. I am doing very well.

TRANSLATION.

As you desired Little Wolf to work, he has worked. He has also inclosed his field with a fence. You wished him to work well in this manner, and so has he worked. So has he done, but these Omahas have been constantly doing evil to him. They have pulled the fence to pieces, and have turned horses into his field to devour the crops (against his wishes). And then, as they have never allowed him any damages, he has been always displeased. I earnestly wish that you would send here and aid me with your words. Send to tell the agent! Though I have insisted on it, the agent has never dealt with them as offenders; therefore I am always sad. Therefore I wish you to send here and help me with your words. And as you said, "My friend, keep domestic animals," so have I done; but these men have stolen from me sixty which I had, making an end of them. And subsequently they stole sixty more from me. On two occasions have they killed all my domestic animals (poultry?). My friend, even when I had made a wooden stable they stole my animals from me.

My friend, JAΦI^N-na^Npajĭ's son has stolen my horse. He who is writing this for me, the agent, and the other white people, know the horse. I earnestly desire, my friend, that you would aid me. You should have commanded them to treat him likewise. And then they fought; they wished to kill me. They spoke saucily to me. They wished me to lose my possessions. Therefore they have done nothing but steal from me. All the white people (here) know about me, and how they (the Indians) have stolen from me. Therefore, my friend, I hope that you will tell this (agent) to deal with them as offenders. Even when one hit me and wished to kill me the agent did not deal with him for me. I hope that you will say to him, "Do deal with the offender for the sake of the plaintiff!" I send to tell you how I suffer from the hard treatment which I have endured from the Omahas. If you do not send here (to stop it) the young man will always work against me by stealing my horses, etc., from me. The agent has made the offender restore my horse; but he has done nothing else for me. There is one thing which is done by the one who fights (i. e., Ta^Nwa^N-gaxe jiŋga). When the women go for water, he usually holds them down and ravishes them; but the agent does not punish the offenders. This man's brother also does it; he, too, ravishes them by holding them down. Though I have wished him (the agent) to deal with the Omaha as an offender, he has not done so.

Niⁿdahaⁿ is addressed in lines 1 and 2; Teaza ϕ iñge, in lines 2, 3, and 4; and Niⁿdahaⁿ from line 5 to the end.

TRANSLATION.

If you have reached the Pawnee settlement, return very soon. After your departure I got into great trouble; therefore I wish to see you very soon. You, Teaza- ϕ iñge, return very soon with your younger brothers! Teaza- ϕ iñge, when you went, you took away a very bad deed (sic). All the people have spoken of it. I wish you to return in time for the sowing of the wheat. Make an effort to return and attend to it! When the letter reaches you, send one to me very quickly. (I speak to you, Niⁿdahaⁿ) as well as your elder brother. This agent has made trouble for me for thirty days; therefore I am sad all the time. So I wish you to return very soon. Sister's son, I have no news at all! Sister's son, I am poor. It has ever been with me as you saw me. I can not be made glad by the generosity of my own nation. I am poor; I feel glad when I think of the abundance of good things which you made when I saw you last summer.

Send and tell me whether He-who-sits-looking-at-the-elk is with the Yanktons. I refer to the younger brother of Iron Necklace, who came here to the Omahas last winter. It is said that some Ponkas are coming back, but they have not yet come. One, whom you know very well, is named Smoke Maker. It has now been five weeks since some Omahas went to the Ponkas. We have not yet heard about (the arrival of the party?). I do not know positively whither these Omahas went. They did not go to pay a friendly visit, nor did they go to hunt the buffalo. They went to seek work among the white people. Many Indians have died. Sister's son, when you receive that letter, send to me very soon. Send back to tell me very hastily whether He-who-sits-looking-at-the-elk is there. My wife has him for a kinsman. If you have small news items of different kinds, send back and tell me. If I do not go to you, my wife shall go. I send to ask you a question, because she wishes to go to you. There is hardly any news at all (when) I send you this letter.

TRANSLATION.

Even if the letter which I sent you a very long time ago has not reached there, act fairly! I wish to hear whether your child is well. I wish to hear how you are, whether you are doing well. Have you sent the letter to the Ponkas? Send back and tell me just what words they say in reply to the letter which you sent them. I, too, wish to hear about the Ponkas. O ye gentes, I wish to hear just how you are getting along. It is said that two hundred of these Dakotas have now come. (If they have not arrived, they will come at some future time.) They shall come to-day. I wish to hear about the old woman, my relation, who is there, whether she is well. I mean Miⁿ-aⁿba-Ńiⁿ. I wish to hear about the children of her son, Blackbird. Are they well? I wish to hear about the woman whom he has married. Is she well? I have no sickness whatever; I am without any disease. These Omaha gentes have suffered exceedingly. All the nation has scattered; the people have removed. The agent has not given them money.

When the letter reaches you please send me one very soon. I wish to hear whether your grandparents are well.

Whatever domestic animals, birds, and hogs the white men raise, do you raise quickly! Cultivate the land carefully which you cultivated last spring. It is good work to plant vegetables quickly. Work is very good. If you have horses make them work the land very quickly. Do not give away the horses to anybody that comes along. Do not send them off to another land. I send to you to tell you that work is now the only good thing. When you receive the letter please send me very good words speedily.

700, 7 and 8. iḥacpagḥa ciäji tē, parenthetical and explanatory: we can read either “edadaⁿ wiⁱ tē iḥacpagḥa ciäji tē iⁿḥa-majī tēabe,” or “edadaⁿ wiⁱ tē ḥatiäji tē iⁿḥa-majī tēabe.” The former can be rendered thus: I am much displeased because you hesitated about coming on account of (your having given me nothing in advance of) what I gave you. (See line 9.) The latter is plain: I am much displeased because you did not come when I gave you something.

TRANSLATION.

I send you a letter of a very few words. I wish to hear from you how matters are. I, for my part, am doing very well in this place. I thought that when I went to see you last summer I went to give you one piece of advice. Why have you not come? When Saucy Chief returned from his visit to you he brought me one word (from you?). I invited you to come as I had something, and so I watched the days very closely, expecting your arrival. And Saucy Chief brought back one word: I would have been very glad if you had come without consulting him at all! And when the time had gone beyond the day which I mentioned to you you had not come. I remember your father and mother from time to time with pleasure. But I am much displeased because you did not come when I offered to give you something. It was as if you despised my possessions (which I intended giving you after your arrival). You did not come because you held back on account of your having given me nothing (when I was there). And when I reached yonder where you are I had made nothing at all for myself, I had done no work. But since my return home I have been working very hard. We have planted corn and potatoes, and have sowed wheat, and I hope that you may do likewise. It is very good to work for one's self in the land. Come to some decision with regard to the land. When you see a man working for himself think, “I will do thus.” I think that it is good for one to work the land for himself. I have told you enough. I send you a letter because you begged one of me. If you think thus (i. e., wish to do as I have advised), I would like to hear from you any good words whatever. When I was with you last summer I returned here in four days.

NOTES.

701, 2. The idea is, "You have appealed to me so strongly that I can not refuse you, when you address me as your mother's brother. Yet I do not see how I can do anything for you."

702, 4. aⁿčáⁿ'čacigáji-gă, fr. ičacige. Changed by W. to aⁿčáⁿ'čaciäji-gă (fr. ičaci), Do not talk against me because I give you no food! Amended by G. thus: Aⁿčáⁿ'čaciäji kaⁿbčegaⁿ, I hope that you will not talk against me, etc. Učacige still has a personal reference, and it is very probable that such a use of čacige and ičacige may yet be found.

702, 6. waiⁿ tẽ iⁿt'aⁿi čaⁿ awa'i etede aⁿčĩnge hã. The use of "tẽ" is puzzling. W. suggests this: Waiⁿ iⁿt'aⁿi čaⁿ ena ctečtewaⁿ awa'i etede, aⁿčĩnge gaⁿ ectewaⁿ (or ectewaⁿ aⁿčĩnge gaⁿ) bčĩ'a tate ebčegaⁿ, I ought to give them even my only robe, but I have none, so I think that must fail (to do as they wish). G. reads, Čĩ waiⁿ iⁿt'aⁿi čaⁿ awa'i etedegaⁿ, aⁿčĩnge hã, adaⁿ bčĩ'a tate ebčegaⁿ, I should have given them my robe, but I have none, therefore I think that I shall fail.

702, 8 and 9. eaⁿkičai caⁿcaⁿ tate, archaic, fide G., for eaⁿkičẽ caⁿcaⁿ taite, which is the modern expression, the change to the pl. being made now in the future sign, rather than in the verb itself.

TRANSLATION.

Sister's son, I have heard your words. I am delighted at your sending to speak to me. As you have said, "Mother's brother, and you, O mother's brother," you have petitioned to me most earnestly; but the people have left the place almost destitute of inhabitants; only the old men remain. Some have gone to the Ponkas, others to the Pawnees, and others to the Otos. Some have gone to dress spring hides. Therefore only the old men are left here. I think that I shall be unable to do what you have mentioned. I think that I shall fail to do what is good. (If) they come when no one is at home, when the people are scarce, I hesitate on account of probable failure; therefore, O sister's son, I shall make a great effort, because you and your friend alone have generally treated me kindly. Though I shall fail, still do not speak against me on account of it! I appeal to you and your friend; even if you hear that I have failed altogether, pity me! I have told you often that the nation is poor; that is the cause of my failure. I should have given them my robe, but I have none. Besides, I have not received any money. I love your people much. I am sad because I shall not give you anything. I do not hate you. As long as we both shall live shall we regard each other as kindred! You are among those who have plenty of horses; therefore you are far from being poor. But I dwell just where there are no horses. I have told you all very particularly. O ye chiefs—(I include) your policemen (too), ye sons and daughters of chiefs—as I am poor I send and petition to you to pity me! My poverty continues, therefore I am sure that I shall fail to do anything for these Indians who have come, even if I make the experiment. I have petitioned to you enough. Send and tell me whether Spotted Tail's people have spoken to you about the place where they are. I have received the letter which you sent. I received it at dinner time.

TRANSLATION.

Now, those men, my near kinsmen, have gone to you. I hope that you, the interpreter, and chiefs will pity them. Though the land is distant, they have gone to see you because they are poor. I hope that you will treat them kindly and make them very glad. I wish you to help us. And I will tell you about another matter. The sister of the Omaha (who died among the Pawnees) wishes to have one of the things which he left when he departed, therefore she sends to you to petition to you. If you give her one, please ask the (visiting) Omahas to keep it for her. Tell Kucaca and his mother. And Kucaca will please send back to me a letter, telling me how they are. Perhaps he will tell me correctly. And when those Indians, my relations, reach you, I wish to hear about them, and how they reach you. I wish you to send me a letter.

NOTES.

The writer refused to send this letter to the Indian Territory, so Unajiⁿ-skă applied to some one else to act as his amanuensis.

Unajiⁿ-skă was a son of Cahieča, a Yankton who was adopted by the Ponkas. This letter was sent to the Ponka Gahige.

706, 3. Caⁿ úckaⁿ wabčípi-májī, etc. Addressed to the Ponka agent, Mr. White-man. At first Unajiⁿ-skă dictated the following: Caⁿ úckaⁿ wabčípi-májī'-qti-maⁿ dī čaⁿ'ja, And although I did the tribe (?) a great wrong by (or, before) returning (to the Omahas). But on reflection, as this had "a bad meaning" (sic), he changed it.

706, 7. Cema uawakíji-ma. The idea of suckling is implied here in this phrase (from uji, to fill with a liquid or many small objects), in other cases it refers to those who suck the breast together. The messages to Gahige were resumed in this line.

706, 8. Nañká-t'aⁿi, a name of Gacudičaⁿ, Wačidazě, "Fire-shaker," a shaman in 1871, but now a leader of the civilization party in the tribe. 706, 9. Cahieča, the real father of Unajiⁿ-skă. 706, 11. Badize, Battiste Barnaby, the Ponka interpreter.

TRANSLATION.

I have returned. As I have come back to the Omahas, they have condoled with me because they pity me. I have returned to Joe's (lodge), and there I stay. He treats me very kindly, and I eat excellent food. Those Dakotas have come, it is said, to the Winnebago Reservation. I have not yet seen them. I will see them to-morrow or at some future day. I suffered exceedingly before I returned here (or, as I returned to this place). I have not yet returned to the Yankton Reservation because the horses are weary. And, moreover, I have not yet begun to have enough of intercourse with the people here. I send to tell you, in order that you (pl.) may know that I have returned here. It has been very good for me merely to breathe the air (with a sense of freedom) since I have come here. The Omahas continue just as they were when we saw them formerly. They are prospering, as they have sown their wheat. And no matter how I get along here, I continue to think of you all. And when I returned here I beheld the white people who are neighbors to the Omahas, and these white people are doing very well. Although you reckoned that I was returning hither on account of bad deeds which I had done, it was not so. I did that because I wished to live. As I hoped to live for a number of years to come, I fled (from Indian Territory). I feared to encounter the sickness. I hope that you will have great pity on those (Indians) whom you continue to keep. I refer to you, O agent! I hope that you will tell them exactly what I speak. . . . Attend to those who are my near kindred, my mothers, the ones who gave me birth. I hope to see them all together. I hope that Has-a-back will likewise attend to those who are my near kindred. I make a similar request of Cheyenne, my father. I give this message to you (whom I have named?) and also to Standing Bear. Battiste has said that word has been sent hither that when we came back hither from the Otos, you returned there (the Ponka Agency?) with four horses. O Gahige, send and tell me where they obtained those horses which they took home (to the Ponkas).

NOTES.

Wěs'ā-ɬaŋga or Uhaŋge-jaⁿ (see 638) was then on the Ponka reservation in the Indian Territory.

708, 3. Égaⁿ né cti. F. said that it should be, "Égaⁿ-naⁿ' cti." The author inferred from analogy that the full form was "Égaⁿ-naⁿ écti," only in that manner those too (obj. of some action), confirmed by W. The idea is that the Ponkas, by continuing divided, not only brought trouble on themselves, but in that very course of action they made the neighboring tribes of Indian sad.

708, 6. tait ebčegaⁿ, in full, taite ebčegaⁿ.

708, 11. níaciⁿ'ga-ma eě hă (=egičaiⁿ hă, fide W., but prob. needs modification), where we would expect to find, "níaciⁿ'ga ama ai hă."

708, 12. Eě hă, may be intended for "That is it." Otherwise its connection with the rest of the text is not clear.

708, 13. Wačack, in full, wačackaⁿ, as in line 14.

708, 15. Īndad, in full, Īndadaⁿ.

709, 1 Wanace-ɬaŋga, his Indian names were Wajiⁿagahiga (Bird Chief) and Agiteita (a Ponka modification of the Dakota, Akičita, Soldier or Policeman. On the agency roll he was recorded as "Big Soldier," of which Wanace ɬaŋga is the translation.

TRANSLATION.

On this day I have seen the Yanktons at the Omaha village. When they saw me they pitied me exceedingly, and condoled with me, as I was very sad. These said to me, "Your departure to another place has made us very anxious and has caused us to weep, just as if we were children." But I said, "O policemen, you are to blame for this trouble which I have. O ye policemen, you have caused these youngest ones (or, children) to be sorrowful." Yet they, being like me, were very sad when they heard the things which I had suffered and had treasured up in my heart. The Omahas have hearts just like those of the Yanktons, but we do not yet know how it shall result (i. e., what the Omahas and their agent shall decide with reference to us). I send to tell you that. Let all of you make up your minds for this once, at least, to do but one thing. You have been making the nations sad by the course which you have been pursuing. You have been total strangers, but they have shown great kindness to you. Well, I say that, though it is somewhat hard for me (to speak thus). And that is a different subject about which I send to tell you. The time for me to travel towards the north (or, up the Missouri R. to the Yanktons) has not yet come. I think that even over there their hearts will resemble those of the Omahas and the visiting Dakotas. Though I understand their language, their words, too, are not exactly in harmony with mine, yet I think that they speak the very truth! When I know about it I will be apt to send you a letter again.

Well, O agent, I wish them to send me a letter! I have been continually hoping that you would pity me exceedingly. When I left the place where you are I wore no comfortable robe; I came here with only a very thin piece of cotton cloth on me. And the people said that they pitied me, so I thought at one time (but I do not think so now) that we had in you a very good agent! That is it. Though you have made me somewhat ashamed, I think that you have failed in some endeavor. Had you tried till you acquired it I think that I might have known what was good. You did make the effort, but I think that perhaps you failed. Now, I hope that you will exert yourself in behalf of those still under your care. We did think heretofore that we were very fortunate in having you for our agent. But what good thing have you done for us I, for my part, do not know. Although I think that one thing has been causing the trouble. Now, it is hard for me to give you very many words. I have spoken enough, and I think that you will understand it, so I tell you, O agent! This is sufficient, O agent!

You have sent us words that one man has died, but I do not know him. You say that Big Soldier has died, but I do not know him (by that name). I wish to understand it thoroughly. Has the account of the deaths of your people come in a correct form? Only the name of Big Soldier is not plain. When I returned here I knew about the deaths of one hundred and fifty-two of your people. I wish you to count those who have died in addition (to the first) and write me an account. Thus it is, O Big Snake, and you, O agent!

TRANSLATION.

I have received to-day the letter that you sent me. It made me very glad. Among the men who have been threshing there is one who has been severely injured by the machine, but he is still alive. I do not know whether he must die, or whether he can live. He is the younger brother of Kicke, and his name is Maⁿtcu-đa. His whole body is in a shocking condition. It was caused by the threshing-machine.

O ye chiefs, and you interpreter! I hope that you may make an effort, therefore I wish you to exert yourselves in doing good actions.

When I say that you should persevere I refer to what I said about your causing your children to be educated. As many men as there are among you I exhort: Persevere in working the ground! I mean that when I say, "Persevere." I hope that you will let your agent see this letter. I hope that the letter may aid you, and I wish him (the agent) to persevere.

No matter what those other Indians say, do not speak, do not look at them. The man who passed yonder where you are on his way back hither (I mean), the Ponka chief, has returned here. I was sad when I saw him after his return, but I have not yet had a chance to talk to him. When the Omaha agent and the chiefs shall have made a decision in his favor you shall hear it, O ye chiefs, ye Otos, and you also, O interpreter!

You shall hear of my acts and of my plans. I do not regard the majority of Indians as my friends; I have none but you for my friends.

The Yanktons came here, but I did not speak to them. They went back without my speaking to them. I have said that I did not regard them as my friends. The old men, the chiefs, are to blame for this; therefore I did not regard them as friends I did not speak to them. The old men wished to be the only ones to have them for friends; they alone are chiefs. I regard as my friends all these white people who occupy the land. And what very good deeds I have done for myself from the first, I strongly wish you to imitate. If anything should be bad I would not wish you to do it. Pity (i. e., be kind to, or do what is for the good of) your children, and persevere in working. In that case God will be kind to you and will do for you something or

Well, I have told you enough.

My friends, we did nothing prior to your departure, because we wished you to find out the ways (or, minds, etc.) of the (Omaha) chiefs. Now we are sad. And we are sad now on account of your having gone home. Though I send this letter to you, I hope that I may hear very good words from you. Please send me a letter very soon. I hope that I may hear very good words from you. You know about us that we are some Indians who walk apart from the rest; we continue apart from them. All we who stand apart from them do not follow them. We are sad because we did not pay any attention to you before you left, allowing you to depart without giving you any food at all!

TRANSLATION.

I will send to you and your wife's father to petition to you. These Indians who came hither with Walking Elk entered my own house. When I had entertained them, sharing with them what kinds of food I had to eat, they returned to you. But I will complain of my own people. I will tell of my sorrow. When I said to these Omahas, the chiefs and young men, "Come, give food to them!" they refused to do it, and I could not act in opposition to them. Therefore I think that I shall be sad for a year. As the Omahas know my feelings, they continue inviting me to feasts. But I make it a rule not to go. I say that I am sick. I am sick because they have not heeded my words. When Walking Elk departed, he said, "I shall not see them for four years." I have sent enough news to you. And whenever your wife's father returns, please examine this letter together.

NOTE.

Sanssouci was the blind interpreter at the Omaha Agency. He dictated the following translation as far as the end of the last question. What follows that question was translated from the original Omaha text by the author. Sanssouci's words are given verbatim, although not always in the best English. His successor as interpreter was an Iowa, Charles P. Morgan, who had been interpreter for the Ponkas. Mr. Parry's home was in Richmond, Indiana.

TRANSLATION.

I promised to write to you, and I want to fulfill my promises. We are all well and doing as well as might be expected. I have not much news to write, but still I wish to fulfill my promise this time. When you were here last I told you that I was going to resign my office. I have done so, and the chiefs were not very well satisfied about it. But I can not help it. I am out of it now. If they want me, they can say so to their agent; and if they do not want me, they can say so. It will be all right with me. We have had a great council here. The agent asked me to interpret for him, so I did so, and got the thing worked out very nicely. I wish to go east to visit you if I can and to have my eyes attended to. The people here are trying to raise the money to send me. Do you think that your people will help me as well as my people (i. e., the white people) here? I consider you my friends, so I have said what I have. My friend, I hope that you will send me word back very soon. Tell your friends, William Starr and others.

TRANSLATION.

Grandfather, we wish pay for the horses which the Winnebagos have stolen from us. They have stolen from us more than a hundred horses. Grandfather, we also desire pay for the hundred and eighty horses which the Santees stole from us formerly. (The former agent, Dr. Graff, wrote to Washington about it; and he said to us, "You shall be paid; the Grandfather has promised it." We have been expecting it ever since, and if it ever came we suspect that the chiefs devoured it.) O Grandfather, we wish to hear correctly about it. We work the land, and we wish to have good titles to it. We have already spoken to the agent who has gone to you, telling him of all this, and getting him to take it back to you. And now we send it to you in a letter. When plowing time arrives we think that we shall have trouble; yet we hope that then you will show us some money. We have told you enough on this point, O Grandfather! We hope that you will do for us just as we have told you. O Grandfather, we petition to you! We petition to you, O you who govern the Indians! Now, we have petitioned to you enough on that subject. And we will tell you about something else. We hope that we may be allowed to see you face to face and speak to you about the things which give us trouble. We hope that you will think favorably of this and do accordingly for us. We think, "What will he have to say?" We sit awaiting your reply. We hope that you accept these words. And if you have anything to say to us we hope that you will send it back to us very soon.

settled for me in a satisfactory manner, please send to tell me. Your people came hither. But they went back again to you without our doing even one thing for them on account of my poverty.

And it is said that they started back to you after making some uncomplimentary remarks about us. Consequently I wish to go to you by myself. I wish to hear from you, how you are, whether you are well and prospering. I desire to hear a correct account of the various affairs of the Dakota tribes up the Missouri River. TRANSLATION.

Well, sister's son, I send to beg something from you. If you have some claws of grizzly bears, send them to me in the mail-bag from your post-office. When they come, sister's son, I will be well pleased. I will consider that you are treating me, your kinsman, with the greatest kindness. I have received a letter from that nation dwelling beyond me in four villages begging (a necklace of bears' claws?) from me. If you will give it to me, I will give it to them in that place, therefore I wish you to afford me all possible help. I promise to do my best and get something in return from them, which I can send to you.

Now, there is no other news at all, therefore I do not tell you anything. I have written enough to you. I wish to hear how you are and whether you are prospering.

NOTES.

Maⁿtcu-iⁿc'age, Venerable-man Grizzly-bear, a name of Padani-apapi, Struck-by-the-Ree, the head chief of the Yanktons. Louis Roy, a half-breed Ponka, son of the former interpreter, Frank Roy. Louis married a Yankton woman before 1871; so he had a right to dwell on the Yankton reservation. Louis's mother was the wife of Cude-gaxe when this letter was written. Cude-gaxe was a Ponka.

Only the first and second sentences in line 1 are addressed to Louis Roy. The rest is intended for Padani-apapi, whom Cude-gaxe calls Grandfather.

722, 3. čaⁿ refers to the Yankton tribal circle. We may, however, substitute čañka, the ones who.

722, 3. Níkagahi đéčaⁿba, the chiefs of the seven Yankton gentes (excluding the half-breed gens).

722, 4. Wanace nudaⁿhañga duba, the four captains of police. See Omaha Sociology, § 195, in 3d Ann. Rept. Bur. Ethnology.

TRANSLATION.

I am going to you. I am going to you in a great hurry. O father, I will see you. O father, you will please aid me to-day. I dwell in great poverty. I wish to see all of your people. O ye seven chiefs, I send to you to petition to you. O ye four captains of policemen, I send to you to petition to you.

TRANSLATION.

I wrote about several matters to you formerly, but you have not sent a letter back again. Now that the Ponkas have returned they have told about you, saying that they saw you, so I will tell you a very few words. I have always continued as you saw me when you and I were together. I am well, and my wife and children are also in good health. I live very happily. I have not many things. I am very poor. Day after day I have had a strong desire to see you. But I reflect each time that it is all in vain. I am unable to see you. I refer to the great distance of the land in which you dwell. As no reply has been received since I sent you letters, I send you now a very few words, as I apprehend unseen trouble. If you send a letter in reply, I will tell you of some other matters. Write and send a letter to me very soon. I have a strong desire to hear from you.

The sentence should read thus: Wačísndai égaⁿ, čéaka čĭháhaⁿ akáctĭ nān'de gípi-báji hă, As you delay your coming, this one, too, your brother-in-law (i. e., Mactĭⁿ-aⁿsa) is sorrowful.

TRANSLATION.

I think that I shall utterly fail to complete my different kinds of work. As I do not see you, the work usually makes me uneasy. Return in great haste. I am very well. There is hardly any news. The work is the only urgent matter, therefore I hope that you will return very speedily. This one, too, your brother-in-law, is sorrowful because you delay your return. When this letter reaches you, send me a letter immediately if you wish to come home. I am very well, and all my young men (i. e., men of my party?) are well too.

TRANSLATION.

I will send you a very few words. They are going to issue things to us, but you do not know about it! They have promised to give us some cattle as live stock, and I hope that we may keep them as domestic animals. They have also promised to give us some apple trees; I wish you to know that. These Dakotas wish to go to see five nations. The aged Ponka man whom I had as a refugee is dead. If by this time you have accomplished what you planned, return! If you do not return, I think that you will miss your share of the issue. It is said that some Ponkas have returned from the Indian Territory. Standing Bear is returning. Grandfather, I write a very few words to you. I am doing very well. Some Ponka lodges have returned. It is still by no means certain how these Omahas shall decide with regard to them. Standing Bear has returned with them. When the white man who came to the reservation some time ago shall have come again the question shall be settled. I am very anxious to get the letter which I begged of you. I hope that you will do for me what is right. I have not yet received any money, so I have no pay. TRANSLATION.

My friend, you told us that you wished us to improve our condition that we might live. We have remembered your speech throughout the day. When you spoke to us, it was just as if God had come down from above. You have made us very sensible.

Those men who are chiefs have held their positions for a very long time; they have ruled us for thirty-eight years. But they do not know the path which we ought to follow in order to improve ourselves, so they have not told us about it. Hence we were suffering much when you came. When you came we heard what you told us. Even though all have not received what you told us, we will try it. We think that if these men who are chiefs should resign and there should be none to succeed them, who would obey if any one should tell the people anything? We desire them to hear what you have to tell us when your reply shall have come. Now it is the case with you white people, if you have no persons in authority in your cities there will be a bad state of affairs. And in like manner we think that if we should have no rulers in our nation our affairs would be in disorder. Therefore we hope that you will arrange for us to have some very sensible and very strong men in our land whom the people will be apt to obey.

729, 5. ᖃaxe-ni-čataⁿ, a name of ᖃeje-bače, or Buffalo Chips, one of the Ponkas arrested at Omaha Agency in March, 1879, by order of Commissioner Hayt.

729, 6. Bučite, the Ponka notation of the French pouliche, a she colt. This was the Ponka name of Charles Pepin's elder brother, who died on the old Ponka reservation, in Dakota. His son by Rosalie Primeau (Čuzači) was John Pepin, a scholar of the author in 1872.

TRANSLATION.

Mother's brother, when I received your letter it made me very glad. Mother's brother, my elder brother is alive; he has recovered from the sickness. I hope that you will fulfill all your promises. I was sad when you went away (in the past). But now I am not so. For the Ponkas (who were here) are in great trouble; this very day the white soldiers came and took them away (to Omaha City). (The names of the arrested Ponkas are as follows:) Standing Bear, Crow Drinks Water, Buffalo Tracks, Prairie-chicken is Coming, Runs a Long time, Foolish Grizzly bear, and Horse with Yellow Hair. John Pepin did not go, as his mother, Rosalie, (now wife of the Omaha Silas Wood) took him. Mother's brother, when I finish sowing wheat I may go to see the Otos. Throughout each day I hope that you may remain there (where you are). Persevere. I think that the soldiers will arrest you (if you return here). I wish to hear whether Smoke-maker, my mother's brother, and my father's sister are well. Ietačabi went to the Otos to dance the pipe-dance. He has come home with twelve horses.

TRANSLATION.

Sister's son, I will send to you to complain of my own (people?). I have told you often that I was poor. Yet Walking Elk came at any rate last winter to visit us; and, as I had said that I was poor, he returned to you without any presents. And then, O sister's son, as he returned to you, Walking Elk placed restrictions on me. So I will continue to think, "On what day will my grandchild untie me?" I have sent you enough words of complaint about my own (people), O sister's son!

When you visit the real Dakotas (i. e., the Tetons), I wish to hear about what matters they talk to you. There is hardly anything for me to tell you. There is no news where I am. This Ponka, Standing Bear, came back, but the soldiers came after him and carried him and his party to Omaha City. I do not know yet how they will treat them; whether they will return hither, or whether they will take them to the Ponka land (in Indian Territory). As they did not say "Help me!" I did not help them. I am sad on that account. I send to tell you news. Seven lodges of Omahas went away, and they have not returned. Some migrated to the Pawnees, but they have not yet returned.

I have just heard a very bad piece of news. It is said that the people in the south, beyond the Oto village, have the small-pox; that their bodies have broken out in running sores, and that many have died. Get your agent to ask for medicine among the white people. If you are vaccinated you will not have the small-pox. We Omahas will do likewise; we will ask about the medicine for ourselves. An aged Ponka man whom I kept has died. His name was Lean Black bear. Tell Smoke-maker.

Now, I send you a correct account of the matters of which I tell you. When you receive the letter, return one to me soon.

TRANSLATION.

I work my land, but I think that when I finish planting everything I will visit the Yankton villages. I also wish to see the various Dakota tribes that dwell beyond the Yanktons. Your younger brother, Mandan, had his stable, five horses, his hogs, and plows consumed one night by a fire. I send to tell you. I also send to inform you that I think of visiting you. There are some men among the Yanktons, young men whom we regard as warm friends, with whom I associated when very near their lodges. And if I now go to see you it will be as if I entered my own house. Send me a letter very soon. Tell me how the people are. Send and tell me the truth.

NOTES.

The translation of this letter appeared in The Council Fire of 1879.

734, 4. Níkaciⁿga ukečfⁿ aňgačfⁿ, does not include the Omahas; so the phrase may be rendered by "The Indians who are like us," etc. But in 734, 5, aňgučnaⁿ . . Umaⁿhaⁿ aňgataⁿ, refers to the Omahas alone.

TRANSLATION.

My friend, we have done the deeds of which you told us when you sent hither. We have attempted the various kinds of work that you have done, and we have succeeded. When God first made us, we Indians did not know anything whatever. My friend, I send to you to tell you that we have finished the work on this very day. The wild Indians of our race do not know anything about your ways; but we Omahas alone know about them. My friend, the other Indians are very sad throughout the day; but we do not wish to follow them. We hope that you will aid us. The white people do not wish us Indians to wear any part of our own clothing. O ye white people! we desire all the things which you have. Formerly, when we lived as wild Indians, we continued in great darkness. But to-day as we have seen you, we can perceive by steady gazing a very good day at a great distance. O ye white people! God caused the Indians to own the land on this island. We did not regard you as being in our way at all! You came to my land because the land on the other side of the water was insufficient for you all. You came to my land in order to live, and so you have improved. Since you have come to my land, I have seen in my land very fat horses and cattle, as well as from forty to fifty bushels of wheat sown (by one man). I have seen forty bushels of corn planted; excellent fences, stables, and dwellings. One hog has, perhaps, increased (in a few years) to fifty. The white people have acquired these things for themselves from my land; and they are always very glad. But I was ever sorrowful. Now I am glad, therefore I write to you about several matters. I hope that you will help me. If you help me, I shall be apt to rejoice continually. O ye white people! you have regarded us Indians just as so many very bad quadrupeds! Fie! we resemble you in having blood, though you were made with white skins and we with red ones.

In former days we knew nothing at all; but now we have learned your deeds from you. As we have learned your methods, we wish to imitate you in practicing them. We will follow you in this respect. O ye white people, tell us one of the things by means of which we may improve! My friend, tell us one of the many things which have been advantageous to you. My friend, we have great love for you.

Some Indians went to the Indian Territory, but they have returned. The Indians are very sad. I have seen them. They are the Ponkas. Shame on you! why do you wish those to die who desire to see and know your ways? O ye whom I regard as hearers of God's words (among those who are otherwise), you have not obeyed God's words at all! I think, O ye white people, that you do not even know what pity is. The Ponkas desired to work very hard for themselves, but you have kept them in an unsettled condition. When this letter reaches you, and it is put in a newspaper and scattered over the whole country, send me a paper.

TRANSLATION.

My friend, I have not yet exchanged the horse for one of equal value. The horse has been lean, but now he is getting fat. At present I have plenty of work, and I may not sell it. When I finish the work I will trade the horse (for another?). All in our household are in good health, we are doing very well. I wish you to go to the Yankton village. I desire you to go to see my child that is there. I do not know how I can ask Standing Bear a question (?). I hope that when you receive this letter you will send me one soon.

TRANSLATION.

I have come back as far as the Omaha reservation. These Omahas, my elder brothers, and my mother's brothers also, have treated me with the greatest consideration, so I continue to prosper. The land (in the south?) is very bad, it contains many things that tend to shorten life, and it is always very warm. I always have a strong desire to see you. I always think of you. Your wives have been very kind, therefore I have always remembered them. They usually made moccasins for me, so I am generally thinking about them. You and I were raised together on the food which your father acquired, therefore I am usually thinking of you. But I continue in great distress because I do not see you. Antoine (your brother) has been just as if he was not related to me at all, therefore I started back hither without even seeing his house. Your brother-in-law said that I was to bring back to the Omaha reservation the horse which he had given you, but it escaped my memory altogether. I came hither traveling by night. It is probable that I shall see you very soon. When you get this letter, please send one back to me very soon. If you say anything I will come to you. I have been planting potatoes and corn, but I have not yet finished my work. When I finish it I will probably come to you. I hope that your wife will put some moccasins aside for me.

TRANSLATION.

I write to you to-day about several matters and send to you. When I was there with you the Indians whom I accompanied were well pleased, and it was very good for me to be with them. I did not accompany them to the land to which I promised to go. By the time that I returned to this land I had plenty of work (?). I have a strong desire to hear respecting the matter about which you spoke to me. You spoke of your desire for skins of animals; act accordingly! I am very anxious to hear about them against the time that you acquire them. When this letter reaches you I hope that you will promise to give me information on the subject very soon.

The Indian who owes you a debt thinks of it throughout the day. I think that you shall see it by the day that I see you.

I am very well. I hope that you will send me a letter very soon.

There is a great amount of work here, and the wheat crop is bountiful, therefore I am delayed a long time. You wished to acquire skins of animals. All these Indians who came to you wish that you would acquire them. The men are usually thinking of you. They consider you as their true friend.

TRANSLATION.

I write to you three men on various matters. O ye men, I regard you as my kindred and friends. I arrived at the very distant land, and as it was difficult for me to remain, I returned hither. I returned to these Indians, my kindred, and when I was doing very well and continued very happy the white people arrested me. And when they took me back to Omaha City the white people talked about me (i. e., entered suit). They subsequently said that they had let me go, but they still hold me a little under restraint; they have not released me. These Omahas have given me much aid. I have not yet returned to the Omaha reservation, where I could associate freely with the people. I have returned to the border of the reservation. When they release me, I hope that I may get my feet out from the various kinds of bad deeds of wild Indians. As I am thinking much about you to-day, I write to you a letter on different subjects. I hope that you will tell me fully what things you have been doing (that is to say, how you progress with the things which you have undertaken). Some of these people have had trouble. When they had you for true friends they got into trouble, and this was caused by some persons, that is, the chiefs, whom they accuse of keeping them from visiting you. You may write the name of this Indian sitting here. When he receives a letter for me at my request, he will be apt to send and tell me. Dúba-ma^{n'}čičiⁿ is the one who will receive my letters for me, as he is a very upright man.

TRANSLATION.

I have wished to hear from you, but for many days I have not heard from you. It is said that my mother's brother, Cheyenne, is coming back, but he has not yet returned. I am delighted, mother's brother, that you are staying there where you are. I am always thinking of you. I hope that when you receive this letter you will send one hither very soon. Joseph La Flèche went down to see the Ponkas in the Indian Territory, but he will return very soon. If my mother's brother (your father) has reached the Yankton reservation, please send and tell me when you see him. Please let me hear about him when you see him. It is still uncertain whether the Ponkas will return to their old reservation (in Dakota). No one knows about it.

John Primeau had acted as Ponka interpreter for Rev. A. L. Riggs at the Santee Agency, Nebr., since 1871, and perhaps for a longer period.

John Primeau came to the Omaha Agency and visited the Presbyterian Mission while Mr. T. H. Tibbles was consulting with the Omaha about the Ponka case.

TRANSLATION.

I have seen the Indians to-day; the Omahas have been talking together to-day. A lawyer has come from Omaha City, and he is the one who has been helping the Ponkas. This advocate spoke very good words. The lawyers have afforded considerable help to Standing Bear. They desire for him what is very good. I will tell you what they spoke about this very day. He has promised to go to the President to speak for the Ponkas. And not only for them, but also for the Santees, Omahas, Winnebagos, and, in fact, he wishes to rectify the affairs of all of them. And though there were many words, I record but a few, as I am in haste. I started hither on Monday, and on Wednesday I reached here at the Omaha Agency. On Monday next I will start back to you. Please tell Charles and David Le Clerc about the man who has been aiding the Ponkas. I have seen Messrs. Dorsey and Hamilton. Enough.

TRANSLATION.

I have just received this letter. I received it just now as the Dakotas started back to you. I will send to you to tell you that they sent here to ask us some questions. I do not know what the young men have given you, still I will ask them the questions, though I hesitate a very long time from fear of failure. You ought to come and question them yourself! Joseph La Flèche reached the Ponkas in the Indian Territory. I will tell the news which he brought about them. He said that the Ponkas had scolded your father and had ordered him to return hither, but he was staying near them. When Joe and Susette reached the Ponka village, the Ponkas told him, so he says, that Ceki had started this way with five lodges about two weeks previous to their arrival. It is now very near the time for them to have come to the Omaha village. Up to this time it has been four weeks since Ceki and his companions started. He also said that two Ponkas, Big Snake and The Chief, had been arrested and confined. When they had spoken of going to make a friendly visit to another tribe, the Ponka agent consulted them. "Hold on! Wait! I will send and consult the President. Should he be willing, you shall go, and I will give you provisions for the journey," said the agent. But Big Snake and The Chief would not obey him. They and the Ponkas went away and traveled to the Cheyenne village. When they got to the Cheyenne village, the Cheyenne agent arrested Big Snake and The Chief. Then the policemen took them and the rest of the Ponkas and brought them back to the Ponka reservation.

It is said that the two, who have been confined, will be released soon. At this time the rest of the Ponkas wished to steal off and come back to us, but Joe told them to remain where they were.

We have aided Standing Bear. He is dwelling on a piece of land belonging to the white people, near the boundary of the Omaha reservation. We have aided him to-day; I was with those who "touched the pen-handle." Up to this time only those who pray to God (among the white people), the lawyers, and the Omahas have aided Standing Bear.

A lawyer sat with me to-day; we sat together talking with one another. The lawyer promised to go to see the President. By the time that he gets there the matter will be settled. We shall dwell together, but we do not know in which of two lands yonder he will dwell. The lawyers and those who pray to God take sides not only with the Ponkas, but they speak of befriending all of us Indians. Therefore we are very glad.

We Omahas are in excellent health; we have made food for ourselves; we have raised all that we planted; we are very prosperous. I have not yet seen Standing Bear. I will see him to-day or to-morrow.

These men, Wiyakoiⁿ, Ieta-jaⁿjaⁿ, and Raccoon-skin Head-dress, have started back to you in order to go on a visit to Spotted Tail. (Send me word the very day that you hear of their departure.) And I will go to see you.

NOTES.

750, 8. L. gave another reading, Éskana uáwaɕagiɕaⁿi ɕĩ, é weágiudaⁿ etai. It is impossible to distinguish between the two readings, either in English or in ɕegiha.

750, 11. uwikie-majĩ etemaⁿ ɕaⁿja, etc. The insertion of "etemaⁿ" shows that only in one respect did the speaker differ from his friends; he had not conversed with Gen. Hammond. But he and they were of one mind, and when he heard their report of the council with the inspector, he agreed with them in trying to act by his advice.

752, 10. Iɕapajĩ, etc. Reference uncertain. It may be intended for Iɕapajĩ-daⁿ ɕiɕiɕa gɕitañ-gă, Do the work for your own wards (the Omahas) without waiting for some one to appear!

752, 14. weɕihide aɕidazaⁿ iñgaxai-gă, give me tools as my personal property. Aɕidazaⁿ conveys the idea of separation into homogeneous groups. The speaker wished his agricultural implements to be distinct from those of other Omahas. The general idea of what is recorded in lines 11 to 17, as given at the time, is as follows: "If we become citizens, we desire an equal division of land, horses, and tools. We do not wish them to be kept as common property, or in one place." After saying this, they added: "We need one hundred and fifty span of horses."

TRANSLATION.

Two Crows said:—Elder brother, I did not know about your coming. But after you departed, these Indians, my friends, told me what you had said. I am always thinking of you. Before you left you told us very fully how we ought to live by means of the land.

We express again the hope that if we ought to make an effort by means of such things (?), you will make one of them for us. My friend, I desire horses. As our working horses are low in height, they are usually too weak for the work. When I speak of desiring horses, I do not refer to Indian ponies. We want American horses from three to four years old. If you would only help us to get them they would be advantageous to us. We hope that you will cause the President to hear our words very soon.

Duba-maⁿɕiⁿ said:—Elder brother, I ask something of you as a favor to-day, therefore I write you a letter. You came here last winter. Though I did not talk to you, these Indians, my friends, did talk to you, and I have heard what they have told about you. So I am very glad, elder brother. I will improve by means of it. By the time that I take from the President (?) what you have told me only then can I improve. I said that I would ask you a favor. My horses, by means of which I continue working, are light, and when the work becomes heavy they can not go very straight. But since I said, "I will persevere," I will do so. O elder brother, we desire American horses that are three, four, or five years old. I hope that you will show this to the President very soon.

ɕaɕiⁿ-naⁿpajĩ said:—Elder brother, I send to you to-day to ask a favor of you. I am very unfortunate with my working horses. I desire strong American horses. I wish the horses to be three, four, or five years old. In that case, when I work the land, I will be apt to ascend the hill (i. e., improve). I hope that you will speak to the President about this very soon.

Mandan said:—My friend, I am one of those who have begged something from you this very day. We have petitioned to you about only one thing; that is, with reference to our making something for ourselves by working the soil. That is the only thing about which we ask you. But, my friend, I have usually failed to complete what I have undertaken. And so to-day we really think that you have aided us. Domestic animals are the means by which we shall put forth strength, therefore I send to tell you.

Le-uxa^{na}ha said:—My friend, these Indians write to you to-day. We write to you because we remember how you, our elder brother, gave us some advice before you started home. I have always remembered the words which you spoke to me when you came here last winter. I have kept the words which I received. All things which we have planted have grown up and the plants and trees are in good condition. So are the apple trees; the leaves are all good. I have not taken hold of the other thing which you promised to give us; I have not even seen it; the agent has not given it to us. He has resigned to-day, and another Indian agent is in his place. I refer to the cattle. And when you speak to the President about the cattle, I hope that I may have my own (cattle) in my land. And I beg horses of you. I want horses that are three, four, or five years of age. I do not want very aged horses, nor do I desire Indian ponies. I desire none but American horses. We do not want Kansas horses. And Mexican horses, too, are bad.

Big Elk said:—Elder brother, you came here to the Omaha country. You came to see how we were and what we were doing. You said, "Remember my words," therefore the people have remembered them. And though we have always remembered how we begged you to make our land strong enough to bear us up, you said that you had failed to accomplish it for us because you had so much work. And the ways of the white people which we desire, we wish to have them soon. We desire to imitate your ways before long. Work for us, your wards, without awaiting the appearance of any Omaha (?). If we cultivate our land, we hope that we can have good titles to it. Let the President hear that. We do not desire the many difficult things which we have encountered. Send from our land all those (white employés at the agency) who attend to us. Make them leave our reservation. When we cultivate our land, let us have the personal ownership of the tools which we use.

As the agents stay (among the Indians) solely on account of money, they continue in possession of the annuity money, the agricultural implements, etc. But we do not desire them to keep these implements in one place. (We need one hundred and fifty span of horses.)

For some reason you have not sent a letter hither; you have never sent a reply I will go to you. If you send a reply in two weeks, I will go yonder to your land. When you receive this, send a letter back very quickly. You have begged for your horse; it is difficult for me to drive it along, and I am apprehensive on this account. I will leave it here when I go to see you. I wish to hear about the man whom I regard as my friend. Send and tell me all about him. I refer to Walking Buffalo-bull. I am very well satisfied for you not to return here. The Ponka matter is not yet settled, and it would be difficult for you to stay here. They continue in great trouble.

NOTES.

756, 1. nikaciⁿga-ma çe-ma, the white people. So, in line 12, nikaciⁿga çikage çe-ma.

756, 11. Four nouns, given without their verbs; a permissible use, but we may also use the full expression: cĩ cañge ctĩ wabçíⁿ, cĩ jaⁿçinañge ctĩ abçíⁿ, cĩ cañge-we'íⁿ ctĩ abçíⁿ, cĩ wajiñga-jide ctĩ wabçíⁿ.

756, 15. Kageha, çikage ama çeama, etc. The idea seems to be, "You white people differ among yourselves. All have not the same capacity for improvement; all do not meet with like success. One may lead, the others follow and try to overtake him. Do not then expect all of us Indians to do better than you white people."

757, 2. uawagiçan-báji-qtĩ çañka. A sentence was omitted after this, as it contained several contradictory readings which the author could not rectify.

759, 2. Iyígaⁿçai çĩnké içádiçai aká, etc. Iyígaⁿçai is the object of una'añkíçě, and içádiçai is the subject of giáxa-báji-naⁿ'i. Içádiçai-ma, understood, is the object of wañgagaji. Iqigaⁿčai takes činke, in the next line, because his not hearing was the fault of others; had he been at fault, Two Crows would have said, Iqigaⁿčai aká na'aⁿ·báji-naⁿ té hă.

759, 5 and 6. uawagiqpačai Iqigaⁿčai činke, etc. Rather, uáwagíqpačai tĕ, we lose as,

Iqigaⁿčai aká wéčitaⁿ·báji égaⁿ, wéča·báji (hă).
 Grandfather the does not work for as, we are sad
 (sub.) us

759, 10. aⁿiäji Iqigaⁿčai činke, etc. Suggested reading: aⁿi-báji Iqigaⁿčai aká. Kĭ piäji tégaⁿ áakíbča iñ'gaⁿčai égaⁿ, wawéci tĕ aⁿi-báji tĕ hă', Iqigaⁿčai aká, as "adaⁿ" after "egaⁿ" is superfluous. If adaⁿ be retained, read, "áakíbča iñ'gaⁿčai hă Iqigaⁿčai aká, ádaⁿ wawéci tĕ aⁿi báji tĕ hă'.

TRANSLATION.

Duba-maⁿčín said:—My friend, I have heard that you sent a letter to us Omahas. I will tell you the decision about which you asked me. I regard this land as my own. It is my land. I have seen these (white) people who are very industrious, I have seen them with my own eyes. I wish to abandon my Indian habits. I do not look at them. I push them aside! When I see these white people, I think that what they do is really good, and I hope to do likewise. I do not wish to retain the ways of the wild Indian that made one feel insecure if he did not keep close to the camp. I referred to that when I spoke of pushing my own customs towards the rear. Throughout the day I gaze around in search of something by means of which I may prosper. At length have I observed that your ways alone are apt to prove beneficial for one. I have seen the white people, and I have also looked at myself. I think, "I am doing as they do, and I have limbs for action just as they have." I have sown wheat, I have planted potatoes, onions, cabbage, beans, pumpkins, apple (trees), cherry (trees), turnips, beets, tomatoes, lettuce, and watermelons. I have cattle, horses, a wagon, harness, and chickens.

My friend, we have heard that these people, your friends, have their dwellings very full (of property). And all of them think as I do. It is as if I was going traveling anew. I have by no means had enough of walking. And with reference to the things which I tell you to-day that I have raised, I hope that in another year I may raise still more of them. My friend, these persons, your friends, do not all meet with the same degree of success: it is as if they were chasing one another. It is as if they were chasing one of their own party who moves ahead of them.

Two Crows said:—My friends, as we have heard the words from you and the people who resemble you, we are very glad. We are very willing to do various kinds of work. Even though we continue to work for ourselves with great pleasure, we are filled with apprehension when we suddenly remember the President and his servants. It seems as if they had not been aiding us at all. * * * * We hope that you will cause a great many (white) people to hear the words which you sent hither to beg from us. We hope that we may join the lawyers. We hope that you will give us very good titles to our lands. In that event, we will not be apt to apprehend any trouble from the white people who are restless. My friend, you did not question me about anything, still I will tell you. When we sell any vegetables, fruits, etc., which we have raised, the store-keepers invariably reckon those things as very light; but their things are always reckoned as very heavy (when we wish to buy them).

Big Elk said:—I send to tell you the things which I (in my heart) think are difficult for me. The Indians have been wishing to accomplish what is good for themselves, but the agents have been the only ones who have not aided us. My friend, we can talk to you and only to those persons like yourself about the matters which give us trouble. The President usually thinks that the things which give us trouble are not troublesome to us; he continues to think that the agents whom he employs to watch over us are benefiting us. Therefore I hope to imitate the white people who do various things for themselves. I desire to live as a good man in the land. I do not desire even to look again at my old life as a wild Indian. I wish all of you people to aid me by making the land fully strong enough to bear my weight. O ye people, O ye who have good thoughts in your hearts, we wish to retain our own land, and we beg you to aid us when you confer together about your own affairs (in Congress).

Maxewačë said:—My friend, you who have sent a letter hither to me, I think and say that I send off (a letter) to petition to you. I am very glad, my friend, because you have sent me a letter, saying that you wished to aid me. We do not know about your ways at all, yet we love them very well. We hope that you will look around in search of something which may be for our good. The Indians who have come hither are very glad because you have sent them a letter; your friends are well pleased. Among our customs there is none of any kind whatever which is life-sustaining; we are destitute of all. Even when we look all around us for something which can support life, we do not find it. Your ways alone can improve us. Friends, pity us! As we wish to live, we are ever making a special prayer for ourselves throughout the day.

ȡačĩⁿ-naⁿpajĩ said:—He who keeps the store on this reservation has a strong desire to injure us. Notwithstanding we have wished to dismiss him, the President has helped him, and that is hard for us to bear. He is always treating me most wantonly, snatching from me more than enough of what I have raised for myself to pay what I owe him; therefore we do not wish him to remain here after next summer. I hope that you will let the President hear of this.

Two Crows said:—My friend, you wish to hear from us what we are doing and how we are progressing, therefore we will send to you to tell it to you. We have much trouble in this land, but we have no one to help us. The President placed some Winnebago Indians near the land where we dwell. The proximity of these foreigners has been a source of great trouble to our people. The Winnebagos have stolen three hundred horses from us. The agents have known all about our trouble, but they have not shown any desire to act in our behalf. Notwithstanding we have told the agents to inform the President of the matter, I think that they have not even sent him any letters on the subject. For this reason the President has not heard it. But when white men lose even a very small thing, it is always regarded as a great wrong, and as the President does not take any steps to correct our troubles when we lose what is of very great importance, we are displeased. Do you think that the President would consider it good if I returned the injury by stealing from them? Heretofore I did not repay them for their crimes against me, as I thought that it was right not to give blow for blow. (But that is all a thing of the past.) I am displeased because the President does nothing to right my wrongs. I did think heretofore that he would give me damages out of the Winnebago funds. But he has not done so. The President has not given me the damages because he wishes me to repay the Winnebagos with injury for injury. (I am forced to this conclusion.) I hope that you will send those words in a letter to the President.

O ye people, we Indians, thank you who are our (friends). O friend, we continue to think of you at different times. On this day we desire that you would treat us with great kindness who are some of the Indians that are in a most pitiful condition (?). We have caused one of our friends to write this. We thank you. O Third son, we hope that when you wake up each day you will remember that we have petitioned to you. We Indians, O Third son, do not wish to break our word when we have talked to a person. Third son, we do not know when the time shall come for us to die. O friend, one who is on the side of his friends really wishes them to live. We have caused this friend to write a letter so that you might hear it. It has just been one week since we lost Maⁿčín-teaⁿ by death. When Gray Coat (Mr. Tibbles) went homeward, he spoke words of pity, and made us very glad by what he said. And now there is no danger of our perishing (as a tribe); he has told us that we ought to prosper.

 lawyers, I have you as real friends. One Indian had transgressed God’s words. I do not desire that. I have accepted all of God’s words. God has told me all that can be advantageous to me, so I am very glad. I do not wish to disobey (him). I received and took hold of one custom (or mode of action) when Standing Bear abandoned you and started back (to Niobrara). You can hear it. One Indian has reached yonder land where you are. It was the younger brother who caused all the trouble for his elder brother (i. e., Yellow Horse induced Standing Bear to act thus). You should hear it. You ought to think, when you see him, “He is a very disobedient man!”

O Yellow Horse, it is probable that you wished him to think thus about us! (?)
 One of these Omahas hit ġenicka. You said that Tcaza-čĩnge had threatened to kill me. You told the Omaha that I had threatened to kill him. And you also told that I had threatened to kill Naⁿpewáčě and Sihí-duba. You told about just three men.

They have not yet met with any success in the work which they undertook for us. We have persevered to the utmost in the work, but we have not yet accomplished it. O Charles and David! pity your grandfather! Make an effort in his behalf! Think of his children, and treat him kindly by giving him food for them! I petition to that man near you: My friend, Good Bird, I petition to you. I hope that you will pity him (i. e., Wajinga-da, or else all the Ponkas with him). There is nothing that you can do for them elsewhere. Winter is at hand. I hope that you (O Wajinga-da) will do your best just where you are, as it is the only place where you can do anything. Nothing can be done elsewhere. (Recorded only in English: Crazy Bear's wife, child, and horse were taken from him. Send me soon what news you have to tell. People who are relations hear from one another.) You have not yet sent me a letter. (Recorded only in English: O Charles, my wife wishes to see her Yankton relations.) As she desires to see Mawaçepa's lame wife, I hope that he may come for me. The aged man, Maⁿçí^{n'}-tcaxi, will surely die.

I have a strong desire to recover my wife, who is now with you. There is no prospect of her suffering from being here. I wish my wife to return soon, before the winter sets in. Send a letter to me very soon, and let me know what you think about it. Even if you are unwilling, I hope that you will do just as (I have said). I hope that you will bring my wife back to me. But they would not act as you desired" (i. e., they would not imitate the behavior of Cude-gaxe. He had settled among the Omahas, promising to remain with them, but he lied and went to the Yanktons, thereby forfeiting everything which he abandoned. The other Ponkas refused to go to the Yanktons, remaining among the Omahas until arrested by the white soldiers).

TRANSLATION.

O Smoke-maker, they have made it a rule not to give me the wheat which was due (you?). They consider that you have abandoned it. I have hesitated through fear of failure on account of your probable return here, so I have not spoken, though they have not given it to me. O ye Ponkas, it makes my heart sad to think of your staying yonder. I think that what I told you when I first went to see you will continue henceforth, without intermission (?). I regard my heart as being part of the Ponkas, so you have hurt me badly. I refer to your starting back to Dakota. Should the white people do anything for these (Ponka) who are here, you shall be informed. You wished the Ponka refugees to adopt a certain course of action, but they have not regarded your wishes.

I have wished to visit you, but I have not been able for want of time. I have not gone to you because there is no one to cultivate the vegetables, etc., which I have planted. When I finish (this work), I will go to (see) you. The Ponkas will remain in this country. O Smoke-maker, remain there where you are! Both of you remain there! The Ponka affair is progressing; they have almost reached a point where the prisoners shall be released (?). My elder brother, Black Crow, is dead. He died last week. O mother's brother, send and tell me just why you have continued to send me no letters. Yellow Smoke has not yet recovered. I think that he must die.

TRANSLATION.

I have ever kept in mind the debt that I owe you. I have thought that I would send it to you, but I do not know how many miles distant the stopping-place (R. R. station?) is. I have not sent it to you through a fear lest it might be lost through miscarriage. (I have told you that you should not lose your money, and that Big Elk would pay you, as he is honest.) You will be apt to have your money again. Enough. (As soon as you get this, send your correct address back to Big Elk, and then he will send the money to you.) Send and tell me whether you desire elk skins.

O White Shirt, I hope that when the Dakotas come you will bring the horse to me, your mother's brother. The work is still unfinished. [The Omahas are?] constantly thinking of you, so he says. Those who are working for the Indians are still unsuccessful for want of time. There is a hope that the case may be settled by Christmas. O Walking Elk, I always think of you. O ye, my kindred, I am ever thinking about you. I remember you, too, ye four men. I also think of you, O Little Policeman, and you, too, O Wikuwa. Little Policeman this one, your father's sister (my Yankton wife), is continually weeping, as she has a strong desire to see you. And as to the lodge of the Yankton Smoke-maker (I have spoken as of one lodge)—as we used to sit in one lodge, I think of you. I have a strong desire to see my sister's daughter, Iyūwazi. And this Dakota woman, my wife, has a great longing to see her lame daughter, the wife of Mawačepa. O friends, I am continually thinking of you four men. One of you, Beats the Drum (?) or Running Buffalo, came to this place. O ye who are my own nation, O all ye Yanktons, I am always remembering you! I hope that you will send to tell me, if you hear news of any kind whatever.

Perhaps eteaⁿ is sometimes used by females as an equivalent of eiⁿte.

770, 6. Negiha, i. e., Silas Wood, who was the elder son of Gahige, the chief of the Iñke-sabě (an Omaha) gens.

770, 10. Wawiue aka should be wawiue čīñke, as it refers to the object of an action.

771, 9. Spafford's daughter was named, Ahiⁿ-snede, Long Wings. Číewaⁿjaⁿ, you have caused it, i. e., indirectly. Betsy had to neglect Spafford's daughter while she was attending, as doctor, to some member of the family of Wačiqe Țaci. See 770, 9.

TRANSLATION.

I send this word to you to-day. I wish to hear about you at least this: that you are all prospering. O mother's brother, I wish to hear from you, his wife, and your potential wife; I hope that you will tell us exactly how all the children are also. O younger brother (i. e., Wačiqe-Țaci), I have sent a message to you by some one. O younger brother, I wish to hear correctly about the horse with which you promised to pay my bill for services as your doctor. I told the lawyer (i. e., Mr. T. H. Tibbles) about it, when he went after Standing Bear, but the interpreter did not tell you. So therefore I now send a letter to you, and I hope that you will send me a very good message. I send this to you on Saturday. I have heard that your son was dead, and that they had killed your elder brother. It is very bad news that I have heard. My heart is sad, younger brother, but your being at a distance is a greater cause of sorrow. On this very day I have heard the words of Standing Bear; I have seen them in a newspaper. All the white people pity you; they have spoken words which have made me glad. Still, younger brother, with a sad heart, I sit weeping. Petition either to your elder brother or to your sister's son with reference to the horse. I hope that you will send me word what he (or she) says. I have lost Spafford Woodhull's daughter, whom I used to have with me, and you are the cause of her death. Maⁿčⁱn-tca^xi is dead. Not even one adult Omaha has died, only that aged Ponka man has died this very day.

772, 1. čijiⁿge, your son, intended for čijande, your daughter's husband, i. e., Big Snake, who was murdered by a soldier in the office of the Ponka agent, in Indian Territory.

772, 6. ikage aka, i. e., the author.

TRANSLATION.

The white people have killed your son-in-law, so all the Omahas are sad.

Therefore to-day, Saturday, I send to you to tell you how they feel. The Omahas are usually sorrowful when they hear of the death of a relation. And as the time of the year when Big Snake was accustomed to give away horses came around again they thought that it would surely be so; but before it had arrived the white men had done a bad thing to him (i. e., Big Snake).

As these Omahas are sorrowful on account of their kinsman, it does my heart good (to observe their sympathy). They have not heard a full account of the whole affair, they have heard merely the report of his murder. Therefore this person, his friend, is sorely grieved, and I am just as sad as he. As I am sad, so ought you to be. There is nothing that I can do (to avenge his death), and you ought to consider the matter as I do. Should you wish to send me a letter (which I do not ask for, but which I will be glad to receive), just send it.

TRANSLATION.

I have received this letter which you have sent me. I was very glad when I saw it. To-day all the people are talking about one subject, but notwithstanding I am doing very well here, when they talk about the matter it saddens me to think that I am sending you word about it when it can do no good on account of your absence. The white people, including the President and the agent, have said, "Make one of your own people your interpreter." I have told you the substance of what they said. You say that you are prospering where you are, and you speak of not seeing me again, so I am sad.

I have told these Omahas your words (sent in) this letter, but some of them have not obeyed (your wishes), so they will go to your land, as they have doubted me. Therefore I send this letter to you. I wish to hear again, and accurately, the words which you have said. Send again and explain to me this one word that you have told me. I refer to what you said, "Use your hearing." I do not fully grasp its meaning. I wish to hear it accurately. There is no news at all, yet I hope that you will attend to the affairs for me just as I have been speaking to you about them. I am always thinking about your words, which have been advantageous to me at various times. There is nothing the matter with the people whom you saw (here) when you went back to your people. The tribe is still prosperous. I continue to heed your advice; I pursue it. I hope to hear some word, some very good plan from you (when you write). Finally, I wish to see some letters (from you) very soon.

NOTE.

Miss Jocelyn represented some ladies at the East who had sent clothing for the destitute Ponkas, who were encamped near Decatur, Nebr.

TRANSLATION.

As I am attired to-day, during the very cold weather, in what you have sent to me, I am living very comfortably, therefore I send to you to thank you, O ye women! O friends, do good to me anew! Friends, we have turned towards Wakanda and what is good, therefore I have been thanking (or petitioning) you now and then. I have seen these white men do various kinds of work. Wakanda has caused them to move their hands (rapidly) in working: I have seen it all, therefore I hope to do likewise. I usually beg (of Wakanda) for my own (interests). My child knows how to work, so I send to tell you about him in addition to what I tell about myself. My child usually causes me, as it were, to feel full, as after eating (by what he does for me), therefore I think that what he does is good. I think that I may do likewise just about this time, therefore I may accomplish a little for myself (though I am getting old). I desire you to send me a letter on some day or other, whenever it may suit you. O you who lead industrious lives, I live among you following your example.

O mother's brother, I am delighted at the words which you sent me. I am very glad that you have many horses. We think of you throughout the nights. You ought to pity my children. You have not pitied them at all. They are constantly thinking of you. O mother's brother, I will go to you. When it shall be best for me to go, I shall go very quickly. I shall be here ten days making the killickinnick. I wish to see even your sisters. I hope that you will tell them. As I have sold the colts, there are none (here). My wife's father (Wackaⁿ-maⁿčⁱⁿ) and two Grizzly bears will come to your land. And then I will come, too. My wife's father has not yet fully recovered. He is delighted to hear from you. O mother's brother, I have no horses. I have only two American horses, which are in the possession of my children, who generally use them when they work.

NOTES.

Pahaŋga-maⁿčⁱⁿ is the brother of Silas Wood. He dictated this letter after returning from a visit to his brother, who was staying with the Ponkas near Niobrara, Nebr.

778, 3. Caⁿ edadaⁿ ačⁱⁿ gě . . . Wañ'gičɛ iⁿ'čⁱⁿ gčⁱ ekaⁿbč^a. The author mistook a direct address to himself for an address to Silas. In speaking to the latter the sentences should have been changed thus:

TRANSLATION.

Perhaps you have heard that these Indians are working for themselves. Though I had a full knowledge of things pertaining to the Ponka on the old reservation (near Niobrara), I was unfortunate. It is desirable for people to accomplish things for themselves in this place (i. e., on the Omaha Reservation, instead of going off to the Ponkas). I do not wish you to lose any of the things which I found in your possession when I visited the Ponka. I wish you to bring all of them home to us. These Indians always wish to improve, no matter how they act, but they are divided into opposing parties. I do not wish to follow any one (i. e., I will not become a partisan). I hope that you will make an excellent decision, and that you will consider about your future return to this land. Well, there is nothing more to be told.

TRANSLATION.

O Smoke-maker, when I came back I told the words which you said, but they had forgotten your advice. Though they recalled it when I told them, they are unable (to act accordingly). Though they were very glad when I told them, they can find no means of doing it in future. They have failed, just as I always told you that they would. And they have always failed; it should not be mentioned again. I tell you that you may hear it. Do not speak of it again.

APPENDIX.

Of the notes and errata found in this Appendix all up to page 512 refer to Part I of this volume; the others pertain to Part II.

- 9, 4. For "aciⁿhe" read "a^φiⁿhe."
- 9, 14. For "ciⁿ" read "φiⁿ."
- 10, 8. The φ in "ebφegaⁿ" was inverted by mistake.
- 10, 11. For "íca-biamá" read "í^φa-biamá."
- 10, 16. For "ciñgé" read "φiñgé."
- 10, 18. For "naⁿ/aⁿxí^φa" read "náaⁿxí^φa."
- 11, 4. For "Giaⁿ/^φa," a possessive, read "Gíaⁿ^φa," a dative of aⁿ^φa.
- 11, notes, 1st sentence. Add "The Winter dwelt at a mountain in the far north."
- 20, 4. For "φié," a form of φi, you, read "φi'é," side.
- 21, 14. For "Júcpacaⁿ+" read "Júcpa^φaⁿ+".
- 23, 8. Jackahi should be rendered "white oak tree."
- 23, 19. For "wí^φijaⁿ" read "uwí^φijaⁿ," from ubijaⁿ.
- 25, 2. For "when ye see me" read "on account of what you have done."
- 27, 11, et passim. For "Wanáq^φiⁿ" read "Wanaⁿ/q^φiⁿ," and make a like change in every derivative. "Na" refers to fire, etc.; but "naⁿ" to action of the feet, etc.
- 27, 13. For "iⁿφiⁿ/waⁿji" read "iⁿφiⁿ/waⁿφají."
- 28, 8. Render waseⁿxaⁿ by "quick" instead of "alive."
- 28, 14. For "Mañgeiⁿ/i-gă" read "Mañg^φiⁿ/i-gă."
- 31, 19. For "made" read "kept."
- 32, 12. Render "Egihe" by "downward beneath the surface."
- 33, 15. In "aka-cnaⁿ" the "c" should be inverted.
- 36, 5. For "gactaⁿka" read "gactaⁿkai."
- 38, title. The Omahas have a similar myth about the Raccoon (Miⁿxa) and the Coyote (Miⁿxasi).
- 40, 9. "G^φiza-bi" read "g^φíza-bi."
- 40, 14. The following may be substituted for the translation in the text: wáctaⁿka deceiving
- akégaⁿ.
as he was.
- 43, 11. Change "Ê'di" to "Ē'di."
- 47, note on 43, 4. Change the second sentence so as to make it read thus: "The Kansa (Yegáha) uses -be or -bi, and the Osage (φexáha), -de or -di, as a plural ending, where the Omaha and Ponka (φegiha) employ -i."
- 54, 6. For "φexe-gaxu" read "φexigaⁿxu."

782 THE ÇEGIHA LANGUAGE—MYTHS, STORIES, AND LETTERS.

54, notes, second paragraph, first and second lines. In giving the ʔiwere equivalent of Ictinike read "Ictciñ'ke."

63, 14; 493, 8, et passim. For "dēji" read "dēje."

66, between the myth of "Siçemakaⁿ and the Turks," and the note on 60, 3, insert the following: "See George Miller's version, p. 577."

73, note on 72, 4. Insert comma before "Come."

73, note on 72, 8. Change so as to read thus: "wena'uqtci (ʔiwere, winaq'axe), to go near, etc."

75, 8. For "miqá-ha wa-iⁿ-biamá" read "miqá-ha wáiⁿ iⁿ-biamá."

raccoon skin robe wore a robe, they say.

75, 10. Though "Cí" was dictated, "Kí" is better, as the women had not seen the tails "again" (cí).

89, 16 and 20. For "nan'de" (wall of a tent, etc.) read "nān'de," heart.

98, 33. For "freezing over" read "forming."

118, 10. Read "Hīn'degaⁿ" and "wágajji-gǎ."

118, 13 and 14. Render "aki-biama" by "reached there again, they say."

The verb admits of two renderings.

133, 16. For "iḡiaⁿhe" read "iḡi'aⁿhe."

154, 6. For "atǎ'" read "atě'."

156, 8. For "t'éça-biamá" read "t'éça-biamá."

157, 18. For "wagigça-biama" read "wagi-agça-biama."

170, 14. For "Jaⁿçéha" read "Jaⁿçehá."

176, 17. For "Tíädi" read "ʔiädi."

177, 8. For "second" read "third."

181, 8, et passim. For "wat'aⁿ" read "waqaⁿ," squash, pumpkin.

194, 20; 195, 6; 196, 2. For "ugídadaⁿ" read "ugídidaⁿ," as the act was performed by pressure, not by thrusting.

227, 1. "çixábajjī-qti" should be "without flaying at all" (from "çixabe") instead of "without chasing at all" (which would be "çiqá-bajjī-qti," from "çiqě").

226, 14 and 15. "Wahutaⁿçīⁿ . . . ʔeçañga aka" should be placed in brackets, as it is a modern interpolation.

313, 6. For "aⁿwasá" read "aⁿwasá." See "iñgç-usa" in the Çegiha-English Dictionary.

338, 7. For "gíça-bajjī-biamá" read "gíça-bajjī-biamá."

351, line next the bottom. For "Part II" read "the Çegiha-English Dictionary."

370, note on 369, 13. For "Pañ'ka çañ'ká" read "Pañ'ka çañká."

380, 10. For "Názandajjī" read "Naⁿzandájjī," from naⁿzande.

402, 2. Caçewaçě. His other name was ʔahe-jīñga. He was the rival of the famous chief Black Bird.

402, 13. Giaⁿhabī is better known as Níkuçíbçaⁿ. He was a famous wakaⁿ man or shaman.

402, 15-17. "Makaⁿ . . . ʔaçīⁿ-ma." Denied by Two Crows and Joseph La Flèche.

404, 2-7. This should be credited to Wabaskaha, instead of Caçewaçě, according to Two Crows and Joseph La Flèche.

410, 8. Read "Wa'aí."

- 410, 16. For "wáϕin" read "wáϕiⁿ."
- 440, 2. For "iϕéqtcí" read "iϕě'qtcí." Similar changes in 446, 9 and 10.
- 448, 43. For "Zande-buḡa" as dictated, read "Zande" according to Two Crows and Joseph La Flèche.
- 470, 6. ano+. Used when kinship is asserted or understood. See änä and au in the Ǿegiha-English Dictionary.
- 512, 3. Kagé here is a proper name.
- 541, 2. For "Wajiⁿ/agahíga" read "Wajiⁿ/a-gahíga."
- 554, 9. et passim. For "ϕaⁿ/ctí" read "ϕaⁿ/ctĩ," when spoken by males.
- 570, 1. For "ϕa'ii'ϕá" read "ϕa'í'íϕá."
- 570, 8. Read thus: "kě u'aⁿ/hai."
the put the (recl.
(lg. ob. in.) ob.)
- 588, 10. For "kide" read "kíde."
- 593, 12. For "utaⁿ/'biamá" (said of leggings) read "uḡaⁿ/'biamá."
- 601, 15, and 602, 1. For "néxe-gaḡú" read "néxigaḡú."
- 603, 8. For "ϕaⁿctí" (last word in the line) read "ϕaⁿ/ctĩ."
- 616, 5. Change "(s.)" in two places to "(sing.)."
- 621, 3. Under "ϕé amá" read "was going, they say."
- 633, 4. There should be a hyphen after "Uḡaⁿ/be."
- 644, 16. For "jaⁿmaⁿ/ϕiⁿ iⁿ/" read "jaⁿmaⁿ/ϕiⁿ 'iⁿ/'."
- 653, 11. For "ḡaⁿ/xi" read "ḡaⁿ/qě."
- 685, 3. For "iⁿ/ϕiĩkiϕá-gă" read "iⁿ/ϕiĩ/kiϕá-gă."
- 690, 6. For "Wáḡa-nájin" read "Wáḡa-nájiⁿ."
